Town sues residents to bring properties into compliance

Very little progress has been made on clean-up of the Donald and David Stern properties on East Moraine Drive in the town of Kewaskum. Town officials are suing the two brothers in an effort to restore the property so it complies with the ag zoning ordinance.

*Town citations issued daily
total $1,125 for each property owner*

KEWASKUM- The township began investigating unlicensed junk dealers and bringing them into compliance in the spring of 2005. After bringing one into compliance earlier this year, they have now taken legal action against two residents whom they claim are operating salvage yards illegally. The township has also recently begun issuing three daily citations to the each totaling $1,125 for each day they are operating in non-compliance with town codes.

To town chairman Ellis Kahn it's simple. "The town board feels very strongly that all junk/salvage dealers must comply with town ordinances, and be properly licensed with the state and town," he stated Tuesday morning.

The two agricultural zoned properties in question are located on east Moraine Drive. David and Darlene Stern own a 14.57 parcel at 3382 E Moraine Drive. The almost 25 acre parcel directly east of David and Darlene, at 3350 E Moraine Drive is owned by former town employee and clerk Donald and June (Sandy) Stern.

According to the state, Donald owns and operates Don's Auto Salvage illegally on the property. Both properties contain numerous household appliances, tires, whole automobiles and automobile parts, farm machinery, fuel tanks, propane tanks, fuel drums and other items.

According to records from the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (DOT), Donald Stern holds a type four salvage license. A type four license only allows a salvage dealer to pick up salvage vehicles and deliver them to a shredder or licensed salvage dealer. The license does not permit storage of automobiles. Don's Auto Salvage also holds wastewater permits from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

According to letters from Donald's attorney Bill Neary, he contends that the salvage yard was in existence prior to 1985. The township contends that at that time the town was governed by county zoning. That zoning stipulated that junkyards were not permitted in agricultural zoned land; it was required to have industrial/commercial zoning.

Town begins process of "cleaning" up

Cleanup had two meanings for the township in 2005. On one hand it meant, cleaning up town records and making sure that each salvage yard (at the time four were recognized) was properly zoned and licensed. Then came the clean-up of the actual properties themselves.

On April 4, 2005, Donald and David Stern and their spouses were notified in separate letters that they needed to obtain a salvage dealers license. Both Donald and Sandy Stern have resigned their positions with the township since that time.

During that time until now, the township had gotten one salvage yard into compliance. David Bath owns and operates a salvage facility at 8715 Oak Road. His property was rezoned appropriately earlier this year. After he received the proper licenses from the state, he was granted a conditional use permit by the township. Conditions such as a site plan and plan of operation needed to be submitted in order to be granted the permit.

A site plan is necessary to help in emergencies. Such a plan is crucial to firefighters, this enables them to be aware of exactly what is stored where on the property and to be wary of danger before fighting a fire. A plan of operation explains to the township and neighbors of the operator when and how the business will operate.

Township gets serious with clean-up

Early in 2007 the township began taking definitive action with the Sterns. The township alleged that Donald had placed a fence in the township's road right of way. The township paid to have the property surveyed and determine the correct road right of way; it was found that Donald's fence remains in the right of way.

On April 17, the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (DOT) conducted an inspection on the Donald Stern property. Kim McCluskey reported she found motor vehicles, farm machinery and miscellaneous junk on the property at the time of the inspection.

As a result of the inspection, Stern's current DOT license will be held and not renewed when it expires unless the (currently stored) vehicles are removed or a new type one license is issued. The current license expires July 31, 2008.

On May 16, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) conducted an inspection of the property. At the time of the investigation it was found that Don's Auto Salvage was not in compliance with the hazardous waste management requirements of Wisconsin Statute Wisconsin Administrative Code.

Stern was given 30 days from May 21 to bring the property into compliance with state regulations. According to the township this has not been completed.

Seeing pending litigation, the township hired another attorney, James Danaher from Schloemer Law Firm in West Bend on June 5, to represent the town. Clerk Nancy Boden reports this was done to avoid any potential conflicts of interest because Sandy Stern worked with the town's primary attorney, Karen Christianson.

On June 14, a court order was issued to allow the township to make an inspection of both Stern properties. Brian Pionke, the zoning administrator, and Beth Klahn, the building inspector for the township, conducted an inspection. Also performing inspections were Chairman Kahn, Kewaskum Fire Chief Mark Groeschel, and Washington County Health Department Registered Nurse, Margaret Anderson.

The inspection of David Stern's property revealed: Sinks, tires (many with water in them), windows, lawn mowers, metal drums/barrels,

The change was made possible by the expansion of one staff position from limited-term to part-time. The library is now open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays; and 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. every Saturday. Access to the library's catalog is available 24 hours per day, 365 days per year at www.kewaskum.lib.wi.us.

Village to look into raising parking fines

KEWASKUM- Chief of Police Richard Knoebel will be reporting back to the village board in September regarding raising winter parking fines during winter parking. Currently those who do not adhere to parking restrictions are fined $10 per occurrence.

Trustee Kevin Scheunemann asked Chief Knoebel if "we have the most efficient system in place? I was almost accosted by people upset by citations last week," he reported at the August 20 board meeting looking for alternatives to the current practice of not allowing overnight parking November through April.

Chief Knoebel reported that the village had the same problem when odd-even parking was allowed.

Trustee Derek Peterson thought the current fine was too low, "there is no incentive, that won't get people off their butts," he stated. He thought the fine should be raised to $25.

Department of Public Works Director Jerry Gilles also reported his happiness with the current program. "This is the best way, the most efficient way to remove snow, police do a good job keeping cars off the street. I feel the present method is the best," he concluded.

Stern Lawsuit

home heating oil tanks, truck cab toppers, trailers, metal pipes, lawn mower engines, aluminum lawn chair frames, abandoned vehicles along with vehicle gas tanks, rusting farm implements, a school bus and various piles of debris.

The investigation of the Donald Stern property revealed: Almost 200 abandoned vehicles, many with radiators, gas tanks and batteries intact, propane tanks, large oil tanks, underground gasoline station storage tanks, tires (some cut to allow water out and some holding water), large grain wagons, trailers, semi trailer sized cattle trailer, lawn mowers, over 100 55-gallon drums, vehicle gasoline tanks, air conditioners and other debris.

Anderson stated, "On both properties it was noted that cattle were allowed to graze amongst the debris. Anderson reported concerns over injuries to the cattle and the possible contaminants being ingested by the cattle would make their meat and milk not safe for human consumption."

Chairman Kahn ordered both Donald and David Stern to have the properties cleaned. They were ordered to remove various debris and return their properties to the original permitted agricultural state within 30 days. That had not occurred as of this writing.

Town issues daily citations

The lack of action on both properties has brought about the issuance of daily citations for both David and Donald. The township can issue a citation for each day the property owners are not complying with town zoning and ordinances. Both David and Donald Stern have received three daily citations with forfeitures totaling $375 each since July 31. Each receive one for junk-junked car: public nuisance, operate junkyard w/o a license and restrictions on parking of equipment.

On August 3, Danaher informed the township that Donald Stern was asking for an additional 90 days. Neary reported progress was being made but more time was needed.

Because the town had already filed papers in circuit court to force clean-up, Chairman Kahn states the township will not grant an extension.

"We are not out to put the Sterns out of business, but simply they must comply with all town ordinances just like anyone else would have to do," Chairman Kahn concluded.

Gehl Company plans $20 million expansion project

Governor Jim Doyle shakes hands with Gehl Company chairman and CEO William Gehl after unveiling plans for a new research and design center and new office to be built in West Bend. The announcement was made at Gehl Company on Thursday, August 23.

WEST BEND- Governor Jim Doyle has announced $2 million to help Gehl Company expand their research and development and headquarters facilities in West Bend. Governor Doyle joined with representatives from the City of West Bend, Washington County, the Milwaukee 7 and Gehl Company to announce the expansion, which is expected to retain 191 jobs and create 87 new, good paying jobs for the area.

"To be competitive long into the future, we need to work together with businesses to provide the best opportunities to thrive in our economy," Governor Doyle said. "Today, we're taking another step forward to create opportunities for business and hardworking families, and give our state the edge we need to compete, and win in the global marketplace."

Gehl Company manufactures compact equipment used in construction and agricultural markets. It is headquartered in West Bend.

Gehl Company, founded in 1859, is constructing a new corporate office facility and renovating an existing facility into a research and development center at a total cost of $20 million. The Department of Commerce is providing a $1 million low-interest loan to the company for capital investment and a $700,000 Brownfields Grant to the City of West Bend for environmental remediation in connection with the expansion. The Department of Transportation is providing a $300,000 Transportation Economic Assistance grant to the community for roadway improvements. The project will create 87 jobs over the next four years and retain 191 positions.

The Gehl Company considered another state for the $20 million expansion, but chose West Bend, because of the work done by the Department of Commerce, the Department of Transportation, the City of West Bend, the Washington County and the Milwaukee 7 to make sure the expansion occurred in Wisconsin.

"Gehl Company's roots in West Bend and the State of Wisconsin date back 148 years. While many things have changed over those years, the Company's commitment to developing innovative new products has been constant. This new state-of-the-art research and design center will become the breeding ground for many new products for generations to come," said William D. Gehl, Chairman and CEO of Gehl Company. "We appreciate the interest and support we have received from the State of Wisconsin, Washington County and the City of West Bend."

The City of West Bend and Washington County are providing incentives totaling more than $5 million.

"We are excited that one of our longstanding corporate citizens has decided to expand in downtown West Bend," Mayor Kristine Deiss stated. "Gehl's commitment to construct an engineering-based research and development center will provide the type of jobs important to West Bend's future."

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

This article is written for the sole purpose of showing my support for the Stern brothers and their wives in regard to their salvage yard, who are now being sued by the town of Kewaskum.

I for one don't understand when this yard was inspected and approved by the DNR, what is the problem? Is not the DNR which is in control of things the right arm of the state?

Then my final question is, does the town have more authority than the State of Wisconsin? Think about that citizens.

Many years ago the white men ran the Indians off the land. NOW it appears a few residents, with the help of the town board, are trying to do the same. Shame.

This issue to me seems to be a matter of people learning to live with people, haven't we reached a sad day in this modern society?

Ammel honored for spearheading Kewaskum Theater fundraising effort

Superintendent of Schools Mike Krumm, right, congratulates Larry Ammel at a donor's open house held on Sunday, August 26. Ammel is responsible for organizing a group to raise over $110,000 to help pay for the theater. He reported that there are 153 seats left for sale. A form for making the $150 donation can be found on The Statesman's website. Ammel stated that once those seats are sold his next project is to raise money to purchase a baby grand piano for the theater. Kewaskum High School will hold an open house for the public to view all of the remodeling done over the summer at the school. That will take place on Saturday and Sunday, September 8 and 9 from 3 until 5 p.m.

Director of Building and Grounds Jim Palmer hangs Ammel's plaque against the wall next to theater donors.

Annual meeting

the almost completed special education and art departments. He also announced that roof sections at Farmington Elementary School (FES) and KHS have been completed. Those participating in track will find a resurfaced facility as well at KHS.

Krumm reported a number of changes for incoming students. A new advisement (mentoring) program will take place throughout the district's schools. KHS will implement their new block schedule. "Our students are in class instead of study hall for a large portion of the day. This is a very productive thing, we are using our dollars better," he boasted. Changes in graduation will take place over the next three years. Currently students need 24 credits to graduate. At the end of the three years students will need 28 credits to graduate. A new freshman transition program will also begin this year.

In the elementary and middle school students will see an emphasis on reading and math. A new fourth grade band will also begin. Study halls will also be used better at Kewaskum Middle School. They will only be offered to students needing them. Those not in study hall will participate in enrichment programs. A house concept will return to eighth grade students. Now, the entire building will operate in the house concept.

During the newly implemented early release day, Krumm assured that staff would begin working on 17 collaborative projects. He reported that a wide range of student activities is already in place.

Staff development was touched upon. All staff are now included in the staff development program. Previously, only administrators and educators were involved. Krumm gave updated information on the new Kewaskum University. Faculty can now earn continuing education credits through Verbetero University.

Lastly Krumm reported that under his leadership the district would continue working on three core values: Relationship-focused with teachers and students treating each other well. This started last year and will continue. This year's challenge will be making the district more service-oriented. "We want to service our students and parents well. We want our employees to be service savvy," Krumm explained. Next year's focus will center on making the district creatively driven. "All three are not costly, they do not change our budget, but all three are priceless," he ended.

Business manager Paul Reichert gave a report on the state of the district's financial situation. He explained the school district started the year with $3,150,200 in fund balance. A balance of $2,684,547 remains as of June 30, because of a $465,653 deficit incurred in the 06-07 school year.

Revenues are expected to increase by 4.2 percent of $761,318 in the coming year. The budget also reflects a 7.4 percent decrease or $1,507,675 in expenditures. The decrease is due to the project being completed at KHS.

The general fund increased by $615,421 largely because of an increase in staff. The referendum fund will see $430,000 spent. Divided up, $262,000 will be spent on technology improvements and $168,000 for textbooks. A total of $2,541,807 will be spent on special education. This amount is down $129,509. This is due to a reduction in teaching staff and a decrease in services purchased from CESA 6.

Reichert estimated that equalization aid from the state is expected to be $10,000,000 if the state passes their budget. He noted that $1,203,239,050 of equalized property value is projected to be taxed.

The voters of the district gave the board of education members a raise. Salaries of school board members were $2,050 after being allowed to receive a salary in June. Starting in the new fiscal year they will receive $3,500 per year. The increase takes affect after a narrow vote of 21 in favor and 20 not in favor

Getting in Gear: A Back To School Survival Guide

Despite the warm temperatures and sunny skies, many students are feeling a shadow looming as back to school season creeps closer. Dr. Richard E. Bavaria, Ph.D., vice president of education for Sylvan Learning Center, offers several tips to ease the transition from the beach to the classroom and jumpstart sluggish summer brains.

STUDENTS:

Starting the school year off on the right foot can help minimize students' stress levels throughout the year. Try doing the following:

Get Cleaning. A dirty, cluttered room is not conducive to studying. Get organized before homework starts piling up.

Carve Out A Homework Spot. Whether it is in your bedroom, the basement, or a family office, find an area where you can work distraction-free and claim it as your official workspace.

Get Organized. Organization is key to ensure you stay on top of the requirements for each subject.

- Create files for each subject. The folders can hold assignments, essays, handouts and notes taken during classes.

- Purchase a planner or calendar to keep track of important dates and deadlines.

- Be Adventurous. Step out of your comfort zone this school year by trying new things.

- Try every type of class and/or activity. You never know what your strengths are until you experience as much as you can.

- Challenge yourself. If you have the opportunity, take the hardest classes - not the easiest subjects.

- Ask questions. There is nothing wrong with not always knowing the answer. Asking questions is the best way to learn!

PARENTS:

Depending on your child's age, your role in the above-mentioned tips will vary. The following are helpful ideas to ease kids of all ages back into learning mode:

Get Back In The Routine. Ease the transition from lazy summer days to the structure of the school year by re-establishing bedtime, mealtime, reading and homework routines.

Develop A Family Event Calendar. One of the most helpful tools for getting organized is a family event calendar. Family time management is essential if you are going to avoid the frenzy of disorganization.

- Try to color-code the calendar by family member; you can clearly see who has an activity scheduled and when the event occurs.

- Place the calendar near the telephone to make it easy to add events as needed.

Be a Cheerleader. Encourage your child to share any concerns he has about returning to school. Reinforce positive feelings by talking with your child about learning and achievement. Support his academic interests and encourage him to get involved in extracurricular activities at school.

Back to school safety tips

Helpful advice for children, parents and drivers

With the start of each new school year, students are once again rushing to be on time, parents are getting them on their way, and drivers are going about their business, but experts say that all of them could heed some advice on safety. "This is a critical time of the year," noted Ray Palermo, director of public information for Teachers' Insurance Plan. "Drivers need to re-acclimate themselves to having children on and near the road, particularly at rush hours. And, both children and their parents need to get back into their good traffic safety habits." He offered several tips from their Safety Information Center.

Tips for walking or biking to school:

Walk with a friend.

Pay attention to all traffic signals and crossing guards. Never cross the street against a stop light.

Look left, right, and over your shoulder for traffic before crossing a street, and continue to check each direction.

Make sure drivers see you by making eye contact with them.

If riding a bicycle, scooter or skateboard to school, always wear a helmet and ride in the same direction as traffic. Walk your bike if crossing a street.

Tips for school bus riders

Do not play in the street while waiting for the bus.

Line up facing the bus, not along side it.

After getting off the bus, move out of traffic.

Wait for the bus driver to signal you to cross the street. Walk away from the front of the bus so the driver can see you.

Tips for parents and drivers

Everyone should wear a seatbelt, and children should be in age and size appropriate car seats.

Stay focused on driving and don't be distracted by kids in the car or with other activities.

Slow down in school zones. Driving just 5 MPH over the speed limit increases both the risk of hitting a child and the severity of any injuries.

You never know if children crossing the street are paying attention, so remain stopped until the child has crossed not only your lane of traffic, but the adjacent lane as well.

Never pass a vehicle that has stopped at a crosswalk, as they may be waiting for someone to cross.

Do not pass a school bus when it's red lights are flashing, even if it is on the other side of the street.

Use extra care in areas where children may enter the road from between parked vehicles or other things that block drivers' view of the road. And, watch out for bicycles.

For more information on driver and passenger safety, visit www.teachers.com/safety.

New things in store for FES and WES students

Two new faces at Farmington Elementary School this year are 5th grade teacher Lauren Peltonen and 2nd grade teacher Suzanne Gruett.

menson, long-term 4th grade paraprofessional, Jean Wulff along with a long-term teacher replacement for music at the beginning of the school year due to a maternity leave.

Starting this fall, both FES and WES will have a paraprofessional overseeing the library and computer lab allowing more hours of operation and better communication opportunities with students.

FES and WES also have brand new rock-climbing walls that were installed over the summer in each of their gymnasiums. Each school's PTO purchased the rock-climbing walls to be used during supervised activity. They will be locked up for safety at all other times.

Watch for more new and exciting things at each school in the weeks ahead.

KEWASKUM - Back to school is right around the corner. Many new things are happening district-wide and Farmington Elementary School (FES) and Wayne Elementary School (WES) would like to share some exciting highlights new and returning families can expect this fall.

In last week's paper, it was mentioned that Kewaskum Elementary School would have several options available for students after school, especially on Wednesday early release days. FES and WES will also be having the same opportunities available for its students.

A Homework Club will be offered Monday, Tuesday, Thursday from 3:45pm until 4:45pm and Wednesday from 1:50pm-3:50pm. The Homework Club will be available for any interested student.

Tutoring will be available for students before and after school based on teacher/principal recommendations to be determined once school has begun.

Off-site items on the list are Bowling Club and Boys and Girls Club options, which include transporting students from FES or WES to other locations.

A complete list of early release day options will be confirmed once school has begun, however, some in-school options being discussed will include supervised library and computer lab time, game/activity groups and arts and crafts groups. Students will rotate through each activity based on a set time limit. Specific themes will then change every three to six weeks.

There will also be a chess club opportunity at each elementary school.

During school hours, each elementary school will be forming a student government. "We want students to be involved in some of the decision-making," said Janet Molebash, FES and WES principal. "If they are listening to other students and making decisions based on what they have heard, they will take ownership in their school and gain respect for their peers."

This all ties into the new character education the school district will be implementing this school year. It will encourage positive character development, which will in turn help students excel academically.

"We are excited every year as school begins, however, this year seems especially exciting," said Molebash. "We are focusing not just on academics but the whole kid."

Each school has many familiar faces returning as well as some new faces in leadership roles.

New to FES: 5K teacher Amy Monahan, 5K teacher Kali Witte, 2nd grade teacher Suzanne Gruett, 5th grade teacher Lauren Peltonen, special education teacher Robin Foerster, art teacher Susan Seibel, physical education teacher Jason Jochimenson and a long-term 4K replacement teacher at the beginning of the school year due to a maternity leave.

New to WES: 4K teacher Cassie Jossart, special education teacher Jackie Mueller, part-time art teacher Susan Seibel, part-time physical education teacher Jason Jochi-

New principal Tom Fischer looking forward to year

Former KHS Associate Principal moves to elementary school

Kewaskum Elementary School Principal Tom Fischer is shown with his two new teachers, Danielle McCain, fourth grade and Michael McClone, third grade.

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM- Elementary School Principal Tom Fischer will see a lot of changes this year, particularly the size of his students. After coming to Kewaskum Elementary School from being the Associate Principal at Kewaskum High School, Fischer's student body will now be half the size of what he's used to. However, that isn't his entire focus as he jumps into the new school year. He says getting to know his staff and helping them become stellar educators will be his focus.

Before becoming associate principal at KHS, Fischer was Dean of Students at Indian Trail Academy in Kenosha. He says that becoming an elementary school principal was a goal he has had for a number of years in his professional life.

"Things are going excellent. I'm settling in, very busy preparing for the year. I'm looking forward to working with the teachers; it's a goal of mine to be visible throughout the day. I have an open door policy, parents are welcome anytime," he stated.

Fischer reported that there is one change for students being bussed to school. Busses will now drop off on Bilgo Lane, not Third Street. The Third Street drop-off will be reserved for parents dropping off students. However, parents can still use the back

The obvious change of the Wednesday Early Release should run smoothly. Fischer says that activities are planned already as printed in last week's edition and that parents should be ready to make choices for their children at the open house or to make contact with the school prior to the first day of class. Parents are reminded that the day after students return to class will be the first early release day.

The third change for students is the much talked about advisement program that is being implemented district-wide. At the elementary schools they will come in the form of classroom meetings. They will take place once a week to start, however if teachers see the need for additional meetings they can have them.

The Boys and Girls Club is slated to open their Kewaskum branch in October. First through fifth grade students at WES and FES will be bussed in if they want to participate. The Boys and Girls Club of Washington County is currently in the process of hiring individuals to run the program.

Big Brothers Big Sisters of Washington County

(BBBSWC) will also again work with students at KES. A change this year will see an increased role of KHS students working with KES students. Parents who would like more information on the program for their child can contact the elementary school. Requests are taken and passed on to BBBSWC.

New faces include Danielle McCain in fourth grade. She replaces Mr. Stephani who retired last year. Michael McClone will also be a third grade teacher.

EDITOR'S NOTE- Many changes are slated for students heading back to Kewaskum Schools. As the district's official newspaper we felt it was appropriate to announce those changes and other news pertinent to the return to classes on Tuesday, September 4. This is the last in a three-part series of articles regarding Back to School. Please watch next week's edition for information regarding the return to school.

ALL ABOARD!

School Bus Safety Begins With You!

For twenty three million students nationwide, the school day begins and ends with a trip on a school bus. The greatest risk is not riding the bus, but approaching or leaving the bus. Before children go back to school or start school for the first time, it is essential that adults and children know traffic safety rules.

Drivers

- * When backing out of a driveway or leaving a garage, watch out for children walking or bicycling to school.
- * When driving in neighborhoods with school zones, watch out for young people who may be thinking about getting to school, but may not be thinking of getting there safely.
- * Slow down. Watch for children walking in the street, especially if there are no sidewalks in neighborhood.
- * Slow down. Watch for children playing and congregating near bus stops.
- * Be alert. Children arriving late for the bus may dart into the street without looking for traffic.
- * Learn and obey the school bus laws in your state. Learn the "flashing signal light system" that school bus drivers use to alert motorists of pending actions:

Yellow flashing lights indicate that the bus is preparing to stop to load or unload children. Motorists should slow down and prepare to stop their vehicles.

Red flashing lights and extended stop arms indicate that the bus has stopped, and that children are getting on or off. Motorists must stop their cars and wait until the red lights stop flashing, the extended stop sign is withdrawn, and the bus begins moving before they can start driving again.

Children

- * Get to the bus stop at least five minutes before the bus is scheduled to arrive.
- * When the bus approaches, stand at least three giant steps (6 feet) away from the curb, and line up away from the street.
- * Wait until the bus stops, the door opens, and the driver says that it's okay before stepping onto the bus.
- * If you have to cross the street in front of the bus, walk on the sidewalk or along the side of the road to a point at least five giant steps (10 feet) ahead of the bus before you cross. Be sure that the bus driver can see you, and you can see the bus driver.
- * Use the handrails to avoid falls. When exiting the bus, be careful that clothing with drawstrings, and book bags with straps don't get caught in the handrails or doors.
- * Never walk behind the bus.
- * Walk at least three giant steps away from the side of the bus.
- * If you drop something near the bus, tell the bus driver. Never try to pick it up because the driver may not be able to see you.

The Bookworm Sez

by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Dreaming in Libro

By Louise Bernikow

DaCapo LifeLong, $22.95 202 pages

Remember falling in love? Remember how your senses go on full alert? The smell of her hair, the feel of his cheek, the sound of her voice, the look in his eyes, the taste of kisses, all imprinted on your brain for good. What can compare to that giddy feeling you get when you're close to your beloved?

So who ever said that the one you love has to have two feet? In the new book "Dreaming in Libro" by Louise Bernikow, you'll read about a love affair that you can really sink your canines into.

Louise Bernikow is a writer. She's used to coming and going as she pleases, leaving for Paris on a minute's notice, flying to workshops and flitting to book signings. She was positively not a "dog person".

That is, until she was jogging in Riverside Park in Manhattan and saw a crowd of people surrounding a police car. Curious and despite herself, Bernikow looked inside the car and found herself eyeball-to-eyeball with a Boxer dog who nearly demanded that she help him. She claimed him and, with dog in tow, headed home. She promised both herself and the dog that it would only be temporary.

"Temporary" lasted nine years.

Far from the inconvenience Bernikow thought he might be, Libro quickly became Bernikow's Saturday night date, her lunch companion, sounding board, office staff, protector on walks, travel buddy, giver of slobbery kisses, and the subject of her last book. He accompanied her on booksigning trips around the country, on relaxing walks in the city, and on vacation in the Hamptons. He shared a bed with her sometimes; meals, now and then; and the sofa, as often as possible. Libro gathered friends faster than a Dale Carnegie graduate, and he introduced his new buddies to his housemate. Bernikow, former come-and-go-as-she-pleased writer, had become a completely smitten, head-over-heels dog lover.

But - as Bernikow struggled to remember - the answer to "How long does a dog live?" is "Not as long as his owner". Libro had physical issues when he adopted Bernikow. As he aged, his health declined and veterinarian visits increased. Libro's presence had protected Bernikow on the streets of Manhattan. Could anything protect her heart from the inevitable?

On your way home from getting this book, be sure to give yourself time to stop for a box of tissues. You're going to need it when you read "Dreaming in Libro".

Author Louise Bernikow is alternately funny and wise; willing to poke fun at her lack of knowledge, shrug her shoulders, and treat Libro as the person she knows lurks inside his brown coat. Typical of a newly-minted (or any) dog lover, she's eager to tell tails about her boy, coo over his intelligence, comment on his superb abilities, and brag about his social life and the friends he accumulates.

If you've ever carried a photo of your dog in your wallet, "Dreaming in Libro" is a book you'll completely identify with. For dog lovers of any age, this book is an absolute dream.

Gust earns Distinguished Insurance Agency distinction from J.D. Power and Associates

Randall Gust, an American Family Insurance agent in Kewaskum, has been recognized for customer satisfaction excellence under the J.D. Power and Associates Distinguished Insurance Agency Program. Gust joins other American Family agents who have demonstrated they provide an outstanding customer experience.

Gust has been an agent for American Family since July 1985. His office is located at 1224 Fond du Lac Ave, Kewaskum.

"American Family recently affirmed our commitment to our customers," says Jack Salzwedel, American Family president and chief operating officer. "Our mission is 'To be the most trusted and valued service-driven insurance company.' The Distinguished Insurance Agency award helps focus our agents on the values that are driving all of us at American Family."

The service excellence distinction was determined through a two-part evaluation process conducted by J.D. Power and Associates. The first part consists of a customer satisfaction survey, which measures customers' overall experience with their current American Family agent. In order to proceed to the second step, agents must meet or exceed the standards measured on a national benchmark established by J.D. Power and Associates' annual auto and home insurance customer satisfaction studies. Only agencies that perform in the top 20% of all agencies nationwide based on customer satisfaction surveys are eligible to become a Distinguished Insurance Agency.

Agents who meet or surpass the overall national average must then pass a rigorous on-site evaluation based on five best practice areas: proactive reviews of customer insurance needs, claims handling, positive customer contacts, responsiveness and office environment.

Outdoor Wisconsin

with Dick Ellis

Exhibition firearms expert rises from modest beginnings

Expert shooting exhibitionist Tom Knapp rarely missed a clay target Saturday morning before a capacity audience in the firearms arena of the Ducks Unlimited Great Outdoor Festival in Oshkosh. Despite a stiff wind in the wake of prolonged storms, Knapp used his Benelli shotguns to hand throw and break with individual rounds six clay targets and to generally dazzle an appreciative Wisconsin crowd. But he saved his best shot for last.

"We have men and women in our armed forces fighting in Iraq," Knapp said just before his grand finale of red, white and blue smoke 'triggered' with shotgun rounds. "You may agree or disagree with our being there. But the question is not should we be there. We are there. But the most important thing we can do is to show our appreciation and support for our armed forces. Please do not let this affair turn into another Vietnam. Let our troops know how much we care."

In an interview scheduled for this column after his performance to chronicle Knapp's rise from a young boy with a BB gun in the 50s to globally acclaimed shooting exhibitionist backed by the most recognized firearms and ammunition companies in the world, he expanded on those comments. Politics, he said, have no place in the way we welcome our service people home.

"I've had the opportunity to chase the American dream and to capture that dream in 1992 when Benelli first sponsored me," he said. "Five months each year I'd be in Europe giving shooting performances but I felt loneliness and homesickness; a pain that was difficult to suppress. I'd meet U.S. Service men and women including at the base in Livorno, Italy before 9-11 and they felt that same loneliness. A letter from home meant everything to them. It dawned on me. While I was chasing the dream, they were protecting the dream."

Chasing the dream began for Knapp in the tiny Minnesota town of Maple Plain when a father handed his 9-year old son a model 25 Daisy BB gun in the late 1950s. Although any desire to hunt wouldn't come until later, a certain passion to shoot often and to shoot well was immediate.

"Every day it was me and my model 25 and my ugly dog," he said. "I loved them both. I shot the heads off of more dandelions and the flies off of more cow pies than any kid in America. And I got into more trouble for shooting things I wasn't supposed to. But I was soft hearted. I didn't shoot at birds until my dad gave me the green light to take care of the starlings in our horse barn."

By age 10, Knapp graduated with supervision to a 20 gauge Stevens single shot shotgun. Thoroughly schooled in the safety aspects of firearms use by age 11, he was given permission to shoot alone. He shot so often that a bleeding thumb inflicted from the break lever required regular taping. The problem of keeping the firearm full of ammunition, though, would need a financial band aide.

"I worked for .22-short rounds and 20 gauge shotgun shells at the hardware store," Knapp said. "The best thing I could get for Christmas was a brick of 22 shells; 10 boxes or 5500 rounds. The passion for shooting became an obsession and with that kind of repetition in anything you improve. I had a special understanding or some might call it a gift. I could make a BB or a bullet go from here to there and make it hit where I wanted and it didn't matter if it was still or moving."

By his early 20s, Knapp was holding a 96.8 average in American Trapshooters Association (ATA) handicap competition that enabled him to win the money that meant more ammunition. Although he felt he could win the coveted Grand American trap competition that would pay off in $30,000 to $40,000 in cash and a Ford Bronco, he didn't have the money to make the trip to Ohio to compete. And he realized that to be suitably profitable in ATA competition he had to win all the money, all the time.

"From watching the faces changing quickly on a Wheaties box I knew that no one can win all the money, all the time," he said. "I watched Curt Gowdy and Grits Gresham do a salute on the American Sportsman television show to exhibition shooter Herb Parsons, who had died at age 51. Competitive shooting wasn't working. I needed to do what Herb Parsons did."

Researching exhibition shooting made Knapp believe that anyone in the industry who even understood what it meant was either retired or dead. To draw attention to their products, companies in the firearms and ammunition industry were moving to print advertising. Knapp knew that his unique talent with a firearm on the right stage would draw attention to those products. But for a man responsible for a family, quitting a secure job he had held for 20 years in the Forest Service and invest the time necessary to convince the industry of that expertise was a huge risk.

The passion of a young boy with a model 25 BB gun had become a true obsession for a young man with a shotgun. He needed to shoot the gun. Tom Knapp took the risk.

Indians slish their way to 6-0 victory

By Judy Harlow

Statesman-Sports Correspondent

Who has the advantage in a high school football game played in a pouring rain, the running team or the passing team?

If Friday night's season opener between Kewaskum and West Bend East was any indication, it appears the running team has a little edge, but it never hurts to throw in a pass now and then to cross up the opposing team's defense.

Kewaskum outrushed the host Suns 164 to 36 but used a 15-yard pass from Nick Olla to John Holt midway in the second quarter for the game's only score.

The soggy conditions hampered the PAT try by Brian Backhaus, who had his kicked blocked, but the Indian defense was able to hold East in check for a 6-0 victory.

The win by the Indians spoiled the coaching debut of Tony Michels, who is back or another go around after two seasons of being out of football. This was the second year in a row Kewaskum has opened with a win over East.

"It was ugly ... very ugly. We played in a steady rain for a quarter and a half," KHS coach Jason Piittmann said about the conditions, reporting, "After that, it was a light mist and some fog for the remainder of the night."

With the two teams combining for 11 turnovers, six by Kewaskum and five by the Suns, it seemed like a good plan to go with as few handoffs as possible. Olla filled the bill for Kewaskum in this area. The junior quarterback, making his first varsity start, carried the ball 24 times for an even 100 yards, which was more than the Suns came up with running and passing.

"Nick ran the ball very well," Piittmann said. One of the KHS starting running backs, Ben Boettcher, came up with 34 yards in seven carries, while Jordan Petrin rushed 16 times for only 30 yards.

One of East's turnovers set up the Indians' touchdown, according to Piittmann, who said, "We were able to score when we recovered an East fumble deep in their territory. A couple plays later, Olla hit Holt in the corner of the end zone ... Holt went up between two defenders to bring the ball down for the score."

"The weather conditions made it a difficult game to call offensively," Piittmann went on, indicating, "By the end of the game, the field was reminiscent of how it was in the playoff game against Greendale last year ... just with grass on it, very muddy and soft."

When it came to defense, there were plenty of standouts. "The ends, Michael Bunkelman, Jonathan Komp, Eric Shaske and Josh Harbin did great jobs on pass rush," Piittmann said, reporting Erick Turowski, Joe Paulus and Nick Ebert were solid from their linebacking spots, and, "The secondary (Ben Butler, Holt, Jordan Petrin and Matt Donath) did a good job in coverage."

Butler intercepted one pass and returned it 14 yards, while Holt also stopped an East series with a pick.

Piittmann admitted he was happy to hear the weather report Friday morning that rain was expected because he knew from watching the Suns' scrimmage that they were planning to use a wide open offense with a lot of passing.

"Defensively, the rain helped us. We allowed only 36 yards of offense by East," the coach said. "They were led by Mike Dorrance with 16 yards rushing on five carries."

The two East quarterbacks, Steve Leitheiser and Nick Makowski, both were intercepted once. Leitheiser completed seven passes in 16 tries for 23 yards, while the junior Makowski went 0x3.

With one win under their belts over a West Bend opponent, the Indians open their home season Friday night against West Bend West.

John Holt attempts to secure the only touchdown during the Indians' first game of the pre-season on Friday, August 24 on a muddy Carl Pick Memorial Field in West Bend.

Neighboring Campbell sport opened its season with a bang, knocking off perennial power St. Mary's Springs, 20-10.

In other games involving Eastern Wisconsin Conference teams Friday, New Holstein topped Valders 21-18, Kiel was beaten by Chilton 21-7, Plymouth was pounded by Port Washington, 35-14, and Waupun lost to Portage, 32-18.

KHS spikers hampered by sprained ankle, suspensions Owls win opening volleyball match, but ...

OK, there is no question the Slinger High volleyball team was victorious over Kewaskum in Tuesday's non-conference season opener for both clubs, but perhaps there should be an asterisk after the scores.

The asterisk would read that senior Christina DeGroot did not play for the Indians, nor did two other varsity players.

"Christina was out with a sprained ankle," coach Renee Altendorf said, indicating DeGroot, a three-time all-conference player, had the green light to start practicing Thursday and was expected to be ready for the Bay View Invitational on Monday, Aug. 27.

"And we lost two girls to suspensions," Altendorf went on, noting, "We're just losing them for one more game."

Despite missing these three, the Indians were right on the heels of the Owls, falling 19-25, 25-20, 28-30, 25-21 and 13-15.

"Very close" is how Altendorf described each of the games, especially the rubber game which was "neck and neck" right until the end.

"We just couldn't get a pass up from service receive ... and we couldn't dig either," Altendorf said about the last game, which gave the host Owls the 3-2 edge.

When asked how the newcomers did filling in for those who couldn't play, the third-year head coach said, "They did wonderful. Erica (Heberer) did a good job setting for us," despite the fact she will normally be an outside hitter this year.

Then there was the play of another sophomore, Anna Butler. Her effort was described as "phenomenal" by Altendorf, who said, "She was hustling ... getting every ball possible. It was nice to see a sophomore step up and play that strong."

"Brandi Wagner also did a nice job," Altendorf said, explaining how she told Wagner

Anna Butler

15 minutes before the match started how she would have to play a different position, moving from weak side to strong side. The coach was especially pleased with her passing and hitting.

Still, Kewaskum certainly was far from being full strength, according to Altendorf, who said, "Our hitting wasn't there. We didn't have an offense."

For the evening, Kewaskum had 30 kills in 87 attempts, led by sophomore Elissa Miller, who came up with 14 and had just one error. From there, the numbers dropped to five and four from Butler and senior Emily Aycock.

While the Indians certainly missed DeGroot's power kills, they missed her at the serving line even more. Kewaskum had just four aces in the five games, two by Wagner and one each from Miller and Megan Rinzel.

There were 14 serving errors, and many times these came when the Indians couldn't afford to make mistakes.

Butler had the most digs,

13, with Stephanie Rinzel and Heberer credited with eight and seven, respectively.

Concerning how strong the Slinger team is, Altendorf said, "They have two really good outside hitters," but deep down, she knew the Indians would have been able to put up more defense against them with the three missing players from the lineup.

Kewaskum was slated to be at the Bay View Tournament in Milwaukee on Monday, and on Saturday the Indians travel to Hartford for the Hartford Tournament.
