Drug search at KHS produces nothing

By Andrew Kuehl Statesman Managing Editor akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM-Kewaskum Police Department joined forces with five other law enforcement agencies to conduct a drug search at Kewaskum High School the morning of Friday, March 31. Officers were pleased that the searches in the building and of cars in the parking lot revealed drugs were not present on the campus.

The law enforcement officers were assisted by drug sniffing K-9 units. The units searched all lockers and cars, for both staff and students. KHS principal, Christine Horbas stated four lockers that indicated for drugs were searched, as well as, three vehicles. Thorough searches revealed no drugs in any of these cases or on the persons searched.

Horbas stated that the search was planned well before one of the school's tech ed teachers was accused of drug possession on March

Police departments from Sheboygan Falls, Germantown, Lomira, Mayville, and Jackson assisted.

Sexual offender education well Sexual offenders in received in Campbellsport your community

Nichole Hall of the Wisconsin Department of Correction speaks to audience members at a seminar held in Campbellsport on sexual predators.

ByJoann Schrauth Special to The Statesman

CAMPBELLSPORT- More than 60 citizens attended a sex offender information/education meeting. Campbellsport Police Chief Randy Karoses assured audience members the purpose was to educate the public about sexual predators, not to inform residents an offender was being released into the community.

Karoses introduced Eric

Karoses introduced Eric Gross and Nichole Hall, both from the Wisconsin Department of Corrections who made presentations to audience members. Gross started off the discussion.

"If people spend all their time looking for the stranger in the bushes, they're going to miss the real thing," Gross, Supervisor, Wisconsin Department of Corrections, told a crowd at the Campbellsport Public Library on Tuesday evening, March 28. Gross is a probation and parole officer in Fond du Lac. He said, "The people I'm afraid of are those who are not caught."

Gross said there is no typical sex offender. He said the youngest registered offender is age eight and the oldest is 101 years old. He said sex offenders are both male and female, and come from all walks of life. He said a sex offender could be a 19-year-old who had a consensual sexual relationship with his 15-year-old girl friend.

Making sex offender information public takes away the anonymity, Gross said. "The good news is that we know about them. Information is power." Gross said some released sex offenders are monitored with ankle bracelets or GPS (Global Positioning System) units. "That way, we know where they are every minute, every second of every day," he said.

Hall listed myths and facts regarding sex offenders. Some of Hall's information included: Sex offenders thrive on secrecy. Some sex offenders can be treated. Most sex offenders are not re-convicted of new sex offenses. Not all offend against children. Monitor relationships. Be aware of your surroundings. Have good outside lighting. Lock doors. Don't allow someone you don't know into your house. Pull shades. Get a dog. Use an unlisted phone number, or don't have your address listed in the phone book. Trust your instincts.

She said most offenders know their victims. She advised telling someone where you are going, who you will be with, and when you'll return. For someone who lives alone, they advised leaving a note so someone would know where to look. She also said it is important to know your children's friends and to monitor their Internet use.

Hall and Gross said sex offenders may use "grooming" techniques to gain a potential victim's trust. Both said it is important to take precautions, but to not become paranoid. They advised being safe, but also keeping things in perspective.

Attendees received handouts including the "Protective Behaviors" booklet from ASTOP in Fond du Lac, which Hall reviewed with the audience.

"I was very pleased with the turnout," Karoses said. "The presentation was very well explained and understood. The comments (from the public) at the end of the program were about how and why we (CPD) can notify the surrounding neighbors when a sex offender is released into that specific area," Karoses said. He said the CPD will be looking into that.

He concluded, registered sex offenders in the Campbellsport area are not of the high profile type.

In 1997, the State of Wisconsin enacted the Sex Offender Registration and Community Notification Law. This law was created to monitor and track people convicted of sex crimes and to provide access to this information for police, victims and the general public.

A check of offenders living in Kewaskum finds four offenders residing. Campbellsport is home to 14 offenders, Eden, four, and West Bend has 50 offenders living there.

In addition to listing sexual offenders, the Department of Corrections also has a vast library of information on sexual abuse, offenders and what to do if you suspect your child is or has been abused.

Lisa Krenke, Executive Director of Friends of Abused Families in West Bend says 93% of victims are abused by someone they know. The 'Dark Side'

By Matt Pommer

The Catholic Church is asking the Assembly to reject putting an advisory referendum about the death penalty on the September primary ballot. The question, already approved by the State Senate, asks if the death penalty should be allowed in "vicious" murders that are supported by DNA evidence.

DNA evidence.

John Huebscher, executive director of the Wisconsin Catholic Conference, said the death penalty question "probably" would pass. A primary election is the wrong time for such a vote, adding that the "vicious" tag might be attached "when the defendant is unpopular for other reasons," he said.

Senate President Alan Lasee, R-DePere, primary author of the idea of asking public opinion, agrees voters are likely to back restoring the death penalty.

"The death penalty should be an option for a judge and jury when examining what sentence to impose upon a defendant charged with a heinous crime," according to Lasee. Capital punishment is the only appropriate punishment for "predatory animals," he said.

Support for the death penalty isn't new, Huebscher told legislators. "The legislators who abolished the death penalty 150 years ago knew the public approved of executions. The public hangings in Wisconsin's first years of statehood drew large crowds.

man nature," Huebscher said.

"Those spectacles convinced your predecessors there had to be a better way. They took that way by abolishing capital punishment. History has vindicated them by the kind of state Wisconsin has become," he continued.

"There are certain issues where the values at stake are too important to be subjected to the whim of public opinion. We vote for a Senate and an Assembly so that their wisdom may discern what is in a community's best interest. We expect them to put their love of justice above their desire for popularity," added Huebscher.

"Fanning flames over the issue of capital punishment won't prevent crime. We already know that," he said. "But an emotional debate over the referendum in an election season will deflect discussion from other vital issues - issues where policy can make a difference."

Dear Editor-

The land around the proposed Glenview Heights subdivision is, for the most part, bordered by the Theresa Marsh, farm land, and some rural housing. Most of the land owners who have land bordering this proposed subdivision are vehemently against it. The current density in the area is much less than what this subdivision is proposing. A possible alternative to the plan would be reduced density to a level that would support the town's sliding scale development plan.

This issue is very important to most residents in the Town of Wayne simply because they feel the rural character, which is desirable to most residents, is being greatly compromised by the scattered subdivisions located at various locations in the town.

It would be of great benefit to the town if the planning commission and the town board could reach a compromise on this issue.

Some possible solutions might include a hold on all development until the 2010 plan is written for the town and county. Much time and effort is being put forth in the designing of this plan. It might be in the best interest of the town and the community to work out these controversial issues before steps are taken and decisions made that would later be regretted.

Once farmland is lost to large developments in the town, it can NEVER be replaced. The recently approved PDR program is a step in the right direction. Perhaps when this plan is implemented, the housing development issue can be resolved.

If you too have concerns about the rapid development in the Town of Wayne, please attend the April 11 and April 18 meetings to express those concerns. Also call your town's planning commission members and ask them how they plan to control growth in the Town of Wayne.

Judith M. Jacak Concerned Citizen Town of Wayne

Dear Editor,

I attended the Kewaskum Elementary School Spring Concert last evening. The children's songs were great and so was the whole program. It moved along swiftly and the children moved in and out orderly.

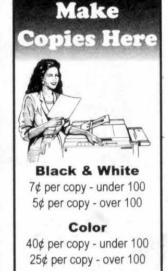

I have two concerns which should be noted.

On the back of the programs are the Rules for Concert Etiquette for Adults. This should be added to the list: Please do not leave after your child performed. There are other children in fourth and fifth grades who would love to sing and perform to an audience and not a room with 3/4 of the chairs empty, because people only came to see their children and then left.

The concert only lasted one hour and ten minutes so if parents were there for the afternoon program it would not hurt them to sit and hear the PM program and have the children sing to people and not empty chairs.

EDEN- To kick-off the summer construction season, Wisconsin Department of Transportation Secretary Frank Busalacchi joined law enforcement and county highway workers Tuesday, April 4 to urge motorists to use caution and slow down while driving through work zones. The event was held in a DOT work zone near Eden on the CTH B off ramp of USH 41

"Work zones can be dan-gerous places," Busalacchi said at the event for the media. "They're dangerous not only for workers, but also for motorists. Last year in Wisconsin, at least nine people died in 17-hundred work zone crashes. Another 863 people were injured.

Winnebago County High-Commissioner John Haese, who had two workers killed in a work zone crash last month, and Fond du Lac Highway Commissioner Ernie Winters, who lost a worker in a work zone crash three years ago spoke to the media at the event. Busalacchi said the state doing several things to highway work zones safe, including enhancing enforcement, testing travel time information systems, experimenting with "late merge" techniques, posting variable speed limits, and enforcing double fines penalties for violations in work zones.

"We're working to get the message out that work zones are different," Busalacchi said. "They require different driving behaviors because they may have narrow lanes, different merges from side roads, and rough or uneven pavement."

He encouraged motorists to slow down, pay attention, merge when they should, leave enough space between vehicles, and to buckle up. He added that this week is Work Zone Awareness Week in Wisconsin by special proclamation from Governor Jim

"Reducing fatalities in work zones will take the cooperation of all of us - contractors, motorists, and the Department of Transportation," Secretary Busalacchi said. "We want everyone to make it home safely, every night."

Madison Update

By Senator Glenn Grothman 20th Senate District

As the state legislature heads into the final months of session the worst attributes of the process are coming into view. On March 8th, 90 bills were voted on in the Senate. No legislator can seriously say he or she understood all the bills. In an election year there is a need to do something, anything.

A spending bill, Special Session Senate Bill 1. By law the state is supposed to keep $65 million dollars in reserve in case income and sales tax revenues are down. We are currently at $10 million dollars. Given this dire situation, it should be almost inconceivable that any new spending bill would pass.

Wisconsin currently provides heating assistance to low-income people during the six coldest months of the year. Some of the money is provided by state taxpayers through a fee in your own heating bill. Most is provided by the federal government. In a supposedly tight budget passed last year, the legislature increased funding of this program by 30 percent for the winter just ending. The state share went up by over 75 percent!

This spring Governor Doyle proposed spending still more. The legislature passed a bill for Governor Doyle to sign adding another $6 million dollars to this program. This is another 30 percent increase. The Government was so desperate to spend money that it took money for this heating bill increase from something called the PECFA fund. The money came from a special gas tax you pay that was supposed to go for cleaning up ground pollution from old gas stations.

The program is now expanded to include people who earn from 150 to 175 percent of the federal poverty level. Checks for reimbursement of last winter heating bills probably will not be sent out until June, well after bills are actually paid

If the legislature can't say

If the legislature can't say "no" to a new spending proposal when the program just went up by 30 percent and the state is virtually broke, when will it say no?

Two KMS students qualify for state forensics meet

On March 18, 2006 1,270 sixth, seventh and eighth grade students from around the state of Wisconsin converged on Neenah High School for the Middle Level Forensics Association's Annual State Tournament

Students from Kewaskum Middle School were one of 85 schools that represented the top 1/3 of all competitors in the state from as far north as Durand, to Neenah to the Metro-Milwaukee area. Both public and private schools participate and students choose one of the 18 group or individual categories offered by the association. Students must average 37 points at three separate meets in order to qualify for the competition.

State qualifiers included: Sarah Ries and Valerie Paulus, both seventh graders at KMS. Categories range from Group to Solo Acting, News Reporting to Infomercials, Informative to Persuasive to Demonstrative Speech, and Prose or Poetry Reading. Ries and Paulus performed extremely well in the two opening rounds of competition both receiving an average of 39.5 out of a possible 42 points in their categories of Prose and Solo Humorous Acting. This is one of the largest academic extra curricular activities participated in across the state of Wisconsin.

The goal of the Middle Level Forensics Association is to promote public speaking in all areas and help develop our future communicators while students have fun! The organization strives to align its categories with the State Standards for Oral Communication. You never know who will be the next Oprah Winfrey, Chris Farley, news reporter, CEO or educator. The Middle Level Forensics Association is a great place for them to be nurtured and get a great start to being a future communica-

He Arose

Each spring, God renews his promise of life. Flowers begin to appear and the trees get new buds and leaves. Many more birds appear than were observed on the feeders during winter. Nature seems to shout "Jesus Christ has risen from the dead and he is alive today.

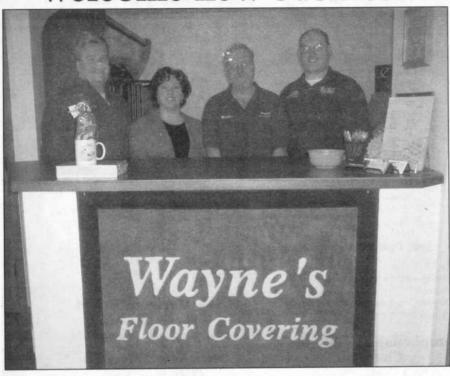

Because the Savior lives and has promised, "I will come again and receive you unto myself," John 14:31, The Christian can face the trials of life and even death with the hope of glorious future.

Dairyland Seed awards truckload of Hybrid Alfalfa

Rosly Bragger was all smiles at the Professional Dairy Producers of Wisconsin Annual Business Conference. That's because the twelve-year old was the winner of a semi-trailer load of HybriForce-400 hybrid alfalfa, the grand prize drawing sponsored by Dairyland Seed Co., Inc.

"She was so excited," said her father, Joe Bragger. "She hasn't stopped chattering since."

The semi was shipped from Dalhart, Texas, for the event. The 196 Relative Feed Value made it enticing to show attendees. "We wanted to relieve the stress on a farmer who had a shortage of hay supply due to last spring's winterkill," said Derry Abraham, alfalfa product manager for Dairyland Seed.

"The PDPW Annual Conference was the perfect event, because it brings in high quality producers from not only Wisconsin but other states as well. It is a very strong, producer-oriented organization," Abraham said. "Its members represent the future of dairying."

The Braggers farm near Independence, Wis. They milk 180 cows on their parlor/ freestall operation, finish out a number of steers, and raise 32,000 pullets for Golden Plump each year.

The Braggers also raise 350 to 400 acres of alfalfa every year.

This was the first year the Braggers attended the PDPW Annual Business Conference, and the Dairyland Seed booth was the first place they stopped.

"We walked in the doors, smelled that hay and went right on over," he explained. "They hardly had the drawing box out yet."

The Braggers are very appreciative of this prize, and will put the alfalfa to good use.

"We'd like to thank Dairyland Seed and everyone involved. This is very exciting for Rosly, and for our whole family," he said. "We also would like to thank PDPW for this wonderful conference. It's a fantastic opportunity to learn, exchange ideas and network with other producers."

Dairyland Seed is a thirdgeneration family seed business headquartered in West Bend, Wis. Dairyland has an established dealer network throughout the Upper Midwest with distributorships throughout North America, Canada and Argentina. Dairyland conducts the largest independent plant breeding effort in the U.S. seed industry. It is unique in the seed industry as it is the only privately held business with plant breeding programs in hybrid alfalfa, hybrid corn and soybeans.

LEGAL NOTICES

RESOLUTION NO. 2006-07 ACTION TO ALLOW THE ENCROACHMENT IN TO THE FLOOD FRINGE BY THE SEWAGE PUMP STATION NO. 1

BE IT RESOLVED, that Ruekert & Mielke the Villages Engineers have recommended that the Sewage Pump Station No. 1 be allowed to encroach the flood fringe by approximately 12 feet. This would result in a negligible affect to the flood fringe and would maintain the integrity of a fiber optic cable, and a project cost reduction.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, the Village Plan Commission met in regular session on February 28, 2006 and unanimously recommended, allowing the Sewage Pump Station No. I to encroach the flood fringe area and sent that favorable recommendation to the Village Board.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RE-SOLVED, by the Village Board of the Village of Kewaskum that they grant permission for the Sewage Pump Station No. 1 to encroach the flood fringe area for the overall betterment of the Village of Kewaskum and Sanitary Sewer Utility.

ADOPTED AND APPROVED this 20th day of March, 2006 by the Kewaskum Village Board.

Resolution No. 2006-08 Urging the State Legislature to Reject the TP Amendment (SJR 63 / AJR 77)

WHEREAS, Sen. Glen Grothman (R-West Bend) and Rep. Jeff Woods (R-Chippewa Falls) have introduced companion joint resolutions (SJR 63 / AJR 77), referred to as the Taxpayer Protection Amendment (TP Amendment), that would insert revenue limits on state and local governments into the Wisconsin State Constitution; and

WHEREAS, the proposed constitutional amendment limits a municipality's annual growth in revenue from property taxes and fees to the lesser of the average rate of inflation over the last three years or the annual percentage increase in state personal income plus 60 percent of the percentage increase in property values related to new construction within the municipality; and

WHEREAS, the TP Amendment would severely restrict the Village of Kewaskum's or any Municipalities ability to foster and serve new economic development because the growth formula is capped at 60% rather than 100% of new construction and the revenue limits apply to debt service levies and TIF levies; and

WHEREAS, the TP Amendment interferes with the elected village board's control over municipal taxing and spending decisions and undermines Wisconsin's tradition of representative democracy; and

Call the Statesman for all your advertising needs 262-626-3312

WHEREAS, the proposal won't reduce property taxes because it severely restricts other forms of revenue, like stormwater utility fees, building permit fees, license fees, and impact fees that reduce the property tax cost of essential services and that fairly assess the cost of services according to use; and

WHEREAS, the TP Amendment fails to recognize that Wisconsin municipalities are a diverse group with great variation in economic conditions, tax base and reliance on shared revenues; and

WHEREAS, by applying the same revenue limits on all communities regardless of local conditions, the TP Amendment unfairly penalizes poorer communities as well as those that have been particularly frugal and efficient in recent years; and

WHEREAS, it will be difficult to modify the revenue limits in the future making it impossible to respond quickly to emergencies; and

WHEREAS, the Village of Kewaskum's Village Board elected officials have consistently demonstrated their commitment to controlling spending and reducing the property tax burden on homeowners and share the Legislature's concerns about high property taxes in this state; and

WHEREAS, we are particularly concerned that homeowners bear over 70% of the statewide property tax burden; and

WHEREAS, we believe that there are better ways to lessen the residential property tax burden than inserting revenue limits into the constitution, including

- · Working with local governments to develop and enact proposals fundamentally reforming how local government is structured and financed in
- · Reducing the number and scope of property tax exemptions created for special interests. Increases in property tax exemptions have unfairly shifted more of the burden for paying for municipal services onto homeowners. In 1970, residential owners paid 50% of all property taxes in Wisconsin. Today, they pay over
- Providing municipal officials with the flexible tools they need for controlling property taxes locally.
- · Increasing state funding of shared revenue.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Village Board of the Village of Kewaskum opposes the TP Amendment and urges the Legislature to reject SJR 63 / AJR 77 and instead work with municipalities to accomplish real property tax relief for homeowners

Majority of the varsity players were missing because of music trip

Soccer opener wasn't a true indication of Indians' potential

BY JUDY HARLOW Statesman Correspondent

jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

The scheduling of another activity interfered with the season opener of the Kewaskum High girls soccer team, but first-year head coach John Berst took the 6-0 loss to host Howards Grove in stride and hopes it will serve as a building block for the Lady Indians the remainder of the season.

"At least 11 varsity players were missing. They are in Mrytle Beach (South Carolina) for five days for a band and chorus competition," Berst said Sunday. "That kind of depleted the ranks. We had about four regular varsity players ... the rest of them were JVs.

Berst reported the Lady Tigers had the wind in the first half and scored five goals. "In the second half, we had the wind, and it was 1-0. We made some adjustments ... I was pleased with the effort."

Kewaskum also scrimmaged the Campbellsport varsity team on Tuesday, with the two varsities dueling to a 0-0

"For 20 minutes, we went varsity against varsity, and then the next 20, it was our JVs vs. their varsity," according to Berst, who said while the JVs were out matched, "It was a good way to have the kids learn what level of play needs to be reached." He said it was a good chance to give several of the girls looks at different positions, and, "It wasn't bad."

Berst, who is being assisted by former KHS athlete Amy Piwoni, is working with a varsity squad of 16, led by seniors Danielle Yanke and Dawn Miller and sophomore goalie Jocelyn

No final standings from the Eastern Wisconsin Conference were made available to Berst. "My guess is they probably had three or four wins," he said, indicating he knows Yankee, Abfall and Dawn Miller lettered a year ago, but beyond that is unsure of who received letters.

Yanke carried the load last season as far as the offense was concerned, and after she went down with a knee injury, the team struggled the rest of the way.

After a couple weeks of preseason workouts, Berst said his tentative starting lineup will have Katie Gaynor as the last defender in front of Abfall, who was "in (the nets) for pretty much of the scrimmage, and she did pretty well," stopping perhaps four or five shots.

Juniors Nicole Hesprich and Katie Schoofs, along with senior Katherine Hunter will be three other defenders, with Sam Kattar, Lindsay Krautkramer, Yanke and Miller in the midfield, and Katie Ziebel and Elisa Schoofs "up top." Kattar, Krautkramer and Elisa Schoofs are juniors, while Ziebel is one of the three sophomores currently on the varsity.

Berst is also looking at senior Theresa Knobling to help out. She is a 5-foot 8 inch (5-8) defensive back, a foreign exchange student from Brazil. "You can tell she has some skills," Berst said about Knobling, who has been slowed the last week after getting kicked in the ankle.

Yanke was also nursing a sore thigh before leaving for the band and choral trip, and Berst thinks the break will help her get back to 100 percent.

Berst likes what he has seen from Abfall, who stands 6-0 and has good range, and says Hunter is likely the No. 2 goalie after seeing some action there last spring.

The forward Ziebel also shows potential. "She is learning to play a physical game," Berst said, indicating the other sophomore, Anne Lieven, a 5-6 defender, "continues to improve."

As far as who will contend for the EWC crown this spring, Berst said, "I think it will probably be Kiel or Plymouth," adding he is not sure which of the two schools is the defending champion.

The new coach is happy all his players were expected to be ready for their game against Sheboygan Falls on Tuesday (April 4, 4:30 p.m. on the field to the east of the high school).

Kewaskum is at New Holstein today (Thursday) and will host Oostburg in a non-conference game Friday at 4:30 p.m.

Other members of the KHS varsity include: junior Allison Kowalczyk, 5-4 midfield; junior Karissa Dums, 5-6 forward; and Emily Boden, 5-6 defender.

Brock, Kison have big nights for Lady Indians

BY JUDY HARLOW Statesman Correspondent

jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Competing in the small school division of the Oshkosh High Schools Invitational this past Tuesday, the Kewaskum High girls track and field team wasn't able to duplicate the place or points posted by the Indian boys the week before, but they don't have the experience their counterparts have either.

Led by Erika Brock, the only senior on the team, the Indians scored eight points to finish 20 in a field of about 40 teams.

Brock finished fourth in the shot put, while Nicole Kison added a sixth in the long jump for Kewaskum's two places.

Green Bay Notre Dame won the meet, which was held in the Kolf Field House, which is located on the UW-Oshkosh campus. The Tritans amassed 60 points and needed every one of them since Rosholt was right on their heels with 59 points.

Catholic Memorial of Waukesha, which always fields a strong team, finished third with 46, and then came Luxemburg-Casco and Two Rivers (like Kewaskum, a member of the Eastern Wisconsin Conference), which both came in with 38 points.

Brock had a personal best effort of 35 feet, 4 inches (35-4) in her specialty, and KHS coach Jerry Gosa said, "She had a super night. Her goal was going to be 38 feet and three inches, so we were kidding her she was one inch too far."

"The other real nice finish was Nicole Kison in the long jump," Gosa went on about Kison's effort of 15-1 in the event, a good jump indoors and this early in the year.

Kison also turned in a time of 1 minutes, 8.20 seconds (1:08.20) to wind up 17th in a field of 49 runners in the 400 meters. "Not bad for a freshman," Gosa said about one of his rookie runners who shows great promise.

Another freshman with a great deal of talent is Amber Struck, who was clocked in 5:59.89 in the 1,600, good enough for 11th overall, and the Lady Indians' 4x200 relay quartet, comprised of Jessie Forbes, Alissa Clapper, Kison and Kelly Uelmen, was clocked in 2:01.13 to end up in the 18th spot.

Originally, Gosa figured his high jumper, Sam Droese, would place among the top three, but Droese did not compete Tuesday, and the coach said it was a matter of her "not meeting team expectations." Gosa declined to say when or whether she will be back this spring.

Kewaskum was scheduled to host its first outdoor competition Tuesday (April 4) with three other EWC schools, Roncalli, Sheboygan Falls and New Holstein coming for the quadrangular.

"If the weatherman is right, we could be all right," Gosa said about the possibility of getting Tuesday's meet in.

On Saturday, a few of the Indians will be involved in the State Indoor Meet on the UW campus in Madison. Gosa has planned to take a couple relays and several individuals to this meet, but, "It's also the day of the ACT Test," Gosa said, so now he is planning to take only Luke Herriges for the high jump, Garett Donath in the pole vault, Brock in the shot put and "maybe Struck in the mile."

After a year as head coach, Kraft finds demands of the job are too heavy

BY JUDY HARLOW Statesman Correspondent jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Just two weeks after the boys varsity basketball coach resigned at Kewaskum High School, the head coach of the girls program has also decided to step down from the position.

David Kraft turned in his resignation on Friday and told the Statesman on Saturday, the decision was made to free up more time to spend with his wife. Kraft took over the head coaching position last fall after spending two years as the varsity assistant and seven years as the JV coach.

"I have been thinking about it since the middle of the season," Kraft said. "My assistants knew. I had talked with them about it."

Kraft, who works as a machinist for Harley Davidson in Milwaukee, only had one senior and a couple of juniors on his varsity team, which went winless in 2005-'06. While the team only scored 35 points in a couple games, it did improve defensively as it went through the second rotation of the Eastern Wisconsin Conference. In many of those second games, the Lady Indians gave up 20 or fewer points vs. EWC opponents.

When asked if the outcome of the season had a bearing on his decision, Kraft said, "It actually had nothing to do with the losing season we had." He said from the beginning, he knew if was going to be difficult to come up with any wins the first year, but he didn't know what a struggle it would be with juggling time involved with coaching, work and being at home.

"I spend so much time here (at Harley Davidson) ... then with basketball, and I wanted to spend more time with my wife," Kraft said.

As far as recommending any of his assistants for the head job, Kraft said, "I would, but I don't know if they're interested though.

Kraft's JV coach this past season was Terriann Gundrum, who played some collegiate basketball and Lois Volesky, who did not have a great deal of background in the sport but was willing to take the job and learn. Volesky and her husband are expecting their first child in the near future.

Concerning optimism for the Kewaskum program in the future, Kraft said, "I believe there is, but the kids have to make a bigger commitment. It has to be year-round."

Kraft went on that he wishes everyone involved in the program the very best. "I had a lot of fun for the last 10 years," he said

KHS Athletic Director Jason Piittmann said Saturday the search for a replacement for Kraft would begin as soon as the School Board approves the resignation at its nest meeting.

Kewaskum's first 2-time state champ goes 1-2 in Senior showcase

More and more, it's looking like Rhoads will be a Badger

Scott Rhoads didn't place in the recent Senior Nationals Wrestling Tournament held in Pittsburgh, but it's looking more and more like the twotime WIAA Division 2 state champion from Kewaskum High School will be wrestling for the University of Wisconsin next year.

Rhoads, who finished this year with a 40-1 mark and posted a school record 134 victories during his career, indicated Monday the Wisconsin coaches want him to come to Madison to be a Badger.

"This last Friday and Saturday, I went to Madison. I was with the head coach Barry Davis and the whole wrestling team," Rhoads said. "I'm pretty close to positive I'm going to end up at Madison."

What Rhoads needs to do to seal the deal is get an athletic application into the school so he can be officially accepted. No scholarship money has been offered yet, according to the 145-pound dynamo, but he is holding out hope some athletic scholarship will be offered to him.

"They've showed a lot of interest, so I'm hoping," he said.

Rhoads said he did not have the opportunity to wrestle against any of the Badgers over the weekend, and that was mainly because he nicked up one of his knees in the tournament in Pittsburgh.

After resting the knee for a week, Rhoads said it feels much better, so he plans to drive to Madison in the near future to take part in one of the Badgers' unofficial weekly practices.

"They (Badgers) practice a couple times a week ... it's not mandatory but most of them go (to the practices)," Rhoads, who is not certain what he plans to major in, said. He is sporting around a 3.5 grade point average and is taking pre-calculus this year, so he should be able to handle the academics at Wisconsin.

Rhoads originally had announced the Senior Nationals was conducted March 31-April 2, but then learned it was a week earlier. He said even though he finished 1-2 in the event, it was a great opportunity getting to compete in it.

In his first match, "I had a four-time state champ from Nevada. He beat me 8-7," Rhoads said, reporting he lost the match in the closing two minutes.

"I was actually beating him going into the third period, 6-5 ... I thought I was going to win it, but he got an escape. Then he took me down (8-6). I got away (8-7), and we both ended up on our feet."

In the second match, Rhoads took on a wrestler from Florida. "I think he took second (place) in Florida. I beat him 14-3," Rhoads said, adding, "My third guy. I'm not sure where he was from. He beat me pretty bad. I think it was by five or six points."

Since this was a double elimination tournament, Rhoads was eliminated. He wrestled the first match Friday night and the other two Saturday morning. The competition went on until Sunday. Rhoads, who was accompanied to Pittsburgh by his parents, Jill and Paul, KHS head coach Dennis Aupperle and volunteer assistant, Joel Dziedzic, stayed to watch.

The Kewaskum contingent stayed to watch the competition.

When asked how many wrestlers were in his weight class, Rhoads said, "In mine, there were 59 and 60." There was no seeding, just a random draw, according to Rhoads, who said, "I was one of 10 guys who had a first round match."

And what did Rhoads think about the wrestlers at the tournament? "They were amazing," he said. "Just making it there was cool enough!"
