Campbellsport high speed chase comes to Kewaskum, Wayne

Kewaskum Police Officer, Mark Steiner, played an active role in stopping a high speed chase that ensued after a police officer in Campbellsport attempted to make a routine traffic stop there. The chase started around 11:15 p.m. Tuesday, March 29. Officer Steiner reported speeds of over 90 MPH as he chased the vehicle West on Highway 28 W. The chase then went to Lake Bernice, back to Campbellsport and then to the Town of Wayne, where it ended as Washington County Deputies set up road spikes. The photo above shows a white Nissan (right) in the ditchline of Mohawk Drive where the chase ended an hour later. The vehicle belonged to a Fond du Lac man. Charges are pending in Fond du Lac County.

Charges filed against Kewaskum couple for alleged burglaries

By Andrew Kuehl Statesman Managing Editor akuéhl@kewaskumstatesman

A drug addiction is being used as an excuse from a husband and wife burglary team from rural Kewaskum for breaking into area homes. West Bend Police took the pair into custody on Sunday, March 27.

While many families were celebrating Easter, Gary Dam, 23 was discovered by a neighbor looking into a window outside a residence on Jansen Drive in the Town of Barton around 2:39 p.m. That neighbor called the Washington County Sheriff's Department and reported a suspicious person. According to a criminal complaint from the Washington County District Attorney's office, after deputies responded, Dam led them on a foot chase, and was captured shortly after the chase ensued

After being caught, Dam requested the presence of his wife, Heather Dam, 22, at the scene. She later confessed to assisting with "evening burglaries." West Bend Police Officers then took both the Dams into custody.

According to Washington County Sheriff, Brian Rahn, the pair allegedly had burglarized a number of homes over the past month in Washington County taking money, jewelry and electronic items. Homes in neighboring Fond du Lac and Sheboygan counties may also be involved. Sheriff Rahn further stated that

Gary Dam

Heather Dam was booked and released as the couple has a 3-month-old child.

Gary Dam was charged Monday with one count of burglary of a building or dwelling. On Tuesday, Dam was in Washington County court again facing five additional counts of burglary. One is also pending in Fond du Lac County.

He remains in the Washington County Jail on a $2,000 cash bond. He is scheduled to be back in court on April 7 at 1:30 p.m. before Judge David Rechecked.

A search of court records shows Gary Dam has a lengthy record of offenses. He is due in Milwaukee County Court in June on charges of operating a vehicle after revocation. There were also numerous traffic charges from Oshkosh and civil judgments.

A few of the questions and answers at the candidate's forum are as follows. The end of this article also containes biographies on each of the candidates.

QUESTION: In the next few years, the village of Kewaskum's population alone will increase by over 500 people. Do you feel we should be planning on erecting a new high school very soon or do we continue to overburden the school we have now? Why?

Cochran said we need a plan for the future. "There's problems with the high school," she said. Cochran attributed the Screenings are fast, painless and low cost. They involve the use of ultrasound technology, and scan for potential health problems related to: blocked arteries which can lead to a stroke, aortic aneurysms which can lead to a ruptured aorta, and hardening of the arteries in the legs, which are a strong predictor of heart disease. Also offered for men and women, is a bone density screening to assess their risk for osteoporosis.

"You told me to see a doctor immediately. I just wanted to thank you Life Line Screening, your screening saved my life." Ginger Blodgett - Elk Mound, Wis.

Each screening requires ten minutes or less to complete. A complete vascular screening package, including the Stroke/Carotid Artery, Abdominal Aortic Aneurysm and Ankle Brachial Index (hardening of the arteries) screenings is $109. From front

"There's problems with the high school," she said. Cochran attributed the problems to bad maintenance such as the floor tiles, leaks in the roof, a lack of air tightness in the door. "We need to plan in that direction and look for land, definitely look to the future."

Jensen said reworking the existing high school might solve the problem of over population. "Right now, the one story building is land locked." If the school started hunting for land to construct a new high school, he believes the prices would go up around the village. "I think we can expand where we're at."

Loehr suggested conducting and drawing up a five or 10year plan.

Kenworthy agreed further research was needed. "We need to research a plan and find a solution everyone buys into; it needs to be the entire community.

Pouros said the school district must do a better job of informing the public. "We need to get the work out and not spring it on them."

Q: The public will be asked to vote on a referendum for textbooks and technology on April 5. If elected to the school board and the referendum fails, what will your recommendations be to address this and to move the district forward?

Jensen warned residents that if the referendum fails, "it won't be pretty." He said the school district would be forced to make tough choices. "If there's no money for school books, it'll have to come out the parents pockets." He said the school district couldn't continue to educate students on a 15-year textbook cycle.

Loehr said he strongly supports the referendum. "The rate of technology growth is astounding," he said. Loehr agreed that additional funding might require parental contribution of textbooks if the referendum fails.

Kenworthy said he couldn't imagine asking students to pay for the textbooks. "We have a diverse student population. Everyone can't afford that. We need to go back to the drawing board." He said up to date textbooks are fundamental to teaching.

Pouros was taking an optimist approach that electors will approve the referendum. "I believe 15 years is a long time. Maybe, a five year cycle is too short." Depending on the subject, Pouros thought the school board could wait longer than five years to purchase textbooks.

Cochran said she supported the referendum. She went on to say that the No Child Left Behind Act, a federal law, requires children to learn what they need to know by using testing assessments. Parents of failing school districts have the option of enrolling their child in another school district who meets federal testing guidelines.

QUESTION: School districts have been under revenue limits since 1993, which has had a negative impact on them. The state Legislature has promoted a Taxpayers Bill of Rights (TABOR) and tax freezes. What is your position on the constitutional amendment of TABOR and the tax freezes?

Pouros said she is against tax freezes. As far as TABOR, she needs to study the proposals more to make a decision.

"Taxpayers need some protection so spending doesn't get out of hand," Cochran said. "The district needs to come up with alternative plans to save money and meet expenses."

Jensen said that he was strongly in favor of TABOR. "It means you can't continuously raise taxes without approval." Jensen said TABOR is a method of putting controls on elected officials' spending of public money.

Loehr said the tax freeze is a good proposal. "Wisconsin has the dubious honor of being one of the Top 10 highest taxing states," he said. Loehr said it is a good idea to reign in taxes to encourage retirees to settle in the state. He said the state of Wisconsin has a lot to offer people if they weren't over taxed by living here.

Kenworthy said the state of Wisconsin has a huge tax problem. "TABOR is misconceived legislation from point zero. Incentives are needed for lowering taxes." But he was a little concerned about TABOR and tax freezes because most municipalities have no rainy day to fall back on in case of emergency. "The best government is at the local level and I refuse to give that authority over to the state legislature."

QUESTION: Since every school district is facing budget constraints because of revenue limits imposed by the state Legislature, what areas in the budget would you review to seek cost saving measures in Kewaskum?

Pourus said she couldn't choose any cost savings measures since she's not a board member. She did say she would meet with parents and teachers, people in the community and use them as a guide to make decisions.

Cochran said the school district must do something about open enrollment where 133 students leave the district and only 20 students come into the district. "That's a lot of money going out the door to other districts," she said. "We need to do things to entice people to come into the district."

Jensen said the state tells us what we have to do and that is what the district must focus on. He spoke about the possibility of a club funding system. "We need to take a fresh look at things to see what works."

Village of Kewaskum trustee race hotter than normal

By Andrew Kuehl MANAGING EDITOR akuehl@kewaskumstatesman.com

The late, former village trustee, Bob Stoltzmann is up in heaven smiling down on the village he loved so dear. He's smiling, because he sees that for the first time in many years there are a handful of people interested in something he was very passionate about. Village of Kewaskum government.

In recent years the village was lucky if there were enough candidates to fill the vacated seats much less have contested races. Filling Bob Stoltzmann's vacant seat will be no easy task and this fall village officials made the right decision to let the voters decide who fills that empty seat where Stoltzmann conducted village business.

Five candidates will fill three expiring seats and the fourth highest vote getter will take Stoltzmann's term which expires in 2006.

Village president, Matt Heiser is running unopposed.

Village of Kewaskum strives to obtain voter information

Village Administrator Daniel S. Schmidt urges voters in the Village of Kewaskum to bring their Wisconsin Department of Transportation issued driver's license or identification card number with them to the polling place on April 5, 2005.

After voting, citizens are being asked to provide voter registration information in anticipation of the implementation of a statewide voter registration system. The clerk will have a table at the polling place for voters to visit and fill out a form after they cast their ballots. Electors should note that registration is not required in the Village of Kewaskum in order to vote at the April 5, 2005 election.

This effort is completely voluntary for the voter at this time. However, if the voter provides the required information at the April Election April 5, 2005, it will save the voter from long registration lines in 2006.

The Federal Help America Vote Act of 2002 (HAVA) and Wisconsin State Statutes require all voters in Wisconsin municipalities to be registered in order to vote after January 1, 2006.

For more information call (262)626-8484 between the hours of 7:30AM and 4:30PM.

Here are just 11 personal reasons why I am running for re-election to the Kewaskum School Board.

FARMINGTON CHANGE

A decade or two ago, this was "God's Country." Farms, woods, and a scattering of homes made up Farmington's landscape. Planning seemed unnecessary because of our town's location north of development's path

But now in 2005, the situation has changed. We find ourselves the target of strong development attention, and have old, weak ordinances to deal with it. Most of us know we must act now to adopt zoning ordinances and maps to face today's problems. That's why a majority of the planning commission and all of the town board approved a temporary zoning moratorium designed to give us time to do the job. We have line-up a professional planner to help us

Two plan commission members have been against almost all progress. They want to plan without a moratorium or expert help. Well, guess what ... our past failures have been caused by following this path. I believe their intent is to kill meaningful planning. Fortunately, the majority has seen the issue differently. Now, one of these foes of progress wants to be Farmington's chairman ... scary. This guy has a history of intimidation and disregard of rules and ordinances -- his "let'er rip" mentality would be disaster.

We also have joined 12 communities in Washington County to work on the 2009 state required "Smart Growth" program. This will save the Farmington thousands of dollars. But we must get our basic ordinances set NOW... if we waited until 2009, the horse would be out of the barn.

Your vote this year is important -- I would like to see this planning issue through. I think there are many others who agree, for when Gary Schreiber and I were targeted by the recall attempt, it died without coming to a vote. Thank you for your support.

Auburn Township residents have full election slate

BY CASSANDRA THOMPSON STATESMAN CORRESPONDENT cthompson@kewaskumstatesman.com

Auburn Township voters will have a choice when punching the ballots for town chair and supervisor seats. Two residents are vying to fill the seat which is being vacated by Howard Laubenstein who served as town chair for several years. And, four residents are running for two township supervisor positions. Town Clerk Bonnie Berg and Town Treasurer Shelby Sarauer are running for reelection unopposed.

Community involvement: Northern Kettle Moraine Horse Trails, Low Income Energy Advisory Committee (located in Madison, serving over 15 years on the committee), Milwaukee Energy Network.

Reasons seeking office: "I've been attending and speaking up at our town meetings for four to five years. The issues facing the town are becoming more complex and needs planning, deliberating and a wider vision. Name: Mike Desterhoft

Occupation: Small retailer for recreational tourism business

Education: Graduate of Germantown High School

Reasons for seeking office: "The township is experiencing a lot of development issues. Agricultural land is being developed at a record pace. Instead of looking at the merits and shortcomings, the township rubberstamps many development (proposals). I am not anti-development. I favor a cautious and a common sense approach towards development. I have a genuine concern for the town and the Kettle Moraine State Forest, and I don't want to see it spoiled by development. Once it is spoiled, we can't turn back the clock. I favor correct, proper and appropriate development." Previous public office experience: Auburn Township Plan Commission

I pledge to participate in the continuing education for all board members, because I strongly believe that gaining knowledge through continuing education can only strengthen the leadership of the Town of Auburn, which benefits the entire townships. I am convinced that a well educated board works as an efficient team, which means fewer calls to the attorney, and a savings in attorney fees. (2003 & 2004 attorney fees for the townships were $17,342.79).

I will promote an open-door policy and try my best to answer questions that town residents have concerning the Town of Auburn. I will listen very carefully to the town residents, and bring their concerns to the Town of Auburn board meetings. I strongly believe that the Town Board should represent the residents and not rule over them.

Musical Masquers announce tryouts

Musical Masquers, the community theater of West Bend, is pleased to announce tryouts for Broadway's most beloved musical, "Fiddler On the Roof." Open tryouts will be held at 7 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, April 11 and 12, 2005, with callbacks at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, April 13. All tryouts will be held in the Fellowship Hall of Immanuel United Church of Christ, 501 Walnut Street, West Bend. Production dates are June 17, 18, 19, 23, 24 and 25 at the theater on the University of Wisconsin – Washington County campus in West Bend.

One of the longest running shows in Broadway history, "Fiddler" is among the most popular musicals of the American theater. Set in a poor Russian village in 1905, just before the Russian Revolutionary period, "Fiddler" tells the story of a poor dairyman, Tevya, his wife, Golde, and his five daughters. Through the events of their poor, peasant life it teaches about belief, faith, tradition, family and love. The show is a powerful statement about the evils of prejudice and the importance of family and religious life in the midst of oppression. The show includes some of the most popular songs ever written for the American theater, including "Sunrise, Sunset," "Matchmaker," and "Tradition."

The production is under the direction of Jim Mohr, with the Assistant Director/Producer Sharon Stier. Mohr was recently seen as Henry Higgins in the Masquers' production of "My Fair Lady" and is one of the co-founders of the Hartford Players. Stier has directed a number of Masquers' shows, including "My Fair Lady." The two of them together directed the Masquers' most recent comedy hit, "Vanities."

There are at least 21 different speaking parts for adults of all ages, as well as parts for children eight years of age and older. Men are especially needed and encouraged to try out.

Auditions will consist of readings from the script, singing a song from the show, and a simple dance routine. No advance preparation is required. Everything will be taught at the auditions. For further information contact Sharon Stier at 414-531-0837 or 262-335-3945.

Lofy wraps up 32 years of service at Bank One

On Saturday, March 26, 2005, Kathy Lofy wrapped up a 32 year career at Bank One in West Bend. She had worked at the branch on Highway 33 and 8th Avenue since graduating from West Bend High School. When Kathy left the building for the last time she was met by former and current co-workers and family members who gathered to give her a round of applause and wish her well. One of Kathy's memories from her years of service include a man, who was too drunk to drive, riding his horse into town to do his banking. The man even rode the horse through the front doors and into the bank when it was located in downtown West Bend where Peek-A-Boutique has their store. She will also be remembered for knowing everyone's name.

Education... It's Everyone's Business

By Wayne P. Graczyk, Kewaskum Superintendent of Schools www.kewaskumschools.org

In last week's article, I said I would discuss the negative impact the mandated Open Enrollment law has had on the Kewaskum School District. For those who don't know, Open Enrollment is a law written into State Statute that allows parents to move their children from one district to another, regardless of place of residence. A reality people don't. think about is that when a student moves from one school district to another, that student's allowable state aid money follows the student to the district they will be attending. This is about $5500 for this school year and will be about $5700 next school year. However, not all of the students "leaving the district via Open Enrollment" actually leave. This will cost the district about $775,000 in next year's budget. explain me Open Enrollment and the $775,000.

Open Enrollment: Next year we have about 70 applications for students to "leave" our district. However, only about 17 of them actually ever attended our schools. Why is this? It's because the law requires a student applying for Open Enrollment to enroll in our district first. Let's take a student attending one of our parochial schools who wants to attend a public school, let's say in West Bend. That student must first enroll in Kewaskum (first time registered in our district) in order to Open Enroll "out" of Kewaskum. A home school student wanting to attend, for example, a school in the Virtual School in Northern Ozaukee County must first enroll in Kewaskum before they can transfer "out". What this means is that around 53 of those students "leaving" Kewaskum never attended our school. No matter, the money will still follow them to the other district. Therefore it has become yet another of our challenges, not only to retain, but also to attract these students. We need to make our schools so attractive that they want to attend school right here in Kewaskum, not another district.

With the Open Enrollment factor, the April 5 referendum takes on a new importance because parents and students have that choice of where to send their children. One of the reasons it is imperative that Open Enrollment be understood by the community is that we are now being compared to surrounding districts. Parents can, and are, electing to choose to send their children to other school districts. Parents are choosing districts they believe offer more than Kewaskum is offering, or offering different programs, or have newer facilities. If they believe Kewaskum isn't able to provide what they want, they have an option to leave. Open Enrollment has truly changed the rules of school attendance. The community made a great decision with the new and remodeled elementary buildings and administration building here in Kewaskum, but other factors still need to be addressed now and in the future.

The April 5 referendum is directed not only to making the Kewaskum schools highly qualified educational facilities, but also to use that quality to retain our own students while possibly even attracting new students. We are addressing textbooks and technology on April 5 in our effort to make our schools the most attractive for parents and students alike.

The $775,000: The negative impact of Open Enrollment on the Kewaskum School District will be reflected as an approximate $775,000 projected loss in next year's budget. When you compare the amount of the upcoming referendum ($430,000) you easily realize what $775,000 means to our budget and our district. In today's educational environment, Kewaskum needs to offer high quality academic programs. Kewaskum needs to have a curriculum that uses current textbooks Finally.

Kewaskum must constantly be integrating technology into not only the curriculum, but all school programs as well. The quality of Kewaskum's curriculum and programs and integration of technology must at least be equal to surrounding districts, hopefully better.

Keep in mind that other school districts, particularly surrounding districts like West Bend, Slinger, Random Lake and Campbellsport, have become "competitors" under the Open Enrollment law. In today's market, it has become critical to make high quality educational programs and facilities available to all parents and students, no longer just our own. Those are the rules we play by in today's Open Enrollment world. Just think what impact the $775,000 in lost revenues has had on the Kewaskum School District in a time of Revenue Limits?

The School District's goal is to upgrade our textbooks in order to be consistent with other districts and to integrate technology into all aspects of our schools, just like other districts have done. In the "good old days", parents didn't have a choice of where to send their children, unless it was a private or parochial school or home schooling. That isn't the case anymore. Parents do have options, and they are using

KEA sponsors Essay Contest

The Kewaskum Education Association recently sponsored an essay contest based on the theme "Why it's important to vote." The following are the winning essays from each grade category.

Why is it important to vote in local elections? People should vote for things they think are right. It gives you a say in what goes on in our community! You can make a difference. You can have schools built and you can have businesses built. People can choose which mayor and school board members you want, so that the things you want can be chosen! You can vote for a lot of things like Village presidents, people who make sure the water is clean, fire department people, people who take care of parks, and

Erin Thisted-Klemp 2nd grade Mrs. Witte FES

Voting is not just a right. It is a responsibility. It is important to vote in local elections because we are choosing the people we want to make decisions about our village and our schools. We pick people that decide how to divide taxes for the workers in our community. If we want more money spent on sports, playgrounds, swimming pools or a theater, we need to vote for people who want the same things. Voting is something all people should do. I hope you will vote, too.

Austin Goeden 4th grade Holy Trinity School

You have the right to vote! It is important that all citizens vote in all elections because that is what our government is based on. Our government is established for the people and it is run by the people. You can help run our government by voting!

Pleae vote in our next local election of April 5th in your community. Your vote will have an impact on the future lives of young citizens in our school district. You are the voice for the children's future, please vote in the local elections! Thank you for voting!

Deserai Wink 5th grade Mrs. Wenzlaff FFS

Do you participate in every one of your local elections? Does this always seem important to you? Well it should because there are many good reasons why you should vote in local elections.

Voting in local elections is the key to making a difference. Every person has the right to speak his or her opinion when it comes to voting. If you don't vote, you cannot complain about what happens because you didn't express your voice. Each person's vote counts. It is your money, your children's education, your job, your health care, your highways, social security, neighborhood, and your democracy that needs your support.

All in all, voting should be on the top of your list of priorities. Next time you have the opportunity to vote do it. Don't pass it up and wait until next time. Let your voice be heard and speak up.

Hannah Reysen 7th grade Mrs. Uhlman KMS

Many people toy with the thought of voting. For some, national elections are enough. What about local elections? You might see signs in a few lawns but do not think twice about whom that person is or what he or she stands for. However, these people are important. They are carrying on what he or she stands for. However, these people are important. You should be interested and vote in your local elections.

Most importantly, the right to vote did not come easily. Over two hundred years ago, countless men gave their lives to ensure you the right to vote. Even today, thousands of men and women in our armed services are still bravely giving their lives to protect this precious right. This should not be taken for granted! But all too often, it is.

Last month, an extraordinary event took place. The Iraqi citizens were allowed, for the first time, to vote in a free election. This too took sacrifce. This is a very warm reminder of the significance of a republic. We also have this

Ya-Yas in Bloom

By: Rebecca Wells

You probably don't think about it much, but your mother had a life before you came along. Quite a rich life, I would imagine.

And if you're like most kids, you grew up begging for stories of her life back in 19-something, B.C.

B.C. That, of course, is "Before Children".

Stories are the glue that holds generations of family and friends together, and in the new novel "Ya-Yas in Bloom" by Rebecca Wells (c.2005, HarperCollins), the Ya-Ya saga started with a pecan.

The story can be told and embellished, but, like a familiar fairy tale, none of the important parts can be left out: back when Teensy Whitman was a spoiled little girl-brat, she stuck a pecan up her nose, just to see what would happen. What happened is that she went to see the doctor to get the pecan removed. Four-year-old Teensy was bigger than life, and little Vivi Abbott, who was in the doctor's office with an earache, was smitten by someone so bold. The two girls instantly became friends.

Small girls can be naughty sometimes, and Genevieve, Teensy's mama, told them about a bad little girl called Coco Robichaux. Coco was an imp and did the most horrid, deliciously bad things that good little girls would never do. Nobody knew what Coco Robichaux looked like or where she lived, but Teensy and Vivi were sure that she s Lady Altar side of the Our Lady of Divine Compassion Church. One Sunday, they slithered between feet and beneath pews, snuck up on Coco and pulled her long braids. The little girl screamed and cried. Oops. Not Coco, but Denise Rose Kelleher, known to her friends as Necie.

Genevieve loved the movies, so she took the three girls to The Bob theatre in Thornton. That was where Teensy, Vivi, and Necie met Caro, who lived with her parents. Caro spent most of her days playing in the theatre and hanging out with vaudeville acts. She was wild and smart and didn't give a hoot what other people thought about her. This, of course, intrigued the other three girls, and Caro became their friend, too.

That's the end of the story, but it's really not The End. Over the years, through Catholic school and marriages, divorces, infidelities, and births of children and grandchildren, the four women were more than best friends. The Ya-Yas were a solid wall of support - a fact that their husbands and sons-inlaw learned fast - and you didn't mess around when one of them set her mind. But when something terrible happens, they all learn that being Ya-Ya is more than just support. It's the paste that holds life together.

A thousand years from now, when scientists study Women's Friendships of the Twentieth Century, I hope they find this book. Having friends like the Ya-Yas is something every woman wants and the lucky ones get. Reading this book is like sitting around with childhood friends and "honorary aunties", swapping family tales and laughing. Fans of Wells' other books will enjoy knowing Vivi's son, Baylor, whom I liked tremendously. After getting acquainted with him, I know there has to be a "next" book. There just has to

If you've never read Wells' first two books ("Divine Secrets of the Ya-Ya Sisterhood" and "Little Altars Everywhere"), I think you'll be safe starting with this one. You'll be looking for those first two books soon anyhow. Ya-Ya fans, though, are going to want to say yes-yes to this book.

Running in the Holes

Hello Friends,

For this winter to be complete, I needed to go on a camping trip, live on the ice, and catch some big panfish. I wanted to go to a lake I had not been to before.

This past weekend, I camped and fished on Bear Lake, which is located on the Washburn/Barron County line.

Saturday, March 19 High 30°, Low 21°

This trip was not guaranteed to happen when I woke up this morning to another snowstorm. I passed a lot of cars in the ditch on my way to Bear Lake, which is 1,538 acres in size.

I have received credible information that Bear Lake has a substantial population of crappie in the 9- to 14-inch range. Some jumbo perch on the lake are also an occasional added bonus. This information had me chomping at the bit for the past month.

My true goal on this trip was to hit the water running in the holes during the late ice season. As most true ice anglers know, when the snow and ice are melting, and water is running in the ice-fishing hole, the panfish are generally on a feeding frenzy.

Unfortunately for this three-day trip, I listened from my tent to the rumbling of new ice forming, which at this point in the winter is not good for fish catching.

My plan was simple, and new buddies told me where to set up. When I figured I was near the area I needed to be in, I pulled out my auger and drilled a hole through at least 36 inches of ice. Next, I put a crappie minnow on a tear drop jig, dropped it to the bottom in 10 feet of water, reeled it up a foot, and then I was going to drill another hole.

Fortunately, my pole started bending, and I caught an 11-inch crappie. Well aware that I had a lot of time left on this trip, I had a very good feeling. I set three poles out with each resting on top of a five-gallon bucket. Each setup was about 30 yards apart, and when a fish would start pulling on a pole, in most cases the pole would fall in the bucket and set the hook.

With my golden retriever Ice for companionship, I began setting up my camp and watching poles. Good luck came my way when a pole I had rigged with a minnow and bare hook started bending. I landed a 12-inch perch that was very overweight.

A high number of fish were not meant to be, as I fished well past dark and then retreated into my tent.

I read outdoor magazines and cooked wild boar I hunted during another top-notch trip.

Ice loves it when we sleep in the tent, because just before it is light outside, I let him lay in bed with me for a little while. I sleep on a cot, and with Ice being a bit of a moose, this set up is good only for a half an hour.

Sunday, March 20 High 33°, Low 12°

It's the first day of spring, and I am living on the ice. I was fishing a half hour before sunrise, but I could have stayed in bed for all that I caught.

It was nice out, but the fish were not biting, so I forced myself to do my least favorite job, which is working on my taxes. I am hoping to have them done by some time in July.

Most of the day was spent soaking up the sun, talking to locals and always drilling holes trying to find feeding fish. Every veteran angler I spoke with had the same comment: They won't bite until the water's running in the holes.

I kept my trapline going, which was spread out over 200 yards, and I watched for the bending rod or pole that had fallen in the pail. When I caught a fish, whether it was a crappie or a perch, it was a dandy.

Tonight, as I sat in my tent with some trophys in the livewell and the Badgers and UW-Milwaukee Panthers on the way to the Sweet 16, I thought about how my winter camping has evolved since 1989. It used to be I just slept on a foam pad in a sleeping bag on the ice with shoveled snowfall for protection. No matter where I was, I loved every minute of it.

These days I live in a tent, sleep on a cot and listen to people tell me I'm nuts. You know what? They're right, and I'm still loving every minute of it.

I will fish on this very day! Sunset

Regal Ware announces INTELON-RFTM Intelligent Cooking System

Regal Ware Worldwide recently introduced INTELON-RF*, the world's first, integrated, high-technology cooking system using Regal Ware's Intelligence Onboard* (INTELON*) cookware. The system uses wireless, Radio Frequency (RF) control and Regal Ware's 16XRF* recipe cards.

Regal Ware Worldwide is the world's first company to combine these advanced technologies into a single, integrated, high-technology cooking system.

Throughout history, cooking was based on time-and-temperature - and a cook who guessed right most of the time. The INTELON-RF system makes cooking easier because recipes are pre-programmed to cook perfectly.

Now, with the INTELON-RF cooking system, integrated high technology replaces time and temperature - resulting in perfectly cooked food. Regal Ware's perfect results happen easily for dishes ranging from the simplest cut of meat to the most exotic and complicated dishes in a cook's repertoire.

The INTELON-RF's core technology features Regal Ware INTELON cookware employing precise, platinum-tipped, temperature sensors communicating directly with an onboard, wireless, microprocessorenabled Radio Frequency (RF) antenna (Hence, INTELON-RF). The INTELON-RF system is a faster, easier, safer, more consistent - and more fun - way to cook. The system makes cooking healthier by eliminating most of the traditional oils and fats of other forms of food preparation. In addition, the precise nature of INTELON-RF system allows a cook to use less moisture retaining more of food's vitamins and minerals and making food much more flavorful.

The INTELON-RF system updates the cooking process 16 times per second when actuated by the DigiCook Recipe Cards. By virtually, "talking" to the food being prepared, the INTELON-RF system replaces the time-and-temperatures estimates of traditional cooking with precision to the point of perfection.

The result? Perfectly cooked food,

Regal Ware Worldwide", is America's leading manufacturer and marketer of high-quality stainless steel cookware. For more than 60 years, Regal Ware's highly skilled professionals have crafted cookware that defines world-class quality. In addition to superior stainless steel cookware, Regal Ware Worldwide produces commercial-grade coffee urns, high-end retail cookware and in-home water purification systems.

Wood Chipping Services Resumed

The Department of Public Works will resume wood chipping services beginning Monday, April 4th. Weather permitting. Service will continue each 1st and 3rd Monday of the month through late fall for those living in the Village of Kewaskum.

Please follow these requirements:

- 1. Place large (butt) end toward the street, at the curb.

Kewaskum Gridiron Club makes plans for 2005 season

While the arrival of March usually brings to mind the imminent arrival of Spring, and along with it waning harsh winter weather, the end of basketball and other winter sports seasons, it normally doesn't bring about thoughts of football.

Not so for members of the Kewaskum Gridiron Club's Board of Directors. Even though the 2004 youth football season ended after last October, the ground work had already begun to be put in place planning for the 2005 season by the end of December. This planning process typically includes monthly meetings at the local level, as well as having key Board members attending the required off season league meetings on a regular basis during the winter months.

With that, the Kewaskum Gridiron Club has announced they will hold their annual spring registration for the fall 2005 football season on Saturday, April 9th, 2005 at Hon E Kor Golf and Country Club, 1141 Riverview Drive, Kewaskum. Registration will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This registration will include both football players and cheerleaders.

Participation is open to youths entering the fifth thru eighth grade in the fall of 2005. There are strict residency requirements, as all participants must live in the Kewaskum School District.

A parent or legal guardian must accompany any child registering. This process includes completing the necessary forms, supplying signatures by both participants and parents, and paying the participation fees. All fees must be paid, and all forms must be completed before any player will be issued equipment next fall.

This year's participation fee remains the same as in recent years at $135 for football players and $35 for cheerlead-

The Kewaskum Gridiron Club, a local, all volunteer organization, is dedicated to teaching the fundamentals of full contact football to our area youth, to better prepare them to play at the high school level.

Because the Club is all voluntary, including Board members and coaches alike, they rely heavily on parents of participants, and interested community individuals for assistance keeping game days and other activities running smoothly. The parents of each participant are required to perform a volunteer duty on at least one home game day or other activity. There are several easy but necessary duties to choose from, ranging from concessions help to cleanup after games.

Over recent years the Gridiron Club has grown steadily from its beginnings in 1997 fielding only sixth, seventh, and eighth grade teams. In 2000, the Club expanded to include a fifth grade team. Our area youth are now able to compete for four full seasons, giving them valuable experience as they head toward their high school years.

In 2003 the club expanded once again to include a cheer-leading squad and this spring's registration will include prospective cheerleaders as well.

To assure yourself a spot on this year's team roster, be sure to register on April 9th. We would hate to see anyone miss out on the opportunity to participate by not registering in a timely fashion.

If you have questions, wish further information, or are unable to register on April 9th, please contact one of the following Gridiron Club officers: Joe Backhaus at 262-626-2327 or Jim Korth at 262-626-2520.

Spring burns planned to improve wildlife habitat

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources is proposing to conduct burns during April and early May on lands in southeastern Wisconsin. Burn sites typically range in size from one to 60 acres. About 1,000 acres in total may be burned.

Prescribed or controlled burns are used to increase plant diversity and stem density on grasslands, for site preparation for seeding warm season grasses, to set back undesirable woody vegetation or other invasive species, and to improve waterfowl brood and migration habitat. A primary goal on upland sites is to improve nesting habitat for bird species such as mallards, blue-winged teal, pheasants, bobolinks, dickcissels and grasshopper sparrows. Burning is also conducted on wetland sites where levels have been drawn down to improve habitat for waterfowl and other wildlife by providing more areas of open water and a larger variety of wetland plants.

In Washington and Dodge

Counties potential burn sites are located at the Theresa, Allenton and Jackson Wildlife Areas and the Loew Lake Unit of the Kettle Moraine State Forest. In Ozaukee County burns will take place on Harrington Beach State Park, Havenwoods and at Environmental Center in Milwaukee County. Burns may also be conducted on other sites on private and public land in Washington and Ozaukee

This type of project does not have the potential to cause significant adverse environmental impacts and the Department has made a preliminary determination that an environmental impact statement will not be required.

Burn proposals may be reviewed at the Pike Lake DNR office, 3544 Kettle Moraine Road, Hartford, WI 53027. Questions or comments regarding the burns should be directed to wildlife management staff at the Pike Lake office, telephone 262-670-3409.

Indians place 5th, 7th in first Public information track test of the season meeting planned

BY JUDY HARLOW STATESMAN CORRESPONDENT jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

One first and four second places highlighted the efforts of the Kewaskum High girls and boys track teams at the annual Bob Buel Memorial Washington County Indoor Track Meet held in West Bend on March 22.

The lone first place was posted by sophomore Sam Droese, who won the high jump with a leap of 4 feet, 8 inches (4-8), helping the girls team to a fifth place in the seven-team competition with 45.5 points.

With several of their key performers on family vacations, the boys came in last with just 20 points, and Luke Herriges contributed nearly half of those points with his second place in the high jump.

Herriges, a junior letter winner, cleared 6-0, a nice start for him in the 2005 campaign.

The winner of the boys competition was powerful Germantown, which used five firsts and a 1-2 finish by A. Schlies and K. Reynolds in the 50-yard high hurdles to pile up 153 points, 63 ahead of West Bend East, another perennial power in the sport.

Slinger came in third with 82, followed by West Bend West at 64; Kettle Moraine Lutheran, 33; Hartford, 22; and then the Indians In the race for the girls title, it was West Bend West, paced by Megan Duwell, scoring the most points, 109. Three teams battled it out for second, with Slinger getting the nod with 83 points, 2.5 points ahead of Germantown and 3 points in front of Kettle Moraine Lutheran, which made a good showing despite it being the smallest school in the competition with under 400 students.

Kewaskum finished fifth, followed by West Bend East with 36 and Hartford, 28.

Jerry Gosa, the head coach of both the boys and girls programs at KHS, was obviously disappointed in his team finishes but not in the efforts of those athletes who are out for the sport and focusing on getting ready for the outdoor season.

Along with Droese's first place, Amanda Donath finished second in the 440 yard dash, with her clocking of 1:04.0, which was just .3 behind Duwell. Donath added a tie for third in the 213 where she needed 28.3 seconds to cover the distance, and what was especially nice about this race was KHS senior Lindsay Keller was the girl who was tied with her.

"Lindsay Kelly is running very well. She tied for third with Amanda," Gosa said, also praising Donath for her strong showing and pointing to Herriges' efforts in the high jump as a definite high point in the meet.

The Indians quartet of Keller, Katie Patterson, Jacque Kwaterski and Kelly Uelmen, also did well, finishing second behind Kettle Moraine Lutheran in the 6-lap relay. The Chargers' time was 2:15.8, with the Indians next at 2:20.8, .1 of a second ahead of West.

Patterson cleared 8 feet in the pole vault for a fourth place, and Crystal Treptow tied for fifth with her jump of 7-0.

The other two KHS places were a sixth in the 50-yard high hurdles by Elizabeth Potter (9.4) and a sixth by the 10-lap relay, which had a clocking of 4:29.6.

The boys had just five total places, including the second by Herriges. Garett Donath tied for second in the pole vault after clearing 11-6, and he added a fifth in the 440 with a time of 59.3.

Bob Gibson started off the season with a nice effort in the 2 mile, taking fifth with a time of 11:12.2, and junior Ross Stockhausen showed he will be a consistent place winner in the shot put after tossing the iron ball 44-101/2.

The girls were at the Oshkosh Lourdes Invitational on the UW-Oshkosh campus on Wednesday.

The public is invited to talk with Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources staff about Pike Lake master plan project on Wednesday, April 6 at the Hartford Recreation Center, 125 N. Rural Street. The meeting is an open-house format, and people can stop in anytime betweeen 3 and 7 p.m. to learn about the master planning process and provide input on the proposed vision statement and goals for the future management and development of the forest.

A planning team from the Department of Natural Resources, the Ice Age Park and Trail Foundation, and the Washington County Planning Department has conducted pre-planning work and collected natural resources and facility inventories. A draft plan will be available for public review and comment in August 2005.

The 688-acre Pike Lake Unit of the Kettle Moraine State Forest opened in 1971. A 1974 development plan outlines proposed facilities for the beach and picnic areas.

Gosse steps down as girls basketball coach

BY JUDY HARLOW STATESMAN CORRESPONDENT ibarlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Officials at Kewaskum High School are searching for a new girls varsity basketball coach after Jeff Gosse recently tendered his resignation, citing time restraints as a major reason he was stepping down.

"It's become a full time job," Gosse said about running a major program like basketball. "I just don't have the time (to devote to it)."

"The name of the game is that high school sports have really changed, and basketball is very popular right now" because the college and university teams in the state have been very successful, Gosse said. This puts more pressure on the high school programs to do well, and that takes time.

Gosse went on he was hired to be a teacher, not a coach, and currently he feels the coaching, especially considering he was heading two programs, "interferes with teaching."

Gosse, who teaches special education, coached the girls for the past two seasons and posted 4-17 records in both of them. This past season, the Lady Indians, who were hampered by illness and a few injuries, finished in a three-way tie for sixth place in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference after going 3-11.

Looking back over the two years, Gosse saw definite improvement of the skills of the girls. "I think we've seen the kids ... in terms of their efforts. That has improved," and, "the kids took pride in the physical type of ball we played."

"I give our girls credit. They battled through a lot (this past season)," Gosse said. "They learned a lot of valuable life lessons. That's my goal, that they become better people."

On the other side of the coin, Gosse said, "There were some things I'm disappointed in ... The kids don't come out (for the sport). That's discouraging."

Another reason Kewaskum is not successful in basketball, according to Gosse, is the girls do not put enough time into their games during the summer.

"Certain individuals did, yes, but as a whole, no," Gosse said about participating in camps and summer tournaments, indicating, "In the past you could get by with two or three kids doing it. Now whole teams are doing it."

Kewaskum had five seniors on the team this past season, but just one junior, meaning once again he had to bring up sophomores to fill out the varsity team.

"The problem is we continually rob the cradle," Gosse said. (The younger players) gave me great efforts, but they're just not ready yet. They're not able to develop with their classes."

The effect of moving younger players up to the varsity also filters down to the freshman and junior varsity programs. Kewaskum's JV team won just one game this season, and the freshman team won two games, according to Gosse, who said, "The kids are becoming frustrated. Maybe that's the reason they're not coming out."

Another reason, according to Gosse, is how specialized high school athletics has become, and he thinks that is wrong.

"I think that's a mistake. I think the kids should be playing all sports," Gosse said, because they only get a few years to compete in high school sports, and, "There are certain skills you pick up on in one sport that helps in another."

Gosse, who is currently preparing his fast-pitch team for its season-opener on Monday, said he would certainly endorse Dave Kraft, the current JV coach, for the varsity job.

"He (Kraft)is an excellent Xs and Os person, and he's paid his dues (here)," Gosse said.

KHS Athletic Director Jason Piittmann said Tuesday once the School Board accepts the resignation, he will be posting the opening.

"Obviously we want to get something in place as soon as possible but we also want to get the best candidate possible," he said.

KHS boys not at full strength for Oshkosh meet

Statesman Correspondent jharlow@kewaskumstatesman

Missing all three of their pole vaulters, the Kewaskum High boys track team was far from being at full strength for last week's UW-Oshkosh High School Indoor Invitational, which was held at the Kolf Center.

The Indians did manage to post five, top-10 finishes for 11 points and placed in a tie for 13th with Mayville in the Division 2 competition.

Five Eastern Wisconsin Conference schools competed in the meet, and Two Rivers hit the jackpot, claiming the team title after scoring 73 points, 13 more than runner-up Grafton, which is in the North Shore League.

Two other EW schools, New Holstein and Kiel placed eighth and ninth, respectively, after scoring 21.75 and 18 points, not that far in front of the Indians, who would have done better had Garett Donath been able to compete - he was away on a family vacation and if ace senior Eric Nass had not been inadvertently tripped in the fast heat of the Eric Nass was in the fastest heat and had just completed one lap (200 meters) and was with the leaders when he was tripped and went down hard on the track," KHS coach Jerry Gosa said. "He got up, but there went his chance of doing well and breaking the KHS indoor record."

Nass wound up placing 17th overall in the race with a time of 56 and .70 seconds (56.70), but he lost two to three seconds because of the fall, or he would have probably been among the top five.

Nass also finished just out of the money in the triple jump, going 39 feet, 5 inches (39-5), which was 10th overall and just four inches from the eighth spot.

The best place by any KHS athlete was the fourth by Luke Herriges in the high jump. He cleared 5-10 and lost out on third place by misses at lower heights. The fourth was worth five points for KHS.

Luke just had an average day," Gosa said, referring to the fact he had cleared 6-0 the previous week, and duplicating that mark would have meant a second place.

Taking a fifth place was Bob Gibson in the 3,200. Gibson, who also placed in the recent Bob Buel Memorial Indoor Meet in West Bend, was clocked in 10:47.26. His efforts earned the Indians four team

Also performing well was junior Ross Stockhausen, who added nearly four inches to his opening week effort of 44.101/2. At Oshkosh, his best in the shot was 45-2, which was good enough for seventh overall.

Ross did well in the shot put," Gosa said, pleased to see Stockhausen place in the first two meets of the season.

Other notable places included the 10th by the 4x400 relay team, which was clocked in 3:50.11. Runners in that Jake Sabel event included: was 16th in the long jump (17-5.25), while Zack VanWormer also placed 19th in the 400

"This definitely was not a great meet for us. We have a lot of work to do," Gosa said. "This was the first time we were there without any pole vaulters ... usually a strong area for us."

Kewaskum is scheduled to be at Plymouth for the outdoor opener on Thursday, April 7th (at 4 p.m.). Kiel is the third team slated to be in this. EW competition.

We need to have everyone back, and have some regular practices," Gosa said. "It's not as much fun competing with key people gone."
