Alumni will be honored on Monday by community, Board of Education

KHS to honor second round of alumni

KEWASKUM- This past fall Kewaskum High School accepted nominations for their second Annual Alumni Achievement Award. The school has announced this year's recipients: Susan (Scannell) McCullough, (1968), Dr. Reverend Roy Peterson (1976), and Albert Glenn Asch (1972).

In November, three outstanding candidates were selected based on the following criteria:

- he/she gained distinction in his/her field
- he/she offers an admirable example to students based on character and accomplishments
- he/she contributes to his/her community of residence

Susan (Scannell) McCullough (nominated by Patrick Bertram) is currently a Head Nurse of the Intensive Care Unit at St. Joseph's Community Hospital for over 30 years. She has been on the selection committee and aided in the design of the new St. Joseph's Community Hospital.

Dr. Reverend Roy Peterson (nominated by Carrie Kuehl and family) is currently serving weekends at his own local parish and helps with chapel services at Concordia University. Dr. Rev. Peterson was a co-owner of Stewart-Peterson Group in West Bend from 1985-1996. In 1996, he sold his half of the business and entered Concordia Seminary in St. Louis.

Dr. Rev. Peterson received his ordination in 1998, and became a Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod Minister. He was called to serve at Grace Lutheran as the Associate Pastor. For the past ten years, he served the church and community.

From 2002-2005, Dr. Rev. Peterson furthered his schooling and received his Doctorate degree in Ministry from Trinity University in Illinois. In 2007, he received a call to serve as the Assistant Vice President of Advancement at Concordia University.

(Albert) Glenn Asch (nominated by Albert and Anna Asch) is currently a violinist for the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra and a composer. He also is a music teacher in the Milwaukee Public School System.

Asch earned his Masters Degree in Violin Performance at University of Wisconsin Milwaukee in 1994.

On Monday, March 10, the School District will host these Alumni

Achievement Award recipients. They will take part in a school/community assembly at 10:38 a.m. in the KHS Field house.

During this assembly, the honorees will present information regarding their school days at KHS. The presentations will include the activities they were in, their educational background, and their careers that followed.

After lunch, the honorees will conduct student career workshops in the afternoon. That same evening they will be honored at a School Board reception that starts at 6:00 p.m. in the Rose Library in KHS.

The community is invited to the school assembly and the reception.

Started last year, the purpose of the award is to:

- encourage students to choose challenging careers that would benefit the community and our country, and
- recognize Kewaskum High Alumni reconnecting them to our school and our community.

Kewaskum man charged with assault of step-niece

By Andrew Kuehl
andrew@kewaskumstatesman

TOWN of AUBURN- A 26-year-old Kewaskum man is facing charges of second-degree sexual assault of a child under 16. According to police, the man's step-niece claims he assaulted her on his couch while his daughter and step-daughter were asleep next to the victim.

Police allege in a criminal complaint that after the December 26, 2007 assault took place, Jeremy J. Gerlach offered the 13-year-old victim $40. According to a criminal complaint, he said to her "you are not going to tell anyone about this, right?" He was charged in Fond du Lac County Circuit Court last week.

The complaint alleges that as the children were sleeping around 4 a.m. Gerlach started sexually assaulting the victim. After he finished, he left the victim.

At 6 a.m. that same morning the victim says that Gerlach again assaulted her as she tried to sleep. Afterwards he offered her the money.

When approached by Fond du Lac County Sheriff's Department detectives on February 6 he admitted that she was at his residence and that he gave her a hug and may have brushed her butt, but that was all.

Gerlach will have a preliminary hearing before Judge Steven Weinke on Friday, March 21.

DPW director not panicking over salt yet

Kewaskum's Department of Public Works director Jerry Gilles says he is optimistic about salt holding out to the end of the snow season. "We have between 40-50 tons," he stated. "However, that salt could run out with one significant ice storm or two large snow falls." Gilles hinted to the village board Monday about adding another salt shed at the DPW yard. This would enable the village to hold a larger reserve. The board will look into that possibility when it begins next year's budget. In the meantime Gilles says "think spring!"

Extra national funds awarded to Washington County emergency food and shelter programs

Washington County has been chosen to receive $73,032 in 2008 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the county. The amount awarded was based on the total number of unemployed within the county as compared to other jurisdictions and is a 16% increase over the $62,897 awarded for 2007.

The funding award was made by a National Board that is chaired by the Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and consists of representatives from American Red Cross; Catholic Charities, USA; National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.; The Salvation Army; United Jewish Communities, and United Way of America.

The local board, chaired by United Way Executive Director Joe Calabrese, is in charge of distributing funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the County. In 2007 funding priority was given to programs that provided rent and utility payment assistance to eligible individuals and mass shelter.

A local board, made up of the United Way of Washington County, Hebron House of Hospitality, Department of Social Services, Friends of Abused Families, St. Vincent DePaul Society, Salvation Army, Youth & Family Project, and other agencies and individuals, will determine how the funds awarded to Washington County are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service agencies in the area.

Under the terms of the grant from the National Board, local agencies chosen to receive funds must: 1) be private voluntary non-profits or units of government, 2) have an accounting system, 3) practice nondiscrimination, 4) have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and 5) if they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board. Qualifying agencies are urged to apply.

Public or private voluntary agencies interested in applying for Emergency Food and Shelter Program funds should contact Joe Calabrese, at the United Way of Washington County office, (262) 338-3821, by Friday, March 14th.

Library Ledger

by Steev Baker

Remember the heady days of the year 2000? As a nation, we were still reeling from our close call with the Y2K virus, still undecided on the merits of nu-metal, and still innocent enough to think that, with the end of the cold war, there were no more enemies in the world. Two things happened to me that year—I graduated from college with a questionably practical degree in literature and I got hired to direct your library. Those were dark days indeed; before high-speed internet (there were no public internet terminals here), DVDs, or downloadable audio books.

On my 300-mile-a-week commute, I thought up many grand schemes for the library, most of which involved art and music and none of which necessarily involved technology. For the first few months on the job, I wrote a column for the Statesman about myself and about the library, trying to wrap my brain around how to do my job and also as a way of introducing myself to you.

Gradually, the columns faded away from the Statesman, but in 2005 I began posting blogs on the library's website. Since then, blogs as a medium have been increasingly mainstreamed to the point where, I think it is safe to say, everyone reads at least one and most people have at least one. In the world of "Web 2.0" (this is the last time I will ever use that phrase), blogs are a good way to get instant feedback from readers.

For those of you who don't know, it works like this: I post a bit of information—a short essay, a photo, a link, some scrap of philosophical rambling—on the library website. Anyone can go to the site, read my post, and instantly respond to it. You click a few buttons, and then you too are typing away; it's like a letter from the editor, immediately responded to and published (for a world-wide audience) with a letter to the editor. And then I can respond back or others can add comments about your comment or about my blog posting. And etc. Some of the topics on the blog have been timely programming news, statistics about how your tax dollars are being used, photos of recent events, and of course my lovable and witty commentary on national library issues.

This week is a post entitled "Our Mutating Role" which links to and comments on a Slate.com article about changing views in library architecture. Why not surf over to the site and check it out? Leave a comment to let me know you were there and that I'm not the only one thinking about the future of the library. You can find the blog by clicking on "Library Blog" at our home page or go to the page directly at www.kewaskum.lib.wi.us/blog.html.

Snowmobile crash injures 1

TOWN of WAYNE- A 25-year-old West Bend man was seriously injured after a snowmobile collision on Saturday, March 1, at 2:54 a.m. He has since been released from Froedtert Hospital.

The Washington County Sheriff's Department responded to a snowmobile trail, along the northbound lanes of US Highway 41, approximately ¾ of a mile south of County Road D. Deputies found a snowmobile against a medium size tree with substantial front end damage, and the male operator lying on the seat.

Sergeant Ryan Herman stated that an investigation revealed two snowmobiles were operating south on the marked trail. The second snowmobile, operated by Joshua A. Muenchow, 25, of West Bend, failed to negotiate a slight curve in the trail. Muenchow was not totally ejected; however it appears his body did come in contact with the tree during the collision.

The first snowmobile returned to the scene after not observing a headlight following him. Helmets were being worn during the incident.

EMS transported the seriously injured operator from the accident scene to a nearby location where Flight for Life continued the transport to Froedtert Hospital in Milwaukee. Alcohol and speed appear to be factors in the accident, with Muenchow being cited for operating under the influence.

Kohlsville First Responders, Allenton Fire and Rescue, West Bend Intercept, and Flight for Life assisted with medical triage.

COLON CANCER DOES NOT DISCRIMINATE

Colon cancer strikes men and women in equal numbers. About 130,000 Americans will be diagnosed this year with colon cancer, and 49,000 Americans die from it annually. A combination of genetic and environmental factors causes colon cancer. Older people are most vulnerable, so annual screenings after age 50 is critical. Those with a family history should begin screening at age 40 or even earlier. Abnormalities in the APC gene, which can be detected with genetic testing, may trigger familial adenomatous polyposis (FAP), which involves the growth of thousands of tiny adenomatous polyps through the colon. Hereditary nonpolyposis colon cancer (HNPCC) can also be diagnosed with genetic testing. At least four separate genetic defects can cause HNPCC, which runs in some families.

The Social Changes of War discussion at UWWC March 12

Two Wisconsin military women will discuss THE SOCIAL CHANGES OF WAR at UW-Washington County on Wednesday evening, March 12 at 7pm in Room 228. The speakers are Gundel Metz, a coordinator from the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs (WDVA) and First Lieutenant Angela Joseph-Gaffke of the Wisconsin Safety and Occupational Health Office will discuss women's roles in the military throughout history. A question and answer session follows the hour-long discussion. Admission is free and no reservations are needed.

Metz and Gaffke will discuss the integration of women into all branches of the armed services, the way women's roles have changed over the years along with social changes, and how the ending of the draft has helped women in the military.

Gundel Metz served in the army from 1975 to 1995 and represents WDVA Secretary John A. Scocos and the Department in coordinating with other state and federal agencies. She also works directly with the US Department of Veteran Affairs, including VA medical centers that assist women veterans in Wisconsin. She is a member of United Women Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Disabled American Veterans and 101st Airborne Association.

Angela Joseph-Gaffke is the State Occupational Health Nurse for the Wisconsin Army National Guard. She was commissioned as a Chief Warrant Officer 2 (CW2) in Supply Logistics and served as a Lieutenant in the Army medical branch as a Patient Administrative Officer. She will be promotable to captain in March 2008.

Community members as well as area high school and college students are encouraged to attend.

More information is available on the campus website at www.washington.uwc.edu/events/lectures. The campus is located at 400 University Drive (just off Hwy. 33 West) in West Bend.

Gridiron Club announces plans for 2008 season; registration March 29

As many of us may be anxiously waiting for the arrival of spring, the Kewaskum Gridiron Club's Board of Directors eagerly await the start of another youth football season as members of the Wisconsin All-American Youth Football League in the fall of 2008. A good part of the planning process for next fall has already taken place and very soon an important event will occur this spring in preparation for next fall several months prior to the actual season.

The Gridiron Club has set aside Saturday, March 29, 2008 for their annual spring registration date. Registration will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Hon-E-Kor Golf and Country Club, located at 1141 Riverview Drive in Kewaskum.

KMS concerts to be held in HS auditorium

In order to try different things with the district's new theatre, Kewaskum Middle School has scheduled separate concerts for the sixth, seventh, and eighth grade bands and choirs.

On Monday, March 10, the KMS sixth grade will present their band and choir concert in the auditorium beginning at 7 p.m. The choir will perform first and then after a short break to change the stage, the band will perform.

This will be the same basic routine on Tuesday, March 11 for the seventh grade and on Thursday, March 13 for the eighth grade.

Tuesday and Thursday there will be some additional performances by the KMS swing choir and jazz band.

Please come and enjoy the middle school's young musicians and the great theatre.

This registration will include both football players and cheerleaders.

Participation in the Gridiron Club is open to Kewaskum School District youth who will be entering fifth through eighth grades in the fall of 2008. There are very strict residency rules which apply as anyone registering MUST live in the Kewaskum School District. A parent or guardian must accompany any child when registering and pay the participation cost at that time.

The participation cost is $135 for each player. For any family having two or more players, the cost for the second player is $100, and the cost for any third or additional player is $75. The cheerleading cost is $50 for each child wishing to be a cheerleader.

In consideration for participation, parents of all participants are required to perform volunteer duties at home games or other activities.

Practices begin in early August on the high school/middle school grounds. Games take place on Saturdays in September and October, with home games held on the high school athletic field and away games taking the teams to several other communities.

The Kewaskum Gridiron Club is a local, non-profit, all-volunteer organization dedicated to teaching the fundamentals of full contact tackle football to area youth to help prepare them for playing at the high school level. From humble beginnings in 1997, the club has grown steadily to include teams at four grade levels, fifth through eighth, cheerleaders, and an annual scholarship awarded to a former player.

If you have any questions, need more information, or are unable to register on March 29th, please call Joe Backhaus at 262-626-2327 or Jim Korth at 262-626-2520. Cheerleading questions can be directed to Jenny Harbin at 262-626-8058.

DAYS GONE BY

25 Years Ago

February 25, 1983

The Public Works Committee informed the Kewaskum Village Board Monday night, that Department of Natural Resources approval has been received for the drilling of a second Kewaskum well on the south end of the village.

On Sunday, February 27, from 1 to 4 p.m. the Kewaskum High School German Club will present Fruehlingfest, an afternoon of German entertainment in the high school gymnasium.

Modern Woodmen of America Camp 2233 recently honored Dr. R.G. Edwards at a dinner and Community Service Recognition Party held at the Labor Center in Kewaskum. Edwards was presented with a plaque by Joe Schwind, counselor of the camp.

Danny Rodenkirch, a Kewaskum dairy farmer, recently presented Ninth District U.S. Rep. F. James Sensenbrenner, Jr. with petitions signed by over 600 area dairy farmers in opposition to the Reagan Administration's 50 cent per hundredweight milk assessment. Rodenkirch told Sensenbrenner the fee would have a crippling effect on the pocketbooks of many dairymen at a time when they can least afford any new production expense. Sensenbrenner told Rodenkirch he opposed the fee and has co-sponsored legislation to repeal it.

Is it spring already? We haven't had winter yet. With a sunny high of 55 degrees on Sunday and temperatures in the 40's most of the past two weeks, most of the little snow we had so far this winter has melted as the mild and springlike weather continues.

Last Saturday at the annual Kewaskum Sno Chiefs Sno-Ball, Wendi Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson of rural West Bend, was crowned Sno-Chiefs Sno-Queen for 1983.

All of Kewaskum's qualifiers from the regional were eliminated from further competition in the WIAA Class A sectional held at Fond du Lac Saturday and the Indians will have no representatives in this year's State Wrestling Tournament in Madison this Friday and Saturday. Kewaskum had four wrestlers for the sectional but Steve Seitz at 167 pounds came down with the flu Thursday and was unable to compete. At 155 pounds, Stuart Stautz lost a one point decision and the other two wrestlers, Wade Jepsen and Chris Harlow, drew eventual champions in the first round at 105 and 185 pounds respectively.

A son was born to Martin and Janet Fochs, Kewaskum, on February 16. A son was also born to John and Judith Borland of Kewaskum on February 10. A daughter was born to David and Jeanne Russart of Campbellsport, on February 18.

75 Years Ago

February 17, 1933

A would-be-assassin at Miami, Florida, early Wednesday evening fired five bullets into the party accompanying President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, wounding five. The shooting occurred in Bay Front Park on Biscayne Bay, where a reception was in progress for Mr. Roosevelt. The assailant was captured by citizens and police. As the firing ceased, the President-Elect waved his hand to the mass of thousands of people congregated, to show them that he was unhurt.

Easy sweets for Easter baskets

By Jenny Harper

It's true — the kitchen is the heart of the home. Ever notice how people always gather there? Whether baking treats, making dinner or spending time with family and friends, the kitchen is my favorite place to be. Since my day job is Senior Culinary Specialist for the Nestlé Test Kitchens, you can bet I love to stir things up. This column lets me pass along to you some of my best recipes, tips and baking secrets.

(Family Features) If you're like me, you're ready to shout "welcome, spring!" Anticipation of sunny skies and warm weather invites us to celebrate this year's March arrival of Easter.

Playing Easter bunny this year? Let me share some of my tips for making Easter special, festive and fun:

Short on time? Look for Easter shapes of fresh refrigerated cookie dough in the dairy section; bake as directed—my favorite is the pink bunnies!—and arrange in an easy centerpiece for your Easter table. Or nestle a few cookies in Easter baskets along with a variety of fudge.

Homemade treats are especially welcome in Easter baskets; try this sure-to-please fudge, in several flavor variations. It's super-easy to make and I promise it will disappear.

Bring the outdoors in with a few pots of early-blooming bulbs like narcissus, crocus and hyacinth.

Place fuzzy pussy willow boughs in vase or container without water if you don't want them to bloom.

Kids love to color and decorate hard-cooked eggs. If weather allows and the grass is green, host an Easter egg hunt in the yard.

STIR in marshmallows, morsels, nuts and vanilla extract. Stir vigorously for 1 minute or until marshmallows are melted. Pour into prepared pan; refrigerate until firm. Lift from pan; remove foil. Cut into 48 squares. Top squares with icing and jelly beans.

Sylvan Learning's Helpful Hints for Student Success:

84% of teachers surveyed say students today more stressed than 10 years ago

By: Barbara Hampton, Center Director

Today's students experience a greater level of stress than students a decade ago, according to a teacher survey released today by Sylvan Learning Center, the nation's leading provider of supplemental assistance for children in grades pre-K through 12.

The vast majority of teachers surveyed informally (84 percent) think that students today are more stressed than their predecessors.

When it comes to stress levels throughout the school year, teachers most frequently cited spring as the season of stress. It's no surprise that spring has become synonymous with stress due to end-of-year assessments, projects, extracurricular activities, sports and, for high school students, college admissions.

Inside and outside of the classroom, there are many ways that students can manage their workload and create time for stress-reducing activities at home. The education experts at Sylvan Learning Center have created the following tips to create "found time" and achieve academic success this spring.

Spring cleaning: Organization - both at home and at school - will save students time by eliminating the need to search for homework assignments, books and other items necessary for spring success.

Spring check-up: Stay informed about the end-of-school activities for which your child will be responsible. Encourage students to use planners to create timelines or place a large calendar with deadlines and test dates in a visible area of the house.

Spring in your step: Exercise is a great way to alleviate stress and stimulate the mind. Taking short exercise breaks between assignments can refresh a student's energy level and renew focus.

Spring break: Compressing study time into one all-nighter may seem like a good way to save time, but the brain is less efficient without a "sleep break," and a student's memory can be affected. A better alternative is to ensure your child obtains the recommended amount of sleep by spreading study efforts out over a period of time.

Spring tune-up: Save yourself and your family time by helping your child pinpoint her "skill gaps" - academic areas that can be strengthened. The Sylvan Skills Assessment can help your child boost her academic performance and achieve success by reaching her full potential.

To understand teachers' thoughts about their students' stress levels, Sylvan conducted an online survey of teachers who use Book Adventure, a free, online reading motivation tool for children in grades K-8. The survey was fielded January 10-15, 2008, and 141 teachers participated at BookAdventure.com.

Young authors win awards

Teal Kryscio, an eighth grader at Kewaskum Middle School received first Place for her story "Just Maxine."

Elizabeth Kruschke, a fifth grader at Farmington Elementary School (FES) received second place for her story "Love is the Key" and first place for illustrations.

Andrew Reis, a third grader at FES received Honorable Mention for his story "The Pawn Who Never Won."

By Amber Donath
Statesman Correspondent

The Kewaskum Community Schools have some new authors and illustrators in its midst. Three area students became award winners in February via the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International Alpha Beta Chapter Literary Contest.

Local recipients were: Teal Kryscio, an eighth grader at Kewaskum Middle School received first place for her story "Just Maxine"; Elizabeth Kruschke, a fifth grader at Farmington Elementary School (FES) received second place for her story "Love is the Key" and first place for illustrations; and Andrew Reis, a third grader at FES received Honorable Mention for his story "The Pawn Who Never Won."

The stories were a project students at FES worked on during school and at home, while Kryscio became entered in the contest by happenstance.

"I wrote and illustrated a book for some Kewaskum Elementary School students. The kids really liked it and my teacher Mrs. Airaudi said she wanted to enter it in the contest," said Kryscio. "I was surprised and thought it would be fun...and then I won."

All three students mentioned that writing is fun, however, adding their own illustrations and creating the whole "book" was the best part.

While each student wrote a fictional story, it was also unanimous that all three students incorporated things from their own lives into parts of their stories.

For Reis, it was his love for playing chess that helped him write his story.

Kruschke is no stranger to the contest. When she was in third grade she also received first place for her story and first place for her illustrations. "If you love writing, this is a great competition," said Kruschke who credits her mom for lots of needed support when writing, and re-writing her story many times.

Congratulations to the local winners and all students who accepted the challenge. What a wonderful opportunity to grow as a writer and create a literary keepsake.

UW-WC offers ACT exam preparation

UW-Washington County (UW-WC) is offering ACT Exam Preparation workshops this spring. Since test-taking generally creates some anxiety, the ACT workshop relieves some of the anxiety by providing practice and familiarity with the test and procedures. The ACT exam is the most widely accepted test for college admission and course placement in the United States. According to Dan Anhalt, Director of Continuing Education at UW-WC, "The ACT workshop benefits students by polishing their test-taking skills. It also helps relieve some of that test anxiety -resulting in a score that is more indicative of the student's actual competency and college readiness."

The workshops are open to high school students and are available at three different locations, including:

Ozaukee High School: April 1 (5pm-9pm), April 5 (8:30am-3:30pm) and April 7 (5pm-8:45pm). This session ends 5 days prior to the April ACT test.

Hartford Union High School: May 27 (4:30pm-8:45pm), May 31 (8:30am-3pm) and June 2 (5pm-8:45pm) This session ends 2 weeks prior to the June ACT test.

For further details or to register, call the Continuing Education Department at UW-WC at 262-335-5259 or email: kim.schwamn@uwc.edu. Registrations are also taken online at www.washington.uwc.edu

Dairy Promo Committee donates to KMS

IN MEMORY

In memory of GINNY OPPERMANN, who passed away one year ago, March 5, 2007:

God saw that she was tired,
And a cure was not to be.
He put his arms around her,
And whispered, come with me.

With tearful eyes, we watched her,

So quickly slip away.
We cared for her, but we Could not make her stay.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of "CY" WIETOR, who passed away suddenly March 8, 2007.

It's hard to believe a year has passed.

We miss your voice, your smile, your laugh.

They say you're in a better place.

Why you were the chosen one they can't explain.

If tears could build a stairway, and memories a lane, We'd walk right up to heaven and bring you home again. Missed and never forgotten.

IN MEMORY

In memory of RICHARD HALFMANN, who passed away 22 years ago, March 7, 1986:

We watched through all your suffering and often had to cry.

For we knew that very soon we'd have to say goodbye.

When days are sad and lonely and everything goes wrong.

We seem to hear you whisper cheer up and carry on.

Every time we see your picture you seem to smile and say don't cry.

I'm in Gods keeping we'll all meet again someday.

*Sadly missed

St. Patrick's Day tradition with a twist

(Family Features) Irish soda bread is a simple quick bread that gets its name from the baking soda used as a leavener, instead of yeast. Traditional soda bread is made with only flour, buttermilk, salt and baking soda. More contemporary versions add ingredients like sugar, raisins and caraway seeds.

But what if you can't have dairy as part of your diet? You can still enjoy this March tradition by substituting soymilk.

Soymilk is such an easy-to-use, delicious alternative to regular milk that most every traditional St. Patrick's Day dish can still be enjoyed by people who have to avoid dairy, said Chef Jim Coleman, host of the PBS TV iHealthy Flavors cooking show. Soymilk is high in protein and has no cholesterol, making it a healthy dairy alternative for anyone looking to improve their diet. Chef Jim says you can easily substitute soymilk for dairy milk in just about any recipe.

He shares his recipe for Irish soy-da bread, studded with raisins and caraway seeds. Plain and simple or dressed up for a party, soda bread is a tasty part of any Irish celebration.

Serve with:

- * hot tea and organic jam
- * Irish stew
- * traditional Irish cabbage dishes

For more recipe ideas, visit www.vitasoy-usa.com.

Irish Soy-da Bread Makes 25 servings

- 4 cups flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 4 tablespoons margarine
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup caraway seeds
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 2 cups Original Flavored Vitasoy soymilk

1. Preheat oven to 425°. Sift together flour, sugar, salt, and baking soda into large mixing bowl.

2. Using a pastry cutter or two knives, work margarine into flour mixture until it resembles coarse meal, then stir in raisins and caraway seeds.

3. Add egg and soymilk and mix in with a wooden spoon until dough is too stiff to stir. Dust hands with flour, gently kneading until dough is in a ball. Add flour if dough is too sticky but do not over knead. Shape into a round loaf.

4. Transfer dough to lightly greased cast-iron skillet or a baking sheet. Score top of dough about 1/2" deep in an "X" shape using a knife. Bake until bread is golden, 35-45 minutes. Stick a straw in the center and when it comes out clean, it's done. Cool briefly and serve.

Baby girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schacht, St. Michaels, on February 7, and to Mr. and Mrs. Loran Backhaus, Kewaskum, on February 10. A baby was also born to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Theisen, Town of Farmington, on February 8.

Burglars entered the general store of Simon Strachota at St. Kilian on Tuesday night and escaped with a large amount of loot. In checking up the loss, Mr. Strachota found that among the missing articles were revolvers, cartridges, cigarettes, overalls, work and dress shirts for men, a shotgun, women's gloves and hose, sweaters for men and boys, a slot machine, dresses, shoes, flashlights and numerous other articles. The burglars entered the store some time after midnight thru a basement window.

At the regular meeting of the Kewaskum Chamber of Commerce held in the rooms above the former Farmer and Merchants State Bank, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President - John Marx; Vice-President - John Stellpflug; Secretary - Dr. L. Brauchle and Treasurer - L.P. Rosenheimer.

The United States House of Representatives on Monday approved the repeal of the 18th Amendment to the Constitution by a vote of 289 to 121. This action sends the prohibition issue back to the states. Thirty-six states must ratify to take the amendment out of the national charter and substitute for it a 21st.

Erich Meilahn, 30, living near Cascade, was killed late last week Friday when he was struck by the branch of the tree he had felled.

The following young people of Kewaskum enjoyed a sleighing party to West Bend on Sunday: Alma Schleif, Belinda Backhaus, Josephine Ockenfels, Elsie Guth, Minnie Perschbacher, Olga Trost, Arleigh Brandt, Selma Miller, Alma Heise, Frieda Bilgo, Edna Smith, John Urban, John Strachota, Erving Andrae, Edward Guth, Moritz Rosenheimer, Adolph Rosenheimer, Edwin Bruessel, Albert Beisbier, Math. Beisbier, John Bassil, Joe Bassil, Emerson Olwin and Harvey Brandt.

Otto Wesenberg, who sold his farm a few weeks ago, bought the Henry Wittenberg hotel property at Dundee last Tuesday for $6,000. Mr. Wesenberg will take possession of the property about March 1.

Joseph Miller and Son of Kewaskum lately took the contract to build a barn for Franz Botzkovis and also will build a new addition to the parsonage of the Wayne Reformed Church.

John Klug of New Fane had several teams hauling logs to George Braun's sawmill. He intends to build an addition to his barn.

Mrs. Charles Koch of Beechwood had gas fixtures put in her store building. The gas is generated from gasoline and makes a good light.

Robert Joost has purchased a farm two miles north of St. Michaels, formerly known as the Koelsch farm.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frohman Jr. of Boltonville congratulate them on the arrival of a baby daughter. The families of Charles Stautz and J. Laux, both of Boltonville, are rejoicing over the arrival of baby daughters. A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. August Stange of New Fane on Sunday. A baby girl was also born to Mr. and Mrs. William Pesch of New Fane last week.

Jacob T. Van Vechten, one of the first white settlers of the Town of Kewaskum, died at his home in Wauwatosa, where he has lived for 20 years, on February 15. He was born in New York in 1823 where he grew to manhood. In 1846 he caught the "Western Fever" and made his way from place to place until he came to Milwaukee. On August 17, he located a "Government Claim" on the southwest quarter of section seventeen in the present Town of Kewaskum. Later in the same fall, he, with a man named Samuel Brown, leaving the beaten path a little west of the present site of Young America, blazed and cut their way to the east shore of Cedar Lake, then northward to their claims, and came in with an ox team, the first to hew their way into the heart of the unbroken forest and build their cabins. The Indians village, two miles north of the claim, with its Chief, Kewaskum, whose name at Mr. Van Vechten's suggestion, the town now bears, was still in existence, and the red men for some years to come were frequent visitors at his door. In the summer and fall of 1850 he erected an 18 by 28 foot story and a half loghouse, a large dwelling for the woods in those days and it is still standing. On February 2, 1851, he there took his bride, Miss Elizabeth Bancroft of Menomonee Falls. Here they reared their family of eight children. In 1888 they retired to make their home in Wauwatosa.

You're a Bad Man, Mr. Gum!

By Andy Stanton

Harper Audio, $17.95 1 1/2 hrs., 2 CDs

Just about everybody knows someone who has a garden they love more than anything in the universe.

Maybe it's your grandma's garden or the one that belongs to the lady next door. Perhaps it's a garden in your city's park or maybe it's in your own backyard. Wherever it is, nobody is allowed to play in it!

Rotten old Mr. Gum keeps his garden looking good, too, but it's not because he loves it. In the new audiobook, "You're a Bad Man, Mr. Gum!" written and read by Andy Stanton, you'll hear why.

Mr. Gum was the nastiest man alive, and everyone in Lemonic Bibber knew it. He didn't like anything except scowling and his house was simply grimsters. But Mr. Gum had the most magnificent garden in the world.

And why, you ask? Because if the garden got even the least bit messy... well, I can't tell you what happened. But one day, a real whopper of a dog got into Mr. Gum's garden. The dog's name was Jake and he was enormous.

Jake rolled around in Mr. Gum's garden and before long, it was a total wreck. What's worse is that Jake left little "gifts" for Mr. Gum, and you know what kind of icky gifts I mean.

Mr. Gum was mad! He went inside his messy house, sat down on the pirate's treasure chest, and thought out a plan. He would get some meat from the butcher and he would poison that enormous dog!

But Mr. Gum spoke too loudly and a little girl playing by the hedge overheard his plan.

The little girl's name was Jammy Grammy Lammy F'Huppa F'Huppa Berlin Stereo Eo Eo Lebb C'Yepp Nermonica Le Straypek De Grespin De Crespin De Spespin De Vespine De Whoop De Loop De Brunkle Merry Christmas Lenoir.

If you're her friend, you can call her Polly.

Anyhow, Polly wasn't going to let Mr. Gum poison Jake. She liked Jake! As Polly was searching for help, the big dog ate some poisoned hearts that nasty old Mr. Gum had laid out in the garden.

Can Polly save the day and save Jake's life?

You might see "You're a Bad Man, Mr. Gum!" on the bookshelf of your local store or library, and you're going to be tempted to throw it in your cart.

Don't.

Pass on the paper version and get the audiobook. Hearing author Andy Stanton read his own work is absolutely the only way to enjoy this supremely silly story.

"You're a Bad Man, Mr. Gum!" is one of those tales that gets more and more outrageous with each track, adding hilarious details to a storyline that's already giggle-generating. The best part is that you won't mind listening to this audiobook because there are things in here that are slightly above the average child's understanding, which means adults will find plenty of good laughs, too.

If you've got a 6-to-12 year old with a goofy streak of humor, grab this audiobook. "You're a Bad Man, Mr. Gum!" is a very good story.

About 12 inches of snow fell last Friday afternoon and night blocking the roads so badly that none of the five rural carriers were able to get over their routes. Another heavy snowfall was experienced on Tuesday with a high wind which continued to drift the public highways so badly that team traffic was impaired the balance of the week.

A number of young men of the village have organized an orchestra and are holding rehearsals weekly. This organization is composed of a piano, violin, coronet, trombone and drums and will be known hereafter as the Kewaskum Quintette. They are now ready to take all jobs such as dances, parties, social gatherings, etc. at a very reasonable price. Address all communication to Joseph Schlosser, Manager.

Washington County sleep study patients can rest easier in Aurora's newly remodeled center

HARTFORD - Washington County patients who suffer from a sleep disorder can rest easier. The Sleep Disorders Treatment Center at Aurora Medical Center in Hartford is now more comfortable since its recent remodeling.

"Our new rooms were created with patients in mind. They are very homelike and include a private bathroom, ceiling fans and adjustable lighting," said Tammy Apel, lead sleep technician. "It's a very cozy environment because we want patients to feel comfortable even though they're undergoing a test. That's the best way to get an accurate result."

"A good night's sleep is a key component to good health, and if a patient is not getting refreshing, deep sleep, it's important to discover the reason," said Abbas Ali, M.D., medical director for the Sleep Disorder Center. Dr. Ali, a board certified sleep specialist and pulmonologist, sees patients at Aurora Health Center in Hartford and Aurora Health Center in West Bend.

"Diagnosing sleep disorders requires a comprehensive health history to help determine what might be disturbing or inhibiting a patient's ability to sleep well. Factors can include excess weight, use of caffeine, various medications or alcohol," Dr. Ali said.

Obstructive sleep apnea, restless leg syndrome or excessive sleepiness are the most common reasons people visit the Sleep Disorders Treatment Center, Apel said. "Frequent symptoms mentioned by patients are excessive daytime sleepiness, not being able to fall asleep, maintain sleep or get refreshing sleep."

According to a National Institutes of Health Web site, as many as forty million Americans are afflicted with more than 70 different types of sleep-related problems.

To diagnose a specific disorder, a sleep study can be performed during which a patient's brain and muscle activity, oxygen levels, heart rhythm and breathing are monitored electronically. The information is then evaluated by Dr. Ali, who works closely with patients' primary care physicians to treat the disorder.

The most severe and potentially dangerous disorder is obstructive sleep apnea, in which the patient actually stops breathing for a time, cutting off oxygen to the brain. This can cause headaches and even increase risk of stroke or heart attack.

Treatments for sleep apnea include using a continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) device. It acts as a "splint" for the patient's airway, keeping it open by pressured room air into a mask the patient wears while sleeping. Losing weight also can help address sleep apnea because obesity can make it more difficult to breathe during sleep.

Other treatment for sleep disorders may include changes in diet, sleep environment or medications.

Regardless of what the problem may be, the remodeled area helps ensure patients relax enough for the sleep study to be effective. "The Sleep Center was moved from the second floor to a more secluded first-floor area to increase privacy," Apel said. "Patients bring their own sleepwear, and they can watch TV until bedtime."

"The sleep technician who sees the patient when he or she arrives is the same person who will monitor them until they wake up," Apel said. "We don't change shifts during the night. It not only makes the patient feel more at ease, it adds continuity. And in the morning, patients are offered coffee or juice before they're on their way."

Aurora Health Care is a not-for-profit Wisconsin health care provider and a national leader in efforts to improve the quality of health care. Aurora offers care at sites in more than 90 communities throughout eastern Wisconsin.

Coalition to address health status of Washington County

Area business leaders have formed a coalition, the Healthy People Project of Washington County, to help address and improve the health status of county residents related to obesity, nutrition and physical inactivity.

The Healthy People Project of Washington County was formed in response to community feedback and research that indicates progress has not been significant related to obesity prevention efforts in Washington County, which includes nutritional and physical activity factors. Several studies have been conducted concerning community health, including the 2006 Quad Counties Public Health Consortium survey, Healthy People 2010 priorities, Washington County Community Health Improvement Plan (CHIP), Wisconsin 2010 goals and Wisconsin County Health Rankings.

In December 2006 the Kettle Moraine YMCA and Washington County Health Department co-sponsored a public forum related to obesity, Healthy People: That's the Bottom Line, attended by 100 representatives from area businesses. Since then, members from throughout the county have joined the coalition to address obesity issues in Washington County.

Key goals of the Healthy People Project of Washington County over the next several years will be to implement proven strategies to increase fruit and vegetable consumption and increase the amount of physical activity among Washington County residents. According to the 2006 Wisconsin County Health Rankings, only 61 percent of adults in Washington County meet the recommended amount of two fruit servings per day, 23 percent of adults meet the recommendations of three vegetable servings per day, and 36 percent of adults meet the recommended amount of physical activity, defined as 30 minutes per day, five days a week.

The link between proper nutrition/exercise and disease prevention is strong. Thirty-three percent of all deaths in the US were caused by three modifiable behaviors: smoking, physical inactivity and poor eating habits. Chronic conditions that stem from these behaviors, such as type 2 diabetes, hypertension and obesity can be preventable. In Washington County, the leading causes of death are heart disease, cancer and diabetes. According to the Wisconsin Department of Health and Family Services these diseases accounted for almost 600 deaths in Washington County in 2005. Coronary heart disease alone accounted for more than $31 million in 2005.

Levels of obesity have been increasing in Wisconsin, and nationwide, over the past twenty years. According to the Centers for Disease Control, in 1990 the prevalence of adult obesity in Wisconsin was between 10-14 percent. By 2006, that percentage had increased substantially, to 25-29 percent. For children and adolescents, the prevalence of overweight nationally is also increasing, at 13.9% for ages two to five, 18.8% for ages six to 11, and 17.4% for ages 12 to 19.

Members of the Healthy People Project of Washington County include John Duwell, West Bend Mutual Insurance Company; Chad Feltz, West Bend Mutual Insurance Company; Jennifer Fleischman, SynergyHealth West Bend Clinic; Mike Hermann, Hartford Park, Recreation and Forestry Department; Kristen Hosking, Aging and Disability Resource Center of Washington County; Aaron Schmidt, Kettle Moraine YMCA; Kristi Lawrence, West Bend Joint School District #1; Jackie Maynard, West Bend Park, Recreation and Forestry Department; Sharon Reichert, Regal Ware Inc.; Sara Siwy, Community Memorial Hospital; Jennifer Tarantino, Aurora Health Care; Renee Vertin, UW-Extension Nutrition; and Shari Winter, Washington County Health Department.

Gov. Doyle commends UW colleges and extensions for increasing degree opportunities

Governor Jim Doyle recently praised the University of Wisconsin Colleges and University of Wisconsin-Extension for the pivotal role they are playing in preparing Wisconsin residents of all ages to participate in and benefit from the global economy. UW-Fond du Lac is a campus of the UW Colleges.

The governor joined UW System President Kevin Reilly and UW Colleges and UW-Extension Chancellor David Wilson at UW-Fox Valley in Menasha to recognize UW Colleges' and UW-Extension's efforts to increase the number of college graduates in the state and to announce the next steps in the Adult Student Initiative (ASI).

The goal of ASI, which will receive $2.5 million in state funding on July 1, is to build on the current work of the UW Colleges and UW-Extension to further connect adult learners to UW associate and baccalaureate degrees.

At UW-Fond du Lac, there are numerous opportunities for adults to start, continue or complete a degree including:

- evening classes
- accelerated courses that can be completed in less than 16 weeks, enabling busy adults to complete coursework and degrees more quickly

- bachelor's degree completion programs in Organizational Administration, Information Resources, Communications, General Studies and more

"This Adult Student Initiative has the potential to reach students that otherwise do not have access to a UW education, expanding employment opportunities in our region," said UW-Fond du Lac Dean Daniel Blankenship. "It is an initiative we are proud to be a part of as we have the opportunity to change people's lives for the better and help launch, what is for them, the experience of a lifetime."

The new funds for the ASI will enable UW Colleges and UW-Extension to make even more bachelor's degrees available online, support giving credit for prior learning activities, create more accelerated courses online, and provide even more services to help students succeed.

"We thank the governor and the legislature for their trust in UW Colleges and UW-Extension as we strive to provide maximum access to educational opportunities," Chancellor Wilson said. "Looking towards the future, we intend to reach into every nook and cranny of the state to ensure all Wisconsin residents have the chance to go to college and get a degree no matter what their life circumstances are."

UW Colleges and UW-Extension have a history of providing access and support to students of all ages and from all backgrounds. Through the UW-Fond du Lac campus, the foundation of the bachelor's degree is provided through the associate degree in arts and science. The associate degree is also offered online.

UW-Extension is increasing access to degrees by providing incentives and instructional technology assistance for the UW four-year campuses to put upper-division courses online. This enables adults to continue or complete work on their bachelor's degrees where they live and work. Bachelor's degrees that UW-Extension is helping to develop online now include:

- Bachelor's degree in Organizational Administration (UW-Oshkosh degree)

- Bachelor's in Criminal Justice (UW-Platteville degree)

- Bachelor's in Information Systems and Project Management (UW-Parkside degree)

- Bachelor's in Human Services (UW-Oshkosh degree)

- Bachelor's in Fire Science & Emergency Response Management (UW-Oshkosh degree)

- Bachelor's in Community Education with an emphasis in Childcare (UW-Milwaukee degree)

UW Extension has also developed a one-stop website called UWin where anyone can contact an advisor to find out the most convenient way to start, continue or complete a degree visit the UWin Web site at <https://uwin.wisconsin.edu> or call toll-free, (866) 505-UWIN.

At UW-Fond du Lac, Jackie Morgan is the advisor dedicated to working with potential and current adult students to find the most efficient and effective ways to attain their University of Wisconsin degree credentials. To learn more about opportunities for starting, continuing, or completing an associate or bachelor's degree at UW-Fond du Lac contact Morgan at (920) 929-3606.

Through the Wisconsin Covenant, new opportunities are available for more young people to get a college education. With the groundbreaking work of the UW Colleges and UW-Extension, more opportunities are being created for people of all ages, no matter where they live and work, to get the University of Wisconsin education that can improve lives, communities and Wisconsin's competitive advantage in the global economy.

World Cheese Contest smashes entry record with 1,935 entries

The Big Cheese: 19 nations compete for best in the world

MADISON - Cheesemakers and buttermakers worldwide have entered a record 1,935 entries in the world's premiere cheese and butter competition, all with the hopes of being named the next Big Cheese.

The World Championship Cheese Contest, held in even-numbered years since 1958, starts March 11 in Madison, Wis., with entries from 19 nations around the globe. An international panel of cheese evaluation experts will work three days to select medalists in 79 cheese and butter classes. The event is hosted by the non-profit Wisconsin Cheese Makers Association.

"We're thrilled with the strong growth of the World Championship Cheese Contest and pleased to see entries from more nations than ever before," said John Umhoefer, executive director of the Wisconsin Cheese Makers Association. "The World Championship Cheese Contest is the Olympics of the world cheese and butter community. No other competition has the breadth and depth of international participation."

Cheesemakers and buttermakers from Austria, Australia, Canada, Chili, Denmark, England, France, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, New Zealand, Portugal, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Ukraine, and 30 U.S. states will send entries to Wisconsin by March 5 for the competition.

The Wisconsin Cheese Makers Association has added several expert judges and specialists in many varieties to evaluate the growing number of entries. This year, 22 experts from 11 nations will evaluate cheeses and butters in multiple classes. Two U.S. marketing experts will judge product packaging and six specialist judges from the U.S. will tackle selected classes.

"The Contest has added experts to reduce the total samples each judging team will evaluate," said Robert Aschebrock, chief judge for the event. "Entrants can expect an in-depth and thorough analysis of entries."

Stand-out classes include four Cheddar classes each topping 50 entries, Smear Ripened Soft and Semi-soft Cheeses with 64 entries; the Open Class for Hard Cheeses with 51 entries and the Reduced-fat Cheese class with 58 entries.

The World Championship Cheese Contest is a technical evaluation of entries, using an objective measure of cheese defects to select the products in each class that best exemplify perfection for a cheese variety. The highest scoring cheeses and butters earn a gold medal, with silver and bronze medals awarded to second and third place finishers in each class.

On Thursday morning, March 13, the entire international team of expert judges will convene for the Championship Round of judging. The 72 gold medal cheeses from cow, goat and sheep milk classes will be evaluated again and the highest scoring cheeses named World Champion and First and Second Runners-Up.

The Championship Round will be broadcast as a live, video-streamed program on the web from 8 a.m. to Noon Central Standard Time. In addition, contest result and digital images will be posted throughout the competition. Visit www.wischeesemakersassn.org for complete contest coverage.

Winners from around the globe will travel to Madison April 22-24 during the International Cheese Technology Exposition to receive their awards. During the Expo, gold medal cheeses are auctioned to support the contest, scholarship and the WCMA Member Education Initiative. The Expo concludes April 24 with a gala awards banquet for the winning manufacturers.

In 2006, an Emmental wheel produced by Christian Wuthrich in the town of Ruderswil, Switzerland was named World Champion Cheese out of 1,795 entries.

Samuelson Sez Candidates, get your NAFTA facts straight

It is certainly no surprise to me that agriculture gets little, if any, mention in any of the presidential debates leading up to the 2008 election. That has been the case now for several elections as campaign advisors tell the candidates that farmers and ranchers make up only 2% of the population; forgetting that agriculture provides a living for about 21% of the work-force in this country. Be that as it may, I think it is short-sighted on their part, but that is the reality of life.

Now, though, the Democratic candidates are indirectly bringing agriculture into the campaign with their criticism of trade agreements, particularly NAFTA, the North American Free Trade Agreement that was put into place January 1st, 1994 with the strong support of President Bill Clinton. The candidates are attacking each other for supporting NAFTA and suggesting the U.S. should withdraw from the agreement, saying it has been a bad deal for America and blaming it for the outsourcing of millions of U.S. jobs. Well, I disagree. It has been a very good deal for America's agricultural community, and for the nation as a whole and I suggest the candidates look at the facts.

From 1993 to 2005, trade among the NAFTA nations, that's Canada, the United States and Mexico, climbed 173%. Each day, the NAFTA countries conduct nearly 2.2-billion dollars worth of tri-lateral trade. U.S. merchandise exports to NAFTA partners grew more rapidly, at 133%, than our exports to the rest of the world, at 77%. For agriculture, Canada and Mexico alone account for 55% of the increase in U.S. agricultural exports to the world since NAFTA began in 1993 and currently, Canada is our No. 1 agricultural customer and Mexico ranks No. 2.

That doesn't look like a bad trade agreement to me. In any trade agreement, some segments of industry and agriculture are hurt by foreign competition, but that is part of trade. As my friend, Dean Kleckner says "If it doesn't go both ways, it's not trade."

As to the candidate's argument that NAFTA is the cause of out-sourcing of American jobs, again I disagree. I think out-sourcing began in the '70's when Japan started exporting cars and electronics to the United States...and we bought them. That meant fewer American-made cars and TV sets were sold and those industries lost jobs to Japanese workers. Then U.S. companies, responding to shareholder demands for higher returns, moved factories to countries with cheaper labor to improve their profit picture.

I maintain that NAFTA has been good for the U.S. and its trading partners and any suggestion to opt out of the agreement is a bad idea!

My thoughts on Samuelson Sez.

Badger football coach to speak at PDPW annual business conference

FOND DU LAC - Professional Dairy Producers of Wisconsin (PDPW) and the PDPW Education Foundation is proud to announce a very special keynote speaker at the PDPW Annual Business Conference.

Badger football coach Bret Bielema will be the highlight during the Tuesday evening banquet, where he will share his story and the details on building the picture of success. Bielema will showcase the tools that help players achieve on the field and off the field - and the tools that help make him only one of three men in Big 10 history to have guided their teams to as many as 21 wins in their first two seasons as Big 10 head coaches.

The PDPW Annual Business Conference will be held March 11-12 in the Exhibition Hall at the Alliant Energy Center in Madison, Wis. Dairy producers will "Solve the Profit Puzzle," hearing from many experts, including Coach Bielema, American hero Captain Scott O'Grady, multiple producer panels, and many other world-renowned experts.

In addition to the best educational sessions available, other fun-filled activities include the UW Marching Band and auctions that will support the PDPW Education Foundation, to create a legacy of learning for the dairy industry.

Along with never-before-seen general sessions and the opportunity to spend time with industry's preferred suppliers in the Hall of Ideas, attendees will also find value in the many specialty sessions featuring the latest information and profit solutions. The conference is stacked with a tremendous line-up of experts that you can't find anywhere else.

Register for the Annual Business Conference and other PDPW programs online at www.pdpw.org or by calling 800-947-7379. PDPW educational programs, such as the Annual Business Conference, are open to anyone involved with the dairy industry.

Professional Dairy Producers of Wisconsin is a dairy-producer founded organization that provides educational programs and services to fellow dairy producers. PDPW's mission is "to share ideas, solutions, resources, and experiences that help dairy producers succeed."

Stressed - Wisconsin winter selectively harsh on deer

This lone deer with deep snow high on the legs was caught on camera near Stevens Point. 21 deer "yarded up" were counted two weeks before in an adjacent area of thick conifers

Even on snowshoes, moving through the deep snow just west of Stevens Point in search of deer congregated in thick conifers was difficult. Steve Henske broke the trail ahead through accumulated snow that he had literally measured at more than 24 inches on the ground. His snowshoes sunk through about half of that ground snow, making it a real workout for two middle-aged Badgers but still much easier to navigate than had we attempted the trek without our strap-on boot sleds.

Not far into the open forest, a lone deer stood watching us closely with two feet of snow covering most of its legs. Although still 100 yards distant, the deer appeared small and mostly likely last year's fawn. With our approach, the animal moved off through hardwoods on one of many worn trails under the canopy of branches that has made snow navigation at least easier for the local herd.

Two weeks before this trip on the eve of a new March and hopefully with the end of a very harsh winter over much of Wisconsin in sight, Henske had counted 21 deer "yarded up" in this same area. Deer yard, or congregate together as a survival mechanism during harsh winters. And certainly, the winter of 2008 qualifies as at least selectively harsh, bringing the hammer down on some regions harder than others.

On Sunday, March 2, www.wunderground.com and local Wisconsin newspapers on-line stated that 62 inches of snow had fallen in the Stevens Point area, the hub of Wisconsin. 89.8 inches had fallen in the Madison area reflective of the snowfall over much of central and southern Wisconsin, and just 50 inches in Superior, reflective of much of northern Wisconsin. Freezing rain that often makes accessing food even more difficult on ground-feeding wildlife and more snow was again in the forecast Monday for much of Wisconsin.

"Pockets" of Wisconsin, and the deer herds within those areas, can be either hit hard or largely escape the brunt of winter's wrath even when located in close proximity. Just 15 miles from our Stevens Point journey, Science Teacher Eric Simkins of the Merrill School District had measured 30 inches of snow on the ground at Amherst and had reported that a fawn apparently losing the survival battle with winter was seen struggling on his family's approximate 40 acre property in eastern Portage County. A county sheriff was contacted, who walked up and dispatched the animal with his firearm.

"I counted all those deer right in this area in the middle of the day two weeks ago," Henske said. "Since the deer began yarding up, some people are starting to feed the herd. It's illegal but they still do it. I think that's what's happening here because these trails are now leading from where the deer were through the snow toward a small residential area in that direction. The deer that was struggling on the Simpkins property was very small and apparently was a fawn dropped late last year."

Numerous websites including several authored by wildlife biologists from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (google "harsh winters" effects on the Wisconsin deer herd") address topics including severe winters, deer yarding, disease and starvation statistics. Read, as just one example of hundreds of articles, where an estimated 310,000 yarded whitetails died in Michigan's Upper Peninsula (UP) alone during the severe winters of 1995-96 and 1996-97. Small deer or fawns, according to the experts, are the first to suffer high mortality rates in the grip of any harsh winter.

According to a website article reprinted on the Quality Deer Management Association (QDM) site by retired Wildlife Biologist and Research Editor for Wisconsin-based Deer & Deer Hunting magazine John J. Ozoga, Cornell University Scientist Dr. Aaron Moen's research showed that fawns entering the winter at below average weights have certain laws operating against their chances of survival. Moen's calculations show that more (deer body) heat is lost by convection or air movement from a square meter of surface of a small deer than from a square meter of surface of a large deer.

The critical body weight of fawns, writes Ozoga in the article that encourages the harvesting of fawns by hunters as a sound management practice, is between 77 and 88 pounds. Animals below this range, he states, lose considerably more body heat and are less likely to survive extended periods of cold weather.

Friday, Steve Henske and I walked across lowland marsh grass to a large stand of extremely dense conifers. It was in the conifers that Henske has in the recent past been able to walk quietly near numbers of deer yarded and bedding to conserve energy. On this day, trails led from the conifers toward nearby houses.

"Whitetails yard during extreme periods of harsh winter weather," Henske stressed. "Yarding is a survival mechanism. Even if these low areas of pines may not have sufficient nutrition, the yarded deer browse and burn fewer calories because it might be three or four degrees warmer in these areas than the more open areas around here."

Finding no deer in the conifers but evidence that they had been here, we followed heavy trails one-quarter mile toward the residence. Very near those backyards of houses where we suspected residents were feeding, the ears and heads of bedded deer began to take shape in thick underbrush as we approached. Deer feeding is prohibited in large part because diseases, most notably Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) are known to spread via saliva in particular when deer are congregated at feeding sites.

Not wanting to kick the deer out by our human intrusion to expend even more energy as the most critical final weeks of winter loom on the horizon, I took photos with a telephoto lens with the full attention of the bedded animals on me. Then Henske and I backed out and backtracked to our truck. Ozoga's words stayed with me.

"The quality of winter habitat and severity of winter weather are the most important factors regulating deer populations across, much of the northern portions of the whitetail range," he wrote. "Young of year-still referred to as fawns in winter are the pawns squandered in nature's wicked game of winter survival."

Only the beginning for Indian wrestlers

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

A week after the WIAA State Wrestling Tournament, Kewaskum High coach Dennis Aupperle is still somewhat amazed how well his five athletes did in the event, considering three of them are freshmen and sophomores and none of them had previous state experience.

Two fifth places and one sixth is not bad, and many are betting the five, Jared Koffke, Bo Seibel, Cody Seibel, Matt Buker and P.J. Krueger, will dedicate themselves so they will move higher up the victory stand in 2009.

"Overall, I think everyone had an excellent experience for being there for the first time," Aupperle said over the weekend when his attentions had turned toward his son Derek competing in the Kids Tournament in Chilton on Saturday.

Jared and Bo lost their matches," the successful coach went on, referring to the fact both went 0-2. Koffke, at 103 pounds, was defeated by Mack Drees of Peshtigo 15-2 and Tyler Van Rite of Denmark 16-2 in his two matches to end the season at 29-11.

The younger of the two Seibels, competing at 125, lost to Andy Mullins of Mosinee 7-3 and then Brad Vankauwenber of Oconto Falls by a score of 3-0 to end his tournament. Mullins is a junior and Vankauwenberg a senior.

Still there are plenty of Division 2 wrestlers who would love to have the season Seibel had, ending with a 31-13 mark.

"For both being freshmen, they had impressive years," Aupperle said, adding, "I think Jacob Turowski was the last freshman we had at state."

Other teams are not going to enjoy facing Kewaskum's upper weights next season, looking at the fact Cody Seibel and Krueger finished fifth in state and Buker a somewhat surprising and very encouraging sixth.

"Cody Seibel had some good kids in his bracket and wrestled a great tournament," Aupperle said. "He lost a good match to the eventual champ in the semis but didn't back down."

Seibel opened with a convincing 11-6 decision over Somerset's Tony Martin, and then ran into Grant Miller of Dodgeville, the eventual champion. He lost that match 11-4.

While chances of winning the title were gone, Seibel still had his sights set on placing, and he did that with a pin in 1:16 over Ben Buechel of Oconto.

For the season, Seibel came away with 37 wins and nine losses.

"Matt Buker was a pleasant surprise. I don't think it has sunk in to him yet," Aupperle said. "He had a great ending to his season. With a lot of hard work, he can improve on that for next year."

Buker had to wrestle five times within the three days of the tournament, starting with an 8-6 win over Nick Bauer of Mosinee in the opening round of Thursday.

Next Buker lost to John Schoen of Neilsville 15-3, but he bounced back to beat a formidable Jacob Stollenwerk (who he beat in the second round of the sectionals) of East Troy 7-4.

Pewaukee's Josh Mohr knocked Buker out of a chance to take third or fourth, beating him 13-5, and then he lost a decision of River Valley's Nathan Kaul 8-2 in the battle for fifth place.

"PJ lost in the semis to (Trevor) Spude (Luxemburg-Casco, who he beat earlier at the (Marty) Loy (Tournament). He couldn't get anything going. Spude ended up losing to (Billy) Mayer (Campbellsport) 3-1," Aupperle said.

Because he finished second in the sectionals, Krueger also had to wrestle on Thursday, and he opened with a pin in 3:01 over Cully Butterfield of Spooner.

Krueger then out pointed Taylor Riek of River Valley 5-2 before being turned back by Spude 4-1 in the semis.

On the comeback trail, Krueger ran into Cody Endres of Lodi, who captured the Division 2 team title over the past weekend, and he lost this match 3-1.

In the battle for fifth and sixth, the 215-pound KHS junior had to wrestle Riek again, and this time beat him 7-2.

"The whole group of kids worked hard all year to get here, and I think they really enjoyed it," Aupperle said. "I know I did. They were all a very fun, hard-working group of kids."

A season wrap-up will follow after the annual team banquet.

KML ends lady Indians' much improved season

By Nathan Kenworthy
Statesman Correspondent

The Kewaskum Indians girl's basketball team ended its season Tuesday, February 26 at Kettle Moraine Lutheran facing the Chargers. KML may be more known for its fantastic volleyball team than its basketball, but that is not to say that they do not have a very good basketball team and some great athletes. Unfortunately, the Indians team found that out in a 66-35 loss.

The Indians entered the game with four wins while KML had a record of 16-4. The girls from Kewaskum were looking to become the first team to win a playoff game this century. To say that the Indians were the underdog would be an understatement, but Kewaskum was not going to give away the game.

The Indians came out strong, but KML had too much depth on their roster. Kewaskum trailed 20-7 after the first quarter. The second and third quarters were played even, despite the Indians' best efforts to make up the deficit. Entering the fourth quarter, Kewaskum trailed KML, the team that won the Lakeland Conference title, 30-46.

KML was led by Jessica Steele and Caitlyn Rusch with 17 and 10 points, respectively. KML did lose its next game, against the Indians' Eastern Wisconsin Conference foe, Sheboygan Falls.

The Indians were led by Sophomore Anna Butler with eight points, who had a terrific season and led the Indians in scoring with an unofficial average of 9.2 ppg. Butler should be named to an all-conference team in the upcoming weeks. sophomore Jenna Buker scored seven points. Continuing the sophomore trend is Elissa Miller, the team's second leading scorer with an average of 6.3 ppg, who scored 6 in the game. Junior Shaylah Haire, sophomore Haley Rauch and junior Jennie Wicklund all added four points. Rounding out the scoring was junior Jess Liniewski with two points and junior Nichole Kison with one point.

KIWC wrestlers come home with nine firsts from West Bend

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Members of the Kewaskum Indians Wrestling Club were happy to see the West Bend Tournament on the schedule for the final Sunday of February.

Since many know members of the Wildcat Club or were in it themselves before KIWC started, the young Indians like competing in that event.

Their good efforts certainly showed. Out of 40 KIWC representatives, 22 finished either first or second, including nine champions. Kewaskum notched a total of 33 pins and finished fourth overall in the team competition.

Winners included: from the seventh and eighth grade — Michael Bier, Teddy Wollner and Joey Wollner; 5-6th — Cody Muckerheide and Joey Seitz; 3-4 — Daniel "D-Man" Seitz and Brandon Wade; and Kindergarten-2nd — Nathan Heberer and David Barrett.

Daniel Seitz pinned all three of his opponents, while Jacob Heberer, who was in a five-man bracket, had three pins to wind up second.

Other second place finishers included: 7-8 — Andrew Doll and Lance Pinchard; 5-6 — Kurt Luedtke and Max Maertz; 3-4 — Zachary Heberer, Trevor Kirst, and Alex Phillips; and Kyle Bath, Eric Bauer, Adam Bruss, Max DesRosier and Caleb Reif.

Those finishing third were: 5-6 — Lucas-Jon Pinchard, Travis Trapp, Derek Voight, 3-4 — Michael Boettcher, Trevor Cross; and K-2 Kannon Muckerheide, Jadon Rhoads, Aric Muckerheide.

Also on Feb. 24, Zach Smith competed in a tournament at Milton. He was in an eight-man bracket and won three of his four matches to take second place.
