School Board recall election set for December, special meeting Monday

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

A recall election is becoming more and more evident for one Kewaskum School Board member. The Northern Unit Kettle Moraine Citizens for Responsible Government (NUKM CRG) turned in their rebuttal to Neal Weare's questionable 514 signatures and it looks like the group has Weare on a technicality.

In their rebuttal, the group's leader, Bruce Braidigan stated in a letter to school board Clerk Jean E. Goeden, "Under ElBd 2.11 (2) (a) Challenges to election petitions: Any challenge to the sufficiency of a petition required complying with s.8.40 Stats. Shall be made by verified complaint filed with the appropriate filing officer. The form of the complaint, the filing of the complaint and the legal sufficiency of the complaint shall comply with the requirements of ch ElBd 10."

The group further states, "In addition, the challenge does not meet the requirements of 9.10 (2) (g) The burden of proof for any challenge rests with the individual bringing the challenge. And 9.10 (2) (h) Any challenge to the validity of signatures on the petition shall be presented by affidavit or other supporting evidence demonstrating a failure to comply with statutory requirements. In other words, it is not enough to say that the petitions are invalid or insufficient the challenger must prove why they are invalid or insufficient."

The group says that in his rebuttal, Weare did not put the complaint in the form of a verified complaint, and there was not a signed affidavit and there was no signature on the complaint. In such a rebuttal, the burden of proof is on the challenger to prove insufficiency.

The group is asking that all of the signatures be deemed valid and that the district proceeds with a recall election.

Weare now has until Thursday, (today) at 5:00 P.M. to answer the challenge. The clerk, Goeden, will then determine whether the challenge is valid and if the special election will be held.

If Weare doesn't like the outcome he must then appeal to the State Elections Board.

A special board meeting is set for Monday, November 7 to set the official date for a special election. School officials said that date would be December 13.

"I think it looks good for us," stated Braidigan.

Updated Kewaskum School District website has something for everyone

Kewaskum School District's Technology Analyst, Jenny Rae, looks over Instructional Technology Liaison, Jane Lazarevic as the two review webpages on the district's newly "remodeled" website.

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

The Kewaskum School District no longer has just a website with a domain name. Almost a year's worth of work has gone into putting together the perfect Internet destination, www.kewaskumschools.org for parents and community members chock full of useful information.

In January of 2005 a company named Powercom approached the school district and by the end of their pitch it was realized that for what they were paying now, the district could have a website they could be proud of and would also be parent/teacher friendly.

"We feel the Internet is a very important marketing tool for the district," stated Technology Analyst Jenny Rae.

By September 15 of this year, the site went live to the public. "We have received very positive comments," stated Rae. The site basically was completely overhauled and is fresh and new.

The site is packed full of neat and useful features, from the district calendar, by building, by sports and by extra curriculars to the teacher's individual websites. As part of the calendar of events for the district web surfers can now have the events in the district sent directly to their email inbox.

The event alerts can even be tailored by building or by sports. Sign up for the email alerts and every 10 days an event list is sent to the user. To take it a step further, if the event is modified, you will also receive an alert for that.

On the homepage a list of important notices can be found. Jane Lazarevic says that in case of a school emergency such as a closing or late start notice can also be posted on the site as soon as a decision is made. Allowing students and parents freedom from their radios.

Parents will also enjoy being able to check what is going on in their student's classrooms by individual teacher websites that can list topics of discussion, homework assignments. In some cases, teachers can even upload worksheets to their site and students can download copies if they forgot theirs at school. Teachers can also have their own photo galleries of field trips and special events for parent and grandparents to view.

The website also features the district's policy book in Portable Document Format

(PDF) that can be viewed or printed. Also available in PDF is school board agendas and minutes.

"When we first started this, I went to classes on website development and learned that the site has to be full of things people want to know," stated Lazarevic who hoped that this would be a way for parents to get the information they need without having to check with a building secretary.

In addition to the site being teacher-parent friendly, the site is also school board-taxpayer friendly carrying a wealth of information for Joe or Jill Taxpayer. Business Administrator, Paul Reichert has the results of the latest school district audit and the proposed 2005-2006 budget on the business news page.

"I think it's excellent, they have done a great job and should be commended. Parents and citizens alike can get information on the district and news in the schools 24 hours a day, seven days a week," said Interim Superintendent of Schools, Scott Peterson.

The gift of happiness belong to those who unwrap it.

Santa's Workshop is theme for Christmas parade

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

Editor's Note: In last week's edition the date was listed as December 3, it is in fact December fourth. The author also stated that the funds for the parade were derived from the Chamber's annual golf outing that was also incorrect. Funding for the parade is from various steak fries held throughout the year.

It's started. Actually it started about a month ago, I saw them getting the trees ready at Hobby Lobby in West Bend on a shopping trip my dear wife dragged me on. I've given in and started playing Christmas music on iTunes.

At this rate, Christmas in July will soon be a reality! But, as retailers get ready for the holiday shopping season Kevin Stautz, here in Kewaskum, is getting ready for The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce's Annual Christmas Parade. Mike Geidel, also of Kewaskum, assists Stautz.

Stautz says he and his "elves" are busy making plans for the event and have come up with "Santa's Workshop" as their theme. The parade will take place on December 4 at 5 pm and will proceed through downtown Kewaskum. Line-up will take place in back of Kewaskum High School like last year. "Not much has really changed from previous years," he said. He encouraged groups to pre-register, as they will be put in the parade lineup first. Lineup will begin promptly at 4 pm.

Walking units can meet inside the Kewaskum High School gym and will be let out to the route from the back of the building.

As in years past, monetary prizes will be awarded. For competition there will be two classes, with four prizes in each class. Class one will include civic organizations and businesses, top prize in that class will be $150, $100, $75 and $50 respectively. Class two will be youth and walking groups. The prize structure for class two is $100, $75, $50 and $25 respectively.

Stautz encourages the local business community to sponsor music on floats in the parade. Those interested in sponsoring a musical float can contact Stautz at 262-483-4421.

Karen Heberer of the Kewaskum Chamber stated that Santa would be at the Kewaskum Municipal Building Annex during the day of the parade. She is unsure if the Chamber will again have a steak sandwich stand in the downtown parking lot.

Friends of Kewaskum have already started their Christmas tree raffle. Tickets are $1 each or six for $5. Tickets can be purchased at The Statesman or The Candy Tree. The 7.5-foot artificial tree will be decorated to the parade theme and can be seen in the front window of The Statesman, 355 Main Street, Kewaskum. The winner will be drawn right after the parade and announced in The Statesman and on the Friends of Kewaskum website www.kettlecountrycolors.com. The group will also be serving food. More details will follow. Proceeds from both will be used to acquire a lumberjack show at Kettle Country Colors in 2006.

The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will announce the parade Marshall in an upcoming edition of The Statesman.

On page 8 please find an entry form for the parade. Entry forms can also be downloaded from the Chamber's website www.kewaskum.org

Two fellers were in desperate need of cash, but admittedly were a bit cowardly. So the one suggested they break into the Amish market. The logic being that since the Amish were non-resistant, even if they were caught, no harm could befall them. Thus they carried out their plot.

However, just as they were breaking into the cash register, the owner turned on the lights and confronted them, a shotgun pointed directly at them.

Calmly, the Amish man said, Boys, I would never do thee any harm yet you are standing where I am about to shoot.

Sheriff's Dept. will offer 'shop with a cop' program

The Washington County Sheriff's Department along with volunteers from county police departments will be participating on Dec. 8, in the second annual "Shop with a Cop" program. Officers will donate their time to take a group of underprivileged children to Wal-Mart in West Bend where they will purchase presents for their family using a gift card that has been provided through donations.

The event will be held at the Moose Lodge, in West Bend, at 4:30 p.m. At 5:00 p.m., a dinner of hamburgers, hot dogs, chips and juice will be served. Children and officers will be bussed to Wal-Mart to shop from 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.

Busses will return to the Moose Lodge and volunteers will wrap the gifts while the children lay Christmas Bingo and snack on treats. Santa will be making a surprise visit and presenting each child with a stocking filled with treats to take home. New hats and mittens will also be provided for each child and door prizes will be given away.

Donations can be mailed to: Shop with a Cop, Washington County Sheriff's Department, 500 N. Schmidt Road, West Bend, WI 53095. Checks should be made payable to: WCSD-SHOP WITH A COP.

Boltonville Fire Department purchases Jaws of Life unit with donations

Deceased Boltonville firefighter Josh Buncich

Boltonville firefighters, Dennis Fechter, left, and Norm Bandler, right, show their new Jaws of Life that was purchased recently with donated funds from various area families and the Boltonville Fire Department's Women's Auxiliary.

By Andrew Kuehl

akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

BOLTONVILLE- Fire fighters in Boltonville are pleased to showcase their newest set of lifesaving tools, a Jaws of Life Unit. The $16,500 purchase was made by donations made by the department and area families.

A major contributor, the family of Josh Buncich, who was tragically killed in a traffic accident in December of 2002, are pleased to see the purchase. Upon seeing the equipment, Josh's parents, Jay and

Diane proudly remembered a tattoo Josh had, "so others may live."

"We feel Josh would be proud of this donation, so others may live," stated Diane. Much of the donation from the Buncich family came from memorials made in Josh's name and through sales of window clings in his memory by his fellow high school students.

Other contributors included the families of Jack Theusch, Vernon Jung Sr., and Dan Rodenkirch. The Boltonville Fire Department's Ladies Auxiliary also made a sizeable

Firefighters, Dennis Fechter and Norm Bandler stated they were very grateful for all the contributions they received and the community support the department receives in general through other various fundraisers. The new equipment is not yet in service and will be carried on a new truck that should be arriving in the next few weeks.

They also said, they made the purchase so they could assist Kewaskum Fire Department at the scene of car wrecks.

The Statesman will be doing a story once that new piece of equipment arrives and is put into service.

Great fall weather is the Campbellsport Area Chamber of Commerce's ingredient to success says Jackie Lindsley, who along with other chamber members organized the twelfth annual Halloween Caper. Lindsley and her group are already making plans for next year.

"(The caper) went wonderful. Mister Billy was a big hit as was the haunted house in the high school gym," said Lindsley.

Fellow Chamber member, Chris Schanen attributed the event's continued success to the community and members of the chamber who work hard to organize the event.

In addition to face painting and the Mister Billy show, a children's activity tent, moon walk and make and take crafts were huge hits with younger children.

Teens enjoyed a bike and skateboard show courtesy of Midway Skate Park in Waucosta. Hayrides to the Haunted House were provided by Campbellsport FFA Alumni.

St. Joe's files complaint against Village of Jackson

St. Joseph's Community Hospital has filed a complaint with the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin against the Village of Jackson Water and Sewer Utilities.

The complaint regarding the provision and cost of service in the Town of Polk was filed on August 4, 2005. A pre hearing conference is scheduled for Friday, November 18, 2005 in Madison.

The dispute between the two is in regards to rates the village has charged the hospital and whether a water lateral needs to be placed for a connected medical office structure.

The Village of Jackson says the hospital owes them more than $1 million for water and sewer services and has threatened to let the hospital go dry if they don't pay up soon.

The dispute over impact fees charged to the hospital has gone on between the two entities since 2003 even before ground was broken for the building.

The pre hearing will identify persons who will actively participate as full parties, identify issues, determine a date for a hearing, set dates for filing testimony and finally bring forth any matters that may facilitate the hearing.

PERSPECTIVES

Tax reform plans fail to fix a broken system

America badly needs tax reform. But the two proposals being submitted to President George W. Bush by his tax advisory panel fall pitifully short of real innovation.

In fact, both proposals follow typical patterns. They promise fundamental change, but they fail to grasp what that means. In reality, the proposals were doomed from the beginning by two words in President Bush's executive order: "revenue neutral." Michigan business owners are particularly familiar with this phrase, which means the tax structure must protect government's current bloated spending.

The nine-member advisory panel was given impossible marching orders. It was told to work within the confines of the existing system but make the tax code simpler, distribute the burdens more evenly (read: soak the rich); and encourage saving and economic growth.

The result is a whittled-down income tax code that likely is a few thousand pages lighter than the current 60,000-plus pages - but not by much. The proposals will be submitted to the president by Nov. 1, but neither is worthy of implementation.

The basics of the plans are the same. Both would eliminate the so-called alternative minimum tax, a scheme to make sure the rich pay some taxes, but which is now ensnaring successful professionals.

To make up for a projected loss of $1.2 trillion over 10 years, the proposals limit tax breaks for homeowners and wipe out deductions for state and local taxes. Additionally, six tax brackets are reduced to four, with 75 percent of Americans falling into the lowest bracket. Home mortgage interest deductions would be replaced by tax credits and unlimited tax breaks for health benefits would now be capped. Most taxpayers, some analysts say, would pay the same amount in taxes they do now. Such minor change won't spur economic growth.

Real change would lower the tax burden, which would put a break on federal spending, and dramatically simplify the system.

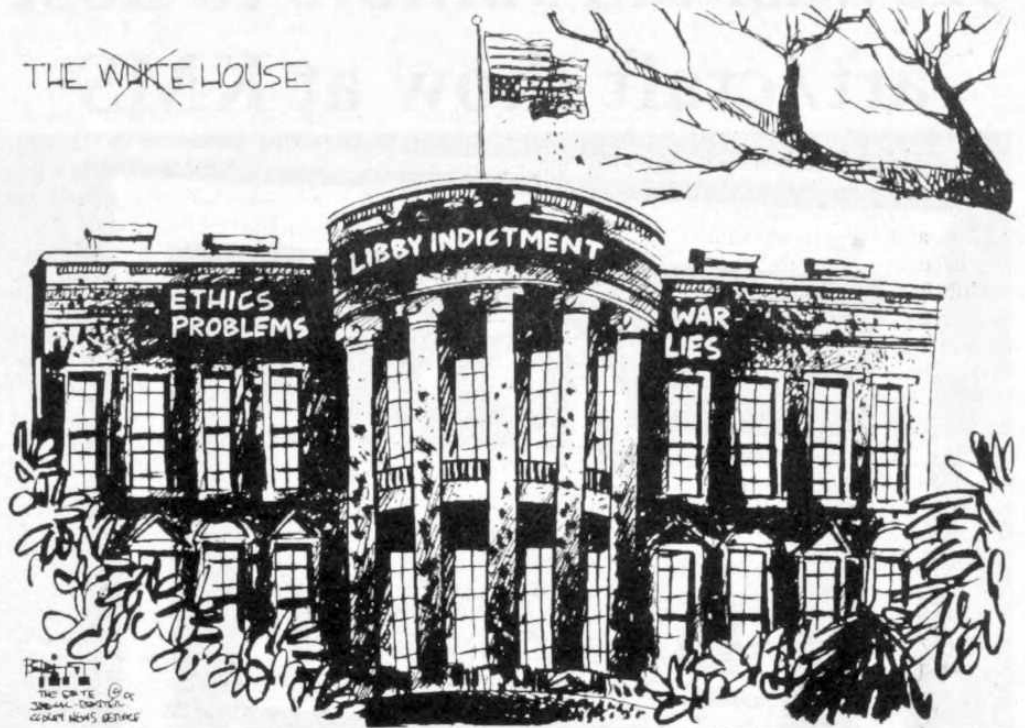

Of particular interest are flat-rate income tax proposals being promoted by publisher and one-time presidential candidate Steve Forbes and economists John Goodman and Laurence Kotlikoff. Though they differ in their outlines, the plans would free up resources now devoted to outwitting our current system.

Income tax reform debate should continue, but it must be open to truly groundbreaking options such as a flat tax.

THE WHITE HOUSE

- In Your Opinion -

Dear Editor:

The Downtown West Bend Association and the West Bend Area Chamber of Commerce support the opening of North Main Street at Highway 33 (Washington Street).

The Downtown West Bend Association (DWBA) contracted Ayres and Associates, an engineering firm in Waukesha, to explore options for providing full access of the Main Street and Washington Street intersection. After considerable review, Ayres and Associates provided two options for the DWBA's North Main Street Task Force to review. The Task Force met several times, identified potential concerns, studied conceptual plans, and studied results compiled by Ayres and Associates.

The DWBA Task Force selected a roundabout concept that offers a Level of Service (a measure of intersection performance) that will minimize delays and congestion while opening North Main Street and allowing full access to our historic downtown. A copy of the report may be requested through the offices of the Downtown West Bend Association.

As West Bend faces growing development, our merchants and diverse retail businesses need accessibility to meet customer demands. The newest downtown development, River Shores (located at the former West Bend Company site), will welcome over 500 new residents to our growing community. Our new neighbors will seek entertainment, dining and shopping opportunities within the downtown area. This will create an increase in pedestrian and vehicular traffic. Now is the time to address opening North Main Street to Highway 33 (Washington Street).

As studies were compiled, the impact on the 7th Street Fire Station (Station #1) and customer parking on Main Street were taken into consideration. The roundabout concept maintains accessibility for the Fire Station and Main Street parking, while enhancing pedestrian and vehicular safety.

The Downtown West Bend Association and the West Bend Area Chamber of Commerce seek the West Bend Common

Council's support of the roundabout concept. This is a vital update needed to maintain and grow the downtown's healthy business climate. As we recruit new businesses to the downtown area, accessibility and safety is a primary goal.

Sincerely,

Theresa Fuerbringer

The Kewaskum Community High School Homecoming last weekend was an outstanding success in every way. In the feature homecoming attraction, the Kewaskum Indians defeated previously unbeaten Campbellsport, 19-12 in football. The homecoming parade Thursday night showed a great deal of planning and spirit. The parade was followed by the tra-

The game Friday night was followed by the homecoming dance in the school gym and the annual affair was largely attended by students and alumni. On Saturday afternoon, definite action was taken toward creation of an actual preserve in the Kettle Moraine area of which Kewaskum is the southern outlet. Foreign exchange students enjoying busy lifestyle in Kewaskum

Yuliy Shamayeu, Carolin Rudloff, Theresa Knobling

By Amy Swanson
Statesman Correspondent
aswanson@kewaskumstatesman

Kewaskum High School foreign exchange students find student life in the United States far from foreign.

After only two months, all three students have made Kewaskum their home away from home.

"School is really good here," said Yuliy Shamayeu, who lives in Elisa, Russia where he attends Eddpericne School. "Sometimes the subjects are too easy. Americans study eight classes. In Russia I had 16 different classes. Some (classes) I only had two lessons a week. I had 12 math classes and you go to school six days and study for six weeks and then rest one week and have off two weeks at Christmas... There is no time for rest," he joked.

"In Russia, school (does not) have as much technology. The schools are sponsored by the government. In my area there is no trees. There are steps and roads. I like weather here very much."

"The people here are more friendly, too," he said. "Americans very much like to smile. Russians are more thinking about their business and don't say excuse me and thank you as often as Americans."

Carolin Rudloff, who is here from Bergisch Glad Bach in West Germany, agrees. "I think the people here are really open and friendly," she said. "I've been to America two times and I think the people are so open and friendly. The people make their heart so open. There is more belief in God here, too."

"The atmosphere here is different. In my host family, my house mom plans so much for me and it's full," she said. Rudloff is staying with the Terlinden family in Kewaskum.

Rudloff and Theresa Knobling, another Kewaskum High School exchange student from Germany who is staying with the Christie family, have been busy since they stepped off the plane in August. The pair spent five days in New York, Pennsylvania and Washington D.C. before arriving in Kewaskum only one day before school started.

"We are finding our own friends," Rudloff said. "I'm having so much fun. It's just so nice that people open their heart to you for everything. Shamayeu's hometown has a population of 209,000 and has mixed feelings about small town life. He lives with the Schraufnagel family in Beechwood.

"It is small for me," said Shamayeu. "I think many people in Russia think all American's live in big cities and they don't know that a lot of Americans live in small towns. Life in a small town is slow and quiet. Big towns, like mine are noisy. Sometimes it's better to live in small towns and sometimes it's better to live in big towns."

Although Rudloff will leave America in January, just as winter is settling in, she looks forward to experiencing a White Christmas. "The nature here is really nice. In my area we only get about 20 cm of snow in January...I'm a bit afraid of winter here," she joked.

"While I'm here, it's like I try to learn everything I can," Shamayeu said. He plays on the soccer team in Russia and joined the Kewaskum team this year. "I think Russians are better in soccer," he joked. In Russia, basketball is called football, he said and is as popular as American basketball or football.

Appreciation for American sports is a common thread for the foreign exchange students.

"I really like the spirit here," said Rudloff. There is a lot of spirit here. The school really stands together."

Rudloff said the sport programs at her school in Germany are a lot different than in America. "It's like we don't really have the sport teams. Here you have the football players. In Germany we have gym classes you have to go (out for sports) on your own. "In Germany, private clubs offer extra curricular sports, she said.

American patriotism is also something Rudloff appreciates. "In DC, the people have a flag outside of their house. It is really patriotic. Perhaps, it's because of the crash on the World Trade Center. Americans are really proud of their country. This is a really big difference. In Germany there aren't flags outside people's homes."

"It's funny to see how other families work, find new friends and develop the language so I can go back to study and have better chances to get a job. It shows that I would go to another country with a job. Rudloff has set the bar high for herself. After high school she plans to pursue studies in international business. She hopes to start an organization that provides more students the opportunity to experience foreign exchange.

When Shamayeu returns to his hometown in June, he hopes to enter college. "I think I am going to enter university, but I need to have to be a graduate in Russian school to go to college. I (will) finish school in Russia - 11 grades, so I will go back home and I think I will write some exams to know everything in 11 grades and if I write it good I will be graduated."

John Baitenger, Kewaskum High School guidance counselor is impressed with the maturity of the foreign exchange students. "They are all really bright and wonderful students that add a lot to our school," he said. "They are really nice sharp positive students. They bring in a broader picture of the world, and broaden the horizons of our students."

Baitenger helps set up classes and offers support for students in the exchange program. "From my standpoint, you are taking a 16-year-old and moving them on the other side of the globe and I am very proud of how well they blend into our school and our society without any difficulty. They are doing an excellent job."

Baitenger is grateful for the host families that open their lives to the exchange students. "It's an awful lot of commitment on the families.

IN MEMORY

Thinking of Eileen Marie Klein, who left us five years ago, on November 4, 2000:

It's that time of year
When leaves fall from skinny branches
And the wind becomes crisp
and cool
That I remember.

It's that time of year
When the children wear hats and gloves
And the days become shorter and darker
That I remember.

It's that time of year
Between Halloween and Thanksgiving
Full of Sunday Packer games
And the start of Christmas shopping
That I remember.

It's that time of year
When I recall visiting mom
From August to November-
Each weekend traveling to UW
Madison's hospital
That I remember.

It's that time of year
I envision hauling my three children
Ages 5, 3 and 6 months along
So their cousins could babysit them
That I remember.

It's that time of year
When my brothers and father and I Worried and wondered Would she ever leave this small room with not much of a view?
That I remember.

It's that time of year
I see us kiss her cool cheek
One last time and her look of peace
That we didn't have to worry and wonder anymore
That I remember.

It's that time of year
I pull out photo albums
Both past and present
And reminisce of all that's happened since then

That I remember.

I remember more good times than bad
Ironically, more happy times than sad.

I remember things I got away with
Ironically, things I got punished for.

I remember that it is she I look up to
When I tell myself I can't do something.

It's that time of the year
When I remind my kids, now ages 10, 8 and 5
Of the wonderful person their grandma was to all of us
In hopes that they, too, will remember!

*Never forgotten,
Lovingly remembered,
Sandy*

DS announces new stacked-trait soybeans

Producers looking for superior soybean genetics and more options in weed control need to look no further. Dairyland Seed has announced the release of high-yielding Group 0 and early Group 1 stacked-trait Roundup Ready soybean varieties that also have tolerance to Harmony GT (an STS herbicide).

"Our dedicated team of soybean researchers developed these soybean varieties with the best options: superior genetics combined with Roundup* and Harmony* GT tolerance," explains Tom Strachota, CEO of Dairyland Seed. "This offering gives producers the ultimate flexibility in their weed control program. And best of all, this new technology has no extra cost."

Producers already know that Roundup-tolerant soybeans can provide excellent weed control. With these new stacked-trait soybeans from Dairyland Seed, producers can now use a tank mix of Roundup with Harmony GT at a new expanded-use rate to help control wild buckwheat, lambsquarters, volunteer canola and more.

Dairyland Seed has spent more than 20 years in the Dakotas and northern Minnesota, growing and developing soybeans specifically for this unique growing region. With the largest independent plant breeding program in the industry, Dairyland Seed has 12 plant breeders working to develop high-yielding elite germplasm. Dairyland Seed's research team brought to market the world's first herbicide tolerant soybeans in 1993.

Dairyland Seed's research program spans nearly three decades, and its locations are spread throughout the United States, Mexico and South America.

Dairyland researchers were some of the first to identify elite soybean germplasm suited to the Dakotas and northern Minnesota. The uniformly high pH levels of the soils, coupled with the long day, short growing season, presented unique challenges to researchers. These growing conditions are unique compared to anywhere else in the world, and that's why Dairyland researchers spend a major portion of the growing season in the area, working on research plots scattered throughout the Dakotas and northern Minnesota. "To develop soybeans specific to this area, our breeding program needed to focus here," says Bill Campbell, soybean breeder with Dairyland Seed.

For additional information, or to find the Dairyland Seed dealer near you, call 800-236-0163, or visit Dairyland Seed on the Web at www.dairylandseed.com.

Dairyland Seed Co., Inc., is a family owned seed company with research programs in soybeans, hybrid corn, hybrid alfalfa and alfalfa. Its breeding programs, established in 1962, include company breeding and nursery facilities in Clinton, Wis., Gibson City, Ill., Otterbein, Ind., Gilbert, Iowa, and Sloughhouse, Cal. Dairyland Seed also owns and operates an alfalfa seed conditioning facility in Homedale, Idaho.

Air Pollution Operation Permit No. 267003660-F01

Regal Ware, Inc. submitted to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) a permit application, including plans and specifications, for the operation of a facility that manufactures coated cast aluminum cookware.

The Waukesha Service Center Air Program of the Department has analyzed these materials and has made a preliminary determination that operation of this air pollution source should meet applicable criteria for permit approval as stated in ss. 285.63 and 285.64, Wis. Stats., including both the emission limits and the ambient air standards and that the application is approvable. This preliminary determination does not constitute approval from the Air Management Program or any other DNR sections which may also require a review of the project.

The DNR hereby solicits written comments from the public regarding the preliminary determination to approve an operation permit. These comments will be considered in the DNR's final decisions regarding this project. Information, including the permit application and the DNR's preliminary analysis regarding this proposal, is available for public inspection at the Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Air Management Headquarters, Seventh Floor, 101 South Webster, Madison, Wisconsin, Southeast Region Air Program, Waukesha Service Center, 141 NW Barstow St., Room 180, Waukesha, WI 53188, (262) 257-2100 and at Kewaskum Public Library-- 206, First Street, Box 38, Kewaskum, WI 53040 or contact Jimmy Chou, 262-574-2156. Ordinary Heroes

By Scott Turow

Farrar, Straus and Giroux c.2005 $25.00

When you were a child, didn't you love hearing stories about your parents when they were younger?

They might have told you about games they played, schoolteachers they liked (or disliked), or memories of your grandparents. Maybe they even told you stories of their courtship or how they met.

Trust me on this: you don't know everything.

That's a hard lesson for Stewart Dubinsky to learn, but in the new novel "Ordinary Heroes" by Scott Turow, he's about to find out things about his father that some wish had stayed buried.

After more than sixty years of cigarettes, David Dubin is dead. David was a lawyer; calm, deliberate, and taciturn; always letting his wife, Gilda, do the talking. He had been a Judge Advocate General in Europe during World War II, and had always been reluctant to speak even of those years. So when David's son, Stewart, finds a box of old letters while cleaning out his father's closet, Stewart is puzzled by what he reads.

During the war, Dubin had a sweetheart back home, to whom he was engaged. The letters were first full of love and longing, then spoke of anguish and a broken heart. Since childhood, Stewart had heard the story of his parents' meeting at a concentration camp where his father felt love-at-first-sight for a liberated inmate. But these letters, this woman, Grace... Stewart was intrigued.

True to his love of digging for truth, former journalist Stewart began probing for the real story of his father, a story that the letters only teased. He petitioned the government and searched for people who had known David Dubin. He spent hours in libraries, excitedly reading classified documents. This story of his father could become the book that Stewart had always wanted to write. When he finally found his father's lawyer, now an ancient man in a nursing home, Stewart got the shock of his life.

The book had already been written. It was written by his father, nearly sixty years ago. And the truth was full of heroism, devotion, and a secret that David Dubin hoped his children would never know.

Oh, my.

What a book.

Based very loosely and partially on true events, "Ordinary Heroes" is kind of like "The Greatest Generation" in novel form, and with a hint of mystery, lots of World War II details, and a dash of love story. In this book, author Scott Turow ekes out information in "real time"; you see what's going on just as his character, Stewart, learns it. While I had an inkling that I knew what the secret was, I was never really sure until the end. An end which - incidentally - came at 2 in the morning, because I just couldn't stop reading.

If you are a child or grandchild of someone who remembers World War II, or if you just want to read a finely crafted novel that you won't want to put down, then this is the book for you. I think you'll find that "Ordinary Heroes" is an extraordinary book.

Sheriff's Comments

By Brian K. Rahn
Washington County Sheriff

Watch out for Deer

In my last article I wrote about the ghosts, goblins and other creatures that would soon be out at night. The creatures I was referring to were children and adults out and about during Halloween.

I again write about creatures being out at night and the caution we need to use to avoid striking them; however, this time the creatures are the deer that roam about the Washington County highways.

As Wisconsin's deer population grows each year, so do the car collisions with deer. Statistically October through December are the highest months for car-deer crashes in Washington County and around the state, since it's a time for wandering deer, holiday travelers, and shortened daylight hours. Annually, Washington County Sheriff's Department Deputies are called to investigate more than 800 car-deer incidents. If the trends continue, I expect that deputies will investigate more than 250 car-deer crashes during the month of November alone.

Most collisions with a deer occur during this time of year when deer are mating, along with the increased pressure of hunters and the increased activity as farmers pick crops and work the fields. Drivers need to be particularly cautious with the season's shortened daylight and deer foraging near roadsides. It's a very dangerous combination, and to compound it, there are more drivers on the road at dawn and dusk, the very time of day when deer are most active.

An adult deer can weigh more than 200 pounds and a car striking one cannot only result in the death of the deer, but also incur, on average, two thousand dollars in damage to the vehicle. I suggest a few basic cautions for drivers:

- Be particularly careful at dawn and dusk and when driving either over a hill or around a curve, where visibility is limited. Use your high beams to give you a greater area of visibility and allow you to see the deer's eyes sooner.
- Scan a wide swath of the roadside. Slow down when approaching a deer standing near the side of a road and be prepared. If startled, the deer can bolt onto the roadway and into your path. If necessary, honk your horn to try to scare it away.

• Be alert for more deer than you may see at that moment. Where there's one deer, there are often more nearby.

• Deer whistles or ultrasonic deer avoidance systems attached to vehicles have never been proven to work by independent studies and may give drivers a false sense of security.

• In most cases it is best not to swerve around the deer since the deer may move in the same direction. You may lose control of your vehicle and strike another vehicle or a tree. It is best to simply brake and continue in your lane of traffic.

• Be particularly cautious in wooded and agricultural areas where there is little distance between the road and the woods.

• Always wear your safety belt; it reduces your chances of being injured if you hit a deer.

If you hit a deer, get your car out of the lane of traffic and onto the shoulder, activate your emergency hazard lights and contact law enforcement. Stay in your vehicle if at all possible; as walking on the highway is dangerous, and could result in you being hit by an oncoming vehicle. By remaining alert and cautious of the increased deer movement during this time of the year, you can hopefully avoid striking one and keep your vehicle out of the body shop.

Reporting system allows hunters to track harvest by DMU

MADISON - Results from a new data recording system that tracks information on white-tailed deer that hunters register in Wisconsin are beginning to come in and are revealing some very interesting trends, according to state wildlife managers.

Providing much more detail than registration records did in the past, the reports - which will be available soon on the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources and then updated almost weekly throughout the deer hunting season -- will enable wildlife managers and hunters to more closely monitor the fall hunt.

"Advantages of the new data collection system include being able to closely monitor harvest numbers within specific deer management units or DMUs," said Keith Warnke, DNR deer and bear ecologist. "For example, there are 38 DMUs that are on a watch list for possible Earn-a-Buck status next season. Whether or not they are recommended for Earn-a-Buck depends largely on how many antlerless deer are taken out of those units in this hunting season. With this new system, hunters will know how the harvest is going and whether or not some extra effort is needed to keep a unit out of Earn-a-Buck status."

Earn-a-Buck designation means that a hunter must first harvest an antlerless deer to "earn" a buck harvest privilege. While very effective at reducing deer numbers in overpopulated units, Earn-a-Buck, or EAB, means a hunter may have to pass up a chance at a nice buck if that is the first deer they see when out in the field.

Using the new tracking system, the DNR will allow hunters shooting and registering a deer from a Zone T unit that is on the watch list to pre-qualify for a buck tag the following year if that unit becomes Earn-a-Buck.

It is critical that hunters be sure that their registration stubs are completely and clearly filled out according to Warnke, especially important is their hunter ID number and the deer management unit where the deer was shot if they want to take advantage of this preauthorization feature.

Other interesting facts biologists found from reviewing the first 11,000 or so registration stubs submitted by registration stations across the state is that hunters are shooting on average 1.7 antlerless deer for each buck taken or about a 63 percent antlerless harvest so far.

"That's very good news," says Warnke, who along with the rest of the state's wildlife managers has been strongly encouraging hunters to shoot more antlerless deer in order to bring deer populations down to levels set in state law.

"The first couple of weeks of reporting under this new system have been very positive. There are a few bugs we need to work out of the system but all-in-all it's very encouraging. Once all the bugs are out I anticipate that we will be able to begin posting the harvest results on a near weekly basis giving Wisconsin hunters the most up to the minute harvest data of any state in the country."

Good 2nd half propels 6th graders to big win and a 7-1 mark

BY JUDY HARLOW

By winning their finale 26-0 over Brookfield Central, the sixth grade Gridiron football team put the finishing touches on a very successful season.

The win gave the younger Indians an overall mark of 7-1, best of the four Kewaskum feeder squads. After losing their season opener, the young Indians reeled off seven straight victories.

"It started off kind of slow," coach Joe Backhaus said about Saturday's game, reporting a fake punt was the spark that led to the first score late in the first half.

Facing a fourth-and-two situation, "Kenny Gigstead got us 12 yards (on the fake)," Backhaus said, reporting Colton Gruber later punched it in from the one on third at goal, giving the home team a 6-0 lead at the break.

In the second half, "We put together a couple of drives," Backhaus went on, noting a 47-yard pass from Tony Gonring to Eric Perkins set up another Gruber TD, and later Gonring scored on a keeper play.

Perkins scored the final touchdown and added one extra point, according to Backhaus, who said, "We played really good defense again ... we usually had to work with a short field (on offense). Gigstead led the way. He had five tackles ... (Lance) Pinchard, Joey Wollner, Austin Goeman, they all had multiple tackles. These little guys were doing some heavy hitting," emulating the Kewaskum High defense earlier in the day in its playoff game against Waupun.

Backhaus also noted a 40-yard punt return by Dan Bohn set up one of the second half scores.

The seventh graders were pretty well dominated by a powerful Central team. The final score was 40-13, giving coach Tom Kudek's team a final mark of 3-4-1.

Mike Schladweiler scored one of Kewaskum's touchdowns and tacked on the extra point on a run. Cody Nuernberg scored the other TD, according to Kudek, who said, "We had one nice long drive."

"They (Brookfield Central) had a good team. They were 7-0," the coach said.

About his team's season, Kudek said, "They made some improvement" from last year.

The game was scoreless at halftime, but the Kewaskum eighth grade team scored four times in the second en route to a 24-12 win over the Brookfield club.

"They were about the same caliber team we are," coach "Jonesy" Korth said. The first half was marred by penalties, then Kewaskum "finally came around" after the break.

Scott Steldt scored first on a counter play, and that opened the door for a couple of TDs by QB Cody Lemke. Brandon Zolp also got in the scoring act for the "A" team, which finished the year at 3-5.

Korth said lineman Cody Enright "played a real good defensive game."

The fifth grade game went down to the wire at Random Lake, as the two squads battled to a 19-19 draw.

"It was a good game," coach Mark Walcheske said. "Our defense played well against a physically bigger team."

Kewaskum, which also ended up 3-4-1, was stopped at the Ram's 7-yard line on the final play of the game. "We almost won it. They called time out with two seconds left. We had a fourth and five, and on a reverse, Nathan Krupp almost went 70 yards," Walcheske said, reporting Random's 5-foot-10 safety caught him.

Krupp had all three of Kewaskum's TDs, one of them coming on a 97-yard return of an interception. The young Indians led 19-13 at half.

Alex Fechter drew praise from the coach after playing both ways in the line.

"Everything clicked yesterday. I am pleased with the way the season ended up," Walcheske said, indicating he has high hopes this group will do even better next season.

The Gridiron banquet is being held tonight (Thursday) at the Amerahn.

Cramp hampers Gibson's effort in Cross Country sectional

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

The sad thing about high school cross country is no matter how much a runner has improved during a season or how well he is done, qualifying for the state meet comes down to one event — the sectional competition.

A slight injury or a cramp can mean the season is over and a dream is lost, and that's pretty much what happened to talented Kewaskum High junior Bob Gibson. The Indians' No. 1 had a good year but ended up with a cramp in the Division 2 sectional at Mayville on Oct. 22nd, and he had no chance to make it to state.

Gibson wound up 23rd in the race involving 18 boys teams, covering the 5,000 meters in a time of 18 minutes and 14 seconds (18:14), far off his usual times.

The Kewaskum boys placed sixth overall with 187 points. The top two teams, which competed in the state meet last Saturday, were Shorewood and Sheboygan Falls with respective scores of 36 and 93 points.

"The boys team ran great. Everybody was up for this race ... maybe a little too much," KHS Coach Dave Drexler said. "Bobby got a bad cramp at about the two-mile mark and struggled to finish. He was very disappointed, as was most everybody on the team because he has run in the low 17s and that would have been good enough to qualify for state."

Zack Van Wormer led the Indians on this day, placing 22nd at 18:12, just ahead of Gibson for only the first time this season.

Jon Hawig finished in the 38th spot at 18:51, followed by Tyler McElhatton in 47th (19:07) and Justis Clayton in 57th (19:33).

"I am disappointed in not getting Bobby to state, but looking back on the season, I feel the team put forth a great effort and did finish the season on a high note," Drexler said. "This is going to be a tough group to replace for next year as there are five seniors on the squad."

The Indian girls were far too young and inexperienced to challenge any of the other teams in the competition. They wound up 16th out of 16 with 44 points. The Shorewood girls led the pack with 57 points, while Sheboygan

Falls was next and also qualified for state with 59 points.

The individual winner of the race was Shorewood's Claire Maduza, who turned in a sizzling time of 14:34 for the four kilometers.

Kewaskum's top runner was Tonya Janssen in the 66th spot. She had a time of 18:44, and was the only Indian to break the 19-minute mark. Next came Kristin Vogt (19:31) and Alissa Clapper (19:54) in 84th and 92nd places, respectively, and the other counters were Nicole Stern (22:27) and Crystal Treptow (23:45) in 101st and 103rd.

The Campbellsport boys had a total of 237 points, good for eighth overall. Once again, Sam Gellings and Spenser Rodenkirch led the way, in 19th and 24th places behind times of 18:05 and 18:15.

The Lady Cougars were 14th with 373 points. Cecilee Rodenkirch placed 77th, crossing the finish line in 19:07.

The Kettle Moraine Lutheran boys finished 13th with 308 points. Mitch Keller of Kewaskum placed 83rd for the Chargers, covering the course in 20:36.

Defense paves the way for another KHS playoff victory

The play of Jon Olla (6) was very instrumental in Kewaskum High's 28-0 victory over Waupun in a second round playoff game played last Saturday. Above, Olla, who kicked two field goals and intercepted two passes, follows through on his 25-yard field goal. The holder on the play is senior Matt Rinzel.

A lot of attention has been given to the potent offensive unit of the unbeaten Kewaskum (11-0) High football team, but it was the defense that took center stage in Saturday's Division 3 playoff game.

The Indians forced visiting Waupun into five ... yes that's right, five turnovers in the first half of a second round game, propelling them to a convincing 28-7 victory over the Warriors, whose season came to an abrupt halt after going 9-1 to this point.

Playing with two of its stars, guard/linebacker Jeff Thull and fullback/defensive end/punter Ross Stockhausen on injured reserve, the Indians needed some early sparks and got them from the defense.

Kewaskum intercepted Cody Mueller four times in the first 24 minutes, and the biggest of all the picks came just 1:35 before intermission when senior Zach Wollner saw an opportunity to be the star of the KHS show.

Reading the quarterback as he has done so well all year, Wollner smelled an out pattern, stepped in front of the ball and was off to the races for a 31-yard TD, giving the Indians a 13-0 lead and all but dashing the Warriors' spirit.

"That was huge," KHS Coach Jason Piittmann said afterward, referring to Wollner's heroics, the other four turnovers, which included a fumble recovery by Robert Weber, another interception by Wollner, and one each by Garrett Donath and Jon Olla.

Don't forget that last name ... Olla, a soccer player, turned football star his junior year, got the Indians off to a good start with a 35-yard field goal in the first quarter (1:22 left) and added another one of 25 yards in the second quarter.

Wollner's first interception gave Kewaskum the football at the Waupun 48-yard line. After a short run by Donath, a face mask penalty gave the Indians an extra down, which they put to good use. Donath darted and dodged his way 10 yards on the run, and another face mask penalty was called on the Warriors, giving KHS the ball on the Warrior 24.

Donath, who had to work hard for every yard he gained in the first half (11 carries for 37 yards), moved another eighty yards forward on first down, then Chad Piwoni was sacked for a four yard loss and Donath only got two of it back on third down, putting the Indians in a fourth and four situation at the 18.

There was no hesitation on Piittmann's part. He signaled for the field goal unit, and Olla promptly drilled the ball through the uprights.

Waupun picked up two first downs on its next possession before Olla drifted back on a passing down and picked off a Mueller toss. KHS got one first down on running plays, then Jeremy Gurholt made an excellent grab on a Piwoni pass for 13 yards and another first down on the Waupun 30.

Piwoni found Eric Ogi for another 13-yard gain before the drive stalled. Olla had no problem on the 25-yard kick, and KHS was up 6-0.

With the lead and momentum on their side, the replacement players for Thull and Stockhausen were starting to feel more comfortable, and the Indians were confident they could move the football.

The second possession of the second half proved that, as the Indians went 64 yards in 16 plays, even overcoming a holding call,

Statesman photo by Judy Harlow for a score. Donath pounded the ball into the end zone from the 1 after two other tries were unsuccessful.

KHS went for the 2-point conversion and got it on a pass from Piwoni to Matt Parent.

Waupun only gained four yards on its next possession and was forced to punt into the wind, giving the Indians the ball at Waupun's 42. It didn't stay there long, however, as two runs by Donath and a clutch 12-yard pass to the sure-handed Ogi gave the Indians a first down on the 27.

Piwoni carried for an 8-yard option on the next play, then Logan Staeger moved seven yards forward, and five plays later, Donath found the end zone again for his 19th TD of the year.

Waupun got on the board with 6:31 remaining in the contest. The Warriors used a 28-yard pass from Mueller to Luke Marwitz to get to the 24, and another pass to Wade Williams moved the ball to the 2 before Marwitz went in untouched on a sweep.

Waupun had two more chances with the ball. One was stopped by Olla's second interception, a fantastic play which saw him go over the intended receiver's back to catch the ball.

"Olla had a great game kicking and at outside linebacker," Piittmann said, reporting how the Indians had been a little down when they came to practice Wednesday, knowing Thull and Stockhausen, two of the captains, were out for the year.

"Jon Olla made himself the heart and soul of the team," Piittmann went on how the players picked up emotionally and had crisp practices Thursday and Friday.

"Waupun's speed had us so scared," Piittmann said, but, "Our defense was even bigger today," and we did a good job of stopping him (Marwitz)."

"And Zach Wollner again ... the kid's incredible," the coach said, referring to the fact Wollner has returned three picks for TDs this fall.

Donath wound up rushing for 90 yards in 30 carries, while Piwoni completed 11x15 passes for 123 yards. Ogi led the receivers with four catches for 60 yards.

"Gentlemen, you earned this!" Piittmann said in his post-game huddle with the players, praising reserves Staeger (FB), Casey Scheel (punter), and Tony Lewko (line) for stepping in so nicely.

Next up for the Indians, in a quarterfinal Division 3 game, is Pewaukee (9-2), which outlasted Brown Deer in a triple overtime thriller, 34-28.

Kewaskum will host the game Saturday, November 5 at 1 p.m.
