STATE CHAMPIONS!

Kufahl is new Village Trustee

Remaining applicants given seat on plan commission

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Publisher

KEWASKUM- Trustees chose their newest member Monday evening, June 2. A choice of three candidates left President Andy Pesch being able to also fill two vacancies on the village's Plan Commission.

Retired Washington County Highway worker Norman Kufahl, a relatively new village resident will assume his seat that the Monday, June 16 meeting. In his letter of interest he stated he and his wife have lived in the village two and a half years.

He is a former town of Trenton Plan Commission member where he served for 20 years. He also represented that township on the Washington County Smart Growth Committee.

Pesch will appoint the other interested individuals to the Plan Commission at the June 16 meeting. Those individuals are Jim Hovland and Gina Raether.

Hovland and Raether will fulfil vacancies after the resignations of Chad Cook and James Wright.

At their May 19 meeting Trustees were presented with an idea to allow non-resident business owners to serve on the commission. The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce presented two business owners interested in serving.

Village code currently states that seven make up the commission. This is comprised of the village president, a trustee and five citizen members. Code does not stipulate that they are required to live in the village.

Trustee Derek Peterson championed the idea before Trustees at the visioning workshop in March. He believed that business owners are stakeholders in the village and their ideas should be considered.

After solid year, KHS golfer Ethan Geidel struggles in state test

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Sports Correspondent

MADISON- Kewaskum High's Ethan Geidel struggled with his driver and had to settle with an 82 in Monday's opening round of the WIAA Division 2 State Golf Tournament. Struggles continued on Tuesday for the junior who ultimately ended his state run in a tie for 38th place.

On Monday Geidel started out on the back nine on the University Ridge Golf Course in Madison and had troubles with the first three holes before finding his game and posting birdies on three straight holes toward an eventual 43.

On the front nine, the big junior settled down with some good play and was 1-under par with two holes to go before finding trouble after hooking his tee shots. He ended up with a 39 for the 82.

Ethan Geidel

Leading the field in Division 2 that day was Eric Christensen, who fired nines of 34 and 35 for a fine 3-under-par 69.

Xavier lead in the team standings but only by one stroke over Madison Edgewood, 311 to 312. In third place was defending champion Notre Dame, which posted a 313.

The tournament concluded with 18 holes on Tuesday where Geidel started out well, firing a 42 on the front nine, but from there his score ballooned to a 48 for a total of 90.

For the two days, Geidel had a 172 total, which put him in a tie for 38th place in the field of 52 Division 2 players.

June's Waiting Child

Adoption Resources of Wisconsin

Albert

Date of Birth: 10/23/1995

Albert is a soft-spoken, talented, young man. He is proud of his athletic achievements and abilities. He has a passion for playing basketball, wrestling, and soccer. He is currently in the 6th grade and notably performs well academically, although his struggles to remain focused and complete assignments, sometimes impedes his ability to excel academically.

Albert is eagerly awaiting a special family and forever home where he can feel safe, comfortable, accepted, and loved. He would prefer a family that enjoys being active outdoors and in sports as he prides himself on being athletic. Albert expresses a love of pets and would not mind being part of a family with pets. He also expressed a preference to become part of a smaller family, in which he would be an only child or have one other sibling. However, he is open to families with more children. Albert does have a significant bond with his maternal grandmother and visits with her on occasion. It would be important for any potential family to consider allowing continued contact between Albert and his birth family as well as other identified positive supports through forms of letter writing, periodic phone calls, or potential visits.

For more information about Albert, or other children waiting for adoptive homes, call Adoption Resources of Wisconsin, 800/762-8063, or visit the website at www.wiadopt.org.

Kohlsville Kruisers to celebrate 35th anniversary

KEWASKUM- Kohlsville Kruisers Snowmobile Club will celebrate their 35th Anniversary with the purchase of a Tucker Sno-Cat Groomer.

In an effort to continuously improve the trails for the many snowmobilers in Northern Washington County, the Kohlsville Kruisers Snowmobile Club has approved the purchase of an almost new Tucker Sno-Cat groomer. As you may imagine, this upgrade is a substantial investment for their non-profit organization. A celebratory event will be held October 25th 2008 to recognize 35 years and the clubs' new purchase. This event will act as a fundraising opportunity to generate revenue for this purchase.

To help kick off their 35th Anniversary year they are incorporating an all Cash Raffle. Tickets are $20 each with a maximum of 600 tickets sold. Grand Prize is $2000 with 30 additional cash prizes which brings the odds of winning to 1 in 20. Please call Heather Oelhafen 262-626-4274 or Tracy Herman at 262-629-1649 to get your tickets. Drawing will be held the evening of October 25.

With the purchase of the 1998 Tucker Sno-Cat from Track, Inc. in Minnesota, they are giving the opportunity for area businesses to get involved and show their support for the club. They are soliciting businesses to buy a space on their "Drag Advertising Sign" that will be displayed on their groomer. Businesses will be given the opportunity to purchase an approximate 12" x 12" block ad that will display their business logo. Please contact Tim Herman at 262-629-1649 by June 30, 2008 to sign up.

Plan to show your support on Saturday, October 25th at Jug's Hitching Post - the public is encouraged to attend the presentation at 7 pm with music from Copper Box - www.copperboxsite.com. Regular door admission starts at 8 pm. If you are a past member of the club or landowner and would like to participate or share any information to be used in their presentation, please contact Julie Steger at 262-629-1127. Members and Landowners will receive information in the mail - Your support is crucial and important, mark your calendars, we hope to see you there.

Aurora QuickCare provides fast, convenient treatment for bug bites

The great outdoors can provide plenty of opportunities for summer fun like sports and barbecues, but when insects show up, they can spoil the fun by causing painful bites.

That's why there's Aurora QuickCare™. It's an option for people with non-emergency medical conditions who might otherwise seek more costly emergency or urgent care.

"Aurora QuickCare is a great alternative to going to the emergency room for non-emergency care," said Janet Teske, nurse practitioner and manager of Aurora QuickCare. "Bug bites and stings can be treated quickly and efficiently. However, if there is any chance your child could have an allergic reaction to a sting, it's best to go directly to the emergency room."

QuickCare sites are staffed by health care providers who offer a wide range of services, including diagnosing illness and prescribing medications. As a part of Aurora Health Care, they are supported by Aurora's extensive network of physicians and facilities.

Aurora QuickCare offers tests to quickly diagnose common minor ailments, and services range from $49-$69. Most insurance plans accepted with card presented at the visit.

Ailments treated/services provided include:
Severe sore throat

Another May, another Boltonville Rain Days

The Farmington 4-H Club centered their float around helping the environment during the Boltonville Fire Department's parade on Sunday, May 25.

Submitted by Dennis Fechter

In 1969, as one of the Boltonville Fire Department's annual picnic planning committee, Ken Garbisch, Ron Petermann and myself, met around Ron's kitchen table to plan the annual picnic. We had been through eight straight years of being rained out.

We jokingly suggested it could be called "Rain Days." We said, "why not?" The Milwaukee TV stations as well as local media picked up on it and the 1969 "Rain Days" was a tremendous success without any rain.

Since then I have had the honor of announcing the parade from the judge's stand. This year's parade was a huge success. There were 12 neighboring fire departments present with marching units and fire trucks. The Kewaskum Girl Scouts marched. The Farmington 4-H, Kettle Country 4-H, Boltonville Sportsman's Club, Crystal Lake Sportsman Club and others had floats.

Music for the parade was furnished by Carol and the Key Notes, the Goodtyme Dutchmen and Howie Schneider on the organ. Campbellsport High School's 2007 state champion dancing troupe added a beautiful touch to the parade. Newburg's Vietnam unit was the color guard for the parade. They brought the prototype of their Veteran's Memorial proposed for the east entrance of Newburg.

The Gerlach cousins from Beechwood drove their three beautifully restored 1950's Farmall tractors.

Katie Lila of Wisconsin Rapids led her two Labrador dogs in the parade.

State Senator Glenn Grothman and Assemblyman Daniel LeMahieu walked the entire parade route meeting their constituents.

Dean Schmidt of Campbellsport displayed his rare cab-over engine 1941 Ford stake truck as well as his 1930 model A Ford coupe.

Jody and Mike Schulz brought their white horse-drawn Central Park type carriage. The Mitch Wendorf family and the Bonnie Kreif family brought their llamas to add an additional touch to the parade.

Kathy Tuttle displayed six of her prize-winning Australian Shepherd dogs.

The one-hour parade ended

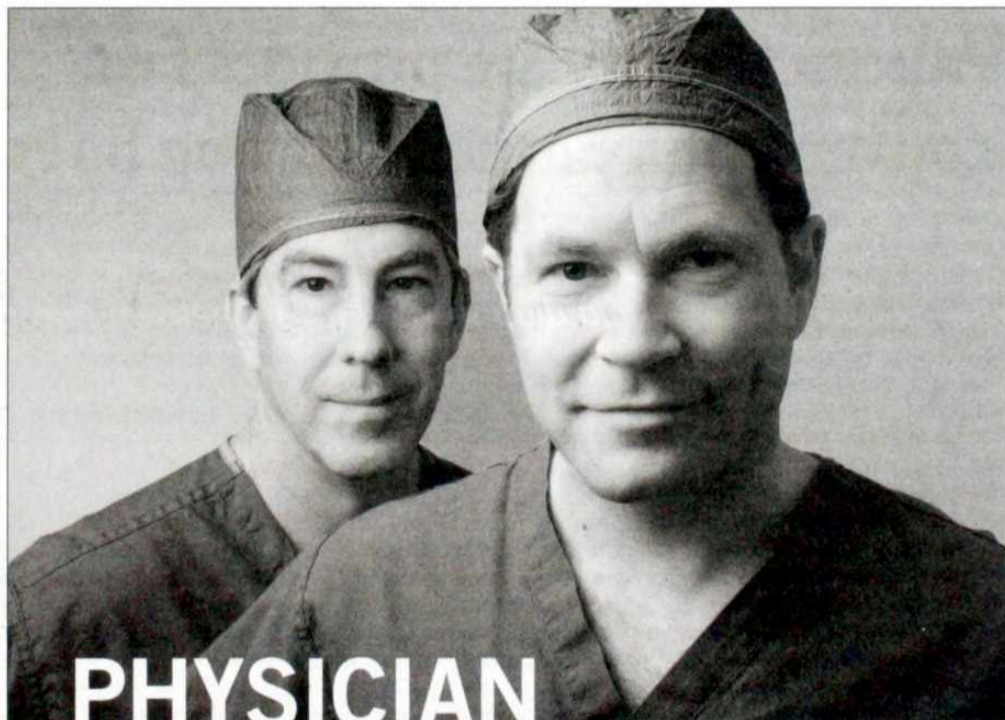

Village of Kewaskum Clerk Stephanie Justmann, gives the oath of office to Norman Kufahl who will fulfill the remainder of Andy Pesch's vacant trustee seat. Kufahl will face election in April of 2009. "My outstanding treatment began with a diagnosis by my hometown Aurora doctor."

Donna Koch, Hartford resident and internal medicine patient. Photographed at Holy Hill.

Outstanding health care can also be convenient. Just ask Donna Koch, a Washington County resident for more than 45 years. During a routine physical, her Aurora Health Center physician heard something odd when listening to her heart, and urged Donna to have further tests. The tests uncovered three separate, life-threatening aneurysms that surgeons were able to repair, thanks to her physician's thoroughness. She's glad that her doctor was so attentive, and that the surgical expertise she needed was just minutes away with Aurora Health Care.

Convenient, coordinated care. Specialized medicine. That's why Donna chose Aurora Health Care.

Here are just a few of the reasons why you should choose Aurora, too:

- For your convenience, our health centers are located nearly 15 minutes from where you live or work.
- Our physicians coordinate your hospital care with Aurora Medical Center in Hartford to provide you with leading diagnostic, surgical and treatment services.
- Our patients have access to Aurora St. Luke's Medical Center, offering breakthrough treatments, not available anywhere else in the state, in the areas of heart, cancer and neurological care.

KEWASKUM - For those of any age who are sick or injured there is the new Aurora Health Care clinic off of Fond du Lac Avenue that can treat you.

"We see acute illnesses like regular respiratory illnesses to managing chronic illnesses, like thyroid problems, blood pressure problems and diabetes," said physician assistant of the clinic Amy Haug. "We can also see injuries like broken bone or lacerations."

Haug works full-time at the clinic alongside Paula Carlton, a nurse practitioner, who is there only in the afternoons. Haug is originally from West Bend and is a graduate of UW-Madison. She worked in a family practice office in Minnesota before she came back to the area to work at this clinic.

The clinic is divided into two. Each side has two exam rooms and one treatment room. They also have an on-site lab and radiology.

Between Haug and Carlton, they see from 10 to 20 people per day from infants to the elderly.

"We certainly give exceptional health care," Haug said. "We hopefully can see you when you need it and what you want to be seen for."

Haug said their best attribute is how timely their care is. Not only do they treat people in the office quickly, but also when it fits in the patients' schedule.

The Kewaskum clinic is open during the week Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. If a patient needs to be treated on the weekend, the Aurora West Bend Clinic is less than seven miles away. The West Bend Clinic is open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the weekends.

To schedule an appointment at the Kewaskum Aurora Clinic call (262) 626-2372.

PEOPLE

A tribute to Micah Prantle

Wheelin' Wizards have emotional season

The Milwaukee Wheelin' Wizards youth wheelchair basketball team recently wrapped up the 2007-2008 basketball season. The kids learned more about life, death, family and how fragile our brief existence on earth is, rather than basketball this season.

Last fall, Micah Prantle, 12, and his family took a vacation to Seattle, Washington, just before school was to start. Micah, who was born with spina bifida, was the picture of health and happiness.

He was looking forward to school starting and the upcoming basketball season. Micah was slated to be the starting point guard. He was quick as a whip in his wheelchair and absolutely fearless, unafraid to take a chance from someone three times his size.

On that fateful morning, Micah woke up from sleeping in a tent with all his friends and told his mom, Cheryl, that he was very cold, even though it was warm outside. The last thing Micah told his mom before he slipped into an unconscious state, was that he had to go get his puppy. The only problem was that the Prantle's didn't have a dog, even though Micah always wanted one.

The Prantles are a wonderfully tight-knit, God-fearing family. Cheryl thinks, in hindsight, in his last conscious moment, Micah saw Jesus waiting for him with the puppy he always wanted.

Micah was rushed to the hospital but sank into a coma. His parents had to make a decision no parent should have to make, Julian and Cheryl decided Micah would continue to give in death, just as he did in life. His heart was transplanted in a little girl in San Francisco and his other organs were given to a number of kids all around the country. To this day, the doctors are not sure what happened to cause Micah's passing.

The funeral was held in Oak Creek, Wisconsin. The entire Wizards team dressed in full uniform, wheeled in and honored their fallen teammate. Coach Tom Timblin said he "was honored by the family, and asked to give the eulogy. It was a day none of us will ever forget." The Wizards ordered new uniforms and appropriately have Micah's number sewn over the player's hearts.

The rest of the season was an emotional roller coaster. As usual, the Wizards embarked on a long 25 game season that took them from St. Paul to Chicago, and many points in-between. The season ended with the National Tournament in Omaha, Nebraska.

The Wizards struggled without Micah and posted a 4-21 record, but that didn't really matter. The kids and parents learned so many lessons, that transcend basketball, the most important was to give more hugs and say, "I love you" more often.

Caleb Timblin, son of Tom and Debbie Timblin, of Kewaskum had a nice season. He earned Co-MVP at the annual awards banquet recently held at The Quilted Bear in Germantown. He also was named to the All-Star Team at Nationals and played alongside the finest handicapped athletes in America.

DEALS for DADS

Hands-on Father's Day projects for the whole family

(ARA) - Many young boys - and girls - enjoy following their grandfather or father around his workshop, admiring his tools and hoping to help with a project. With Father's Day quickly approaching, there's no better time for dads or granddads to encourage this interest by letting youngsters pitch in on a kid-friendly project.

"Working together on a hands-on project is one of the most rewarding activities you can engage in with young family members," says Pat Hensiak, Dremel customer service supervisor. "You'll create memories that will last a lifetime, and often end up with a special souvenir." Interestingly, the company recently conducted a survey about do-it-yourself projects and found that a high percentage of men - 44 percent - believe that working on home improvement projects with another family member strengthens the relationship.

These projects include easy steps that kids of any age can follow when working with their dad or grandfather. An experienced adult should always complete power tool work, and this time provides a good opportunity for adults to explain the proper use of power tools and shop safety to their young helpers.

* Build a wooden toy racing car. Working together to create a wooden toy racing car is a classic father/son activity, stemming from derby car racing's early association with clubs such as the Boy Scouts of America. Nowadays, derby car racing has been adapted by many other groups, including church and community groups, and could even be turned into a family race.

Start by drawing the car on a block of pine showing the top, side, front and back views. Using a vise to hold the wood block, remove large areas of wood with a scroll saw or coping saw. Then, use a Dremel 300 Series rotary tool to shape, smooth and make contours to the car. Kids can jump in to hand-sand the car, then paint with their favorite colors and designs. Assemble wheels and you're ready to roll.

* Create a homemade puzzle. Let your kids pick their favorite photo - maybe one from vacation or of a family pet - and use a photo service found in most drug stores to enlarge it to the size puzzle you wish to create. A colorful magazine page or one of your kids' own drawings will also work. Purchase or cut an 1/8- to 1/2-inch piece of wood to the same size as your image. Allow kids to hand-sand the wood until smooth, then draw an outline for puzzle pieces onto the back. Using glue, affix the image to the top of the wood piece. Follow the puzzle piece outlines drawn on the back of the wood with a scroll saw to cut the wood into the puzzle pieces.

* Make a terra cotta bird-feeder. Kids love watching wildlife gather in their own backyards. Make a trip to the hardware store first to gather supplies: a clay pot 4 to 6 inches in diameter, a clay saucer large enough to cover the pot, a 3/8-inch threaded rod that is 2 inches longer than the length of the pot and saucer combined, three nuts for the 3/8-inch rod, three metal washers, three rubber washers, an extended nut, an eyebolt or threaded hook and a 1/4-inch dowel 3 inches long.

The saucer serves as the birdhouse roof. Using a rotary tool, grind a 3/8-inch hole in the center of the saucer. Make the bird's door by grinding a 1- to 1 1/2-inch hole in the side of the pot. Beneath the door, grind a 1/4-inch hole using a tungsten carbide cutter and press a dowel into it for a perch.

Thread all components together to form the hanging house:

1. Thread the nut from the top of the rod to position the pot.
2. Slip the metal washer, then rubber washer, up from the bottom of the rod then slide the pot into position.
3. Slide rubber washer then metal washer up under pot.
4. Thread the nut up from the bottom of the rod and tighten against washers until pot is securely held.

5. Repeat the same procedure for securing the saucer upside-down. Then, thread on another nut to act as a lock nut. Thread extended nut on top of rod and screw eyebolt into it as a hanger.

After hanging in a nearby tree, wait for a bird family to make the house a home.

Kewaskum Public Library Summer program begins June 16

Every year the Kewaskum Public Library puts together a six-week program of events and incentives to keep kids reading throughout the long summer away from school. This program, for elementary age students, offers kids the chance to win prizes for reading.

Sign up in June and get a reading workbook. Keep track of every block of 10 minutes you read for the week—after you've read for 120 minutes (two hours), bring your workbook in to get it stamped by a staff member and receive that week's special prize!

At the end of the summer, each child who participates will receive a free book and a chance to win cool stuff donated by the Brewers, Bucks, Packers and other organizations.

The program will run from June 16 to August 1 and will offer weekly events at the library that are free and open to all ages (regardless of whether you are participating in the reading program).

Registration will be from June 2 to June 13 and will be strictly for students under 12 years of age. Please call the library for more information on this and other programming events at 262-626-4312.

West Bend Senior Center to hold Deja vu Style Show and luncheon

The West Bend Senior Center is having its third annual Deja vu Style Show and Salad Luncheon at the Jansen Park Pavilion on June 22, at 12 noon. Advance tickets are available for $8.

The first style show was presented at the senior center, but was so well attended that organizers had to find a bigger location for the next year. It will be held at Jansen Park for the second year.

The whole idea was started to show ladies how well dressed they could be on a limited income. Local consignment shops and secondhand shops all have brand name labels and some designer labels as well. Everything that has been worn by the models has been sold.

All monies taken in go to the senior center. This is a wholly volunteer endeavor.

A fun time is had by the models and guests and the many door prizes are nice to take home too.

For more information, call Lonny at 262-335-4001.

Jazz festival to feature art marketplace

Local and regional decorative artists are invited to exhibit their work at the 11th annual Kettle Moraine Jazz Festival (KMJF), produced by the West Bend Sunrise Rotary Foundation, Inc., Sept. 5 - Sept. 6. The event will take place along the banks of the upper Milwaukee River at Riverside Park in West Bend.

The juried Decorative Arts Marketplace will provide up to 16 tent-covered spaces at $275 per space for the two-day event. Spaces are 12 feet wide by 16 feet deep and include electrical hookups of 500 watts 110V. Each exhibit space may be staffed by up to two people, age 18 or older. Hours will be from 4:00 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 5, and 11:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 6.

Marketplace items, which can include jewelry, leather, pottery, metal, glass, wood, photography, and more, must be entirely original in concept and created by the applicant.

Artists are asked to complete and mail an application with five slides or photos of their works with a corresponding description of the items to be exhibited, and payment of $275 to the West Bend Sunrise Rotary Foundation Inc., c/o Kettle Moraine Jazz Festival Marketplace, P.O. Box 1087, West Bend, WI 53095. The deadline for submitting an application with payment is Friday, June 13.

"The distinctive artwork, everything from stained glass to original paintings, that will be on display will once again delight festival-goers," said Graeme Reid, coordinator of the Decorative Arts Marketplace for Kettle Moraine Jazz Festival. "The artisans have been a majoir part of the festival since its inception, as exhibitors receive an opportunity to reach an affluent audience of 2,500 per day. With an experienced management staff and professional promotion team coordinating an exhaustive advertising and publicity campaign, this is a terrific opportunity for artists to sell their work. Space is limited, so we encourage artist's to reserve their space now."

In addition to the music and the arts marketplace, the festival will feature tempting international cuisine and interactive sponsor exhibits.

The festival, which will once again feature internationally recognized jazz musicians and vocalists, is expected to draw more than 5,000 jazz lovers from all over the Midwest, particularly from Southeast Wisconsin and Northeast Illinois. The festival's entertainment line up is as follows:

Friday, September 5: 5:30 p.m.: Warren Hill; 7:30 p.m.: Lavy Smith & Her Red Hot Skillet Lickers; and 9:30 p.m.: Soul Express, featuring Phil Perry, Everette Harp, and Chris Standring

Saturday, September 6: 1:30 p.m.: Nelson Rangell; 3:45 p.m.: East Bay Soul, featuring Greg Adams and Tom Scott; 6:15 p.m.: Jim Peterik's Lifeforce; and 8:30 p.m.: Nick Colionne

Festival tickets are available at "early-bird" prices of $100 for two-day tickets and $60 for one-day tickets through Monday, June 16. Two-day tickets will be sold for $110 and one-day tickets for $65 from June 17 - August 31. Tickets will be sold beginning August 30, at $125 for both days and $75 for one day.

Tickets can be purchased in a secure online environment at www.kmjazz.com or by calling the festival's toll-free information line at 1-877-271-6903. Consumers can also send a completed ticket order form available from the festival office or the event Website with a check, money order, or credit card number (MasterCard or Visa) to the West Bend Sunrise Rotary Foundation, Inc., P.O. Box 1087, West Bend, WI 53095.

In its history, the festival has contributed more than $310,000 to charitable groups in southeastern Wisconsin through the West Bend Sunrise Rotary Foundation. The Foundation has supported: The Albrecht Free Clinic - support free medical clinics; Columns, Inc. - scholarship programs to local high school graduates; West Bend Library - building construction; West Bend Parks and Recreation Department - maintenance and expansion; West Bend Fire Department - fire safety trailer; Kettle Moraine YMCA - acquired equipment for a West Bend skate park; SafeZone Community Art Center - provides an environment for children to develop their musical ability, including small group lessons, private tutoring lessons, and full band rehearsals each week, with periodic performances; Hurricane Katrina Relief through the national Rotary Fund.

Robert L. Haney, 43, of Memorial Drive in Kewaskum, operator of R-L's Game Room on Main Street in Kewaskum, was brutally beaten Saturday night in what police officials feel may have been an attempted burglary, although nothing was taken. Police records indicate Haney was alone in the establishment when two males entered the premises and the alleged attack took place. Kewaskum Police Officer Richard Knoebel said a minor had been arrested and taken to the Washington County Jail on a charge of aggravated battery. No formal charges have as yet been filed against another assailant.

The search for five-year-old Bobbi Joe Fritz, Campbellsport, missing since Saturday, May 14, continues as no new clues turned up after another intensive search over the weekend. The Green Bay office of the FBI is now involved in the case due to the time factor. The boy has been missing over 10 days and no new clues have been found that can be traced to his disappearance.

MPTC addresses construction needs

As Baby Boomers prepare to retire, it's possible that more than half of the existing construction workforce will retire by 2012. What was initially a consideration kept in the back of one's mind is now a major concern for the construction industry: Where can competent entry-level workers be found to fill the hole that will be left by retirees?

One answer can be found at Moraine Park Technical College. "The College has been listening to the concerns of area employers in the construction industry," said Jon Waldhuetter, dean of apprenticeships. "To address their needs, Moraine Park's Building Trades/Construction Worker technical diploma program is being offered this fall when the semester starts Aug. 25." The program is designed to provide the construction skill set that graduates and employers need. Students will attend classes five days a week for two 16-week semesters. Part-time enrollment is available for those who are unable to commit to a full-time instructional schedule.

Building Trades/Construction Worker courses include Safety Applications, Building Trades Fundamentals, Framing Construction, Basic Welding, Basic AutoCAD, Exterior Finish, Interior Finish, Building Trades Mechanical Systems and others.

"This program provides a very broad range of trade experience, which is key," said Waldhuetter. "It is strong in hands-on work activities and exposes students to a wide range of trade career options. Students who complete this program will be able to transition smoothly into construction-related careers."

Even with the current slowdown in new home construction, projections by the Southeast Construction Contractors and Trades Council indicate a 43-percent growth in employment in the construction industry over the next decade. Presently only 40 to 60 percent of positions created by retirement are being filled and the job outlook for the construction industry is strong in all of the skilled trades with employment growth between 14 and 25 percent. Wage scales will remain high, ranging from $15 to $35 an hour for skilled workers, with an average annual wage of roughly $42,500. Moraine Park's Building Trades/Construction Worker program opens the door to careers in the construction industry and continuing educational opportunities such as apprenticeship, supervision or specialized training.

Registrations are currently being accepted for this fall. To register for the Building Trades/Construction Worker program or for more information, call a Moraine Park admissions specialist at 1-800-472-4554 or call Waldhuetter at 262-335-5841.

ENCORE

MATTERS IN THE
SECOND HALF OF LIFE

MARC

Why do you work?

For most of us, we hold a job down so we can pay bills, have a home, buy stuff. Some of us work because we like the social aspect. For others, it's the challenge we love most about working.

And still, we think about retirement. After all, isn't that why you contribute to an IRA?

In the new book "Encore" by Marc Freedman, you'll learn how employers and employees are meeting the Golden Years with ideas that might be the answer to Social Security woes, the economy, and the workforce.

Retirement as a perk of age hasn't been around long. In the early 1900s, it was common to see older, better-paid workers dropped from payrolls in favor of lesser-paid, younger workers. This often plunged the older worker into poverty. Social Security was created, in large part, to remedy the problem.

Ask any Baby Boomer, and you'll hear doubts about Social Security today. Will it be there for you when you want to retire? Doomsayers predict problems within the next generation. Will this change retirement?

Yes, Freedman says. First of all, why leave the workplace entirely? Just as we benefit the workplace, work benefits us. Studies show that actively engaged people live longer, healthier lives.

Freedman says that if soon-to-leave, mid-life employees are given more options, they might choose to work longer and differently. He envisions "bridge jobs" - short-term, part-time, low-or-no-pay positions - created for a cadre of older workers to fill openings in retail and volunteer programs. Such a program would give the "Encore Society" a chance to decide on and transition to the next phase of their working lives.

Businesses would benefit by having an eager pool of "bridge job" workers. Social and volunteer programs could benefit from an abundance of experience. And by keeping older employees on a payroll, the government gets tax money and younger workers get a hand in supporting the needy and those who truly can't work.

Freedman says you might know someone who has implemented these changes already. Encore workers are returning to school, refocusing skills, re-finding dreams, and making a difference. In this book, he interviews people who switched jobs in mid-life and are happier than ever before, and he offers a way that you can do it, too.

Maybe.

"Encore" is an exciting book, but on second thought, there are a lot of elders out there who toil because they must. Would these ideas fit their lives, as well as the lives of those who work for fulfillment and not money? I'm not so sure. Author Marc Freedman admits that this whole shift in thinking is easiest for retirees who have enough money to live comfortably and don't need much or any more. Even though its premise is sound, that might put this book into perspective for an awful lot of readers.

Published last summer, "Encore" is a provocative book that might be a solution to many problems in today's economy. Pick up a copy and see if it works for you.

The Real Villain Behind Ethanol Attacks (or...The Truth About Ethanol Production)

It is growing larger every day, my friends. I am talking about my frustration over the continuing attacks on ethanol, soy diesel and the entire bio-fuels industry, blaming them solely for the increase in food prices and every other problem in the world. I thought it was a rather unorganized campaign coming from different sources but now, thanks to a presentation on the Senate floor by Iowa Senator Chuck Grassley, a strong supporter of ethanol, I learned that no, this is a well-orchestrated, well-financed campaign.

The Senator said it seems there is a "group think" mentality when it comes to blaming ethanol for everything from high gas prices to global food shortages, global warming and deforestation; but as was recently reported, this anti-ethanol campaign is not a coincidence. It turns out that a $300,000.00 six-month retainer of a Beltway public relations firm is behind the smear campaign and the firm is funded by the Grocery Manufacturers Association. Isn't that interesting....the grocery manufacturers that depend on farmers and ranchers for the commodities for them to process, wholesale and retail are now attacking the very people who provide them with the basics of their business. I guess it's alright for grocery manufacturers to make money, but it's not alright for farmers to turn a small profit.

So, I am delighted when I find a pro bio-fuels editorial and I found one recently entitled "Reject Backlash Against Bio-Fuels" in the Wisconsin State Journal. Let me share part of it...."In 1995, before the ethanol boom began, American farmers produced 162-million metric tons of corn for food and export. By 2007, ethanol production was taking 62-million metric tons of corn; so the corn left for food and export was....308-million metric tons. That's right! Three-hundred-eight-million metric tons, 82% more than before the ethanol boom, thanks to higher yields and more land in corn fields. But how can that be true when, according to the backlash against bio-fuels, scarcity of corn caused by America's diversion of corn into ethanol production is to blame for world food shortages and sky-rocketing prices. It is true because the backlash against bio-fuels is based on myth, misrepresentation and myopia, adding up to a failure of reason."

Thank you, Wisconsin State Journal, for bringing some sense to the argument with statistics that are real and not based on emotion.

My thoughts on Samuelson Sez.

Lady Indian 4x200 relay caps off season with state title

The best in all of Division two

KHS senior Kelly Uelmen crosses the finish line in the 4x200m relay, earning a division two state championship for her team on Friday, May 30. The WIAA state championship meet finals were held in La Crosse on Friday, May 30 and Saturday, May 31. Additional photos can be found on our website www.kewaskumstatesman.com. Outstanding ... superlative ... amazing ... remarkable ... magnificent!

Use any of these adjectives to describe the feat the Kewaskum High 800-meter relay team accomplished Friday and Saturday during the WIAA Division 2 State Track and Field Meet held in La Crosse, earning the honor of being state champions!!!

The foursome of Haley Gregoriou, Jessie Liniewski, Nichole Kison and Kelly Uelmen were clocked in a time of 1 minute, 45 and .62 seconds (1:45.62) to win the event. Whitewater finished second in 1:46.11.

"The girls ran very well," KHS coach Jerry Gosa said. "They actually had to beat the six best teams in the sectional. Then they had to beat the top six Friday in qualifying, and then they had to beat them Saturday. There was a little pressure on them, but they handled it very well."

The first hurdle the Indians had to clear was the qualifying for finals, which they did with a new school record time of 1 minute, 45 and 25 seconds (1:45.25), the best time in Friday's trials.

"We were a little nervous because it was kind of expected of us," Liniewski said Monday morning before classes started.

What wasn't expected perhaps was the way this group dropped five seconds from the Eastern Wisconsin Conference Meet (a 1:50.49 on May 13th). And how did that happen? "We have no idea," Liniewski said, adding she was certain the school record was broken at the sectionals because "There was so much more competition, so we just ran faster. We wanted to win sectionals."

Gregoriou moved onto the relay midway in the season and said she loved the leadoff spot. "Then I have less to worry about," she said. "I just have to give and handoff" and not take one.

Gregoriou went on that the handoffs were "pretty good" over the weekend, although "I came up on her (Liniewski) a little quicker" Friday, so the No. 2 runner just moved her tape mark a little forward, and the pass clicked on Saturday.

"They were perfect the entire two days," Kison said of the handoffs, and when asked about knowing Uelmen was leading, added, "From my place it's pretty hard to tell," but after the curve, "Kelly was out front."

Uelmen said she figured Whitewater would be their top competition. "They were posting the fastest time the whole season, but we beat them at sectional, and we were confident after that," she said.

When she got the baton, Uelmen said "We were all pretty close" but figured "we had the lead before the turn was over."

Kewaskum also placed fifth in the 4x100 relay with a time of 50.97, so the team ended up in a tie for 17th place with 14 points.

Gosa said it was ironic the 4x100 relay, which placed in the 2007 state test, was the one the girls concentrated on more early in the season, then "the other one becomes the premier event."

Gregoriou is just a sophomore, while Liniewski and Kison are juniors, and Uelmen is the lone senior of the bunch.

"I have to be extremely happy for Kelly. What a great way to go out as a senior ... as a state champion," Gosa said, indicating, "She provided excellent leadership by her example."

Gosa said it also helped that Kison and Liniewski competed in the state meet last year.

"It was so much fun," Kison said about the two-day activity, and Liniewski said the victory dinner was a highlight. "We all didn't drink soda for a long time," she said, adding the group all went to the Olive Garden afterward and "We all got smoothies and all got sodas."

Gregoriou, who dropped a full three seconds in her 300-meter hurdle time this season, was so happy to be part of this relay. "I like the relay because it's like a family thing, and we all get along so well. We have a lot of fun."

Uelmen, who plans to attend UW-La Crosse in the fall, said it was good to see the campus. "It's very nice. I like it a lot," she said, and she certainly enjoyed ending her career on top.

"It made the four years worthwhile, knowing all the hard work and everything paid off," Uelmen said.

Alissa Clapper had a frustrating day Saturday, going out at 9-foot (9-0) below her usual vaulting height. She did not place.

"Alissa Clapper had the unfortunate experience of having her pole break," Gosa said. "That's tough. You are forced to use a pole you've never used before."

Gosa said before the pole broke, "She was jumping very well."

Clapper is a junior and will have another opportunity to place at state.

On Friday, senior Ben Boettcher placed seventh in the discus with a disappointing effort of 159-02, and senior teammate Tyler Swanson threw 141-06 to finish 13th.

Boettcher had the best toss of any of the sectional qualifiers, a 178-7.

"According to coach Gundrum, his first throw was a 175 or 180, and he had a scratch," Gosa said, and, "At that point, he had trouble getting a good one out there."

Lomira's Nick Baatz won the event, throwing 178-05, and defending champion, Mike Zika of Durand, was second at 170-03.

Junior Jake Dickmann went 12-6 in the pole vault and did not place. It took a jump of 13-0 to finish eighth.

Candace Beine did not make the opening height in Friday's high jump and did not place.

The track teams gathered Wednesday night for the annual pot luck supper and awards night.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Haley, Jess, Nichole & Kelly STATE CHAMPS!

We are so proud of you!

Despite a bunch of obstacles, including high winds, cool temperatures and some wet playing conditions, Kewaskum High's Ethan Geidel made history last Tuesday, qualifying for the WIAA Division 2 State Golf Tournament.

By finishing first among the players from non-qualifying schools — 2007 runner-up Catholic Memorial won the meet with 327 strokes while University School of Milwaukee was second at 330 — Geidel became the first KHS boy to advance to the state meet.

Katie Korh was the first girl to achieve the feat back in 2005.

It was a long day for the talented junior and for his coach Glenn Eichstedt, who tried but never succeeded in gaining a berth in a state competition back in the day when there was just one class in high school golf.

Geidel, who has a solid short game, used it to his advantage, both during regulation play and the playoff.

According to Eichstedt, Geidel teed off just before 10 a.m., but never received his award until 6:20 p.m., after taking a three-hole playoff over defending state tournament players, Keith Buntrock of Milwaukee Thomas More and Aaron Seubert of Memorial (to determine the third place medal and tee placements for Monday).

All three carded 79s on the long, par-72 Oakwood Golf Course in Franklin, Geidel's coming on nines of 40 and 39, while Buntrock went out in 37, then struggled a bit on the back nine for a 42. Seubert went 40-39 for his 79.

Geidel "played solidly from tee to green, but was unable to take advantage of the many birdie opportunities he had throughout his 18-hole round," Eichstedt said. Still he finished with just 36 putts, including only one three-putt, that coming on the 18th hole.

Because Geidel was playing as an individual, he had an early tee time, and his 79 held up for "an excruciating three more hours" until all the other players from the teams came in.

Low for the day was Danny Semrad of Catholic Memorial with a 1-over-par 73, then came University School's Dan Simonson with a 77.

Geidel's par on the third extra hole ended the playoff, and, "Ironically, Ethan won with a one-putt on his 21st hole of the match," his coach said, congratulating his player for attaining another of his golf goals.

Geidel, the Player of the Year in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference in 2007 and '08, was slated to play Monday and Tuesday, June 1-2 in the State Tournament at the University Ridge Golf Course near Verona.

Kewaskum was represented by its whole team in the state tournament in 1988 when Eric Pearson, Joel Fleury, Joel Miller, Greg Dean and D.J. Schlaugenhoup qualified for the event held at the Lake Arrowhead Golf Course near Wisconsin Rapids.

Tack on two more in Athletics' win column

Bouncing back from their lone loss of the season, the Kewaskum Athletics home talent baseball players exploded for 19 runs in a pair of Rock River games to earn convincing 13-4 and 6-1 wins over Slinger and Waupun.

Sunday's game, played in Kewaskum's Kiwanis Park, featured the solid pitching performance of Jim Ziegler and some clutch hitting.

Ziegler allowed just five hits and one earned run in eight innings of work on the mound. He struck out seven and walked only one in posting his fifth victory of the 2008 campaign.

Jon Olla, Austin Sarauer and Dan Shea all had two hits for the winners. Olla drove in the second run of the game with an RBI single in the fifth, scoring Jake Panzer, who had doubled. Olla would later score on a sacrifice fly hit by Steve Ketter.

This put the A's up 4-zip, and they would go on to score two more runs in the seventh on a single by Shea, who drove in Olla and Ketter, who had both reached on singles.

Jake Lathers saw his first action of the year for Kewaskum. He pitched a scoreless ninth inning, issuing one hit and striking out one of the Bulldogs.

Saturday's win over Slinger was especially gratifying since this is a rivalry that dates back several decades.

Two unearned runs in the second allowed the Stingers to take the lead, but it was short-lived as the hosts scored two runs in the third, fourth and fifth frames, then tacked on seven in the bottom of the eighth to break the game wide open.

Adam Sarauer's double and a ground out produced the first run, and the As got another on an error, stolen base and an RBI single by Austin Sarauer.

In the fourth, back-to-back RBI doubles by Nick Whitty and Adam Sarauer made the score 4-2 in the A's favor.

It was more of the same for the A's in the fifth as Ziegler led off with a double to left, then with two outs, Ketter drove him home with an RBI double, and Jason Strobel followed with another two-bagger.

Leading 6-4 in the eighth, Kewaskum sent a dozen to the plate and came up with a bases-loaded double and a home run toward a 7-run barrage.

Cory Tjader cleared the bases with his double down the right-field line, giving the A's the extra runs they needed. Late in the inning, Strobel connected for his third homer of the season. This one cleared the fence in left field.

For the day, the A's had seven doubles. Ketter, Strobel, Whitty, Adam Sarauer and Ziegler each had two hits on the day.

Tjader picked up the win, scattering four hits during his five innings of work. He struck out three and walked three.

Whitty finished up the game, limiting the Stingers to two runs on four hits.

Kewaskum is now 5-0 in Rock River League action and 9-1 overall.

Upcoming games: Friday at West Bend Benders, 7:30 p.m. Sunday at home vs. first place Brownsville.

Miscues are costly; A's suffer first loss

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Benefitting from a misplayed fly ball and an error, host Lannon was able to hand the Kewaskum Athletics home talent baseball team a 3-1 loss last Wednesday night, ending the A's fine winning streak at seven.

Mitch Huffman was "a hard-luck pitcher" in the game, according to player/spokesperson Jim Ziegler, who reported Huffman gave up just five hits in seven "very effective innings."

A leadoff walk in the third inning turned into Lannon's first run. With two outs and a runner on third, the Stonemen got on the scoreboard thanks to an RBI single.

It looked as if Huffman would get out of trouble in the fifth until the misplayed fly ball led to another run for Lannon.

Kewaskum cut the deficit in half with a leadoff home run by Steve Ketter to start the top of the sixth.

The Stonemen regained their two-run edge when they added a single run in the bottom of the seventh. With one out and a runner on second, the next Lannon batter hit a fly ball to center. The base runner tagged up and went to third, then scored when the throw home bounced into the dug-out.

The A's threatened in the eighth when Ty Schill led off with a double and, after one out, Ketter drew a walk. The next man up, Jason Strobel, struck out for the second out, then Dan Shea was walked to load the bases for Nick Whitty.

Whitty got his bat on the ball, hitting a soft fly down the line that was just barely foul. Had it been fair, undoubtedly it would have cleared the bases. On the next pitch, Whitty struck out on a nasty curve ball, and the threat was over.

Kewaskum went down quietly in the ninth, and its fine win streak was over.

Ketter was the A's leading hitter, going 2x3 with the homer, while Jake Panzer chipped in with two hits. Huffman gave up five hits, walked two and struck out one. Whitty, who came on to finish up the eighth and ninth frames, allowed just one hit and struck out one.

Baseball team still in search of first win

By Pat Neumuth
Statesman Sports Editor
patrick@kewaskumstatesman.com

Kewaskum baseball coach Doug Gonring said it is tough to win games with a lack of hustle and no off-season training.

"These are so bad of losses that there is nothing you can gain from anything," Gonring said about their two latest losses Tuesday against Slinger and Wednesday against West Bend West. "Maybe the only thing they can gain is to come back out here and hustle better."

Kewaskum dropped to Slinger High School 9-4 and was mercy-ruled by West Bend West 14-0.

After the fourth inning of the West Bend game, Gonring collected the team outside their dugout to ask them if "they were jogging after the balls in the outfield and for pop-ups."

Gonring said the team looked they were gliding to balls and taking grounders like they were in the big leagues. He said the team has to run to balls.

It is not just the performance in the field to contribute to these losses, but the hitting is holding them back as well.

"Really, we just need to get some confidence at the plate," said junior Nick Olla. "We need to put the ball in play and not have as many strikeouts."

The Indians struck out 11 times against Slinger and seven against West. In the second inning against West, pitcher Paul Hoenecke struck out the Indians in order and all looking.

"West looked like they have been hitting for three months. I wonder how many of my guys have been hitting in December, January or February," Gonring said about why the team has had struggles at the plate. "Hitting is the fun part of the game. Hitting is where the kids get the opportunity to work on it."

In these two games, Kewaskum combined for 10 hits, one being a homerun by Olla. Olla's homerun came a little late in the Slinger game, as it was a solo shot with two outs in the top of the seventh. The next batter, Mike Gutjahr, ended the game with a fly out to right.

Slinger had six hits and West had 14.

Nick Ebert pitched three innings against Slinger giving up five runs (one earned), off of three hits, three walks and struck out four. John Holt went 3.1 innings against West giving up 12 runs, off of 12 hits, five walks and four strikeouts.

"(Holt) isn't that bad of a pitcher to take a ten to nothing loss," Gonring said about Holt's pitching. "He did some damage and put some guys in bad situations. But he walked too many guys again. We have to get away from walking guys."

"He left a few pitches up and didn't keep the ball down. Every time he would mess up once they would hit the ball hard or into a gap," Olla said from his prospective at catcher.

Gonring said the team needs more practice, working on situations, all kinds of different options and hitting. He said hopefully the team wants to work on more hitting on the weekends.

"Disappointed obviously," Olla said about the two losses. "You can't dwell on it too long. You got to go from here and look at conference and Eisenhower coming up."

Gonring said the team can only get better. He said hits will fall, the team will not be hitting .100 all year.

A's battle back to top Oakfield

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

They haven't been in this position before, but on Memorial Day the Kewaskum Athletics home talent baseball team came from behind to beat Oakfield 4-3 to stay unbeaten for the 2008 season.

The host Oaks put a three-spot on the scoreboard in the first inning, then starter and eventual winner Jim Ziegler held them at bay the remaining eight innings.

The offensive hero for Kewaskum was Austin Sarauer, whose double in the top of the ninth scored Ty Schill for the game-winning run.

The win gives the A's a perfect 3-0 mark in Rock River League action, and they are 7-0 overall, which puts them within one victory of their season total eight in 2007.

Kewaskum threatened right away in the first inning, with runners at the corners, but Ty Schill was thrown out trying to steal home, and then the side was retired without any runs scoring, a first during the 2008 season for the A's who have started all their previous games with runs in the first.

Oakfield made the best of its opportunities in the first, however, as the first two hitters reached on singles, and then Scott Stettbacher followed with a shot down the right-field line to score one. The throw from right field sailed over Schill's head at second, allowing another run scored on the error, and there was still a runner at third.

Former Athletic Corey Immel was up next, and when he reached on an error, the third run came in.

Kewaskum rallied to tie the game in the top of the third, and it was Sarauer igniting the action with a double, putting runners at second and third. Batting in front of him, Jake Panzer had reached via a walk.

With first base open, Oakfield decided to put to Steve Ketter, which turned out to be a tactical error because Ketter delivered a big, 2-run single for Kewaskum, and he went all the way to third on the throw home.

Up next against Oakfield pitcher Chris Morgan was Jason Strobel, the A's player/manager, who was held hitless in the team's last game. Strobel came through this time, however, slapping a two-strike double to score Ketter and tie the game at 3-all.

Kewaskum left runners stranded in four of the next five innings as none of the A's could come up with the clutch hit they needed.

Oakfield was faring no better against Ziegler, who struck out the side in the sixth and worked out of a jam in the seventh, posting back to back strikeouts with Oaks at second and third base.

The tie was finally broken in the top of the ninth when Panzer again led off with a walk but was gunned down at second on a bunt attempt by Schill, who reached first on the play. The swift A's infielder quickly stoke second base, setting the stage for Sarauer to become the hero. With two strikes, Sarauer ripped a base hit to right, scoring Schill and giving the A's their first lead of the game.

Ziegler put the Oaks down in order in the ninth for the thrilling victory.

He picked up his fourth win of the season, limiting the Oaks to seven hits, while striking out six and waking one.

Sarauer went 4x4, while Ketter chipped in with two hits and a pair of RBIs.

Goeden moves up 11 spots to take second

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

It looks like the sleek black No. 11 winged sprint car driven by Kewaskum's Don Goeden is going to be among the front runners of many IRA (Interstate Racing Association) races again this year.

In his three appearances thus far in 2008, Goeden has found the winner's circle in one, finished fourth in another and came from the 13th position to wind up second in action last Saturday night in the 30-lap "Duel at the Dam" feature at Charter Raceway Park near Beaver Dam.

"Second, yeah, we were running good," Goeden said Monday, reporting he wound up fifth in time, fifth in his heat race and then second in the B-Main to advance to the feature.

"It was a fast track," Goeden said, reporting the track crew reworked the surface after qualifying and that made it fast and also insured a very entertaining race.

Considering they started in the 13th and 17th positions, respectively, Goeden and Todd King were unlikely candidates to duel it out for the feature title, but there they were in the last 10 laps of the race.

Goeden said he took over the top spot in lap No. 23 and continued to lead the event for the next six circuits, but King, who rode the inside portion of the track, was coming hard and got around Goeden on the final lap for the thrilling win by one car length.

"There was a big crowd on hand ... it was a good race," Goeden said, noting the event kicked off what will be an interesting couple of weeks, starting with shows at the Dodge County Track near Beaver Dam and then at Oshkosh this Friday and Saturday.

Goeden is still driving the car for owner Bob Walldan of Withrop Harbor, Ill. and he is being sponsored this year by a battalion in the U.S. Army.

Concerning the points standings, Goeden said, "I think we're like eleventh right now because we missed a couple shows." The shows he has been in have had successful endings, and Goeden credits his crew for that. "I just want to thank the car owner and crew for giving me a good car," he said.

Another area resident, Mike Kertscher, is back racing this year, and he posted the low qualifying time Saturday and powered his No. 80K car to eighth in the feature.

Scott Bierter of West Bend made the feature but spun out with just 10 laps to go and finished 21st in the field.

Currently, Billy Baalog leads in the point standings with 642, while Goeden is 11th with 483 and Russ Borland of Kewaskum is 12th with 476.

Bierter's 471 points put him in the 13th spot, while Kertscher is sitting in 23rd with 286 points.

Who ever said blood is thicker than water? At least the saying does not apply when playing baseball. Head coach Doug Gonring and the Kewaskum high school baseball team chalked up their first win against Campbellsport and Gonring's nephew on Monday.

"I have never had to do that on the varsity level," Gonring said about coaching against his nephew Kevin Gonring. "I didn't think too much about it until he was hitting, but I was more worried about what was going on with my team."

This was a well-needed 4-1 victory over Campbellsport, especially after such a disappointing 7-4 loss to New Berlin Eisenhower on Friday.

Gonring said the game against Eisenhower was a game where the team made too many mental mistakes, "We just didn't play smart baseball. I don't think we made a physical error. We were throwing to the wrong bases, walking guys and gave them free runs."

The Indians jumped out to an early lead against Eisenhower. Nick Olla hit a deep two-run homerun to left in the first inning. In the second inning, Justin Krueger drove in John Holt on a RBI single and then next batter Ben Butler grounded out to short to drive in Josh Harbin. That was all for the Indians offense, however.

Eisenhower's bats woke up and they put up two runs in the third, two in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the sixth to blow the game wide open.

"It's just the little things, like we need to play catch and think the game," Butler said as he struggled to find words because of the frustration of the game. "It's the little things that is holding us back."

It was the little things the team improved on against Campbellsport. Gonring said before the game they were going to go through more of a practice, rather than hitting. He wanted to get the team to talk more on the diamond. Gonring jokingly said the team would talk more if he gave them cell phones, so they could text each other.

The spark for the Indians started with their defense. The middle infield combination of shortstop Butler and second baseman Bo Seibel connected with two double plays to get the Indians out of trouble in the first two innings and one more in the sixth.

"I didn't have my best stuff, but the defense got me out of a lot of jams," Holt said. "Bo and Ben were great up the middle. The defense is starting to come along."

Holt led off the third inning by fighting back from a 0-2 count to draw a walk. The next batter Butler laid down a bunt and reached on a fielders' choice. Everyone was safe. Olla then ripped a double to the

"I feel real confident at the plate, I am more relaxed," Olla said about his 2-for-2 day with two runs and two RBI. "In the beginning of the year I felt uncomfortable at the plate, a little off-balance. My brother worked with me a little bit."

The Indians tacked on one more insurance run in the fifth. Olla reached on by getting hit in the back. Gutjahr and Nick Ebert hit back-to-back singles to score Olla from second.

There was some trouble for the Indians in the top half of the sixth. The Cougars leadoff man reached on an error. The next batter singled, to make runners on the corners. A double play scored the run. Two walks and an error later loaded the bases with two outs. Holt settled down and struck out the Cougar batter looking at three straight pitches.

"Obviously getting a win is important for the kids because the psyche of them could go real fast south bound if you don't get a win," Gonring said.

The Indians next game is today (Thursday) at Kiwanis Community Park against Plymouth at 5:30 p.m. The baseball program also invites the community to come out on the next three Fridays to Kiwanis Community Park to cheer on the Indians and enjoy a cookout after the game. This Friday against Kiel, they will be serving a steak fry.

A FISHY EXPERIMENT... Escanaba studies angler harvests

Just maybe, lake scenery from a postcard and a good chance at simply catching walleyes actually trumps the opportunity to take Wisconsin's most sought after gamefish home for the frying pan. That surely is a debate for the individual angler in boat or back room, but Dan Moericke, his son Steve and Dan Platta of Wausau had no problem Sunday releasing fat walleye after walleye back into Escanaba Lake, a state experimental water with a one fish, 28-inch minimum size limit.

It didn't hurt that an undeveloped, picturesque shoreline surrounded us and offered the feel of Canadian isolation instead of Wisconsin's own Northern Highland State Forest. It didn't hurt either that at morning's end, a handful of fat perch and a lone, plump pike did head home with us destined for a skillet rendezvous. On Escanaba, the pain of walleye filet release is eased by no-bag and no-size limit regulations for other fish pleasing to the palette. For all species on Escanaba, there is also no season closure.

Escanaba is part of the Northern Highland Fishery Research Area (NHFRA). Formerly known as the Five Lakes Research Project, the NHFRA was established by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in 1946 to study the effects of angling on fish populations. There are five lakes in the NHFRA which have been continuously managed as experimental research waters including Escanaba (293 acres), Nebish (98 acres), Pallette (176 acres), Spruce (16.5 acres), and Mystery (16 acres).

According to an annual report on the project published by the state and picked up for this column at the DNR station during check-in, the lakes were chosen for research because they were typical of the different types of lakes in northeastern Wisconsin and because their location favored control of anglers by a compulsory permit system. Angler harvest on all five lakes has been continually monitored since project inception 62 years ago and is thought to be the longest such record of compulsory creel data in the world.

Escanaba is a 293 acre lake offering no bag or size limit for yellow perch, muskellunge, northern pike or smallmouth bass. Walleye, which for decades had also been a harvestable species without size or bag limits, changed to the one fish per day, 28-inch minimum regulation on May 3, 2003 according to the annual report.

"That really makes it a catch and release lake now for walleyes," said Dan Moericke. "For years they also had no size or bag for walleyes. They must have learned what they wanted to learn...or maybe they needed a federal grant...because they switched to no harvest on walleyes except on those biggest fish. It's not really the same as the fishing pressure received on other lakes because there is no shoreline development and you can't fish here at night. But the aesthetics are very nice and the fishing is good."

Indeed it is. After checking in at the DNR station, a mandatory exercise before launching and when checking out on each of the five lakes, we waited our turn at the Escanaba landing. Another boat with anglers looking for any fish that would cooperate, two musky fishermen, and a guide leading clients put in before us. The musky anglers said the fishing for the Wisconsin King is very good on Escanaba, with 45 and 46 inch fish caught and released from their boat in 2007. Musky season also doesn't close on the experimental lake and harvest unrestricted although musky anglers would rather give mouth to mouth to a fish than keep one.

Action was immediate and stayed fast over the lake's lone weedbed. Fat walleyes to 17 inches, impressive perch, pike and a smallmouth kept the angler's rods and my camera busy in erratic weather with high winds. Dan Moericke, who has fished Escanaba periodically for two decades, would have preferred to work familiar structure seeing close attention from the guide, but minded his fisherman's manners and kept our boat at a more than respectable distance. A Bald Eagle, Great Blue Heron and a trio of not at all shy loons added to the setting. In addition to catching fish, as new friends we had time to simply shoot the Wisconsin fisherman's bull.

Roommates Steve Moericke and Dan Platta are recent high honors graduates of UW-Eau Claire, where Platta earned triple degrees in accounting, finance and economics and Moericke earned a finance degree. They also took learning the Chippewa River to another "degree", and with a lot of time on the water and non-classroom related sweat gained considerable expertise on that Wisconsin vein in close proximity to campus.

"I have been fishing with Dad since I was one or two," said Steve Moericke. "You get to college and you begin to do things on your own. I met Dan and we started figuring out the Chippewa. We both worked at Outdoor Rec on campus. Our manager grew up on the Chip and he really helped us learn how to fish it."

Because of the diversity and number of fish, Dan Platta said that fishing the Chippewa was like playing the lottery. "You throw your line out there and you never know what's going to be hitting."

Both students are already entering the real world and its real work. Not at all to be confused with the "reel" world that lakes like Escanaba offer. It didn't hurt at all to wallow for a morning in that world with someone like Dan Moericke leading the way. He's good on the water, and his expertise at finding and catching fish was born simply with a love for fishing. By the time we headed in, this reporter had been given more fish photo opportunities in two hours than might come in a more normal week.

At check out, our perch and pike harvest added to the ongoing, hefty creel census data being compiled year after year by the DNR. According to the NHFRA most recent annual report covering April 16, 2006 through April 16, 2007 yellow perch continue to make up the bulk of the harvest from Escanaba with an annual long-term average yellow perch harvest of 3,282. No walleyes were harvested as expected during that time period, with 20 pike, three muskies, 70 smallmouth and four largemouth taken home.

Overall during that one year time period, a total of 3,704 anglers fished a total of 12,054 hours on the NHFRA lakes. The large majority of anglers were Wisconsin residents. To find the research lakes in the Northern Highland State Forest, take Highway M four miles south from Boulder Junction. Turn left at Nebish Road and continue approximately five miles. Follow lake signs.

Gonring returns for second inning

By Pat Neumuth

Let's take a stroll down memory lane back to the year 1993 when gas prices were $1.06 per gallon, Bill Clinton is inaugurated as president, the Buffalo Bills lose the Super Bowl (for the third consecutive year) to the Cowboys, Rodney King sues the LAPD, John Paxson hits a three-pointer to seal the Bulls first three-peat and Doug Gonring is the head coach for the Kewaskum High School baseball team.

Fast-forward fifteen years to the present and Gonring is back managing the Indians baseball team.

After the one year in 1993 as Kewaskum's head coach, Gonring coached 15 years at West Bend East. Gonring coached the Suns to three state tournament appearances, winning the championship in 1999 and 2002.

What Gonring loves about baseball are the games within the game, "There's the game between the other team, the pitcher catcher game," Gonring said. "It's how much knowledge you can teach the kids to think out those things. It teaches a lot about life."

Gonring grew up around baseball and baseball was a major part of his early life. He said his dad and grandpa were the driving forces to get him into baseball. His grandpa has a park named after him in West Bend, Roman "Doc" Gonring Athletic Complex. Gonring would help out his grandpa, with his siblings, by raking the fields.

Gonring's playing background started with his grandpa's softball program.

"Softball taught me how to play hardball," Gonring said about playing against older guys at the age of 12. "There is an actual action to be played in every softball game. Baseball can be dominated by a pitcher."

He said his dad threw an unbelievable amount of balls to him. This was before they had batting cages or L-screens, so after a bucket of balls he would have to go shag the balls.

Gonring's playing career had successes to go along with some trials and tribulations. He caught for East for three years on the varsity level, which earned him a scholarship to Arkansas. A career at Arkansas was short lived because of a knee and shoulder operation.

After he sat out a year with his medical problems, he transferred to Indian Hills Community College in Iowa. Gonring then transferred to Florida Atlantic University where he played third base and catcher. FAU's first baseball coach Steve Traylor has been quoted to say Gonring is one of the program's greatest run producers.

On Feb. 21, Gonring was inducted into FAU's baseball hall of fame.

Gonring's stellar collegiate career landed him into the majors where he played in the Toronto Blue Jays and Houston Astros organizations.

"I was more of a utility guy, I could play a little of everything," Gonring said about his pro career. "I wasn't gifted athletically like those players were, like one of my old roommates Ken Caminiti, but I was there because I was smart enough to play the game, compete and make guys think."

Coaching high school baseball is what he likes and where he wants to stay. He said in college you hear too many people saying "no" in the recruiting aspect. He likes the fact that in high school you get the kids you are given.

"Kids come out to play and you mold what you get," Gonring said.

Gonring and his wife, Karen, have been married for 19 years and currently reside in Kewaskum. His daughter Lauren, 16, was all-conference as a sophomore on the Kewaskum High School volleyball team and Tony, 14, will be a freshman next year.

In his spare time, Gonring likes to hunt, golf and ride his Harley.
