Gavin proposes commercial condos, Timblin brings back 76-unit apartment

By Andrew Kuehl
andrew@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM- Two of the village's large developers of land appeared before the plan commission with construction plans Tuesday, January 22. One plan starts construction work after a lull in the village's TIF district, the other brings back a former plan to build a 76-unit apartment building.

Gary Gavin proposed a 15-unit storage condominium structure on a two-acre parcel in the TIF District. The project would be developed as two buildings, the first housing seven units sized 31.6' by 48' and the second building would contain eight units.

Both buildings would be erected with a steel exterior and would run east to west, with fieldstone along the lower portion to dress them up and avoid making them look like a storage facility. Each unit would also have windows. Gavin was undecided if the area would have a secured entrance.

Gavin likened the development to one in Ozaukee County and stated each unit would be constructed to include electric and plumbing. Each owner would then decide the floor plan that could include an office and bathroom area. A prospective owner could combine units as well.

Once approved by the village board, Gavin explained he would start construction with a model. He stated pricing would start around $50,000 but depending on how they are configured, could cost as much as $125,000.

Ideally Gavin would like to sell each unit but he will also offer a number for rent until he had buyers for all the units. If the project doesn't take off, he stated he would then erect storage garages on the parcel.

Plan Commission chairman Matt Heiser stated; "I think we're favorable to the idea, but we need to see more detail," Heiser's fellow commissioners also were receptive to the plan.

Tom and Shaun Timblin then presented a change of plans to the Cherokee Lakes development located on Timblin Drive and Pleasantwood Drive. The Timblins stated because of market conditions they were going back to their original plans of a 76-unit apartment complex geared toward senior citizens.

The project was originally brought to the plan commission in January of 2004 when Tom Timblin proposed the 76-unit building and ten four-unit condominium structures. Land at that time was rezoned from agricultural into multi-family residential and duplex. In 2006 he came before the plan commission and requested the zoning for the 76-unit complex be changed to zoning that would allow him to continue with constructing four-unit duplex condos like those on Timblin Drive. He now wants the zoning back to allow for a multi-family building.

Tom Timblin explained that the three-story structure would feature underground parking, a community

State's open enrollment period begins

By Andrew Kuehl
andrew@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM- Wisconsin's open enrollment application period for the 2008-09 school year will be held February 4-22. The Kewaskum School District is hoping last year's trend of an increase in incoming students to the district continues.

In Wisconsin, children are assigned to school districts based on the location of their parents' home. February's open enrollment application period is the only tuition-free opportunity for most parents to apply for their children to attend public school in a school district other than the one in which they live.

Since the 1998-99 school year, the first year of the program, participation in open enrollment has grown from 2,464 students transferring to another school district to 23,406 during the 2006-07 school year. Under the full-time public school open enrollment program, parents must apply during the application period to the school district they wish their children to attend.

In most circumstances, transportation is the responsibility of the parent. However, some school districts may elect to provide partial transportation. Parents with questions about transportation should call both the resident and nonresident school district offices to find out if any transportation will be provided. Reimbursement of some transportation costs

Library to offer patrons music CDs

KEWASKUM- The Public Library will soon be offering some new items for check-out: music CDs. "We have wanted to offer music here in the past," said library director Steev Baker, "but could never find a way to fit it into the budget." That changed when local philanthropist Lucille McCarty left the library $5,000, with the stipulation that it be spent on a special project.

A portion of those funds are being spent to get the collection started, including 60 CDs, special anti-theft cases for the discs and a new shelving unit to house the items. The library will offer music in six genres: hip-hop/urban; Christian; soundtracks; rock/metal; children's music; pop/country. More traditional genres like classical, jazz, and folk music may be considered at a later time.

The pop-oriented collection reflects what library users have most often requested in the past. CDs will check-out for 14 days with a .10 per day overdue charge.

Half of the collection has already arrived at the library and is being processed for check-out. All discs are available for placing holds and the collection should be on display in early February. To learn more about what the Kewaskum Public Library offers, go to www.kewaskum.lib.wi.us.

A woman was injured in yet another crash that occurred at the intersection of Highway 45 and Badger Road/Highway H on Sunday, January 27. Kewaskum Fire Chief Mark Groeschel reports this is the second crash at that site this month his department has responded to.

Chief Knoebel makes plea to state to lower speed limit, urges drivers to use caution

By Andrew Kuehl
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM- The tally has started for the number of crashes at the intersection of Highway 45 and Badger Road/Highway H. Luckily only one woman was injured as a result of the crash.

Washington County Sheriff's Department Captain Steve Gonwa reported the crash occurred at 8:12 p.m. on Sunday January 27.

Gonwa explained the crash unfolded as Megan E. Ogi, 18, of Kewaskum was traveling southbound on Highway 45 preparing to turn left on Highway H.

A red light turned green before a northbound vehicle on Highway 45 driven by Marita T. Arndt, 50, of Campbellsport, got to the intersection, so Arndt continued through the intersection. Ogi turned left in front of Arndt and they struck.

Kewaskum EMS and Fire Department were called to the scene for Arndt who had a foot injury. She was taken to St.

Joseph's Hospital in the town of Polk for her injuries.

Two passengers and Ogi were uninjured.

Kewaskum Police Department assisted at the scene with traffic.

Kewaskum Fire Chief Mark Groeschel stated that an unofficial count of injury accidents at the intersection revealed a total of three crashes in 2006, six crashes in 2007, and so far in 2008 two crashes.

Kewaskum's Chief of Police, Dick Knoebel stated that he has asked the state Department of Transportation last fall to drop the speed limit in that area and add some type of warning lights, but it does not look like they want to do that.

Knoebel encouraged drivers passing through the intersection to use caution realizing the light changes quickly. "Watch for cars making left hands turns, the bulk of the accidents have occurred after such turns," he explained.

room, chapel and elevators. He stated they are also toying with the idea of adding retail space and a fitness center, but they are unsure at this point. Six different two-bedroom floor plans ranging from 12-1,500 square feet will be available once the complex is complete. The complex will not be strictly for those aged 55 and over, but that is the market they are hoping to target.

Heiser stated he has received response from residents who have said, "they don't like high-density development." Because of this, Heiser stated, "I would be less inclined to vote for this. I'm not convinced the people would want this."

Timblin asked Heiser what he would like to see for the property, to which Heiser deflected the question, and reverted to his earlier statement when he reported people in the village didn't like high-density development. He stated, that he had to put the community's best interests in mind, and, "I'm not convinced the people would want this. I don't think the existing residents would be happy about it," he concluded.

"We need to move forward like the other towns in Washington County. As city fathers are you charged with doing what a handful of people that grouse down by the post office, or doing what is financially responsible for the village? This building will bring in millions of dollars for the village," Timblin questioned.

Commissioner Frank Beesten asked what the current ratio of multi family to single-family was. Zoning Administrator Chad Cook stated numbers were not available.

In 2005, then Village Administrator Dan Schmidt, published the following residential zoning ratios as of December 31, 2004: Single family- 882 units for 57.9%, Duplex- 152 units for 10% and Multi-family- 491 units for 32.2%. Incidentally the numbers were broken down even further to show a ratio of those multi-family units for the elderly was 7.6%.

"When you run the numbers, even on a building of 76 units, we are substantially below in terms of dwelling units per acre than what our zoning ordinance allows. There could potentially be many more units on that land as there could be in many other developments in the community without exceeding what our ordinance allows," Cook asserted.

The commission did not take official action, however Chairman Heiser called for a consensus. He stated he did not think he could go on record supporting the project. Commissioner Julia Stoltz also shared reservation with the project and could not answer one way or another.

Village Administrator Jay Shambeau stated that Gavin's proposal would require a site plan to be drafted and brought before the plan commission for approval prior to construction. Cherokee Lakes, because it has a substantial change, would need to have plans reviewed by the plan commission for a recommendation. If that recommendation were given, a public hearing would be held before going to the village board for approval.

Letter FROM the Editor

After covering the village of Kewaskum's plan commission meeting on Tuesday, January 22, I became thoroughly disgusted with the attitudes expressed at the meeting and by a few village board members recently. None of these issues really gnawed at me until I became a business owner.

If you read the article I published this week that started on the cover and concludes on this page, you have an idea of the topic discussed. As I mentioned, the attitude taken by Village President Matt Heiser has me fuming as a business owner. What possibly has me more upset is the lack of a response of any kind from village trustees.

At the plan commission meeting, the one response came from Trustee Derek Peterson who showed support for the changes to the Cherokee Lakes development. But he prefaced his comments by explaining he was more likely than not the trustee on the village board who had the most distaste for growth.

This completely baffled me because Mr. Peterson is a village business owner. He's in the same boat I am: larger population equals larger customer base.

President Heiser states he is following the direction of his constituents. I applaud him for being a politician that listens to his constituents and takes their concerns to mind when he votes.

But my question to President Heiser and many of those anti-growth village board and plan commission members is, are you talking to all your constituents? Are you talking to those that might not be voting for you in the upcoming election? I'm talking about the business owners in the village, those folks who might not vote in the village, but pump money into the village's economy.

I explained to President Heiser that this is my second business venture in the village. In 1998 I owned a video rental business that failed miserably. This was mostly due to my ill management and immaturity. However, something else came into play, a lack of customers. I closed my store right after the larger Video Plus opened in the village. Kewaskum did not have the POPULATION to support two stores and the better store won out.

As of this week, two village businesses are no longer a part of the community. Video Plus and Woody's on the Run restaurant have or will close shortly. I can't tell you if population played into their demise but I'm sure a larger population might have helped with their situation. I am also aware of two stores who tell me, this is their make or break year.

Taking The Statesman as an example, our business thrives on POPULATION. Our market studies show that 75% of new residents we solicit purchase a subscription. During the POPULATION boom (as president Heiser refers to it) we experienced two years ago, we achieved a five percent subscriber growth. We just cleared it this past year. I don't expect to achieve it again this year.

Now, let's pretend that Tom and Shaun Timblin receive their approvals and build a 76-unit apartment building. Do you have any idea what that would do for our village's newspaper or other businesses for that matter? The demographic of his tenants are newspaper readers. I could see at least 40 new subscribers from that development.

Now, those folks have to

Local IN BRIEF

Ye Olde School storytellers wanted

WEST BEND- Cedar Community is seeking older adult volunteers to participate in its popular Ye Olde School intergenerational program. Ye Olde School is a lovingly restored one-room schoolhouse, circa 1917, visited by more than 3,500 elementary school students each year. Students enjoy a day-long field trip, hosted by a full-time schoolmarm who immerses them in the experience of attending school as it was in the early 1900s. They learn how to use dip pens and inkwells, help fetch water and wood, ring the schoolbell and participate in authentic lessons taught during the era.

A vital part of the program is a visit from older adult volunteers who share stories of their own school days. Volunteers need not to have gone to a one-room schoolhouse - just be willing to share their memories and perhaps pass on stories told by their parents or grandparents. The time commitment and hours worked are flexible. Some volunteers stay the entire day, but others just stop by for an hour or so to share their stories. We can work around your schedule. The children, parents and teachers really enjoy this time, so please consider donating your memories. You are welcome to observe another volunteer to see what it is all about. Ye Olde School is located on the Cedar Community main campus at 5595 County Road Z in West Bend.

If interested, please call Bonnie Amerling, Cedar Community volunteer coordinator, at 262.306.4218.

Kettle Moraine YMCA appoints new Executive Director

WEST BEND- The Kettle Moraine YMCA announced the appointment of its new Executive Director. Rob Johnson was selected following an extensive and thorough executive search process.

Johnson currently is serving as the CEO/Executive Director of the YMCA of Dodge County in Beaver Dam. During his tenure, he returned the organization to a strong financial position, restored the reputation of the YMCA as a quality organization, and led a successful capital campaign that recently saw the YMCA move from its original 24,000 square foot building to a new, 67,000 square foot, state-of-the-art facility.

Johnson, to be in position in March, replaces Jon Lange, who left in November for a position with the metropolitan Milwaukee YMCA.

At 60 and over, they sure aren't going to climb under their Buicks and Cadillacs to do an oil change, think any of them will go to Premier Auto Center, Roger and Dan's or Herriges Oil? OR might we find ourselves with a new business, maybe a Valvoline or Penzoil quick oil change shop (maybe the would bring a few jobs to the village)? Where are they going to get their gas? Who is going to do these people's hair? Who is going to take care of their medical needs?

I think I made my point perfectly clear here.

Another point of interest in POPULATION- we rapidly approved the Tax Incremental Finance (TIF) District and now we're sitting here with it empty. The interest alone (we haven't paid any principle) costs us thousands daily.

Who is going to want to grow their business or take a chance on opening a business or moving something here if we don't have the POPULATION to support it? What retailer, take Walgreens for instance, would want to set up shop here when our village fathers are coming up with every excuse not to grow.

I think everyone in the village needs to consider these points and have an open mind to growth. Each citizen for or against growth needs to attend village board and plan commission meetings to listen and comment on growth.

I look forward to YOUR letters TO the editor. I can be reached at Andrew@kewaskumstatesman.com or feel free to drop off a letter with your thoughts.

I should also point out that Tom and Shaun Timblin are cousins of mine and Gary Gavin owns the building in which The Statesman occupies. Neither of these points came into play while writing this opinion piece. I think it's time people stood up for what they believed in and express their thoughts like I have done here.

Humane Society issues warning

After a second incident this season, the Washington County Humane Society is asking county residents to follow two simple steps to avoid a tragic accident. "First and foremost is to keep your cats indoors during the cold weather. Every year we see cats with severe frostbite, or worse, near death because of extremely low body temperatures," says Marnie Brown, executive director. "We actually prefer that people never let their cats outside because of all the terrible things we see here at the shelter, but during these bitter cold spells, it's imperative. If it's dangerously cold for you, it's dangerously cold for your animals."

Another recommendation is for people who park their cars outside during the cold weather. Cats, and the occasional raccoon, seek out warm places during the cold months, and will often climb up into a car engine with tragic results. Before starting your vehicle, make sure there aren't any critters hiding by lifting the hood, honking your horn, or by slapping the hood hard enough to frighten the animal out.

Valentina, named for her valiant efforts for survival, found out the hard way about the perils of outside living. On the morning of January 24, the Washington County Humane Society received a call about a cat in serious trouble. A man traveling from Farmington to Slinger kept hearing unusual noises from the front of his car and when he stopped, he checked under his hood to find the problem. Horrified, he found a cat with a collar but no tag, severely injured in his engine and called the shelter for assistance.

Shelter personnel found the black and brown female cat and were able to remove her. Valentina was rushed to Hartford Animal Clinic where they quickly assessed the cat's injuries. They found she had a broken jaw, numerous cuts and abrasions, and one of her limbs was severely damaged and nearly severed. Her cuts were cleaned and stitched, her leg amputated and her jaw wired. Brown states, "She was actually doing very well and we were very optimistic. However, on Sunday morning she began having multiple seizures and, unfortunately, she didn't make it."

The Humane Society is urging people to follow the two simple recommendations above to avoid other tragic accidents. "This cat suffered horribly and needlessly," Brown contends. Situations like these are so preventable, and they shouldn't have to happen."

Sheriff's Department receives grants for 2008

To save lives and reduce serious injuries by preventing traffic crashes, the Washington County Sheriff's Department has recently received two $12,000 traffic safety grants from the Wisconsin State Patrol Bureau of Transportation Safety. One of the grants targets impaired drivers and the other targets speeding and aggressive drivers.

"These grants will pay for approximately 375 overtime hours for traffic safety enforcement, so our officers can patrol in greater numbers and for longer hours," says Sheriff Dale Schmidt. "The grants also can help purchase equipment needed for traffic enforcement."

In accepting the grant, the Washington County Sheriff's Department has agreed to participate in the national "Click It or Ticket" safety belt enforcement mobilization in May and June 2008, and the "Drunk Driving, Over the Limit, Under Arrest" crackdown on impaired driving in August and September 2008.

Intensified, high-visibility traffic enforcement is an effective tool in preventing traffic crashes. The goal of this intensified enforcement is to increase voluntary compliance with traffic safety laws not to write more tickets," says Michael Panosh, Bureau of Transportation Safety regional program manager. "But if voluntary compliance fails, officers will be prepared to stringently enforce the law."

The enhanced enforcement will take place through September of this year.

SHOP WITH A COP 2007

On December 13th 2007, the Washington County Sheriff's Department sponsored its 4th annual "Shop with a Cop" event. The event included 125 volunteers and law enforcement officers from agencies throughout Washington County escorting 71 children to the West Bend Wal-Mart to buy gifts for their families. Each child received a donated gift card to purchase gifts for family members at Christmas time. The gift cards are purchased with donated money from individuals, businesses and organizations.

Prior to shopping, children were treated to hot dogs and hamburgers at the West Bend Moose Lodge. Community volunteers cook and serve the food and wrap all the presents.

On behalf of all the law enforcement officers and volunteers that participated in the 2007 "Shop with a Cop" I would like to thank all the people who volunteered their money and time to ensure another great event.

The 2008 "Shop with a Cop" will be held on December 11th.

Mason resigns from MPTC board

John C. Mason has said good-bye to his fellow board members and resigned his seat on the Moraine Park Technical College District Board after serving since July 2000. The board recognized his service with a Resolution of Appreciation and a plaque at its Jan. 16 meeting.

Mason served terms as board chairperson and vice chairperson during his seven-year tenure. He is currently the administrator of the Herman School District in Dodge County.

Mason thanked the members of the board, Dr. Hytrek and Moraine Park staff for making his board experience a great one. "I have enjoyed my time on the board and appreciate having had the opportunity to be an integral part of such a strong educational institution," he said. "I wish the College continued success as you move forward with meeting the needs and expectations of the Moraine Park District."

"Moraine Park will miss John's dedication to the College and his strong leadership," said Dr. Gayle Hytrek, Moraine Park president. "John was chairperson of the board when I assumed the presidency of Moraine Park, and his leadership allowed the College to make great gains in meeting the skilled workforce needs of our district. I will greatly miss having John on our board."

A Lomira resident, Mason was appointed as the school district administrator member to the Moraine Park District Board on July 10, 2000, while serving as the former superintendent of the Lomira School District. When joining the board, Mason expressed a desire to help members continue to build on and improve the good working relationship the College had developed with the area high schools, and to become more familiar with Moraine Park's role in meeting the needs of area high school graduates and adults who wish to further their education.

During his tenure, he was an advocate for increased partnerships with the district high schools and watched Tech Prep agreements grow from 154 transcribed credit agreements to 214 agreements. In addition, Moraine Park expanded health care programming and increased offerings through a health care addition to the Fond du Lac campus. Learning environments were enhanced with new state-of-the-art facilities for manufacturing in Beaver Dam, Fond du Lac and West Bend's Applied Manufacturing Technology Center. The Barber/Cosmetologist and Culinary Arts programs also benefited from renovations during Mason's tenure.

Mason holds bachelor's and master's degrees from St. Mary's University and Winona State University. He has been a teacher, a principal and superintendent of the Lomira School District. In addition, Mason has been involved in many professional, civic and educational organizations.

DAYS GONE BY

25 Years Ago

January 21, 1983

It looks like no matter which one of the three 1983 Water Pollution Control Department budget proposals is approved, it will still be running in the "red." Preliminary figures show a deficit of approximately $30,000 to $40,000 for plant operation in 1982, even though an increase for sewer service had been put into effect on April 1, 1982. After looking over the information, the trustees agreed an increase in sewer service rates may have to be considered as a means of bringing the department closer to a break-even point.

A recommendation to purchase six or seven Apple II computers will be made by the Long Range Committee to the Kewaskum School Board at a meeting scheduled for January 24.

Myron Belger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Belger of Kewaskum, who delivers milk daily to the village patrons, on Saturday had an experience which he will long remember. While making a "U" turn near John Tiss' place on North Fond du Lac Avenue, a large truck smashed into the rear end of the Belger car, demolishing same considerably. A large number of bottles containing milk were thrown on the pavement and about the interior of the car, spilling the contents. No one was hurt.

Federal Prohibition officers sneaked into Campbellsport and visited several soft drink parlors, raiding one place. The agents had a new system. One man would go in and pretend he was a salesman and ask for liquor. If successful in securing some, he would hang a poster in the window which was a signal for his companions to stage a raid. There was only one establishment in Campbellsport that fell for it and the owner was arrested.

EVENTS

Peace UCC to host chili supper and concert

February can be quite chilly in Wisconsin, but not at Peace UCC in Kewaskum. Sunday, February 10 offers "hot" music followed by a hot homemade chili supper.

The concert will feature two bands, the gospel group "Bound for Heaven," and praise and worship band "Enlightened." They will be kicking off the event at 3:30 p.m. by performing favorites you will want to sing along with.

Following the concert, college students and their families will hold an all-you-can-eat chili supper complete with bread, cheese, beverage and desserts for $7.00. Proceed will be used for the Peace UCC Scholarship Fund.

"Bound for Heaven" has reunited for this scholarship concert. The quartet was started in 1993 and expanded its ministry to include instruments in 1996. The group provided lively country gospel music for churches, religious events, parties and county fairs. The quartet stopped performing following the untimely death of bass singer Tom Tessar in 2004.

The remaining members of the group came to realize that they provided a ministry and reprising the quartet would honor the legacy of Tessar.

Joining "Bound for Heaven," will be "Enlightened." They are a Christian praise and worship band. Formerly the band at the Pursuit Youth Ministry in Fond du Lac. "Enlightened," was formed in 2006. Members include Eric Ogi, lead vocals and acoustic guitar, Jacob Turowski, lead guitar, Joseph Foote, bass, and Jordan Fatke, drums/piano. A unique feature of the band is that each member belongs to a different denomination, but places that aside as they come together with one common purpose, to worship God, and lead others in worship.

"Enlightened" uses music as a relevant median to reach their peers and connect with them on a spiritual level which they feel will help transform hearts.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the church office at 262-626-4011.

'The Miracle Worker' to be presented by Sheboygan Theatre Company

The Sheboygan Theatre Company will continue the seventy-fourth season, which is funded in part by the Stefanie H. Weill Charitable Fund and Acuity for the Arts, with the opening on Friday, February 1, of "The Miracle Worker," which is being sponsored by Community Bank and Trust.

The William Gibson play realistically details the true-life story of blind, deaf Helen Keller and her teacher, Annie Sullivan, a young Irish girl with her own vision problems. Though Helen is practically animal-like and almost totally non-communicative, Annie manages through persistence to unlock her mind, trapped in a secret place of utter darkness and profound silence.

Based on Helen Keller's "The Story of My Life," "The Miracle Worker" was called "magnificent theater" by the New York Daily Mirror and described as "interesting, absorbing and moving" by the New York Post. Originally an unproduced 1953 ballet, Gibbson's "Miracle Worker" was a Playhouse 90 TV presentation in 1957 before being produced on Broadway in 1959.

Made into a major motion picture, "The Miracle Worker" won the 1962 Academy Award for Best Picture and Best Actress and Best Supporting Actress Awards.

SWEETLY STATED BROWNIE CUPCAKES

Makes about 12 Brownies

- 1 package (19.8 oz.) brownie mix (13x9-inch family size)
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup mini semi-sweet chocolate chips
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts, optional
- 3 cups buttercream icing or white ready-to-use decorator icing
- Favorite icing colors

Preheat oven 350°F. Spray heart silicone baking cups with vegetable pan spray. Place cups on cookie sheet for support.

In large bowl, stir together brownie mix, water, oil and eggs until well blended. Stir chocolate chips and, if desired, nuts into batter; spoon into prepared cups. Bake 20 to 22 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out almost clean. Cool completely in cups on cooling grid.

Tint icing desired colors. Spatula ice top of cupcakes smooth. Write messages on cupcakes in red icing using tip 3.

(Family Features) Nothing says I Love You more than a homemade dessert. A heart-shaped chocolate brownie cupcake delivers the message quicker than Cupid's arrow.

Sweetly Stated Brownie Cupcakes are dense, fudgy and rich in chocolatey goodness. They're a treat everyone's heartthrob will delight in - husbands and wives, boyfriends and girlfriends, kids and grandparents.

Top the cupcakes with icing in your loved-one's favorite color and pipe on a heart-felt greeting. Use icing colors to give just the right tint to homemade buttercream icing or white ready-to-use icing.

Silicone Heart Baking Cups provide even baking, easy release (so there's no heart break), and quick clean-up. They're reusable, ready for other occasions such as birthdays, engagement parties, or get-well gifts - any time you want to let someone know I Love You.

Expert ideas for surprising someone this Valentine's Day

(ARA) - There's a reason why generation after generation has found truth in the saying, "You'll find love when you stop looking for it," or, "Love will happen when you least expect it." The idea of love sneaking up on you and letting the "forces that be" take over in the love department has worked for many couples.

The belief that spontaneity can bring good things in life has also proven true in the non-romantic sense as well. There are countless stories of people receiving a card from a friend at a time when a quick pick-me-up was very much needed and appreciated. It's the pay-it-forward idea coupled with the golden rule that often produces these pleasant and sometimes much-needed surprises in life.

This Valentine's Day, trend spotters are expecting the unexpected to play a big part in how people celebrate on February 14th. Now that the holiday encompasses all kinds of love, not just romantic love, the element of surprise is likely to be a theme for many gifts and celebrations whether for friends, for family or just for fun.

Here are a few creative ideas from the holiday experts at American Greetings for surprising someone this Valentine's Day.

Co-Workers and Colleagues -- Americans often spend more time at work than with their family. For the many times your colleagues have been there for you both personally and professionally, they deserve to know how much their support is appreciated. On Valentine's Day, bring back the elementary school valentine exchange and hand out cards to everyone in the office for a quick pick-me-up and a guaranteed smile. And, as with any office, food is always a welcome treat. Stop by a local bakery for fresh bagels, muffins and donuts on Valentine's Day for an instant morale lift.

Family Members -- Showing love and appreciation for family is a growing aspect of Valentine's Day. In fact, the Greeting Card Association found that family members other than husbands and wives receive more than half of all valentines sent, and children are the most popular family recipients. Mom will appreciate a heartfelt card and some well-deserved R&R even more than jewelry and perfume. Plan an impromptu lunch date with dad or bring him his favorite snack to let him know you're thinking of him. And just like the coupon booklets kids create for Mother's Day or Father's Day, consider making one for them that's full of vouchers for one-on-one time with you, a night of board games and an afternoon of cooking or crafting together.

Friends -- Research shows that celebrating female friendships is an increasingly popular aspect of February 14th now that more women are living without spouses and people are staying single longer, making the bonds of friendship even stronger for many. For a creative way to show your love for your circle of friends, organize an old-time sleeper complete with brunch comfort food, flannel PJs and an evening of chic flicks. For a big laugh, break out old yearbooks or scroll through online photo albums to relive your most memorable moments together.

For Anyone Who Brightens Your Day -- Valentine's Day isn't just about reaching out to your closest family and friends. In many ways, it is a great time to say thanks to the people who make your day brighter and your life a little easier. Surprise the barista who makes your morning latte the minute you walk in the door with a card that simply says, "You sweeten my world. Happy Heart Day," and your personal message of thanks. Let the bus driver who takes you to work, or your kids to school, know how much you appreciate him or her with a week's worth of breakfast, like fresh-baked coffee cake or a loaf of homemade banana bread. And don't forget your office handyperson who always keeps the place looking good, no matter what you and the staff dish out. A box of chocolates or a lunch out of the office can go a long way in showing someone how much they are appreciated year-round.

For The One You Love -- While celebrating romance at Valentine's Day is nothing new, there are some new ways to say, "I love you." After all, a break from the routine can be the best gift ever. For the music lover, create a playlist of his or her favorite songs or "your songs," then upload them to their music player or burn onto CD and place on the front seat of their car on February 14. If your family is comprised of several four-legged, furry friends, send your loved one a cute valentine from the dog or cat. The love of Valentine's Day doesn't have to be a one-day celebration, either. Give your valentine a week's worth of love with a note in his or her briefcase or lunch bag every day leading up to February 14th. Reveal your plans for a Valentine's Day celebration in the final card.

Surprising someone on Valentine's Day is easy with the perfect cards and gifts for every special person on your list from American Greetings. Not only will the recipient get a pick-me-up in their day; you'll also get the satisfaction of knowing you made someone smile and feel appreciated. The UW-Fond du Lac Foundation awarded more than $33,000 in scholarships to new and continuing UW-Fond du Lac students in 2007. These scholarships are funded largely through gifts from community members, alumni and local businesses for the purpose of making a quality college education affordable and accessible.

OSHA inspection seminar to be offered at MPTC

Dr. Chery F. Kendrick, a regulatory specialist for the veterinary profession, will present "OSHA for the Veterinary Practice" at Moraine Park Technical College's West Bend campus on Saturday, Feb. 9.

During this informative and enjoyable seminar scheduled for 12 noon to 4 p.m., Dr. Kendrick will provide the tools to simplify the regulatory aspect of a veterinary practice and be ready for an OSHA inspection. Participants will receive tools that they can use immediately, including a CD-ROM with an OSHA safety manual, which will be personalized at the seminar for their own practice; an MSDS CD-ROM to use for a clinic's MSDS library; and a continuing education certificate. There will be enough time to ask questions.

For the OSHA manual, participants should bring their laptops (either PC or Mac) to customize the manual for their clinic. Moraine Park will provide laptops for those who don't have one.

The seminar will take place in the Applied Manufacturing Technology Center auditorium on Moraine Park's West Bend campus, 2151 N. Main St. Cost is $99 per person, which includes materials and refreshments.

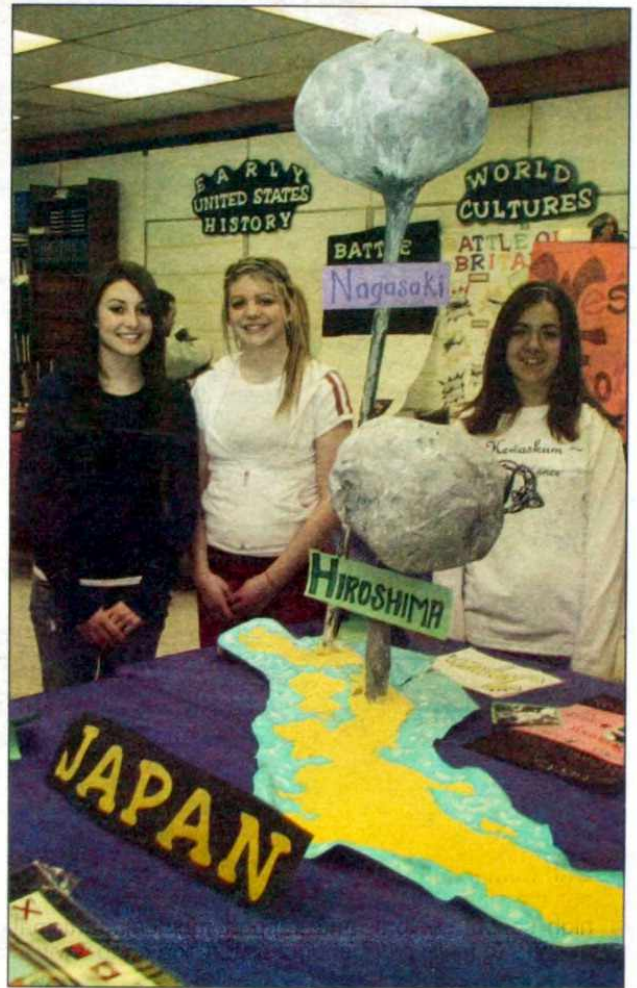

To register, contact Eileen Rottscholl at 920-924-3491 or erottscholl@morainepark.edu.

KHS students entrench themselves in World War II education project

Kewaskum High School students in Jeffrey Steers' early US history class recently transformed their classroom into a World War II museum with projects they have worked on over the last month. Steers reported that students from the high school along with the middle and elementary schools toured the museum. The museum was also open to the public for viewing. Open enrollment is available for low-income parents whose children are eligible for free or reduced-price lunches under the federal school lunch program.

The DPI provides the following guidelines for parents who wish to apply for open enrollment.

- For the first time, parents will have the opportunity to apply on-line directly from the open enrollment website <http://dpi.wi.gov/sms/psctoc.html>. The on-line application will be available from midnight Feb. 4 until 4 p.m. on Feb. 22. Paper applications can be downloaded from the same website or obtained from any public school district.

- Open enrollment deadlines are firm. Paper application forms must be submitted to the nonresident school district no earlier than Feb. 4 and no later than Feb. 22. Early and late applications will be returned. The paper forms are due in the nonresident school district no later than 4 p.m. on Feb. 22; a postmark for paper forms will not meet the requirement. Hand-delivery of paper application forms to the nonresident school district is strongly recommended. Parents will be informed by April 11 whether their open enrollment applications have been approved or denied.

- Parents may submit applications to no more than three nonresident school districts for each child during the open enrollment application period. Submitting more than three applications to nonresident school districts will result in all applications being invalidated.

- Forms must be filled out completely and accurately. Contact the local school district office or the Department of Public Instruction if assistance is needed in filling out the form. An inaccurate or incomplete form may result in denial of an application.

- Parents may request enrollment in a specific school or program in the nonresident school district; however, enrollment in the requested school or program is subject to space and other limitations and is not guaranteed.

- Most students who attended a nonresident school district under open enrollment last year are not required to reapply for the 2008-09 school year. However, if the student will be entering middle school, junior high school, or high school in the 2008-09 school year, parents should call the nonresident school district to find out if reapplication will be required.

- Parents may apply for their children to attend 4-year-old kindergarten under open enrollment only if the resident school district also offers a 4-year-old kindergarten program for which the child is eligible. To assist parents in submitting open enrollment applications, a directory of public school districts is available on the DPI website at <http://www.dpi.wi.gov/schlsrch3.aspx>.

In the Kewaskum School District a total of 64 students came into the district in 2007-08, an increase of 17 students. Numbers from the district showed 150 students leaving the district, and increase of 5 students from the previous year.

The Bookworm Sez

by Terri Schlichenmeyer
Time Spies: Horses in the Wind
By Candice Ransom
Bloomsbury, $4.99 118 pages

If you could travel back in time, where would you go?

Would you go back to walk with (and run away from) dinosaurs? Or would you step back many years and play with your grandparents? Maybe you'd be the kid to go back just one week, so you could take a test again and pass.

Mattie, Alex, and Sophie Chapman can go wherever they want to go, thanks to a secret portal in their Virginia vacation home. In "Time Spies: Horses in the Wind" by Candice Ransom, the kids travel eighty years back to a great galloping adventure.

Life is pretty boring for eight-year-old Alex Chapman. Alex, nine-year-old Mattie, and five-year-old Sophie are the only kids for miles and there's nobody to play soccer with. Alex is bored, but it won't last long.

That's because Alex and his sisters have become Time Spies.

At the beginning of their summer, the siblings found a secret third-floor passageway in the bed-and-breakfast that their parents run. By entering the portal, they travel through time. Anyone staying in the B&B's Jefferson Suite is a Travel Guide, and now someone's due any minute! Alex hopes hard that a sporting adventure is next.

When the lodger arrives, the kids learn that she's a horse expert and she offers them a clue. The next morning, the children slither through their secret portal - PLOP! - right into October 20, 1938 and a different kind of sports event.

Seabiscuit, a swift but scrawny horse that nobody wanted, is slated to race against War Admiral, the fastest horse ever known. People from miles around and reporters from many newspapers want to see this historic race. Alex got his wish, even though it's not exactly the kind of sport he's used to playing.

At the track, the kids meet Bobby, Seabiscuit's caretaker, who tells the kids that everyone wants to know what makes the horse so fast. Bobby is afraid that spies will sneak in to Seabiscuit's stall and gather secrets.

What Bobby doesn't know is that Alex, Mattie, and Sophie Chapman are Time Spies, and they're already on the case....

Kids possess incredibly fertile imaginations, and yours no doubt have imagined a few "what if's" about stepping out to another time. This cute middle-aperture-reader chapter book helps add to that daydream.

Author Candice Ransom mixes true history, real-life action, authentic people and locales, and three smart, heroic, good kids all together to create a fast-paced story that will hold the attention of even the most reluctant reader. Boys as well as girls will find plenty of fun in here, and kids who love horses or history will inhale this book and want more. Lucky for them all, there are several Time Spies books already in print and more to come.

If your 7-to-12-year-old can't get enough of "Magic Tree House" books or the everything-old-is-new-again "Choose Your Own Adventure" series, be on the lookout for "Horses in the Wind" and all of the Time Spies stories. These are books your kids will want to make time for.

NORBERT MARTIN HEISE

Norbert Martin Heise, first born child to Martin and Renata (Rehm) Heise in the Town of Scott, Sheboygan County, Wisconsin, passed away January 25, 2008. He would have been 89 on February 24, 2008.

He was the beloved husband of Faith Heise; dear father to Nyles (Beverly) and Mark (Kris); awesome grandfather to Pamela, Angela (Brian), Heath (Jackie) and Alison; fond great-grandfather to Vonn, Sophia, Gabe, Cooper and Holden; dearest step-father to Thomas (Lisa), Stephen (Laurie), Deborah, Rebecca (Andrew Sr.) and Miriam; and grandfather to Jennifer, Elizabeth, Rachael, Emily, Caroline, Faith, Ronia, Michelle, Megan, Adam, Luke, Isaiah, Micha, Kaley, Andrew Jr., Jacob and Hannah; and great-grandfather to Carson and Lily.

He graduated from Plymouth High School in 1938 and shortly thereafter married his first wife, Evangeline Anna Krautkramer on November 14, 1942.

Shortly after high school he began his career as a licensed cheese maker in Belgium, Wisconsin and went to work at the Beechwood Cheese Factory in 1944. He became the first cheese maker in Wisconsin to manufacture Monterey Jack cheese and the first to initiate the production of direct vat sets with Hansen Laboratories. In 1952 he purchased the factory with his wife Evangeline and in 1976 he went into corporation with his son Mark until he retired in 1987.

He was a member and director of the Beechwood Fire Department.

He was an inventor, master of many trades and could fix anything. His passion was fishing, and he enjoyed spending time on any lake, at any time with his grandchildren. He was an accomplished wood worker, played the trumpet, accordion and concertina. He was a charter member of the Beechwood Sportsman's Club and champion trap shooter amassing many trophies for his sharp eye. He remained an avid Packer fan through all their ups and downs, rarely missing the chance to watch a game.

In his early 70s he acquired a Bachelor of Arts from Logos University in Bonita Springs and majored in archeology. He eventually went on a dig in the Holy Lands. During these late years in life he discovered he could paint and amazed people with his natural artistic water color abilities.

He had a marvelous sense of humor and was known by all as the "Great Storyteller."

He was preceded in death by his parents, first wife and only brother, Willard (Patsy Birenbaum). Norbert suffered a massive stroke and died from complications.

Norbert was a giant of men and will be dearly missed.

Cremation took place in accordance with his wishes. Two memorials will be held; one at Coach Light Manor in Fort Myers, Florida and one in Beechwood, Wisconsin. Dates and times to be announced.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made in Norbert Heise's memory to the Beechwood Sportsman's Club, c/o Eugene Geunther, 1727 County Rd A W, Adell, WI 53001.

Grant proposals being sought for soybean crushing facility in state

$4 million to expand biofuels capacity to help achieve Governor's energy independence goal

MADISON- Secretary Rod Nilsestuen is calling for grant proposals for construction of a large-scale soybean crushing facility in the state. The biennial budget signed by Governor Jim Doyle in 2007 includes $4 million for the project as part of a comprehensive plan to develop the state's bio economy.

Governor Doyle's energy independence goal is to generate 25 percent of the state's power and transportation fuel from renewable sources by 2025.

Wisconsin ranked 14th in the nation in soybean production in 2007 with 51.9 million bushels. Wisconsin is the only top-producing soybean state without a large-scale soybean crushing facility.

A soybean crushing facility separates soybean oil from the rest of the bean. Soybean meal, a by-product, is an important livestock feed. Most of the state's soybean crop is processed in other states and sold back to Wisconsin farmers for feed.

The state's growing biodiesel industry needs soybean oil to expand. Last year the state's first large-scale commercial biodiesel plant opened in DeForest with the capacity of producing 20 million gallons of biodiesel annually from a variety of feedstock sources, including soybean oil. Another large-scale commercial project is on the drawing board in Evansville with the capacity of producing 45 million gallons a year.

Requirements of the soybean crushing facility grant proposal include:

Matching funds

Commitment to build a plant with the capacity to process 20 million bushels annually

Ability to complete the construction by 2009. Funds will be released only as reimbursement for actual expenditures.

Proposals must be post-marked by March 1. The award will be announced on March 25 and a contract in place by April 15. For more information and a copy of the request for proposal, visit the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection Web site, www.datcp.state.wi.us search 'bio grant'. Or contact Will Hughes, administrator of Agricultural Development, 608-224-5142, Will.Hughes@Wisconsin.gov.

Be sure to watch for the upcoming special section Savvy Seniors.

You'll find lots of good reading for possible directions you could take.

APPLICATION DEADLINE FOR OPEN ENROLLMENT IS FEBRUARY 22

Open enrollment applications for the 2008-09 school year can be submitted to Wisconsin public schools during the period of February 4 to February 22, 2008 (4:00 p.m. deadline). Wisconsin's public school open enrollment program allows parents to apply for their children to attend public school in a school district other than the one in which they live.

Under the full-time public school open enrollment program, parents must apply during the application period to the school district they wish their children to attend. Early and late applications are not accepted. The forms are due in the nonresident school district no later than 4:00 p.m. on February 22; a postmark will not meet the requirement. Hand-delivery of application forms to the nonresident school district is strongly recommended.

Parents may submit applications to no more than three nonresident school districts for each child during the open enrollment application period. Submitting more than three applications to nonresident school districts will result in all applications being invalidated.

Parents may request enrollment in a specific school or program in the non-resident school district; however, enrollment in the requested school or program is subject to space and other limitations and is not guaranteed.

Forms must be filled out completely and accurately. An inaccurate or incomplete form may result in denial of an application. Parents will be informed by April 11, 2008 whether their open enrollment applications have been approved or denied.

Transportation is the responsibility of the parent. However, some school districts may elect to provide partial transportation. Parents with questions about transportation should call both resident and nonresident school district offices to find out if any transportation will be provided. Reimbursement of some transportation costs is available for low-income parents whose children are eligible for free or reduced-price lunches under the federal school lunch program.

Most students who attended a nonresident school district under open enrollment last year are not required to reapply for the 2008-09 school year. However, if the student will be entering middle or high school in the 2008-09 school year, parents should call the nonresident school district to find out if reapplication will be required.

Parents may apply for their children to attend 4-year-old kindergarten under open enrollment only if the resident school district also offers a 4-year-old kindergarten program for which the child is eligible.

Open enrollment application forms may be obtained from any public school district, from the Department of Public Instruction, or from the DPI's open enrollment Web site. More information is available from the DPI's open enrollment Web site at <http://dpi.wi.gov/sms/psctoc.html> or from Mary Jo Cleaver, DPI, 888-245-2732, or maryjo.cleaver@dpi.state.wi.us.

When the jig is up....
Targeting suspended fish

Even with 15,000 Wisconsin lakes to choose from, and even when Old Man winter releases an extended grip on severe temperatures long enough for people to enjoy a mild afternoon on the ice, too often, too many don't catch fish. January 27, walking on southern Wisconsin lakes with a camera and notebook, very few of the anglers encountered jigging light rods for panfish or watching tip-ups reported action. Almost none.

According to Wisconsin Fishing Guide Phil Schweik, not catching fish is a reality for all of us, even the guides, even when conditions tell us the fish should be jumping out of the water. No matter what the tactic, the fish just don't cooperate. Schweik, who targets the Wisconsin river system and impoundments in the Wausau area, has been having extreme hardwater success in 2008, in particular on an extended crappie bite including a good percentage of big fish to 14 inches on Lac DuBay.

For the gamefish angler, Schweik suggests targeting suspended fish as a "trick" to help keep the dreaded "Skunk" off the ice. Until many of us allow ourselves to think differently, he said, and take icefishing to different heights...or at least depths... we won't catch fish when fishing is tough.

"Most of us were brought up fishing right on the bottom for walleyes, pike and panfish," he said. "I know I was. Keep the bait near the structure and you will catch the fish right? Well sometimes right."

Many years ago, Schweik said he was fishing a large impoundment of the Wisconsin River, working a deep channel along the shoreline and catching a few nice panfish and an occasional pike. Adjacent to the deep channel was a shallow weedbed with the weeds extending up to about one foot below the ice in three to five feet of water.

"Every time I hooked a pike they would head for the vegetation," he said. "The pike were holding in the weeds, would venture out looking for food and would retreat again to the cover when successful."

After targeting those fish over open pockets in the weeds proved virtually impossible, Schweik set his tip-ups running bait just six inches below the ice. It was, he said, "almost as if I had found the mother-lode of pike."

"That winter alone a few friends and I caught well over 250 pike from that area. Although many of them were taken several times," he said. "All of them were caught by running our baits right over the weeds and just under the ice." Other anglers would see all of the action and would set up around us, looking for those open weed pockets or trying to set up near the bottom."

"The result was little or no action or tangled lines and bait. By running our baits suspended as we did, we were able to capitalize on targeting the fish right in their own living room. I have adapted this method to many other bodies of water over the years and it has worked very well on all of them. It will work in your area of Wisconsin too, wherever it is."

One general rule of thumb for the Wisconsin angler, Schweik said; you can catch fish that are working the bottom by following contour lines and holding on structure. But if you really want to catch fish consistently, try working deep water suspended fish.

Fish that are holding high in the water column, according to Schweik, are aggressive fish looking for food. When fish are located up and off of the bottom anywhere from four feet to 20 feet, those are fish searching for a meal. Unlike their bottom feeding instincts that will cause them to be more "cautious and picky," suspended fish will strike out after your bait with a lot more aggression.

"Finding suspended fish has become very easy with the introduction of electronics Schweik said. "Years ago anglers simply worked their bait from top to bottom hoping to move in on a school of fish or to pick up an occasional traveler. Today, flasher units like Vexilar and Marcum tell the fisherman exactly what depth the fish are holding at. Flasher units also allow the angler to see the bait working in the water column. You know exactly where your bait is in relation to the fish and what the fish is doing in relation to your jigging actions. Whether it's aggressive jigging or subtle action that turns fish on, you literally see exactly what triggers the strike and repeat the action to increase the hit consistency."

Schweik said that on a recent trip to a local reservoir he was set up over 35 feet of water with fish holding 17 feet down. Simply dropping the jig down to that depth and gradually jigging it upward, he said, was more than the fish could resist. The fish struck the jig with such aggression that Schweik had to loosen the drag on the reel so that the line would not break on the strike. But if he lowered the bait below the level of the fish, "they would have nothing to do with it." The bait had to be at eye level and then slowly jigged upward to initiate a strike.

"This takes us back to another rule of thumb," Schweik said. "Fish are always looking up and will strike out or move up for bait placed before them or set above them. If your bait is placed below them, though, it will seldom if ever be hit. Next time you are out on the water and the fishing is slow, start targeting the deeper water roamers. Once you start targeting suspended fish there is no limit to what you can do."

Indians come up short in showdown vs. Sheboygan Falls

Not the outcome they hoped for

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Using senior experience and an early 18-0 lead to their advantage, the Sheboygan Falls High wrestling team was able to turn back Kewaskum last Thursday evening and wrap up their second straight Eastern Wisconsin Conference dual meet title.

The host Falcons won eight of the 14 matches, including four by pin and two by technical falls to eke out a 39-30 victory. They ended a perfect 7-0 against EWC foes, while the Indians were 6-1.

The score was 34-30 going into the final four of the night at 130 pounds where Indian sophomore Caleb Olla was pitted against Josh Hammen. Try as he might, Olla could not do much against a fired-up Hammen, who piled up 15 points on his way to a 15-0 technical fall.

"We had our opportunities but couldn't get anything going," KHS coach Dennis Aupperle said Sunday, still one gets the idea while the Indians lost this battle, they plan to do better in the EWC "war" this Saturday.

Falls started off on a big run with pins at 135, 140 and 145, where the Indians have two first-year varsity wrestlers along with junior Nathan Seitz, who normally draws one of the opponents' better wrestlers.

All three Indians were pinned, so the team had to battle out of an 18-0 hole. The task was lessened considerably thanks to a major decision by Ray Wollner at 152 and a pin by Cody Seibel at 171, but from then on, the Indians would pin a match, lose a match and not be able to gain much ground on the Falcons.

The three biggest wins for Kewaskum came from Cody Seibel, P.J. Krueger at 215 and Robbie Maertz at 119.

"Rob Maertz beat Jordan Williams, who is ranked third right now in the Crossface rankings," Aupperle said about Maertz's 7-0 shutout victory. With the win, the young freshman went through his first varsity season without a single loss.

Aupperle was also excited about Cody Seibel's pin over Alec Schielke in 3:32. "Cody pinned a kid who is ranked sixth right now," the coach went on, and add to the fact Schielke is a defending EWC champion, it's a good bet the sophomore Seibel will be able to secure his second EWC title Saturday. (The two were at different weights in 2007.)

Seibel's record in the EWC is a perfect 6-0 with pins in his last four matches and a technical fall before that. He missed the opener against New Holstein because he had a cast on his hand to protect a broken thumb.

"P.J. pinned a good kid," Aupperle said, reporting Krueger needed just 3:59 to take care of Donovan Gregoire. With the victory, Krueger ended the EWC campaign at 6-1, his only loss coming against Campbellsport ace Billy Mayer.

Young Bo Seibel had Kewaskum's third pin, putting Dan Krejci's shoulders to the mat in 5:22. He finished the conference campaign at 7-0.

Freshman Jared Koffke had another good outing at 103, shutting out Jake Mauer with a 15-0 tech fall. Koffke's only conference loss came against a wrestler from Plymouth way back on Dec. 4th.

Wollner should have a good seed at 152 where he ended up 5-1, missing an early meet because of a sore shoulder.

The EWC records of the other Indians are as follows: 112 Steve Kudek, 4-3; Olla, 5-2 at 130; Schultz, 1-4 at 135; Seitz, 3-4 at 140; Roberts, 1-6 at 145; Cody Kerr, 1-5 at 160; Matt Buker, 4-1 at 189; and Tyler Swanson, 3-4 at 285.

Last year, Sheboygan Falls won the conference tournament with 235.5 points on the strength of six first places and four seconds.

Krueger and Cody Seibel are two of the returning champions, while Buker was a runner-up, and Olla, Seitz and Swanson took thirds.

Another big day for KIWC

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Nearly one half of the members of the Kewaskum Indians Wrestling Club who competed in last Saturday's invitational at Oshkosh came away with first or second places.

Despite the frigid temperatures, the club was represented by 35 young athletes, and it was a very successful outing.

The eight champions included Eric Bauer and Brent Goeden in the kindergarten through second grade (K-2) division. These two junior wrestlers have been very strong all season. Bauer had three pins on the day, and Goeden had one in running his string of titles to three straight.

Brandon Wade and Zach Heberer claimed titles in the division for third and fourth graders (3-4). Heberer pinned all three of his foes, and Wade recorded two pins.

The lone winner in the 5-6 division was Cody Muckerheide

And what will the Indians have to do to challenge Sheboygan Falls? "We need to avoid so many pins and give up decisions instead," Aupperle said.

The meet at Campbellsport will get under way at 10:30 a.m.

On Feb. 9, Kewaskum will host a six-team Division 2 regional tournament with all those finishing first and second moving on to the sectional at Milwaukee Lutheran on Feb. 16.

Before all the tournaments get started, the Indians have one more dual meet. "We took a three-day weekend and are back against West Bend East on Thursday," Aupperle said, referring to Thursday's home meet with the Suns who are coming off a big win against their cross hall rival, West Bend West.

The champions in grades 7-8 included: Derek Aupperle (1), Austin Goeden (1) and Lance Pinchard (1). All three looked solid against some very good competition.

The KIWC also had nine runners-up including: K-2 Luke Bindrich (1); 3-4 Jacob Heberer (1); 5-6, Max Maertz, L.J. Pinchard (2) and Zach Smith (2); and 7-8, Sawyer Buck (2), Mike Bier, Nick Bier (1) and Logan Dreher (1).

Those taking third places were: K-2, Mitchell Smith; 3-4, Noel Bindrich, Jared Dexter, Dakota Peters Lawrenz and Alex Philips; 5-6, Travis Trapp, Kurt Luedtke (1) and Derek Voigt (1); and 7-8, Teddy Wollner (1).

In the absence of Tim Hardy, who was ill, Dave Goeden took on the role of head coach, and he was pleased with the efforts of all the Kewaskum wrestlers.

Approximately 20 Kewaskum Indian Wrestling Club families mixed wrestling with pleasure over the past weekend, taking a weekend trip to a water park in Wisconsin Dells and competing in the Adams-Friendship Kids Wrestling Tournament.

Kewaskum took third place as a team, losing the battle for second to Reedsburg by one pin.

Ten of the young Indians won championships, including all three Heberer brothers, Jacob, Nathan and Zachary and the two Pinchards, Lance and L.J. The others champions included: Grades 7-8, Teddy Wollner (2 pins and a bye) and Jacob Hardy (2 pins in taking his first-ever tournament title), 5-6, Joey Seitz (2 pins); and Kindergarten-Grade 2, Braden Maertz (1 pin) and Eric Bauer (2 pins).

Two Kewaskum athletes, Jacob Heberer and L.J. Pinchard, pinned all three of their opponents. For the day, the young Indians recorded 29 pins.

The other 7-8th graders placed as follows: Joey Wollner, 2nd with two pins; Derek Aupperle, third with one pin; and Austin Goeden, third.

Some of the brackets for the two upper grades were loaded with 2007 state place winners.

In the 5-6 division, Max Maertz (2 pins), Zachary Smith (2 pins) and Travis Trapp (1 pin) claimed seconds, while Trevor Kirst (1 pin), Max Hardy and Cody Muckerheide finished third.

In the 3-4 division, it was Daniel Seitz who placed second with 2 pins; and Alex Philips placed third; and in the K-2 division, there were the three firsts and then only fourths.

Several others remained at home and turned out for Sheboygan's Youth Tournament on Sunday. None of the Kewaskum wrestlers won titles in this event, but Michael Bier placed second in the 7-8 division with a pin and a bye.

Other KIWC representatives placed as follows: Michael Boettcher, third in the 3-4 division with two pins; Dakota Peters-Lawrenz, third in 3-4 with one pin, and Nicholas Bier, third in a five-man bracket in the 7-8 class.

Many of the Kewaskum athletes are heading for Kimberly Tournament this Sunday.

Girls put it all together for great home victory against Waupun

By Nathan Kenworthy

The Kewaskum Indians girl's basketball team has played tough defense nearly all season, but the offense has been behind just a little bit. However, the Indians were not going to spoil a chance to get a win in front of the home crowd on Friday, January 25 when they hosted Waupun. And win they did with a score of 50-43.

"We played great in the first and second quarter, and it was probably our best half of the season," said Coach Jeff Gosse. The Indians had an 18 point lead at halftime, behind "great defense, especially the full-court press," added Gosse.

The Indians did experience some difficulty putting Waupun away, when the lead was cut to 10 after the third quarter, in which the Indians would only score four points. The Indians would turn the ball over too many times, a problem that has plagued their offense all season. "We didn't execute offensively," said Gosse. They would hold on to get their third win of the season.

Ana Butler led the Indians in scoring with 14 points. Her sophomore counterpart Elissa Miller scored 13 points, while Senior Stephanie Rinzel had a good game with 10 including two three-point baskets. Jenna Buker added six points.

The Indians (3-10 overall and 2-7 conference) started this season with a 46 game losing streak, dating back to the 2005 season. While the team has won three games and counting, they have been in and competitive in nearly every game this year.

The team will be traveling to Kiel on Thursday, January 31. They will also be visiting Pioneer Westfield on February 1. Westfield was also 0-21 last season, but does have a couple of wins this year. The lady Indians will host Sheboygan Falls Tuesday, February 5. "We have a chance to win those games if we continue to play our defense and don't turn the ball over on offense," added Gosse.

Score misleading in girls' loss to Plymouth

By Nathan Kenworthy
Statesman Correspondent

The Kewaskum Indians girl's basketball team traveled to Plymouth on Thursday, January 17th, looking to get their third win of the season and attempt to move up within their conference rankings to better position themselves for the playoffs.

"We played one of our better games all year, and probably our best game defensively," said Coach Jeff Gosse. "We did a great job shutting them down and forcing Plymouth to take bad shots," added Gosse.

As well as the girls did play defensively, the offense was unable to match it. Only four girls scored for the Lady Indians in the 43-24 loss. The score was misleading, however, because Plymouth hit a three-point basket as time expired in both the second quarter before halftime and at the end of the game. Jennie Wicklund led the Indians in scoring with an impressive 14 points.

Gosse believes that the Indians "can win if we just keep the defense where it has been the past few games and if we get the offense going." The Indians play at home against Waupun on Friday, January 25 at 7:30 pm. They also play on Tuesday, January 29 against Ozaukee at home at 6 pm.

UWWC Wildcat men defeat UW-Richland

The boy's basketball team played Saturday, January 26 at home against UW-Richland. The UW-WC Wildcats had a 13 point lead at halftime, but then let Richland back into the game in the third quarter. However, the Wildcats did put the game away in the early fourth quarter and won the game 84-68.

Matt Erickson led the Wildcats in scoring with 18 points and added a team-high 6 assists. Aaron Lofy scored 14 points and dished 5 assists. Former Kewaskum star Matt Parrent added 15 points. The Wildcats have now won four in a row and built their record to 10-7 on the season. They will play at home next on Saturday, February 2 at the UW-WC campus in West Bend at 3pm.

The 3rd/4th grade boy's team played against cross-town rival Campbellsport. The Indians led a balanced offensive attack and played stingy defense. They led 12-2 at halftime. The Cougars did rally in the second half, but the Indians held on to win 18-10. Conner Enright and Nick Buchel were a few of the key players in the game for the Indians. The 5th grade boy's team played two tough games but lost both of them. FACES won the first game 32-22. Campbellsport won the second game 37-20. Dean Schlice and Cory Kurtz led the Indians in both games. The 6th grade boys green team have shown great improvement over the past few weeks, but lost to Lomira by one point.

The 3rd/4th grade girl's white team lost to North Fondy 23-10. They played one of their best games of the year, but gave up too many offensive rebounds in the second half. Megan MacFarlane, Nicole Casey and Haley Kleinhans led the way for the Indians. The 3rd/4th grade girl's green team also lost to North Fondy. They lost by four points. Haley Herriges, Sophie Lightner and Kaila Kirst led the Indians. The 5th grade girl's team lost to FACES 22-10. Overtime loss tough to take for boys basketball team

By Nathan Kenworthy
Statesman Correspondent

The Kewaskum Indians boy's basketball team hosted Cedar Grove-Belgium on Tuesday, January 22. The team knew that they would have a great opportunity to give themselves some momentum leading up to the state tournament, as it did last year.

The Indians started out nicely and had a two point lead entering the second quarter. However, Cedar Grove-Belgium had an offensive outburst and scored 22 in the quarter to take a 12 point lead at halftime. The Indians have had problems this year in the third quarter, when they would give away leads or fall too far behind, but that was not going to be the case Tuesday. They chipped away at the deficit that they were facing, and trailed by just 9 heading into the final quarter. With help from the home crowd, they did tie the game at the end of regulation. Unfortunately, the Indians were outscored in overtime 14-10. However, that did not take away from the great game that the Indians played.

There were some fantastic individual efforts in the game, as the Indians were led by senior Daniel Parker's 23 points and junior Brandon Conroy's 22 points. John Holt scored 10 and TJ Corey added 5 points. Michael Herriges played good defense as he has all season and added two points.

The boys traveled to Waupun where they faced a top ten team in the state. The final score might not have been in the Indians favor, but they did play hard and played nearly even with the home team in the second quarter and outscored Waupun in the fourth quarter. The final score was 88-48, but the Indians should take away the positives against the team that will win the Eastern Wisconsin Conference.

Waupun had three different players with 4 three point baskets each. Kewaskum was led by Conroy's 14 points. Holt scored 7 while Corey scored 5. Brian Backhaus added four points.

The Indians will play at home for the next three games. They start by hosting Kiel on Friday, February 1 at 7pm. Kewaskum will then play Kettle Moraine Lutheran at home on Monday, February 4 also at 7pm.

Bowlers go 0-2 in match

The Kewaskum girls varsity bowling team had a rough night at King Pin Lanes in Campbellsport on Monday, January 22.

In the first match, the team lost to Cedarburg, 166-148, 126-161, 125-128, 151-157, 138-178. In the second match of the evening, the team lost to St. Mary's Springs, 151-130, 245-176, 120-212, 149-213, 129-213.

The highlight of the night was in the second game against St. Mary's where the girls started the game with seven strikes in a row and ended up with a 245 game.
