Things 'up' in the Village of Kewaskum

By Andrew Kuehl
Managing Editor

The Kewaskum Village Board received some pleasing news at one of their recent meetings. Attendance at the village's community pool is the highest it's ever been and the library has seen a 40% increase in the number of library cards they have issued so far this year.

According to Butch Buddenhagen, June was an all time record breaker for the Kewaskum Community Pool that he has overseen for the last 20 years. He says 5,589 swimmers walked through the doors and used the facility. This breaks a 1988 record of 4,894.

The Kewaskum Community Pool will remain open through the end of August.

The Kewaskum Public Library also has had some breakthrough numbers in their circulation. Library director, Steev Baker has announced 4,600 items were circulated in June. He further stated that 47 new cards were issued. So far in 2005 the issuance of new cards is up by about 40%. The library's summer reading program also ended on a high note with 130 participants.

Also up is the amount of money saved on some village road projects. So far this year the village has come in about $40,000 under budget for the small road projects they completed this year.

With that savings Village Administrator Dan Schmidt asked the board for permission to complete a long-delayed road project and he got the ok.

The alley just off of Second Street that runs through Engelhardt & Sons truck lot and behind Brother's Restaurant will get a much needed facelift. The alley has been on the village's project list since 2001.

Payne & Dolan will mill and remove from the site the existing asphalt in the area and then repave the alley.

The price tag is expected to come in under $15,000.

School board hires district superintendent

By Andrew Kuehl
Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

The Kewaskum Board of Education took a step forward Monday night, August 8, at their regular meeting. Board members hired an interim replacement for Wayne Graczyk who left the district almost four months ago.

Scott Peterson, of Grafton, will work on a part-time basis for the school district at a rate of $289 per day. He begins his contract on Wednesday, August 17.

Paul Reichert, Business Manager for the district says "If Peterson works three days per week until the end of the school year, the estimated cost of his salary and fringe benefits is approximately $44,000. If he works five days per week, the estimated cost of salary and benefits is $73,000"

He continued, "The budget includes $136,400 for the administrator's position, so there is a potential budget savings of between $63,400 and $92,400."

The board of education chose Peterson out of a pool of three possible candidates.

The search for a permanent superintendent was moved a step closer at a work session before the regular meeting. Officials met with The Bickert Group who will conduct a search for the new superintendent.

The first step in that process will be a September 12 meeting where The Bickert Group will go over a time line and planning steps for the search with the district's leadership team and the board.

Anything Goes will be '05 KHS musical production

The Kewaskum School Board approved this year's Kewaskum High School musical production, "Anything Goes," which will be presented to the public on November 4 and 5 at 7:30 pm.

"Anything Goes" is an amusing story wrapped around one of Cole Porter's magical scores. Famous Cole Porter songs in the production include "It's De-Lovely," "Friendship," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "All Through the Night," "Anything Goes," "You're the Top" and "Blow, Gabrielle, Blow."

Before this show starts, our hero and heroine, Billy Crocker and Hope Harcourt, meet at a party one hot summer night in the early 1930's. Hope is a pretty girl, with an overbearing mother who wants her daughter to marry an English Lord. Billy is a young man just beginning his career on Wall Street.

A leisurely drive through Central Park and a chaste kiss put the finishing touches on an evening that speaks of promise. Somehow, Hope slips away without giving her name and address to Billy.

The story begins at the New York sailing of the Ocean Greyhound AMERICA bound for England. Everything takes place aboard the ship. It is customary for members of the press to take photographs of the passengers for the "Society" sections of newspapers before a ship sets sail. Of particular interest to the ship's reporters is Reno Sweeney, famed Evangelist-turned-Nightclub singer, with her four beautiful Angels - backup singers. Unfortunately she appears to be the only celebrity on board.

Farmington pleased with Stern fire cleanup

By Amy Swanson
Statesman Correspondent
aswanson@kewaskumstatesman

The Town of Farmington is pleased with clean-up efforts on the David Stern property. According to Gary Schreiber, Farmington Town Chairman, Stern has taken three loads of debris off of his property, and hopes to be finished with the clean up by next spring. Schreiber said clean-up efforts are being monitored and a letter will be drafted soon notifying Stern of the deadline to have the property completely cleaned up.

The Stern's were victims of a devastating fire earlier in the year.

Other passengers photographed include Elisha Whitney (Wall Street executive and Billy Crocker's boss), Sir Evelyn Oakleigh (a rich English gentleman), Miss Hope Harcourt (American debutante and Evelyn's fiancée), Mrs. Wadsworth Harcourt (Hope's mother), Bishop Henry Dobson (a minister), and Ching and Ling (two of Bishop Dobson's Chinese converts).

Billy Crocker comes aboard to drop off his boss' passport. On board he runs into Reno, who is an old friend. Billy, as it turns out, is the same young man who drove around Central Park with Hope Harcourt, and who has been searching for her unsuccessfully ever since.

Reno greets Billy warmly, when the deck stewards begin to call, "All ashore that's going ashore." Billy starts for the gangplank and as he steps on it, a girl appears, the splendid girl with whom he rode around Central Park. "Are you sailing?" she asks. "You bet I'm sailing" is his reply. And the ship sets sail.

The rest of the production is a tangled musical web of delightful fun, disguises, and mistaken identities, as Billy figures out how to stay on board ship and tries to win his newly-found love interest away from her fiancée, much to the chagrin of her mother.

"Anything Goes" is one of Cole Porter's best and one musical presentation coming to the Kewaskum High School stage that you won't want to miss.

Population increase calls for additional 4-H group

The 4-H program is continuing to gain in popularity in the Kewaskum area as a group of parents is wishing to start yet another group for area youth. A meeting is planned for those interested in becoming a part of the group.

The Washington County 4-H office gave the nod for the group to move forward. As population numbers rise the need for additional groups does also. The group will serve children in the Kewaskum School District. Primarily in the Towns of Kewaskum and Farmington. The meeting for interested people is on Thursday, August 18. The meeting will start at 6:30 pm inside the Farmington Town Hall, 9244 Highway 144 It will end at 8 pm.

Interested parties who can not attend the meeting are urged to call Tracy Lawrenz at (262)692-9638.

Osceola holds monthly meeting, sets hearing

By Nancy Durn
Special to The Statesman

The Osceola Township held their monthly meeting and decided that another public hearing pertaining to the proposed citation ordinance and constable jurisdiction and duties will be scheduled for August 24, 2005, at 7 pm at the town hall.

Town Clerk, Barb Klumpy-an, encouraged everyone that has not yet gone through the state elections board mandated reregistering process to do so before the next election. If this is not done, names will not be on the voter computer sheet.

Klumpy-an requested that residents with questions should contact her for instructions. As a final reminder before the next election, a post card is being sent out to all voters, notifying them where to vote and polling hours.

Under old business it was again discussed about advertising bids for the 1958 Oliver tractor and loader. Jim Walter will take care of this. It was then suggested that the tractor be available for viewing. Chairman LaVerne Immel will ask Armstrong Repair if the town could park it there.

The town board approved hiring Ralph Kutz for town work.

There was no Mill Park report. The Water Patrol reported 141 hrs of patrol time, 24 citations, four warnings, five boater assists, and one boater accident with no injuries.

There was discussion about black topping, the installation of signs, replacing stolen signs, downed trees on Happy Hollow, cleaning out culverts and ditches and tree trimming in Chinatown by stop signs and overgrown brush in roads that are hazardous to the school buses.

Before the meeting closed, supervisor, Jim Walter suggested the preliminary budget and snow plow bidding be put on the next agenda.

Too many folks go through life running from something that isn't after them.

Village receives $772 from Kewaskum 4-H group

Savannah Wendelborn of the Kewaskum 4-H group presented Kewaskum Village President Matt Heiser with a check for $772. The group raised the money through various fundraisers throughout the year. The money will be used to replace some aging village Christmas decorations.

National Exchange Bank & Trust brat fry earns $700

Plans for Fillmore's Sesquicentennial progressing

Master Chef and Vice President John Klotz and Assistant Vice President Julie Roth teamed up with Adopt-a-Family volunteers to make this brat fry a success.

A brat fry hosted by National Exchange Bank & Trust earned $700 to benefit the Campbellsport community Adopt-A-Family Program. The brat fry was held July 29 at the bank's Campbellsport Office, 114 N. Fond du Lac Ave.

The funds will be used for a local food pantry offered by the Adopt-A-Family program to purchase food for those with financial need. Funds will also be used to assist families in need for clothing and monthly expenses.

An avid supporter of educational and youth activities, National Exchange Bank & Trust is an independent bank with six locations in Fond du Lac County.

There is a theory which states that if ever anybody discovers exactly what the universe is for and why it is here, it will instantly disappear and be replaced by something even more bizarre and inexplicable. There is another theory which states that this has already happened.

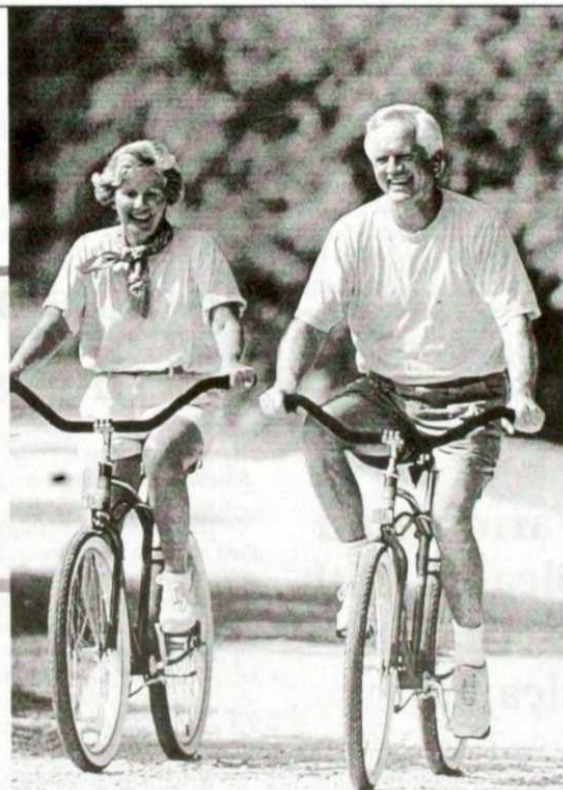

Those interested in helping to plan the Fillmore sesquicentennial are encouraged to attend another committee meeting on Tuesday, August 16 at 7:00 pm in Turner Hall.

The commemorative book committee is especially interested in anyone willing to help with the book or share old photos, facts and memories about Fillmore. Assistance will also be needed for other committees such as the children's activity area, genealogy display, food and beverage, publicity, old timer's baseball game, historical tour, cemetery tour, and the Saxonia House including an encampment and beer-making demonstration.

Jim Dieringer will chair the event. If anyone has questions he can be reached at 262-692-9150. Other questions can be directed to Luella Pufahl at 692-2206 or Kathy Weinreich at 692-2327.

"The ball is rolling, there's lots of exciting things in the works," stated Weinreich.

Peace U.C.C. PIGNIC 'Spectacular'

Many attendees of Peace United Church of Christ's Pignic spent some time in a line for the great meal. The event was co-chaired by Bill Stangl, Karen Kletti and Gayle Van Ess. Van Ess stated the event "went spectacular, we had wonderful support from area businesses." State budget brings new, changed benefits for Veterans MADISON— The budget bill signed into law by Governor Jim Doyle as 2005 Wisconsin Act 25 provides significant new benefits to state veterans programs and services.

"The budget measures included by the Legislature and signed into law by the Governor include advances for veterans, surviving spouses and dependents of those who die in the line of duty, and the spouses and children of veterans left disabled by their military service that are among the most significant in the 60-year history of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs," said Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs Secretary John A. Scocos.

Among the budget measures for state veterans:

- Effective for the Fall semester, the "Wisconsin G.I. Bill" will provide 50% tuition waivers for veterans who were Wisconsin residents when they entered active military duty, and free tuition for spouses and dependents of veterans who die or are disabled as a result of their military service.

- Effective with next year's tax forms, Wisconsin will provide a new property tax credit to elderly, totally disabled eligible veterans and their eligible unremarried surviving spouses equal to 100% of the property tax paid on their home.

- The Veterans Educational Grant and Assistance to Needy Veterans programs were created by consolidating and modifying existing grant programs.

- State taxpayers will see a new way to support Wisconsin's veterans and military families with a designated donation line on next year's individual and corporate state income tax forms.

- A Gold Star license plate will be available for immediate family members of service members who die in combat while serving in the U.S. Armed Forces. Another new plate to show support for Wisconsin's veterans will also be created. Fees from the new plate and the current veterans' plates will be donated to the Veterans Trust Fund.

- Staffing for the new 120-bed skilled nursing facility at the Wisconsin Veterans Home at Union Grove.

- New funding for the "Mission: Welcome Home" outreach initiative, a housing voucher demonstration project for chronically homeless veterans, and matching funds for a homeless veterans transitional program in Chippewa Falls.

"We greatly appreciate the Governor and the Legislature for passing and enacting these measures," said Scocos.

Additional information about the budget items for veterans can be found on the WDVA website, at www.dva.state.wi.us.

COUNTY NEWS BRIEFS

Wash. County says yes, no to Cabela's

After enticing the Washington County Board with plans to build a $70 million retail store in the Polk and Richfield Townships the county board fell a few votes short of approving the borrowing of $4 million for an incentive for big box retailer, Cabela's.

Though the actual vote was 20-10 in favor of the proposal, it required a three-fourths majority to make it a reality.

County Board Chairman, Ken Miller, who introduced the proposal has said he does not believe the issue is dead in the water.

Miller and proponents of the proposal thought the county could repay the debt over a 15 year period with sales tax revenue generated by the retailer.

The board also voted 20-10 to adopt another resolution to give Cabela's a $500,000 grant from the county's reserve fund.

New municipal building could be on horizon for C-Sport

The Campbellsport Village Board has requested their financial advisors to look into borrowing $1.45 million to complete an engineering study for a new municipal building among other items.

Dean Uelmen, Village President stated that the advisors will then report back to the village board with borrowing options.

Other items included in the proposal are work on various village water/sewer utilities and a new building for the Public Works Department at the Wastewater Treatment Facility.

Glacier Hills Credit Union to Break Ground for New Home Office

Glacier Hills Credit Union is breaking ground at 2100 S Main Street on August 18 for their new home office in West Bend. The ceremony, which begins at 5 pm, will celebrate new opportunities to help and serve the members of the community.

The Glacier Hills volunteer Board of Directors decided to build a new home office to better serve their existing membership and meet the demands of continued growth. Highlights of the new Glacier Hills home office include a drive-up ATM, expanded lobby, fireplace and new greeter station.

"We want our new home office to be a place where people feel comfortable and welcome," says Degenhardt.

The building was designed by the Zimmerman Design Group and will be constructed by Avant-Garde, LLC.

Glacier Hills Credit Union is a community-based financial cooperative. They were founded in 1934 by West Bend Company employees. They merged with several other credit unions, including Hartford Community Credit Union and Pro-Tec Employees Credit Union in Grafton. Today they serve over 12,000 members in Washington, Ozaukee, Waukesha, Milwaukee and parts of Dodge and Fond du Lac counties.

Refreshments and snacks will be served at the groundbreaking. Members of the community are welcome to attend.

C-Sport man has OWI charge dropped

In an interesting court case out of Fond du Lac County 37-year-old Alan Ernst has had a previous OWI charge dropped due to a technicality.

The case, which saw Ernst being charged with his fourth OWI has now changed the precedent for drunken driving case in the state.

In August of 2002 Ernst was being charged with his fifth OWI charge. During the course of that case his attorney argued that Ernst could not be convicted of the fifth OWI because his rights were not protected during the fourth conviction.

Because the judge in the fourth conviction did not explain all the ramifications of him representing himself he could not be convicted for his fifth offense.

In a July ruling the state Supreme Court stated that Ernst would have to prove that he was not fully made aware of his rights when he decided to defend himself.

At another hearing held on August 2 Ernst and his attorney withdrew their motion to reduce the charge to Ernst's fourth OWI from his fifth.

The Washington County Council of the American Legion presented its awards for Law Officer, Firefighter, EMT and Legionnaire of the Year at the June 25 meeting at the Jackson Community Hall. PERSPECTIVES

My thoughts exactly

By Andrew Kuehl
The Statesman Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman.com

Graczyk's Gone.....

Get over it!

I am reminded of the bumper sticker I saw on a few cars shortly after the movie Titanic, came out at the theater. It read, "The boat sank.. Get over it!"

Should we as citizens of the Kewaskum School District take heed at that same advice? Graczyk's gone, Get over it!

Admittedly, taxpayers in the Kewaskum School District are furious at the school board for giving Wayne Graczyk over $100,000 to retire a year before he was scheduled to. Some of them are so riled up that they stripped the board of their pay for the year at the annual meeting.

I was mad too, from a journalist's standpoint, you couldn't have asked for a better guy to work with. I can't imagine anyone saying they had a "difference" with him. Wayne was my friend and will always be my friend, I wish him much success. BUT, that was my opinion, I didn't have him as an employee like the board did or a boss like the principals of our schools did.

Since this whole fiasco started, with chivy, he said - she said, with a side of animosity, a lot of attention has been paid to this crown of thorns decision that is done and over with. No matter what we do, Wayne isn't coming back, the money paid to him will not come back and if the school board hasn't given the exact reason for his early departure, they aren't able to and will not be giving it anytime soon.

Only the members of the school board know exactly what happened with Graczyk. Only they know what can and can't be released about what happened. Maybe they did err, maybe they did not. If they screwed up in your opinion, great, if they were correct in asking Graczyk to retire, great. Ultimately, he's gone so let's focus on the future.

On September 1, a few shy of 2,000 children will walk through the doors at our various schools. They are what matters and they are the reason we have a school board. For those kids, it's a new year, for many a fresh start from the mistakes they made the year prior. Maybe we should give our school board that same fresh start.

By the time this column is read, our school board will have chosen Graczyk's interim replacement. Let's welcome him and let's hope that he can work with our school board and our school board can work with him.

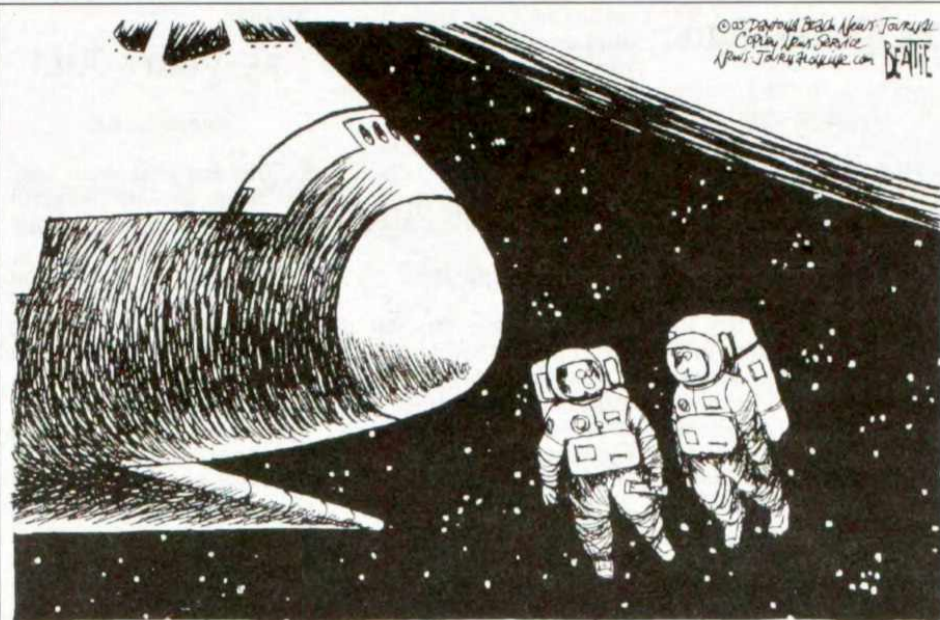

In December, those who thought the decision to request Graczyk to leave was a bad idea can run in April's election and be a part of the hiring of a new superintendent. Is a recall this late in the year even beneficial? In order to even remove one board member it will take over 1,500 signatures. Will the board members who are up for re-election even run again? I would highly doubt it.

By next year at this time, we'll have Graczyk's official replacement. That will be a long process, which the community can have a giant say in.

Maybe we community members who are unhappy with the way Graczyk's buy-out went down can admit we were wrong for not paying attention to what was going on and questioning things before they happened. This is our opportunity to stand up and be heard for the future of our district.

Our district, just like many others, makes mistakes. Maybe this was a mistake, maybe it wasn't, but at this juncture in the road, let's decide what it is, announce it, and then move forward.

Great opportunities to help others seldom come, but small ones surround us every day.

"It could be worse . . . we could be trying to repair the Iraqi constitution."

To the Editor:

I have been following with interest the articles and letters to the editor regarding the resignation of Wayne Graczyk and the decisions made by the school board. I have been an involved parent in this district for 18 years now. I have volunteered in the classroom, been active in the various PTOs, run fundraisers, sat on committees for the hiring of administrators and teachers, served on numerous other committees and regularly attended the school board meetings until another commitment fell on the same evening. I have worked side by side with Jeanne Goeden, Neal Weare, Wayne Graczyk and other board members. I have sat side by side with Gordie Dickmann at our daughter's athletic events. What I found out from these experiences was that things usually looked different from the "inside" than they did when I gained my information from the papers or hearsay.

I came to respect everyone I worked with. I saw their dedication to our school district, the many, many hours they dedicated to research, attending conferences and meetings and their desire to do what they felt was their very best for our district. I did not feel that any of them were in their positions to gain recognition or be in the limelight, but rather because they wanted to be involved in this school district and make it better for their kids, grandkids and my kids.

I have a few questions for the voters of this district. Where were you when these people who you want to recall were at meeting after meeting week after week for the sake of this district? Where were you when I was the only parent or one of maybe a handful at the school board meetings?

Where were you when the PTO didn't know if it was worthwhile to have meetings anymore because no one showed up or had time to attend? Where are you when the high school principal has her Parent Principal Roundtable and 4 or 5 parents show up out of several hundred? Where are you when they are looking for people to help and it is always the same few doing all the volunteer work?

I have noticed that when someone claims a supposed injustice has been done or what looks to be a poor decision has been made, people show up en masse to "hurl insults, threaten, express their extreme distaste, give them an ear full" (all terms used in the Statesman regarding this situation). Have any of these masses ever thanked, praised, come alongside or offered to help these same people? I would guess not many.

Not in my experience anyway.

I don't know the details of what happened here.

Neither do most of you. Have you ever made a bad decision that you later regretted? I have. Have you ever been between a rock and a hard place and neither decision seemed good but a deci-son had to be made? I have. My point: we are all human, we all make mistakes. Do we want to be crucified, humiliated, shunned and thrown out when that happens? I don't.

I am trusting that all the names I've seen in the paper shouting "Recall" and all the members of the newly formed NKM CRG will have their names on the ballots for school board elections, which, by the way, will cost this district how much?

We may actually have a decision to make in voting since there would be more names than positions available - something that also doesn't happen on a regular basis. Oh, and don't forget, you will be volunteering hundreds of hours for free with little or no thanks but lots of critics.

The Little Folks visit Milwaukee Zoo New Classes offered at UWWC this fall

On July 20th, approximately 75 children, teachers and parents loaded a bus and headed to the Milwaukee County Zoo. The trip was part of the daycare's summer field trip series. It was planned to coincide with a two week unit the children were working on called "Zoo Animals." The children have learned about different animals and their natural habitats. Each adult was paired up with two or three children and allowed to venture off to visit the animals. One attraction was the Sting Ray exhibit where the children could place their hands in a giant pool and touch, pet and feed the sting rays. The little folks were also able to pet and feed the goats, enjoy the train ride and visit the gift shop.

KHS students cook out

Outdoor cooking is a popular unit in Single Living classes at Kewaskum High School. The students shown above are using a new grill that was skillfully built by the Horbas family. Christine Horbas is the principal at KHS. The new grill replaces a recently retired age-old grill crafted by Dave Stradtman "back in the day." This group of eighth hour students completed a series of five labs over a week of class periods. St. Joseph's rolls out the welcome mat

Kewaskum Fire Department EMTs left to right, Stephanie Kirst, Sandy Hahn and Craig Garbisch prepare to move a patient from the Silverbrook location. Kewaskum was one of many area departments to assist the hospital in their evacuation drill that moved the patients from one location to the other.

The sounds of moving vans, ambulances, squad cars and limousines added to the synergy of St. Joseph's Community Hospital's move on Sunday to their new home on Pleasant Valley Road and Highway 45.

At 7 a.m. the emergency room at the Silverbrook Avenue site closed its doors and at the same time, the emergency room doors at the new facility on Pleasant Valley Road opened its doors to decades of service.

"We are here!" said Deb Lauenstein, Vice President of Human Resources of St. Joseph's Community Hospital. "We are really here and on site.... We are fully staffed and ready to go. The dress rehearsals are over."

After a year-and-a-half of transition planning, hours of technology training and several dress rehearsals, the new $55 million St. Joseph's Hospital is open for business.

"It's a beautiful day," said Lou Jantzen, Project Director for CG Schmidt, who built the hospital brick by brick. "When you think of how far in advance this day was picked, it's just great."

Starting at 8 a.m., 29 patients were transported to the new facility with the help of EMS providers from the Allenton Fire Department, Germantown Fire Department, Jackson Fire Department, Kewaskum Fire Department, LifeStar EMS, Newburg Fire Department, Ohana EMS, Random Lake Fire Department, and Richfield Fire Department. At 11 a.m., the last patient was transported from the Silverbrook site to St. Joseph's new house.

Harvey Quandt, a member of the St. Joseph's Hospital maintenance staff removes the signage at the Silverbrook location promptly at 7 a.m.

Moving trucks from Coakley Brothers Commercial Moving service lined Ridge Road, waiting to load cargo for the new hospital.

Sheilah and Steve Whittham experienced the move firsthand. Sheilah went into labor around midnight on Sunday, Aug. 7. Steve Whittham said at 6:59 a.m. his wife was transported to the Pleasant Valley site and continued her labor. At 2:35 pm, Sunday, Sierra Michele Renee Whittham was the first baby born at the new facility.

The Whitthams joined the Fox and Beauregard families as the first guests of the even newer New Life Center. Tiffany Fox had delivered twin boys, Brett and Brady on August 4 and Theresa Beauregard delivered son, Zachary on August 5 at the Silverbrook site.

"The people here have been very helpful," Steve Whittham said. "It's pretty nice." Even after many hours of labor, Sheilah Whittham agreed.

The new facility was built using evidence-based design principles to reduce the potential for errors, improve patient and staff safety, minimize stress and fatigue, increase efficiency and improve patient outcomes. The hospital also is one of the first fully standardized facilities in the country, which research has shown to improve safety and reduce errors. The new 180,000-square-foot hospital houses 80 beds, and features a modern Emergency Care Center, ICU, radiology department and New Life Center with state-of-the-art technology.

"It's an exceptional facility," said John Reiling, President and CEO of St. Joseph's Hospital. "It's the first hospital in the country...in the world whose whole design was centered around quality and the safety of patients." We thought about the quality and safety of patient care every step of the way."

Synergy's SWAT team was also on hand to ensure a smooth transition. Lauenstein said that members of the multi-disciplinary team were available to solve developing problems. Wearing T-shirts that read, "Let Me Drop Everything So I Can Solve Your Problems," the SWAT team's leader Rahue Rehahi, Administrative Fellow from the University of Minnesota said everything with the move was going well. Kim Pemble, CIO of Synergy Health agreed. "It's terribly exciting. All of this hard work from so many people and today we are in a hospital providing patient care. The staff has worked around the clock in the past several months in preparing for today." Lauenstein said approximately 500 Synergy staff helped with Sunday's move. "Everything went really well. It was so well planned, that we have back-ups for everything. We have back-ups for back-ups...we even have back-ups if the sub sandwiches don't arrive on time for lunch."

Moving into the 21st century was a big part of the move to the new hospital campus according to Janet Ford, Public Relations Director for the hospital. Early Bird

by Rodney Rothman

Simon & Schuster c.2005 $23.00

early bird

a memoir of premature retirement

rodney rothman

Assuming that you started working at age fifteen and stopped working when you were 70 years old, by the time you hung up your work clothes for the last time, you would have hit the alarm 13,750 mornings. Assuming that you had 2 weeks' vacation in each of those 55 years, you would have clocked in some 110,000 hours.

Now go have a great day.

Really, you're probably just like the rest of us working stiffs: you can't wait til retirement. When Rodney Rothman found himself suddenly out of a job, he figured it would be a great time to begin his Golden Years so he moved to Florida. In his new book "Early Bird", he tells what it's like to become a retiree at age 28.

Rothman, who is a writer, was working on a television show in Los Angeles. The show was cancelled, and Rothman decided that instead of admitting to unemployment, he thought that he would officially retire, at least for awhile. A little break might be nice. Rothman headed for Boca Raton, Florida.

Despite the as much as sixty year age difference and the incessant "Whose grandson are you?" questions, Rothman quickly settled in to his retirement, although he found that acceptance in the Pool Group clique wasn't easy and the women never did let him play canasta. The men were more accepting, Rothman learned. He soon felt welcome and he began making friends.

So what does someone do with all their time when they retire? Are all the myths about aging true? Rothman immerses himself into the life of a retiree and finds out that life is pretty good. He also learns some important things about The Golden Years: there are thousands of clubs that people can join to keep themselves busy. Some seniors are better athletes than are their teenage grandkids. Old men and fourteen-year-old boys have strong libidos in common. It's difficult for a nice Jewish boy to find love, even in the presence of all those Yentas. People can be cruel at any age. And it's hard to remember that the retiree-friends one makes at 28 are not going to be around when one is ready to retire for real.

"Early Bird" is a cute book and there were times when I giggled aloud at it, but something is missing from Rothman's story. It could be that there were a whole lot of loose ends left untied at the end of this book. Rothman makes readers care about the retirees he met, and, with the exception of one woman's fate, he leaves us hanging. What happened to all those other people he befriended? Did Margaret get to keep her cats? Is Amy still cracking jokes? Where is Arnie now? Why didn't Rothman include some sort of afterward to put our minds to rest?

If you read "Early Bird" - and you should, if you're retired now or ever hope to be retired - be ready to want more from Rothman.

Let's hope he's working on a sequel to this book.

BUSINESS NEWS

Lipman named as chairman at WB Savings Bank

Raymond F. Lipman

Raymond F. Lipman was named Chairman of the West Bend Savings Bank Board of Directors at their July 20, 2005 meeting. Mr. Lipman has served as CEO and President of the Bank since 1994; he has been a part of West Bend Savings Bank since 1976.

"Ten years ago," according to Lipman, "management and the Board of Directors approved a long term plan challenging the bank to become a high profile, community, commercial bank, while at the same time retaining market share leadership as a consumer retail bank. At that time, the Bank was $145 million in assets with six branch office locations.

"Today, West Bend Savings Bank is right on line with that goal, with close to $400 million in assets and 15 branch locations, and three more branches planned for the near future. Our balance sheet is that of a commercial business bank with 37% of our assets in business loans, while home loans account for 31%."

According to Attorney and West Bend Savings Bank

Board member James A. Spella, "Ray is very well suited for the position of Chairman of the Board for the Bank; he has the experience, the leadership and the visionary skills necessary for the position. The Bank lost a great leader with the retirement of (Richard A.) Dick Larson, so we're very fortunate to have Ray there and available to step right in."

Mr. Lipman took over as President and CEO in 1994, when former President and CEO Richard A. Larson, Sr. retired. Mr. Larson retired from the position of Chairman at the end of June this year, leading to the appointment of Mr. Lipman as Chairman by the Board at their July meeting. "Ray is a very strong, visionary leader for the bank," states Sue Garman, Senior VP of Operations. "He's very good at asking 'what if,' then challenging all of us to keep up with him. I've worked with him for over 20 years and still admire his insights and enthusiasm for the Bank."

The Bank is still a retail market share leader in Washington County with nearly 30,000 retail checking account customers, and it is a leading home loan lender in all the markets it serves. All of the mortgage banking operations of the bank will soon be moving to the new Home Loan Center, nearing completion in downtown West Bend. "We need the Home Loan Center so we can expand and meet the demands of the people in Washington County who turn to us for their home financing," Lipman told a group of the bank's senior managers when the idea was unveiled

West Bend Chamber continues to 'create opportunity'

By Kim Swisher
Executive Vice President, West Bend Area Chamber of Commerce

As the Chamber continues our mission to "create opportunities for commerce and community," we have directed some of our efforts to focus on economic development. You may be surprised to learn that tourism is an economic development tool, and we believe this would be very beneficial to our area.

The Wisconsin Department of Tourism estimates that travelers spent $11.8 billion last year throughout our state. Washington County ranked 21st in the state, obtaining approximately $133,195,074 of tourism spending. While we have moved up the list over the years, the Chamber sees significant opportunities for us to continue to grow.

We recently hosted a community tourism meeting to discuss our current promotional activities, and to pro-more than a year ago. He believes that doing business with West Bend Savings Bank provides a unique customer service experience. As a mutual thrift charter, the Bank's Board of Directors' primary responsibility is to the customers of the bank, rather than stockholders. Said Lipman, "This makes a difference in the world as far as West Bend Savings Bank's competitiveness and service compared to other banks, and this, at least in part, accounts for the exceptional growth that the bank has experienced in recent years."

pose new marketing strategies that we think will place West Bend in a position to garner new business.

I am often asked what West Bend could market to tourists. We don't have water parks and we're not a destination community such as Door County - so what can we offer? As you drive through town, take notice of the little things. A fast growing tourism segment is "eco-tourism" - low impact, non-motorized sports such as hiking and biking. We are poised to offer many activities to this demographic. We are a city of parks; we are in the process of preparing our Rails to Trails; we are home to a unique Riverwalk, and we are near the Ice Age Trail. We offer beautiful landscapes including Lac Lawrann and Riveredge Nature Center. We also have the opportunity to market our area, as Washington County is home to many beautiful parks that offer amenities including wooded trails, lakes, camping and beautiful golf courses.

As we consider the variety of outdoor activities we can offer to visitors, we are also very aware of the indoor activities we can offer. We are home to unique cultural offerings including the West Bend Art Museum and the Washington County Historical Society, and we are close in proximity to the Schauer Arts Center. These gems offer us an opportunity to invite visitors for evening or weekend get-aways.

The Chamber's goal is to create packages that will appeal to many visitors throughout our region. We believe someone who comes for one purpose may be interested in other activities. We also think that people who come for a specific event, such as a wedding or sports tournament, could be invited back to explore other activities.

Our marketing efforts for the upcoming year will focus on promoting our natural resources, our local businesses and our cultural activities. We are also focusing on Downtown West Bend, highlighting our retail, dining and entertainment businesses. We have taken note of the trend that people enjoy strolling historic downtowns.

We are also partnering with our neighboring communities, recognizing that by working together our area will benefit more when we combine our resources.

We look forward to working with our area businesses, and welcoming new visitors to our community. We have created a new website that will showcase the many amenities that we have to offer. Please take a moment to visit our new tourism website: www.visitwestbend.com.

For more information on our tourism activities or Membership with the West Bend Area Chamber, please contact me at (262) 338-2666. Membership information may also be found at the Chamber's website - www.wbachamber.org.

Fire Chief Mark Groeschel reported that the fireworks were a big success and that no problems were encountered. The display lasted for approximately 45 minutes. Some concerns that were noted were tarps and blankets placed on the hill as early as they were. It maybe should be limited by policy not to save spots on the hill until a specific time preceding the event. It was also noted it would be a good idea to try and limit carry-ins. It was suggested that a way to ask for donations to cover the cost of the fireworks should be explored.

Vietnam: The War of the Big Battalions

Wisconsin Secretary of Veterans Affairs

Our objective in South Vietnam has never been the annihilation of the enemy. It has been to bring about a recognition in Hanoi that its objective - taking over the South by force - could not be achieved. -- President Lyndon B. Johnson, Address to the Nation, March 31, 1968.

President Johnson's mild-sounding policy of "containment" in Vietnam belied the harsh reality that American troops were fighting some of the most brutal battles in the history of American warfare.

Between 1964 and 1968, American troops poured into Vietnam, reaching half a million soldiers. North Vietnam responded pouring numerous divisions of its regular army into the South. As a result, combat intensified into a number of major battles and violent jungle encounters backed on both sides by an array of modern and increasingly deadly weapons. American strategy during this period sought to encourage the North Vietnamese to engage in large battles, and, by using superior firepower, destroy them.

This year, as we honor our Vietnam veterans 30 years after the end of the Vietnam War, it is important to acknowledge the sacrifices and challenges U.S. soldiers faced. In the South Pacific in World War II, the average infantryman saw about 40 total days of fighting. In Vietnam, the average infantryman saw 240 days - thanks largely to helicopter tactics that took soldiers rapidly from one confrontation to the next.

One in 10 Americans who served became a casualty. Battle death rates were similar to other wars, but the number of crippling wounds was 300 percent higher than in World War II, a statistic partly due to the excellent field medical units who saved soldiers who would have died during World War II, and partly due to a vast array of new weapons and sophisticated mines laced throughout the jungles of Vietnam.

Unfortunately, while Johnson was trying to "contain" the Viet Cong battalions of guerillas in the South, waves of NVA soldiers were thrown at the Americans, resulting in significant losses, and incredible battles.

The Siege of Khe Sanh, for example, demonstrated that "containment" was, in fact, an all-out war.

In 1967, Gen. William Westmoreland fortified the Marine base at Khe Sanh near the border of North Vietnam and Laos in order to give U.S. troops a platform to raid the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the logistical lifeblood of the Viet Cong war effort.

North Vietnamese regulars launched a surprise attack against Khe Sanh, hammering it with mortar and rocket shells that destroyed most of the base's ammunition and fuel supplies. It was just the first of many attacks in a week of savage fighting.

NVA forces again assaulted the Khe Sanh base as well as surrounding Special Forces bases, even employing WWI-style trench infiltration tactics. U.S. soldiers repeatedly repelled the attacks with intense artillery fire and close-air support.

As the battle on the ground for Khe Sanh intensified, Operation Niagara II was launched to blanket hundreds of targets a day with withering air attacks. The air campaign eventually struck the major enemy ammunition dump, resulting in over 1,000 secondary explosions, one of the largest raids of the war.

As fighting died down around Khe Sanh, American military advisers predicted that the North Vietnamese were preparing for one all-out strike, and they turned out to be correct.

During the morning of February 29th, massive enemy troop movements were detected along the major highways leading to Khe Sanh, and the American Forces were ready. Artillery, B-52s, mortars, and radar-guided fighter-bombers pounded the advancing NVA. When they finally did reach Khe Sanh, the heavily entrenched Marines and Army Rangers met them head on. The North Vietnamese forces were wiped out.

Throughout the entire siege of Khe Sanh, 205 Americans lost their lives, along with hundreds of missing and wounded. The North Vietnamese, on the other hand, lost somewhere between 10,000 and 15,000 soldiers - nearly two entire divisions.

The Siege of Khe Sanh was brutal and bloody, but there was more to come, and U.S. troops responded again with the skill and courage.

While U.S. troops would walk away from the destroyed jungles of Khe Sanh having won one of the Vietnam conflict's largest and most torturous battles, they later faced an unexpectedly difficult battle when they returned home to the United States. They found, in some cases, that they were not welcomed.

This must never happen again. That's why my department created a new program in Wisconsin, "Mission: Welcome Home." Regardless of U.S. foreign policy or the battle being waged to enforce it, our veterans deserve our respect and thanks for risking their very lives.

This is the sixth in a series of 15 columns about Vietnam that will be published.

John A. Scocos is the Secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs, which serves almost half a million Wisconsin veterans.

KHS holds seventh and eighth grade football camp

Local seventh and eighth graders had the opportunity to receive three days of football instruction from members of the Kewaskum High School football coaching staff, five current KHS players, and three former KHS players currently playing college football.

The campers received instruction in the fundamentals of offensive and defensive line play, quarterbacking, receiving, and running back skills, as well as linebacker, defensive back play, and punting and place-kicking technique.

The campers also had the opportunity to hear the coaching staff, college players, and current players talk about the importance of being a good person, a good student, and not giving in to peer pressure.

A special thanks to all of the coaches and players for helping make the camp a success.

Butschlick believes she is ready for jump to coach KHS varsity

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Following a legend like Dave Rizzardi will not be an easy task, but new Kewaskum High volleyball coach Renee Butschlick believes her experience in the sport has prepared her to take on the new challenge.

"Yes, I'm looking forward to it," Butschlick, 25, and a graduate of the powerful West Bend East High program and Cardinal Stritch College, said Sunday night.

Butschlick had a successful playing career, making the all-conference and all-state teams during the two seasons she played for her mother, Debbie, at the University of Wisconsin-Washington County.

When she transferred to Cardinal Stritch, Butschlick performed so well as an outside hitter and later middle hitter and had such high grades, she was selected to the all-American Academic team.

When her playing career concluded, Butschlick moved into coaching without skipping a beat. Her first four years were at Silverbrook Middle School in West Bend, and then for two seasons, she assisted her mother at UWWC.

"Last year, I coached at Berlin Middle School," Butschlick went on, explaining she has also helped coach the West Bend Power team for five years.

Concerning how she found out about the Kewaskum job, Butschlick said, "I found it online," and when she saw the opening posted, she called Katie Schroeder, a starter for the Indians last year who also plays for the Power team, to find out if Rizzardi was really retiring from the job.

"I put in my application, and Mrs. (Christine) Horbas called me for an interview," Butschlick said.

When asked what she knows about the Kewaskum team, Butschlick said, "I know they won it (Eastern Wisconsin Conference title) last year ... I know many of the girls from club ball."

As far as her coaching philosophy, Butschlick said it will be "pushing the girls to the level I know they can play." She said she will attempt to use a "quicker offense" and will incorporate a defensive style she learned at a volleyball coaching seminar at the University of Minnesota.

About Rizzardi's impressive 25-year legacy, Butschlick said, "Yes, he set some pretty high standards," and he has offered to help her make a smooth transition. "I have all Dave's files. He saved a lot of stuff over 25 years."

Butschlick, who is currently teaching at a parochial school in Berlin but is hoping to get a teaching job closer to Kewaskum or West Bend, will get her initial look at her team at the first practice on Monday, August 15th. Five days later the Indians will be involved in a four-team scrimmage, which included Campbellsport and Sheboygan Lutheran.

Kewaskum's first live action will come on Saturday, Aug. 27th, the date of the annual Indian Invitational.

Butschlick was selected for the varsity volleyball coaching position over two other candidates, according to KHS Athletic Director Jason Piittmann. The other candidates included Kelly Marquardt, the junior varsity coach, who plans to stay on in that position.

"We interviewed them all," Piittmann said Sunday, indicating the interviewing team "liked her (Butschlick's) enthusiasm. She has a strong knowledge of the game ... actually all the candidates have a strong knowledge of the game."

Piittmann said Butschlick appears to have "a strong desire to push it (program) to the next level."

The interview team included Horbas, Piittmann, two current players on the team, along with the mother of one of the girls, meaning the educators were outnumbered by the "lay people."

When asked when this practice started and how it started, Piittmann said it has been going on for the last two or three years, and, "I think it came from above the high school level" of the administration.

Piittmann went on to say that students sitting in on interviews has also been included in the selection of members of the teaching staff.

The team was selected by Horbas and himself, after looking at the players returning to the team this fall. "We tried to get one of each (senior and junior)," Piittmann said, indicating the mother of one of the girls was brought in as a substitute for their original choice.

Hunting and fishing licenses to cost more

MADISON - Deer hunters 18 or older who live in Wisconsin will pay $4 more for a gun deer hunting license and resident anglers will pay $3 more for an annual fishing license under new fees that took effect recently under the final state budget.

License fees directly support state fish and wildlife programs the Department of Natural Resources administers. Wisconsin has 716,000 licensed hunters and 1.4 million licensed anglers. Hunting and fishing generate a $5 billion economic impact in Wisconsin.

"Wisconsin hunting and fishing license fees remain a bargain compared to other states," says DNR Secretary Scott Hassett. "People will be able to continue enjoying time outdoors on the water or in the field, and Wisconsin will continue to benefit from the tourism dollars that fishing and hunting contribute to our economy."

Resident deer hunters age 18 and older will now pay $24, up from the $20 this license had cost since 1997. A resident annual fishing license increased from $17 to $20.

The cost of an inland waters trout stamp and a pheasant stamp each rose to $10. Stamp fees pay for habitat restoration and maintenance for certain game species. Pheasant stamp revenue also pays for pheasant-rearing.

Two new licenses are now available to help introduce young people to Wisconsin's hunting traditions. A resident junior gun deer license and a resident junior archery license will cost $20 each for youth aged 12 through 17 -- $4 less than other residents pay for these licenses.

A conservation patron license, which consolidates multiple licenses into one, now costs $165 for residents, resulting in a savings of $86 when compared to purchasing these licenses individually.

Fishing license fees for non-residents also were increased. An annual nonresident Wisconsin fishing license now costs $50, up $10. A four-day, nonresident fishing license now costs $24, and a 15-day nonresident fishing license costs $28. Wisconsin ranks second in the U.S. for the number of fishing licenses sold to nonresidents.

"The higher fees were needed to maintain Wisconsin's premiere fish and wildlife programs, which were facing a $20 million deficit in the next two years," Hassett says. "The old fees - many of which hadn't been raised since the last decade -- didn't bring in enough revenue to help conservation programs keep pace with rising operation costs, even though we took many actions to reduce spending and get more efficient."

To keep a lid on spending, the department eliminated a number of positions, held biologist and warden positions vacant, cut back on pheasant and fish stocking, cut hours at DNR service centers and reduced travel and other expenses in recent years.

"Many hunters, anglers and conservation groups supported fee increases because they wanted the state to continue maintaining fish and wildlife programs," Hassett says. "We will now be able to do that thanks to their support."

The DNR produces an annual report on how license fees are invested to support state hunting and fishing. That report can be picked up at DNR service centers or found on the agency's Web site.

People may buy hunting and fishing licenses from nearly 1,500 DNR-authorized sales agents statewide, from DNR offices, by telephone at 1-877-945-4236 or online at dnr.wi.gov. Updated resident license fees and nonresident fees and stamp prices and related information can be viewed on the DNR Web site.

New fee increases took effect July 27, 2005 for the following types of Wisconsin hunting and fishing licenses:

- Resident annual fishing - $20.
- Resident husband and wife fishing - $31.
- Resident conservation patron license - $165.
- Resident sports - $60.
- Resident small game hunting - $18.
- Resident senior citizen small game - $9.
- Resident gun deer (age 18 and over) - $24.
- Resident archery (age 18 and over) - $24.
- Resident junior gun deer (ages 12-17) NEW - $20.
- Resident junior archer (ages 12-17) NEW - $20.
- Resident Class A Bear - $49.
- Resident Turkey License (fall and spring) - $15.
- Nonresident annual fishing - $50.
- Nonresident 4-day fishing - $24.
- Nonresident 15-day fishing - $28.
- Nonresident sturgeon spearing - $65.
- Nonresident junior conservation patron - $77.
- Nonresident junior sports - $36.
- Nonresident small game - $85.
- Nonresident 5-day small game - $55.
- Inland water trout stamp - $10.
- Pheasant stamp - $10.

Long Lake takes Little League Championship

The Long Lake Little League team, coached by Tammy Seibel, recently completed their baseball season in Beechwood Thursday, July 28 after an undefeated season in the Western Division. Long Lake met Fredonia, undefeated leader of the Eastern Division, for a head to head fight for the Championship Title.

Things did not start off well for Long Lake as the team struggled with a few nervous errors and an inability to connect with the ball at the plate. As they entered the sixth inning, Long Lake was behind 6-1.

The home team, Long Lake, led off their final at bats with clean up hitter, Steven Gonring hitting a solid double. Tyler Batzler hit a beauty of a bunt, forcing the pitcher to chase the ball across the infield. Batzler was safe on first and advanced Gonring to third.

Matty Serwe hit a long fly ball to center for an out and runners failed to advance. Justin Klumpyan connected for a double, bringing in two runs. The score was 6-3.

The number eight batter for Long Lake struck out, and the next batter, Adam Kostanski, came to the plate with two outs. Under pressure, Kostanski singled and Klumpyan scored after previously stealing third. Long Lake's lead off batter, Joey Rentmeester's base hit advanced Kostanski to second. Bo Seibel's base hit moved Kostanski home.

A double steal advanced the runners to second and third and the score was 6-5. Third hole hitter Kevin Gonring approached the plate, and Fredonia intentionally walked him.

The bases were loaded and the Long Lake team batted around, leaving Steven Gonring at the plate with two outs on the board. Gonring allowed two strikes before nailing a hard ground ball to short. The shortstop double clutched it hesitating his throw to second after seeing the runner already safe. Instead he threw to first base, but not in time to beat Gonring. Meanwhile, Rentmeester scored the tying run and Seibel easily crossed home plate for the winning run as the Fredonia team watched Gonring, safe at first.

Carlson vaults to sixth in X-Games

BY JUDY HARLOW

Ben Carlson is putting Kewaskum on the map with his accomplishments in the world of Super Moto racing, and he did an excellent job in Sunday's Summer X-Games in Los Angeles.

Carlson, who graduated from Kewaskum High School two years ago, finished sixth among 20 competitors in the finals of the event, which included the best Super Moto racers in the world.

Considering he has just raced competitively for a couple of years, this is an outstanding accomplishment, and it certainly makes up for last year when Carlson was hampered by illness in the X-Games.

Carlson and his team are en route to Wisconsin. He was expected to arrive home on Wednesday, then he will resume competition in the AMA (American Motorcycle) circuit and Canadian National Series. More details on the X-Games will be included in next week's Statesman.

Care for Critters program at Mauthe Lake

Have you ever wondered which animals are active at night? Or, how can animals survive when it is dark? Find out these answers and more while viewing live "nocturnal" animals. On Sunday, August 14, at 1:00 pm or 2:00 pm, the Milwaukee Zoological Society's 2005 Care for Critters program, Animals of the Night, will visit the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit. The programs will be held at the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area located off of Hwy GGG south of Hwy SS near New Prospect. In the event of inclement weather, the programs will be held at the Ice Age Visitor Center (off of Hwy 67 half mile west of Dundee). A State Park System Vehicle Admission Sticker is required for entering the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area.

During a program, participants will meet live animals such as Eurasian eagle owl, spectacled owl, European and American barn owls, northern pygmy owl, tiger salamander, walking stick, frog, blood python and a mammal.

Thanks to sponsorship by Roundy's Pick'n Save, audiences will come away with a better understanding of and appreciation for the animals of the night, their food sources and their part of the world.

For further information or directions to the Ice Age Visitor Center, contact the forest staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The staff can be reached at (920) 533-8322. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Bringing Back the Whooping Cranes

The Saturday Evening Events Series at the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit continues with the program Bringing Back the Whooping Cranes. This evening event is sponsored by the Friends of the Kettle Moraine. The program will be held on Saturday, August 20, from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Henry S. Reuss Ice Age Visitor Center. The Ice Age Visitor Center is located off of Hwy 67 half mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

Whooping cranes are the most endangered crane species in the world. During the mid-1800's their population was estimated to be between 700 and 1,500 birds. The species' breeding range spread throughout the central plains, from the grasslands of north central Canada to the prairie states of the United States. By 1890, whooping cranes had disappeared from the heart of their breeding range, and by the 1940's only a single migratory flock of 15 whooping cranes remained.

Sarah Johnson, Assistant Naturalist with the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit, will share insights into the incredible lives of these wetland birds. She will explain how people have helped save these beautiful creatures from extinction and what critical role Wisconsin is playing in the recovery effort. Sarah will compare the plight of the whooping cranes to that of the other 14 species of cranes found throughout the world.

For further information or directions to the Ice Age Visitor Center, contact the forest staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center. They may be reached at (920) 533-8322, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

"They had a very good season. As they progressed, we did better," he said.

Kewaskum uses two late rallies to advance to SWABA finals

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Wow! What a great finish the Kewaskum Athletics home talent baseball team came up with last Friday night against DeForest in the semifinal game of the SWABA (Southeastern Wisconsin Amateur Baseball Association) Tournament.

Playing in Horicon, the A's came up with a two-run rally in the bottom of the sixth inning, only to lose the lead in the top of the seventh when DeForest scored twice.

It was do-or-die for the Kewaskum team in the bottom of the seventh, and the A's batters came through in grand style, scoring twice for a 7-6 victory.

"It was a good game," Jim Ziegler, A's pitcher and spokesperson, said Sunday, reporting his team was down 4-1 going into its half of the sixth inning.

After Jason Strobel made the first out in the fifth, Jake Panzer drew a walk, then Ziegler was called on to pinch hit and double, putting runners at second and third. The next man, Ty Schill, hit into a fielder's choice, but the DeForest infielder threw home, and Panzer was safe at the plate.

Jake Spaeth then drew a walk, and Cory Immel followed with a two-run single, tying the game at 4-4.

Steve Ketter's single put Kewaskum ahead by one run, and the inning ended painfully when Tim Rowe hit a liner that ended up as a double play.

DeForest came right back in the top of the seventh, using a single and two straight walks to load the bases. The first run scored on a double play and the second on a pop fly that dropped in left field.

"It was a tough play," Ziegler said.

Kewaskum needed to score in the seventh and got a good start when Adam Sarauer doubled and went to third on a wild pitch. Strobel walked, then Panzer hit a ball into the hole at short that the DeForest shortstop tracked down. He threw home wildly, however, and Sarauer scored.

Ziegler was walked intentionally to load the bases and set up the force play, but losing pitcher Gabe Haberson walked Schill on four pitched, forcing in the winning run.

The A's will now meet host Horicon in the finals. That game will take place on Friday night, Aug. 19th at 7 p.m.

Kewaskum will now play in the championship game of two tournaments, the SWABA test and the Plymouth Tournament where it faces the Cedarburg Mercs on Thursday, Aug. 17. That game was postponed once because of rain.

Panzer got the pitching win for the A's. He went all seven innings, giving up eight hits, while striking out six and walking five.

Immel was the only

Kewaskum player to have more than one hit. He went 2x4 in the victory.

Optimism reigns in Kewaskum football camp

Are you ready for some football? The famous words from Monday Night Football television broadcasts could be heard statewide this week as high school camps opened for the 2005 season.

The Kewaskum High candidates reported for their first practice on Tuesday and will continue with two-a-day practices until school opens.

"We will be working all week through Saturday, so we get in the required number of practices for the scrimmage," head coach Jason Piittmann said Sunday night, indicating the practice times will be 8 to 10:15 a.m., and then 10:30 to 12:30 each day.

On Monday, the players picked up their gear and went through testing in 40-yard sprints, the mile, and bench and squat lifts to see if they improved through participation in summer workouts.

Piittmann will be starting his third year as head coach, and this looks to be his most promising group, which is coming off a 3-4 season in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference and a 5-4 overall mark, not enough to qualify for the WIAA playoffs.

The good news is Piittmann has a good crop of juniors and seniors and starters back in most of the key positions.

"Most of our skilled positions are back," Piittmann said, referring to quarterback Chad Piwoni, running backs Garrett Donath and Ross Stockhausen, and receivers Matt Parrent (tight end), Jeremy Gurholt (split end) and Eric Cain (wingback).

The Indians lost 10 seniors and will have plenty of candidates to replace them. "We've got right around 20 seniors this year," Piittmann said, adding, "We've got a nice junior class. There are about 20 of them as well."

The annual scrimmage day is Friday, Aug. 19th, and, "We host it this year," Piittmann said, reporting West Bend East, West Bend West, Slinger and Milwaukee Madison are coming. The scrimmage will begin at 5 p.m.

"We'll be going up against West and Slinger," he went on, noting the varsities will be on the game field, while the junior varsity teams will play on the practice fields behind the high school.

Both Kewaskum and Slinger are playing games against East this year, so the Milwaukee team was brought in to add to the rotation. The Indians open at East, which has a new head coach, Tony Spaeth, on Friday night, Aug. 26th.

Piittmann will again be assisted at the varsity level by Jason Last (defense) and Dave Rockhill (offense). Two newcomers have joined the staff. Scott Schilz will replace Steve Swanson to round out the freshman staff, while Mike Cunningham, the new technical education teacher, has volunteered to help at the JV level.

Zimdars honored by Gridiron coaches

Brett Zimdars, a starting tackle on the Kewaskum High football team the past two seasons, is the 2005 recipient of the Gridiron Club's $1,000 Coaches Scholarship.

Zimdars was introduced to the officers of the club, as well as the coaches of the four teams, at a meeting held last week at Hon-E-Kor Country Club.

Joe Backhaus, current vice president of the organization, introduced Zimdars, and told the group Zimdars was on the first sixth grade team he coached after joining the Gridiron program.

Last year's KHS varsity had a limited number of senior players, thus there were not as many applicants as in past years for the scholarship. Still, Backhaus said Zimdars is a quality student who will do well in the future.

To be eligible for the award, a football player must have participated in Gridiron football and played on the KHS varsity and must have a good academic record.

Zimdars, who lettered three years in football and played on the baseball team for three seasons, plans on attending UW-Washington County for the next two years before transferring to UW-Stout where he will study technical education.

A 3.4 student at KHS, Zimdars is hoping to become a teacher in the field of technical education. "Metals, woods ... it doesn't matter, I like them all," he said.

When asked about challenging classes he took at KHS, Zimdars said, an Advanced Placement (AP) history class with Dan Ross "was probably the toughest class I had." He said the class included self study work on the basics of teaching and multiple intelligences.

Zimdars started at offensive guard his junior and senior seasons and split time on defense between tackle and defensive end. He was part of a team that recorded a 3-4 record in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference and was 5-4 overall, including non-conference wins over West Bend East and Kettle Moraine Lutheran.

Concerning his favorite game, Zimdars quickly answered, "West Bend East, by far." And why? "Because it was so exciting, going right down to the last minute."

The 6-foot-2, 250-pound

Zimdars said he learned a lot by playing football, especially to "be patient and work hard," two things he said normally don't go together.

Zimdars is the son of Bruce and Bev Zimdars.

The Gridiron Coaches Scholarship is financed by the coaches in the league. Currently Jim "Jonesy" Korth is the president of the group.

The opening day of practice for all four grade school teams (fifth through eighth) is this Saturday, Aug. 6. The first games will be held on Saturday, Sept. 10.

Olla's numbers all add up to all-district berths

Jon Olla, who played catcher and center fielder for the Kewaskum High baseball team this year, has been named to the second team of the Wisconsin Baseball Coaches Association's 2005 All-District 7 team.

The announcement of the honor came last Saturday from KHS coach Dave Donath, who said the junior Olla also made the District 7 All-Academic team.

Olla, who has been on the varsity for three years, started the year as the team's No. 1 catcher, a position he captured his sophomore year. Late in the season, Olla made the switch to the outfield and helped the Indians finish at 11-10 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference and 18-13 overall.

For the year, Olla batted a crisp .411. His statistics included 39 hits, with 11 doubles, four triples and one home run. He also had 23 runs batted in (RBI).

"That's the first one (player) I've ever had (on the all-district team)... period," Donath said, indicating he's been coaching baseball at the school for five seasons.

"He's a smart kid," Donath said. "Then you know you've got a good kid ... Actually the whole team is good academically ... that's a plus."

Olla is a three-sport athlete at Kewaskum High. He switched from soccer to football last fall and almost immediately moved into a starting role as corner-back, and he wrestled at 160 pounds for the Indians, who earned a share of the EWC dual meet title.

The WBCA's all-state team has also been announced, according to Donath, who reported Campbellsport was represented by second baseman Cameron Salter and by Nick Whitty, a pitcher, who was named as the utility player on the team.

A's come up short in big game vs. Slinger

Held to single runs in the first and fifth innings, the Kewaskum Athletics could not match Slinger's total in a key Rock River League baseball game played in Slinger on Sunday. The hosts won the game 6-2.

The A's home talent team was in third place, a game above the Stingers in the standings, and now they both have identical 10-6 marks and are tied for the third spot in the battle to make the four-team playoffs that get underway in a couple weeks.

"We just couldn't put anything together. All our line drivers were right at people ... we only struck out once so we were hitting the ball," Jim Ziegler, the A's No. 1 pitcher and the team's spokesperson, said Sunday night.

Kewaskum scored first, using two Slinger errors in the first inning for a single run. After two outs, Cory Immel reached on an error, then Steve Ketter hit into a fielder's choice but went all the way to second base on a throwing error.

Player/manager Jason Strobel was up next and promptly stroked an RBI single, but that was the end of the line for the A's in that inning.

In the fifth, Ty Schill singled, advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt, then stole third and roared home on a ground out.

Kewaskum led 1-0 until the bottom of the third when the hosts got to Ziegler for a single run, and they took the lead when they scored three times in the fifth.

"Chris Guse's double tied the team," Ziegler said, reporting, "Brad Geldnich's single was the big hit. He put them ahead."

Both Guse and Geldnich, two veteran products of the West Bend East powerhouses of the past, went 2x5.

For the A's, who are now 20-11 overall, Schill was the only player with two hits. Winner Scott Estness limited Kewaskum to six base hits, and he only walked two.

"We only left six guys on base," Ziegler said, indicating the team did not have a single extra-base hit. Slinger had two, including a double by Kyle Erendt in the eighth inning, but he did not score.

Very uncharacteristically, Ziegler gave up 10 hits, and out of the six runs, five were earned, also unusual for the big right-hander, who came into the game with an ERA (earned run average) of under 2.0.

Oakfield is currently atop the Rock River standings, with Brownsville in the second spot.

"We've got two games left. We need to take it one at a time and definitely get a win next week," Ziegler said about Sunday's game against Oakfield that will be played at Kiwanis Park, starting at 1:30 p.m. "We and Slinger have given them their only losses all year."
