Town of Scott Holds July Meeting

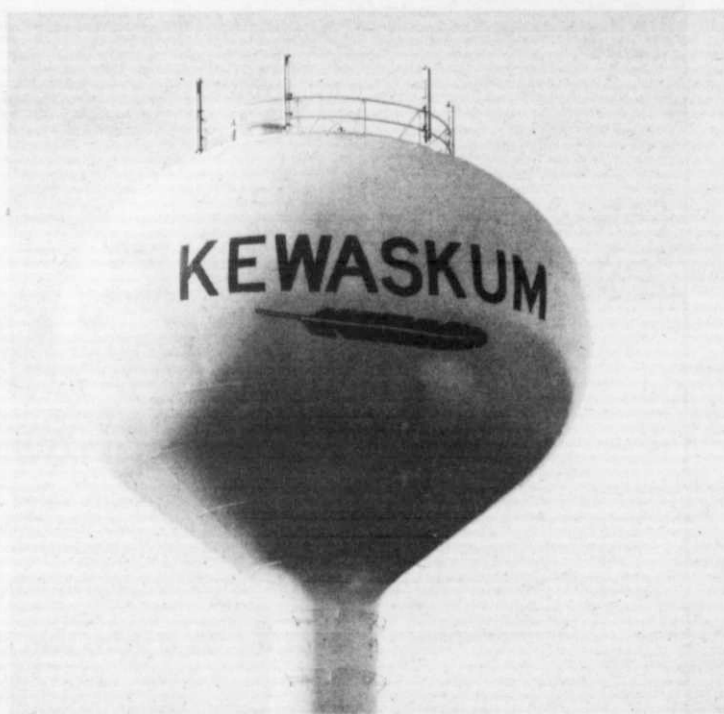

By Bernadette Mondloch
Statesman Correspondent

Letters are being sent to nine Town of Scott residents informing them that they are in violation of a town ordinance which does not allow for accumulating junk or inoperable normally licensed vehicles on a property without a permit. If the illegal vehicles are not removed and disposed of, the town will take legal action to have the situation corrected.

Scott board members have taken a second look at some of the decisions made at the June meeting and rescinded several motions agreed upon at that time.

At last month's meeting Supervisor Robert Gluck moved to rezone 40 acres of A-1 land to M-3 for gravel extraction with a number of conditions attached to the zoning change. Following the meeting he learned that conditions can not be placed on zoning changes so at the July meeting he requested that his motion be rescinded. This was done following the correct procedures. He then

SB Discusses Needs For Ag, Tech Ed Departments

By Nicole Rawley
Staff Writer/Photographer

"Keep pushing forward" was the mutual agreement reached by the Kewaskum Board of Education at Tuesday night's Special School Board Business Meeting.

The board furthered their discussion on the "Quality School Initiatives" by discussing needs for improving the office, Tech Ed, Ag and Graphics Departments of the school.

Business Manager Paul Reichert put together a presentation that consisted of various pictures of these problem areas.

The office area has a cluttered look to it and the office staff feels that since this is the first impression a visitor gets of the school, it needs to be improved. The clerical staff also stated that many of their papers and reports are stored in binders and these binders don't fit on top of their desks under the counters, so they use the counters to store these binders. It was also pointed out that the school colors are green, gold and white and they felt that this should be the color scheme for the office.

The clerical staff stated that when the new office furniture was purchased in 1995, they were asked for their opinions, but their opinions were disregarded and the principal at that time made the final decision. The office staff came up with what they thought was a viable solution to the problem. They proposed moving the food service clerk to a room near the kitchen that is currently being used for storage and using the clerks office in the main office area for a workroom that would house the copy machine, a work table and other various things.

The total cost for this project would be approximately $30,700. Some of the cost, $3,500, is due to the fact that the room the food service clerk would move to would need plumbing, electrical and data wiring and HVAC work.

The board then moved on to discuss the Ag/Tech Ed/Graphic Departments' situation. The biggest complaint by Tech Ed teachers was a lack of floor space.

They stated that the current facility does not provide enough space for classroom instruction, shop activities and storage nor does it provide adequate hand washing, lighting, ventilation or electrical service. It was pointed out that nothing has been done for this department since the addition was originally built in 1974.

One solution thought up by staff was to add on a new classroom and a greenhouse for the Ag Program should be added to the southeast corner of the building adjoining the existing science classrooms.

Mary Meisser added that she thought that the $250,000 it would cost to make these additions would be well spent by enhancing both the Ag and Science departments of the high school.

By moving the Ag portion, this would allow for 1,700 - 1,800 more square feet for tech ed.

The board agreed that something must be done to improve the school, especially the Ag/Tech Ed/Graphic Departments. John Schulte stated, "Small steps would be better than no steps."

The board agreed to keep exploring options to improve the high school and to keep moving forward, but as board president Gordie Dickman reminded, "Some groups are going to have to wait. We can't cure it all at once."

The board discussed having a possible February or April referendum.

Amazing Spiced SweetPotato Mini Loaves

- ½ cup cooked sweet-potatoes, peeled and puréed
- 1 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1 cup apple juice
- ¾ cup raisins
- 1½ tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 325°F. In a large saucepan, combine first nine ingredients. Bring to a boil over high heat. Lower heat and simmer for 2 minutes. Set aside to cool.

Sift together dry ingredients. Add to the cooled sweetpotato mixture; stir well. Fold in walnuts. Spoon batter into three greased mini loaf pans, approximately 3 x 6-inch. Bake on lowest rack for 60 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pans for 10 minutes. Remove from pans and cool on wire rack. Makes three mini loaves or 18 servings.

Note: If baked in a 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan, increase baking powder by ½ teaspoon and increase baking time by 30 minutes.

moved to rezone the front 35 acres of the Scott Fechter property from A-1 to M3. The motion passed.

A conditional use permit will be considered at next Monday's special town meeting which if approved, would allow Fechter to initiate a pond on his property in conjunction with the gravel extraction.

The same procedure was followed in dealing with the Batavia Athletic Association. Because that group failed to restore the area of the park which they had used for a skating rink last winter, action was taken to rescind a former motion to allow them to move the old Bingo building at Batavia Firemen's Park. The skating areas will need to be seeded or have sod in place by August 1st and must cease all building until that work is completed.

Paul Michael has been appointed to fill a vacant position on the Lakeview Community Library Board.

Voters Select Their Favorites

Semi-Semi-Finalists Win Chance to Kiss Piggy

There was a final flurry of voting activity at Kiss-the-Pig Headquarters last Wednesday, the final day to nominate your favorite candidates, July 31. Sooo-ey! Such pigcitement!

And then it was time for the final tally and many of my personal favorites, I'm sorry to say, did not make it. I wept, openly, when I found out Timmy Poodles would not make the cut. And alas, this writer only received one vote so therefore cannot continue on to the semi-semi-finals. I can't tell you how sad THAT makes me feel. (Yeah, right!) Oh well, with counting votes and overseeing the legality of this contest, I know I wouldn't have had time for all the personal appearances anyway. Good Morning America and MSNBC will just have to choose one of the other lucky candidates to interview.

I was certainly pig-mazed at how many male candidates received nominations in comparison to females. (Should I go there or not?) Oh what the heck! I guess it just seemed more appropriate for the male species to get more votes. Either that or the guys were just too tight to spend the money nominating females.

Fortunately females did not seem to have any problems finding enough males to nominate. Is it that women have more money to spend or do they just spend it more wisely on the important things like voting? Maybe men just have their priorities a little screwed up.

Actually, I was just teasing. The men voted just as much as the women... only they voted for their fellow man! Silly guys... must like to see the notoriety stay in their own side of the gene pool. Frankly, I think men just aren't as good with pay-backs as women. I could be wrong, considering I am on the other side of the gene pool.

I would personally like to thank all the good sports who allowed us to generate such s-pig-tacular response. Your nominations will help offset some of the cost of this year's entertainment at Kettle Kountry Kolers and hopefully, if you stay in the whole mooooo--d of this contest, we will be able to put some money aside to recall the lumberjacks to Kettle Kountry in the near future.

The final nominees (in alphapigical order) received on late Tuesday and Wednesday were:

Jeanne Amerling
Rick Averill
Robert Bastian
Jeff Boden
Robert Bonenfant
Rick Bonlender
Mark Braun
Dave Donath
Chief Joe Enright
Jesslyn Geidel
Dave Goeden
Donny Goeden
Doug Gonring

Alan Kuehl
Brian Larson
Tim Miller
Cheryl Peterson
Bev Rohlinger
Kathy Rohlinger

Ron John from Woody's
Jodi Strobel
Dave "Digger" Twohig
Jill Yancy
Donna Zimmel

Now be aware... the above are not necessarily in the finals... read on for the semi-semi-finalists. If your favorites didn't make it... you can only blame yourself for only donating one dollar instead of two or three. To get in the semi-semi-finals you only had to have three votes to make the final cut-off for the guys and you only had to have two votes to sneak in the semi-semi-finals for the ladies. I'm not saying in what order these finalists are in, however, one candidate has as many as 20 votes and another has 15. Otherwise they are all pretty close and need your votes to stay in for the semi-finals which will be announced on September 1. The field will be narrowed down then to ten males and ten females. Each vote will cost one dollar (to save time tallying) and for now, the votes can be dropped off at the Statesman and/or St. Francis Bank, or can be mailed to Kiss-the-Pig Headquarters. % P.O. Box 98, Kewaskum, WI 53040. More polling places will be announced in the very near future.

And just to keep you pig-formed... the husband-wife tag team did make the finals. One mother-daughter team did not, but some guilty party who will remain anonymous did manage to include another mother-daughter team who did make the final cut. Your candidates are not listed in any particular order, so don't even try to figure it out!

Kewaskum 4-H News

The Kewaskum 4-Hers meeting was called to order at the Kewaskum Town Hall on August 1, 2002 at 7:05 p.m.

We began with the pledges and the sign-in sheet was sent around. The secretary's, treasurer's, and ambassador's reports were given.

Activities were discussed and we had old business. We will be at the open houses, cookbooks are being sold at the Fair office for $12.50, and we are going on a night hike and twilight paddle.

We then had birthdays, demonstrations and refreshments were served.

Learn How to Spot Bad Loan Deals

By Harry J. Argue
Executive Vice President/CEO
Wisconsin Bankers Association

While the number of honest and reputable institutions that offer fair loans far outweigh the ones that don't there are people in the world looking to take advantage of consumers.

Horror stories about victims of predatory lending senior citizens signing away their homes for loans with terms and interest rates that make them impossible to repay, or families that lose their home because high-fee and high-interest loans come due in a balloon payment that is far beyond what they can afford to pay.

All too often, prime targets for predatory lenders are seniors and people in lower-income groups who are under financial pressure. These predatory lenders push their services on those who need money for medical bills, property taxes or high-priced home repairs by describing their loans as the "answer" to financial woes. But instead of providing access to money with reasonable rates and terms, predatory lenders advance loans with exorbitant interest rates and through-the-roof fees, often coupled with collection strategies that lean toward harassment.

LENDER TARGETS

Abusive or "predatory" lenders target people who are strapped for cash. To avoid being caught in the trap, consumers need to learn how to tell a "good" loan from a bad one. Otherwise, consumers may pay too much, hurt their credit rating or even lose their home.

When looking for a loan, ask yourself these questions:

Do I feel pressured?

*Watch out for harassing phone calls or lenders who say, "this deal won't last."

Legitimate lenders never do business this way.

* The same goes for lenders who offer "guaranteed" low-interest loans - as long as you apply over the phone and pay them something today.

Have I shopped around for the best deal?

* Check with other lenders, including local banks, for their rates and total costs.

* Compare interest rates and the total loan costs with those of other lenders.

* Beware of high up-front fees and percentage "points." They can turn a loan with low monthly payments into one that costs you substantially more in the long run.

* Ask questions. Never be afraid to ask a lender to explain the fees, terms or conditions of the loan. Reputable lenders will be pleased to fully explain the details.

Is it too good to be true?

* Watch out for telemarketers, TV ads or door-to-door salespeople who offer easy or quick-approval loans for houses, cars and home repair.

* Avoid lenders who say bad or no credit is "no problem." Lenders you can trust don't do business this way.

Can I trust the lender?

* Get references and check out the company. Call your local Better Business Bureau and ask if it has had complaints about any of the lenders you are considering.

* Ask yourself if prepaying for credit life insurance is the best way for you to go. It will protect your family by paying off the loan if you get sick or die. But paying for this coverage up front can add to the monthly cost of your loan.

* Think twice about a loan that has a large amount due at the end of the scheduled payments. This final, or "balloon," payment could be beyond your ability to repay.

* Watch out for lenders who say "not to worry" if you can't pay your mortgage - they'll help you refinance another loan. Predatory lenders make money from the high fees and closing costs they'll charge you when refinancing.

* Never sign a loan contract until you understand every part of what you're signing. Ask for advice from someone you trust: a banker, a family member or a friend who has experience in getting loans. Or call a local non-profit credit counseling agency for free help. (You'll find them in the yellow pages.)

* Remember, you have the legal right to change your mind for any reason within three days of signing many loan contracts that use your home as collateral.

Report Abusive Letters

If you have been a victim of lending abuse, let others know. Your complaint could save others from being victims, too. Call your local office of consumer affairs or the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection office listed in the Government section of the phone book. Also, report your experience to the Federal Trade Commission. The agency watches out for predatory lending scams and frauds.

Call toll free 1-877-FTC-HELP (382-4357), or write to the Federal Trade Commission, CRC-240, Washington, DC 20580 or go to <http://www.ftc.gov/> to file a complaint online.

As I See It

By Rochelle Pennington

Harvesting a Bumper Crop of Blessings

My grandparents were farmers. They lived in a big, old house on a little plot of land in rural Wisconsin, eighty acres total. In this house, hung a painting. You couldn't help but notice it. It was really quite remarkable.

On the canvas was painted a field of ripened corn - acres and acres and acres of corn. An old man in bib overalls was walking into it. With him was a little girl, and these two were carrying baskets. Bushel baskets, to be exact..

The painting is long gone, as are my grandparents, but what I learned in the house it hung in is not. And it is this: There is a law that governs the promise of harvest, a law that applies to all of life - to fields and to

So many of us want peace of mind but do nothing to create it; want love but do not commit loving acts. Kindness, love, compassion, and all the other affirmative values we desire in our lives don't just happen to us; they are generated by our decision to cultivate them within ourselves and then share them with others. If we nourish them, tend them with care, and freely give of them to others, then - and only then - will our lives be full of the positive attributes we long for.

-The Editors of Conari Press our fellows. Simply put, the law is this: that which is sown will be that which is grown.

Grandpapa said it this way, "You can't plant tomatoes and expect to harvest beans."

It's a simple truth. And it was this truth that my grandfather used to harvest his land and to harvest his heart. With each, his land and his life, the same principle was at work, the exact same. He knew this. The reality of what he experienced in love and in joy and in peace was the direct result of what he purposed for. And so it is with us.

Do we desire more love in our lives? More kindness? More friendship? Then we must seed our lives with loving acts and with kindly deeds. Then, the harvest comes. Again, that which is sown will be that which is grown. Beans from beans. Corn from corn. Love from love. There's no other way.

Is it really that easy? Does it really work? Can it work in your life? The answer is yes. And yes and yes. So get your basket ready.

Seed by seed, deed by deed, we turn the soil of our souls over in our lives and plant something there, and that something begins to grow, unseen at the first, but not at the last. Be sure of it.

Just for today, try this. Try beginning your morning by speaking the following affirmation: "I purpose in my heart to seek love in the coming day. In seeking love, and in being loving, I will harvest more love in my life. For that which is sown will be that which is grown. My harvest is coming and my basket is ready."

Try the affirmation for today. Then try it again tomorrow, and the day after that. Then fill those days with loving moments - with hellos and handshakes and hugs. Smile at folks. Wave. Pick up the phone and call an old friend to ask, "So, how have you been?"

Harvesting a loving life is not about participating in the momentous, but rather, about participating - daily and consistently - in little, loving moments. Just moments.

In the arrangement of your life there is no element of chance, but all is the result of a law that cannot err. And so we are held prisoners only by ourselves: Our own thoughts and actions are the jailers of our fate - they imprison, if they are base; they are also the angels of freedom - they liberate, if they are noble. Most of us are anxious to improve our circumstances, but are unwilling to improve ourselves - and we therefore remain bound. If we do not shrink from honest self-examination, we can never fail to accomplish the object our hearts are set upon.

-James Allen

Like holding the door open for the person walking into the grocery store behind you, or wishing another person a good day - with sincerity, or shoveling the snow off a neighbor's walkway, or visiting a nursing home where someone who loves you very much is waiting for you to come by.

We love one another in moments - in the moments it takes to sing a lullaby or to read a story or to catch a little fellow at the end of a slide. We love one another in the time it takes to fix a family member's favorite supper or to bake a batch of cookies to share at the office. We love one another in the time it takes to get up early to put the coffee on or to slip a love note into a lunch box.

It's the moments that matter most. Little moments spent seeking love and being love. Then, the seeds from these deeds start growing. When we shift our focus off of what we expect from others and place it, instead, on to what we can give of ourselves, everything in life changes. Absolutely everything. Know this: The blessings we experience in our own lives will be in direct proportion to the blessings we have brought into the lives of others.

So, begin today. Begin with the affirmation. This will establish purpose. But remember, first and foremost, that it is our actual participation in loving deeds that will seed our harvest.

As an example, I ask you this: If my grandpapa had only planned a crop of corn, would he have had a harvest? If he had only said, "I sure do want some corn to grow in that field yonder" would the corn have grown? Nope, sure wouldn't have. With the planning, there must be planting. Lands or lives, the same holds true.

Bountiful blessings are within our reach, blessings beyond measure - acres and acres and acres of them. Every time we choose to love, we take one step closer to that harvest, a harvest that begins to grow beneath the dawn of each new day, including this one. So get your basket ready and we will meet one another there.

STATE ASSEMBLY ONE NATION, UNDER GOD STATE ASSEMBLY

Other candidates say that they are pro-life! ?
But, what does that mean?

The issues are complex and there is only one candidate that knows ALL the issues well, from abortion to euthanasia. As Advancement Director for Christian Life Resources, one of America's largest denominational, pro-life groups, Mark Brunner KNOWS the issues and will be ready to hit the road running in 2003!

VOTE FOR MARK C. BRUNNER ON SEPTEMBER 10TH!

BRUNNER 02

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

July 26, 2002 10th for Mark Brunner!

Dear Editor,

There's been a lot of talk as of late about who is the local candidate in the 59th assembly race and who isn't. It appears pretty obvious to me that Mr. Bonnett would have a difficult time making the claim since he doesn't even live in the district. Even though he has agreed to move into the district, that means little to me. And, judging by the amount of money he is spending (nearly $20,000 by the end of June), it appears to me that he even feels that the only way he can win is to buy the election.

But, who really is the local candidate? Well, for me it isn't much of a question. I live in Section 1 of the Town of Wayne. That's where the towns of Kewaskum, Auburn, Ashford and Wayne meet. Although I am sure that there are a number of candidates in this race who are good men, none of them comes from my neck of the woods.

Frankly, for me the choice is pretty easy. I live next door to Mark Brunner, one of the Republican candidates for the seat. Mark has been our neighbor since we moved in seven years ago and we get along pretty well. His yard signs are up on my lawn for this and other reasons as well. Not only is he my neighbor and friend, but he is the one candidate who has really addressed the most important issues to me and my life. He has the education and the professional background that I am looking for in a candidate and I am proud to support him.

So, who is the local candidate in these parts? There isn't much of a doubt in my mind. It isn't Tommy Thompson or any of those folks from over from the eastern end of the district. No, Mark is the only candidate that comes from around here. He knows the issues that are important to the citizens of Kewaskum, Campbellsport, Kohlsville and Theresa. I urge the voters in these towns to support Mark's candidacy. He may not have much money, but he sure has a lot of heart.

Please vote September

Dear Editor:

The 2002 Washington County Fair, the fourth Fair at the new site, was once again a huge success. This can only be possible by the great volunteer force that supports the Fair. I would especially like to thank the AIS Board for their numerous hours of volunteer time. I would like to thank Ken Miller and the County Board of Supervisors for their support and backing and believing that we can develop this facility into a number one state attraction.

Although the compliments are directed to me in the success of the Fair, I could not do it without the endless hours of the Fair Park support staff. A special thanks to Nancy Justman, the Fair Park Director for her support and backing of my decisions. Also the Fair Park Staff, Cindy Rosenberg, Shauna Holford, Stefanie Westerman, Debbie Hoefert, Dave Miller, Lyle Hoefert, Charlie Ertl and Barb Adel. We are a definite team and the success of the Fair proves it.

I would like to recognize Marilyn Merten, County Clerk, for the effort she put forward on both support staff as well as grounds improvements.

I would also like to thank the 4-H Department for their major role in the success of the Fair. The volunteer hours by this group is outstanding.

Last, but certainly not least, I would like to thank "YOU" for being a strong supporter of the Fair. Your continued patronage shows you believe in what Washington County is doing "to enrich life with educational, cultural, economic and social opportunities."

Back-to-School

Don't Let Learning Become a Strain

Think about what life must be like for a child who suffers from a vision problem, especially if no one knows about it. The child may have difficulty seeing a chalkboard or reading a book, writing, participating in sports or any of the other normal childhood activities. The Wisconsin Optometric Association (WOA) and American Foundation for Vision Awareness (AFVA) believe that, for many children, the solution to these challenges is often as simple as a comprehensive eye exam by an eye doctor.

With the beginning of the school year approaching, the WOA and AFVA celebrate August as "Children's Vision and Learning Month." Throughout the month, both organizations will encourage parents to have their children's eyes examined before the start of school. "Our goal is for children's eye exams to be considered as just another part of their back to school routine," said Dr. Dan DeWinter, President of the WOA. "Optometrists have long recognized the important link between good vision and successful learning."

According to the AFVA, "Undiagnosed and, therefore, untreated vision problems among our children represent one of the most serious, yet overlooked, health issues facing our nation." Vision disorders are the fourth most common disability in the United States and, according to the AFVA, the most prevalent handicapping condition in childhood. The recently enacted Wisconsin Children's Vision law recommends that parents of incoming kindergartners have their children's eyes tested prior to the start of the school year. This may prevent the potential development of academic problems for many children.

Eight to 12 million school age children are at risk from undetected vision impairments, according to AFVA statistics. Most pre-school and school vision screenings are designed to detect only the most obvious vision problems. As a result, nearly 75% of childhood vision ailments go undetected. All to often visually related learning problems are simply improperly identified as other disorders or simply social and behavior problems. All children, especially those with reading or learning problems should see an eye doctor to determine if significant visual problems exist.

"Vision is the way in which children connect to the world," said Dr. Scott Jens, chair of the WOA Children's Vision Committee. "A child with a vision problem may squint, complain about a headache, words 'dancing' on a page or may not complain at all." The child may compensate for the vision problem by avoiding tasks that require good vision, such as reading and writing. Dr. Jens suggests that parents and teachers should not assume that a child has healthy eyes and no problems seeing in school. "That assumption," says Dr. Jens, "could risk the child's future eye health." Many vision impairments can, if detected early enough, be diagnosed and treated. Dr. Jen believes that, "for children, a comprehensive vision exam may serve to prevent years of frustration and failure."

The Wisconsin and American Optometric Associations, the Wisconsin and American Foundations for Vision Awareness and many other organizations recognize August as Children's Vision and Learning Month. If you have any questions please contact the Wisconsin Optometric Association at 1-800-678-5357.

Apple Rustic Tarts
Serves 8

Recipe courtesy of Pastry Chef Nancy
Silverton

Campanile, Los Angeles

Streusel (yields 3 cups):
1 cup unbleached all-purpose flour
1 cup granulated sugar
2 sticks (8 ounces) unsalted butter, cut into small pieces and frozen

In a food processor fitted with a steel blade or by hand with pastry cutter, combine ingredients into a coarse meal. Set aside.

Tart Filling:

8 Granny Smith apples (2 pounds), cored, peeled and cut into 1/2 inch cubes, about 4 cups
1/2 cup unsweetened applesauce

Rustic pie dough:

2 cups unbleached all-purpose flour, plus extra for dusting
1/4 cup granulated sugar
2 sticks (8 ounces) unsalted butter, chilled, cut into small pieces
1 tablespoon pure vanilla extract
2 tablespoons water

To prepare dough: In a food processor fitted with the steel blade or by hand with a pastry cutter, combine ingredients in a bowl until mixture just comes together. Turn dough out onto a lightly floured surface. Gather into a ball, wrap in plastic wrap and chill until firm, at least 2 hours.

To assemble tarts: Line a baking sheet with parchment paper. Lightly dust a work surface and rolling pin with flour. Roll chilled dough to about 1/8-inch thickness; cut into eight 5-inch circles. Gather scraps together and reroll dough if necessary. Spoon 1 tablespoon applesauce onto each circle. Mound 1/2 cup apples over applesauce.

Taking opposite sides of the dough of each pie, gently stretch each side up and over the filling, pressing dough together at the center. Continue to work around the pie, repeating this process with other sections, ensuring that dough will not unfold and open during the baking process.

Preheat oven to 375°F. Place pies at least 2 inches apart on baking sheets. Mound 1/2 cup streusel on top of each pie.

Bake until the crust is golden brown, about 30 minutes. Rustic Tarts should be served warm.

And He found an empty place.
He then looked down upon this earth,
And saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you and lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful
He always takes the best.
He knew that you were suffering
He knew you were in pain
He knew that you would never get well on earth again.
He saw that the road was getting rough,
And the hills are hard to climb.
So He closed your weary eyelids.
And whispered "Peace be thine."
It broke our hearts to lose you
But you didn't go alone
For part of us went with you.
The day God called you home.

Loved and deeply missed by your husband, children, grandchildren & great-grandchildren.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of HERBERT W. RAMEL, who passed away one year ago, August 7, 2001:

He was bound to the land from the day of his birth,
His roots anchored deep in the fertile earth.
Nurtured, sustained by the soil he grew,
And his life, like his furrows, ran straight on through.

In faith, each spring, he planted the seeds,
In hope to reap his families needs.
With patience he waited for harvest to come,
To gather the fruits of his labor home.

Ever turning seasons, the year sped past,
Til the final harvest came at last.
Then claimed anew by beloved sod,
He was gathered home to be with God.

Missed by his wife, Gladys, Diann & Donald Thomas, Grandchildren and Great-Grandchildren

PRAYER OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(Never known to fail)

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven. Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me here you are my Mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (three times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you. Grateful thanks.

THANK YOU

A sincere thank you to our family, relatives and friends who remembered us at the time of my accident and recuperation. Cards, visits, phone calls, food and most of all your prayers will not be forgotten.

Last but not least, thank you to Pastor Meyer for his visits, to Drs. O'Meara and Sison, and the gals at St. Joe's for the care and plenty of TLC!

*God Bless You!
Hank and Marian Schacht*

P.S. Hank is hoping to graduate soon following his apprenticeship in the culinary arts.

Teen Mom's Group Forms

Being a teen parent is filled with daily demands and new responsibilities. It is a challenge to balance school, work, and parenting.

With these things in mind, the Family Center of Washington County provides an opportunity for teen-age moms to get together with other young moms and share concerns, frustrations, and successes.

Occasionally the group will have a guest speaker on a topic of interest such as: positive parenting, healthy relationships, or child care issues. The "Teen Moms Group" is a place to gain self-confidence and support and discuss challenges with other moms who are in similar situations.

This group meets the third Thursday of each month from 6:00 - 7:30 p.m. Free childcare is available for children while their mothers are meeting. If you are a teen parent, or know of a teen parent that would benefit from this free group, call the Family Center at 338-9461.

The Family Center is a non-profit organization whose mission is to help strengthen family life in Washington County. The Family Center offers a wide variety of services for families including: workshops for parents, parent and child activities, field trips, support groups, parent and child education programs, home visit services, warm-line phone support, a lending library, play groups and more.

Internet Site Provides Farm Financial Benchmarks

Farm managers can now visit an Internet site, select a group of farms and see a breakdown on production costs for farms similar to theirs. Such benchmark reports can help others in farming by providing a reference for comparisons. Researchers also will use the site to analyze the economic performance of farms.

All farm managers want to do a better job controlling their costs, according to agricultural economist Gary Frank. However, controlling costs can take a great deal of time.

"Farm managers can't scrutinize every bill. Even if they could, how would they know if that area of cost is above average?" asks Frank, the interim director of the UW-Madison's Center for Dairy Profitability. "That is where a comparison to financial benchmark values is necessary. By looking at financial benchmark values generated at this site, managers can more easily identify areas in their businesses that are more costly than the average. Now they can concentrate their limited time on those areas or categories of costs."

For example, dairy farmers might access the site and produce a report for other dairy farms sorted by their location, the year, their herd size, milk production or other factors. The reports cover farm earnings, balance sheets, cash flow statements and more, says Frank. By looking at a group's average for different categories of production costs, dairy farmers can see where they might focus their efforts to improve their businesses.

Frank says the reports can be expressed for whole farms, per commodity unit, per cow, and per product year. The reports can be for a single year or a series of three years.

Developed over a three-year period by Frank and others with the Center for Dairy Profitability and UW-Extension's Farm Management Education Team, the site was set up to accommodate a range of livestock and crop operations. The site contains more than 5,000 financial records from farms for 1995 through 2001. Currently, the vast majority of these are Wisconsin dairy farms. Farm records in the database are entered in a standard format that allows anyone to compare reports from different farms that produce different commodities, from farms in different regions, or from farms of different sizes.

The information about each farm included in the database is anonymous. The site won't produce reports for any group with fewer than six farms. Therefore, those who access the web site can't determine how an individual farm is doing.

The UW-Madison group also developed the computer program used to enter, sort and analyze the farm financial information on the site. Known as AgFA, for Agriculture Financial Advisor, the software is also available to those who want to use it to analyze their farm financial records. (See AgFA sidebar).

The data at the site will allow economists to do statistical analysis and produce research reports. Researchers have already used the site to study the financial success of dairy farmers in the Great Lakes Grazing Network. UW-Madison specialists will use the site to prepare annual reports on each year's financial benchmarks for Wisconsin dairy farms and their cost of producing milk.

To visit the benchmarks site, go to the home page for the Center for Dairy Profitability <http://cdp.wisc.edu/> and click on "Financial Benchmark."

Internet Site Provides Farm Financial Benchmarks:

AgFA Software Helps Managers Analyze Their Farms

Anyone with Internet access can visit the farm financial Web site <http://cdp.wisc.edu/> and obtain benchmark reports on groups of similar farm operations. (See main story).

To prepare reports on individual farm businesses for comparison with those at the Web site, farm managers may purchase a client version of the AgFA software for $10. Then they can enter their financial data and generate reports on that data over the Internet. For $150, individuals may buy a copy of the AgFA software for their own computers and generate reports without being connected to the Internet.

The AgFA (Agriculture Farm Advisor) software helps farm managers collect, analyze, and store financial data and information about the business profile of all sorts of farms. The AgFA software was developed by the University of Wisconsin-Madison Center for Dairy Profitability and UW-Extension's Farm Management Education Team, according to Gary Frank, who led the project.

The AgFA software was developed by the University of Wisconsin-Madison Center for Dairy Profitability and UW-Extension's Farm Management Education Team, according to Gary Frank, who led the project.

The program is flexible in that users can develop reports that analyze the financial data in many different ways and express it in different terms, Frank says. It can be used to prepare reports on farm earnings, farm balance sheets, and cash flow statements. AgFA will calculate a number of financial ratios, such as the return on assets, the divide these into the areas of profitability, financial efficiency, liquidity, repayment capacity and solvency.

Frank says the reports can be expressed for whole farms, per commodity unit, and per product year. The reports can be for a single year or a series of three years.

NOTICE OF HEARING Town of Kewaskum Board of Appeals

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Town of Kewaskum Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct a public hearing on the application for appeal filed by James and Sandy Derer. The hearing will be held at the Town of Kewaskum Community Center, 9019 Kettle Moraine Drive, Kewaskum, WI, 53040, on Monday, August 19, 2002, at 7:00 p.m. The applicant's property is located in the Town of Kewaskum, Section 24, at 2829 Salisbury Drive. The appeal seeks a variance from the requirements of the Zoning Ordinance 6.03 (A) (1), and if granted will permit the applicant to construct an accessory structure in the street yard of the parcel, and construct an accessory structure that will exceed the maximum allowed 864 square feet.

This site is requested because the parcel is 1.79 acres with the house situated more to the back of the lot. Because the house has an exposed basement on the south side, the land goes downhill from the front to the back of the house. The intended use of the accessory structure is for storage of personal recreation vehicles and maintenance equipment.

All interested persons wishing to comment on the appeal should appear at the hearing.

Dated this 29th day of July, 2002.

LEGAL NOTICE

As high-speed Internet technology continues to advance Charter Pipeline customers have more options. More computers are now equipped with a cable modem and most major electronic retailers now offer them for purchase.

With these emerging high-volume supply chains, it is becoming increasingly difficult for Charter to continue purchasing, warehousing and maintaining cable modems for lease at the current monthly price.

Effective September 1, 2002 our price for cable modem rentals will be adjusted $1.00 from $3.95 to $4.95.

Customers may change the level of service they receive without charge from now until 30 days after the effective date of the price change. This increase does NOT affect Pipeline customers currently in promotional packages. Charter is considerate of the effects on our customers of rising costs, and we strive to minimize them to every extent possible.

Musky on My Mind

Ross Moll displaying some of the musky lures we were casting.

Hello friends,

Two week's ago, when I was fishing on the Turtle Flambeau Flowage, I put the first notch on my musky fishing belt. Since that moment, I have had daily visions of catching a trophy 25- to 50-pound musky.

Saturday, July 27
High 88, Low 61

In Florence County, in the Brule River Flowage, Jeff and Ross Moll and I had a date with destiny with a crocodile from the deep. Ross just turned 8 and received his first 22 rifle and this outing for his birthday. Jeff knows next to nothing about the fish we are chasing, and I know only a little more. Both of us have a spot reserved in our living rooms for the fish of a lifetime.

Our plan was to fish from a couple of hours before dark until sunrise, take a siesta and then hit the water again. We both purchased Michigan fishing licenses so we could also work on the Paint River which flows into the Brule.

Our plan changed before the first cast when my boat, the Kingfisher, and its crew were besieged by a powerful thunderstorm.

We were exploring the river to gain as much knowledge as possible of the water before nightfall. Good luck came our way shortly before dark when the skies cleared to create a beautiful evening.

Our luck continued to be positive when 10 minutes into our second outing, a 16-inch smallmouth hit the High Fin topwater bait Jeff was casting. Laughter became a regular part of our evening. This flowage is totally undeveloped except for a dam on the southeast end.

Jeff and I had trouble judging the distance between the boat and shore. We were working the shoreline with bucktails, Top Raiders, the High Fin and a half dozen other well-known musky lures.

After dark, the trees were actually jumping out and grabbing our lures. This resulted in me working the trolling motor into shore and Jeff taking a hike and climb.

Although Florence was almost three miles away, we had background music tonight. Marvin and the Martians were playing at the town's street fest and we could hear them perfectly from our boat.

Ross lasted until about 10 p.m. at which time we made a bed for him on the floor of the Kingfisher. Jeff and I had great enthusiasm for what we were doing and never gave up hope.

One time, Jeff slipped in the boat and had a big old musky lure sticking in his back when he got up. Unfortunately at that time, my bait, called Burt, fell in the water.

Later, I accidentally paid my good buddy back as he was taking one of his well-known "naps." I was not aware he had actually fallen asleep in mid cast, and I continued fishing.

Bad luck came my way when the Top Raider I was throwing became extremely tangled in my fallen comrade's line. I cranked the light up on the Coleman lantern and proceeded to undo the mess.

When Mr. Moll woke up, he resumed his cast as if he had never fallen asleep. I must have gotten his line a little too close to the lantern, and like my Burt, the High Fin was lost at sea. We actually lasted until it completely light.

Most of Sunday we spent lounging and speaking with the local boys who had lots of big musky stories although none were recent. We hit the water about 4 p.m. with renewed energy, found three really nice camp sites, didn't get a follow up, and said our goodbyes at 10:30 that night. The big fish will come.

Patience is a must!

Vacation Survival Guide

By Anthony Greenbank, author of

The Book of Survival: The Original Guide to Staying Alive in The City, The Suburbs and The Wild Lands Beyond a result of being Shipwrecked was thought to have drowned. But, in many cases, it was actually the cold that had paralyzed the victim first. Even on tropical waters.

No one likes to think about accidents on vacation. But they happen--and intelligent anticipation could save your life. It is easy to do the wrong thing when facing an unexpected crisis in a strange place. Most people follow their instincts--but instincts are often wrong.

Here are some of the right and wrong ways of preventing or dealing with the most common vacation mishaps.

Cruising The Highways and Byways? Surviving Car Crashes

Hundreds of car crashes occur on turnpikes and highways when drivers fall asleep at the wheel.

If you are feeling the effects of driver fatigue, spit on your fingers, rub the wet fingertips over both eyes, and then open the window. The slipstream will make your eyes sting, making it impossible to close them. Keep doing this until you reach a side road where you can pull over for forty winks.

Traveling by Train?

Surviving Train Wrecks

If you sense a train crash coming (screeching brakes are a good warning), throw yourself face down on the floor with your hands clasped to the back of your neck. This position will lessen the shock of impact--and danger from flying glass, metal or suitcases. But remember, act fast.

If you are in an aisle or corridor, throw yourself on the floor on your back with your feet toward the engine. Again, clasp the back of your neck and push your feet against anything solid, knees bent.

If the crash comes while you are in the bathroom, follow the same procedure, but sit on the floor with your back to the engine.

Lost at Sea? Surviving Shipwrecks

Up to 50 years ago almost everyone who died as Energetic swimming movements actually cause a loss of body heat. The less energy you use, the less risk there is of hypothermia.

Clothing helps keep you warm in cold water. Everyday garments such as a pair of trousers and sweater can reduce body heat loss by as much as half.

Stuck in The City?

Surviving The Urban Masses

If you find yourself crushed in a crowd go with the flow and try to stay upright. To fall down means suffocation and being trampled underfoot.

At the first signs of crushing, move away from any solid objects such as walls, pillars, barriers. Keep moving whenever possible. Brace yourself like a coiled spring.

As you are crushed on all sides, take a deep breath, tense your biceps, shoulders and back against the pressure and bunch your arms in front of your stomach--possibly shielding a child. Lift both feet off the ground so they are not trampled on.

Above all, keep the image of a buoy in mind. And try to keep buoyant.

Professional Lawn Cutting Done the Way YOU Want It!!!

Betty Hallen Aces #16 At Rock River Hills GC

It was golf as usual for Betty Hallen and her husband, Elmer, of Kewaskum, and friends, Dick and Marilyn Edwards of Long Lake. There were ups and downs in both the scoring and undulating fairways and greens at Rock River Hills in Horicon, until the par three, 101 yard, hole #16.

As the men were fishing Elmer's drive out of the pond, Betty teed up her Top Flite XL 2000, changed her club choice to her knock-off Callaway #9 wood, and addressed the ball.

Marilyn watched as Betty took a full swing, hitting the ball squarely up in the air. The ball cleared the water, bounced on the front edge of the green, and trickled toward the hole. Both women verbally encouraged the ball to "get closer to the pin."

Then it dropped from sight. Two gasps, then hootin' and hollerin', hugging and dancing. It was a hole-in-one!

Needless to say, the two remaining holes of the round were anti-climatic. Betty scored a 52 on the first nine and a 53 on the second, for a total of 105.

Betty is a member of Hon-E-Kor Country Club in Kewaskum and golfs with the Hon-E-Bees on Wednesdays and the Thursday Night Ladies League. She carries a handicap of 16 for nine holes.

The thrill of an "ace" was the second for Betty as her first claim to fame was at Diamondhead Golf and Country Club at Bay St. Louis, Miss., 24 years ago. Congratulations Betty!

FUN FACTS & FIGURES

Monster Truck Hoisted By Paper Towels

(NAPS)—Who says paper towels aren't tough enough? Not the owners of one huge Monster Truck. A recent demonstration in Westville, Indiana, demonstrated that towels can be as strong as steel. Tim Liverance, a product developer from Kimberly-Clark Professional, tested the strength of the company's newest extra-strong towels by hoisting a 10,000-pound Monster Truck on a rope made of steel blue WypAll X80 Shop Towels. When it came to hoisting, the towels really cleaned up.

When life's emergencies need expert attention, you can depend on St. Joseph's specialists to provide the care you need.
