Indians grapplers are EWC conference CHAMPS

Nathan Seitz applies pressure on Payden Salm during a meet against Kewaskum Indian rivals, the Campbellsport Cougars. Seitz went on to defeat Salm 8-0 while both students sections had a war of words. The end of the meet saw the Indians over the Cougars 44-18. The Indians are this year's Eastern Wisconsin Conference champs. The EWC tourney will take the Indians to Kiel on Saturday with a match set to begin at 10 a.m.

Town to decide in February on how to proceed with Stern cleanup

By Andrew Kuehl

KEWASKUM- What could possibly be referred to as a local soap opera may soon be in its final episode. During a special meeting on Monday, February 2, town officials met with their special legal counsel and the Wisconsin Department of Transportation to abate what the town considers a nuisance.

Abating the perceived nuisance comes at a price of about $35,000 and town officials are a bit leery to dip into their savings to clean up the mess. Especially since their last cleaning job hasn't been paid for

At their February 16 meeting the town will listen to the public and vote on whether or not to take legal action in cleaning up the property

Don's Auto Salvage initially came under close scrutiny two years ago as the town was trying to address certain parcels of land that were not in compliance with town zoning code. The property, owned by Donald and June (Sandy) Stern at 3350 E Moraine Drive, is the second to be facing a forced clean up.

A parcel of land owned by Wilmer Schmidt was cleaned up in 2005 for around $20,000. According to Town Treasurer Dan Stoffel, that money has not been placed back in town coffers, but remains as a special assessment to Schmidt's property. Schmidt contests that workers removed valuable farm machinery and the town owes him more than twice that amount.

Five residents, many adjacent homeowner's to the Stern property, were in attendance Monday as well as the Sterns and Kim McCluskey, an investigator with the Wisconsin Department of Transportation in Madi-

In April of 2005 the Sterns and their neighbors, David and Darlene Stern, were ordered to bring their properties up to town zoning standards. After the town started issuing citations and pursuing legal action, David and Darlene complied with the town's orders and it is confirmed David and Darlene's property is in accordance with town code.

Wanting to maintain and continue his currently illegal salvage op-eration legally, Donald Stern began the process of getting his property in line. In 2007 a letter from McCluskey stated that an inspection by herself found Stern to be operating illegally. Through his business Stern main

McMahon gets another village engineering project

By Kimberly Adams

McMahon Associates of Neenah was awarded A Village of Kewaskum engineering and design contract to perform the Hillside Drive and Habeck Street water and sewer replacements proposed for this sum-

Village Trustees unanimously voted to go with the firm that underbid the competition by nearly $10,000. The McMahon bid came in at $19,900 for the entire project while the Ruekert-Mielke Engineering firm of Waukesha bid the project at almost $30,000.

Village Trustee Kevin Scheun-emann asked the Village Engineer Andy Petersen, who represents Ruekert-Mielke, to justify what his firm is doing that's worth $10 thousand more than McMahon's offer.

Petersen looked through the two proposals, he indicated. The two services each are providing parallel each other with the exception that his firm is modeling the Village's water main system. Petersen also thought the McMahon proposal was not clear whether they were going to provide construction staking in the curb & gutter on the east side of Hillside Drive. He also mentioned that the curb and gutter would likely be completely removed in during the work progress. Derek Peterson, representing the Village Board indicated that Ruekert-Mielke was proposing only one site visit during construction while the other firm is proposing three.

Local developer Gary Gavin congratulated the board for using another engineering firm. "Using someone other than what the Village currently has is quite a cost savings to the Village," he said. He then questioned why the village doesn't allow developers to also use less expensive engineering firms.

McMahon will immediately start the designing of the plans and draw out the specifications of the project. The plans will be presented back to the Village Board who will seek out contractor bids for the project. Public Works Director Jerry Gilles hopes the construction bid will be awarded by the end of March or early April.

tained a type four salvage license until July of 2008. This allowed him to transport vehicles to salvage yards and not keep them on his property.

The letter warned Stern that since he was operating as a type one operation (storing vehicles and maintaining a salvage yard) he would not be able to have his license renewed until the property was free of vehicles and parts.

It was at that same time the Department of Natural Resources became involved and through a letter told Stern his property was not in compliance with the hazardous waste management requirements set by the state. The DNR alleged that Stern was burning waste tires and house debris. They also found that debris was in the road right-of-way.

In May of 2007 Stern applied for and was denied a junk dealer license. From that point on work progressed on cleaning out debris from the property and an extension of time was granted so that work could continue.

During that extension the town granted the Sterns a Conditional Use Permit (CUP) on December 21, 2007. That allowed the Sterns to continue clean up and gave them a number of conditions that needed to be followed to keep the permit in place. Clerk Nancy Boden explained that daily town citations that were issued to Donald and Sandra were dismissed at the time the CUP was applied for as a good faith effort from the town to get the property up to code.

In December, a year after the CUP was granted the town revoked the permit upon its review

In January, Sandy Stern told the board, "We are cleaning up to organize for a re-application of a conditional use, there is no clean-out it's a clean-up. It is our intent to reapply for a conditional use. We must submit the entire package, so from our standing we are reorganizing and will continue to remove from that yard to reorganize for our application." It was mentioned the Sterns would be scaling down their operation.

On Monday, McCluskey gave the board information from the state's perspective. She explained the DOT's laws are separate from town ordinances. She confirmed that Don's Auto Salavage was issued the type four license, which only allowed him to transport vehicles from the vehicle's original location to a licensed auto recycler, not to store vehicles on his property.

To continue the way he has been running his business, Stern would be required to hold a type one permit from the DOT. This permit allows for the storage and transportation of vehicles as well as the ability to dismantle and sell parts to consumers.

She also confirmed that during an inspection in May of 2007 she informed Stern the property needed to be cleaned up or he would need to apply for the correct type of license. However, to be granted a type one license, the land would need to be zoned appropriately by the town.

"Almost two years ago I requested the Sterns to remove the vehicles from the property. Their license expired in July of 2008. It has not been renewed and will not be renewed. We are sitting at a point where we have vehicles sitting there and nothing can happen. It is my recommendation the vehicles be removed by a mobile recycler. They (the mobile recycler) go on site. There is no license and it doesn't appear there will be. He had the opportunity when he had the license to remove these vehicles," McCluskey stip-

McCluskey also indicated that under state statues Stern could be penalized with daily fines of $500 to $5,000. Under extreme circumstances even imprisonment could be involved. "This is criminal action," she stated.

Attorney James Danaher stated, "We are back to square one where we were five years ago. You have a salvage yard in the town against the zoning code which is deemed a nuisance." He explained if the town wanted to pursue legal action a resolution would need to be passed authorizing the town to take that action. The matter would then proceed to Washington County Circuit Court. The Sterns would then have 45 days to answer the lawsuit.

It was also noted the Sterns could contact a mobile recycler on their own and just correct the situation without going to Stoffel reported town finances would be affected if the town were to oversee the clean up. "Our reserve accounts could be used for this project. If emptied we would have $35,000 to work with, but that would deplete our reserves," he indicated. This option would allow for the town to continue all services without the budget being affected.

The money spent would be billed to the Stern's property as a special tax assessment. The first time the town could see the money again would be December of 2009. If not paid then, it would not become delinquent until September of 2010. But just like the Schmidt clean up, it could drag on for years.

Town chairman Ellis Kahn indicated after the meeting he thought it was critical to get input from town residents as to whether the town should take action. He encouraged town residents to attend the meeting in February.

Library renovation project ready to roll

By Kimberly Adams kimberly@kewaskumstatesman.com

A $77,000 Village of Kewaskum library renovation project will be underway within the next couple of months, Library Director Steev Baker reported to the Village Board at their meeting Monday February 2.

Baker gave a slide show presentation to Trustees and the general public in attendance, which featured an artist's rendering of the project. A large portion of the project - $57,000 – is being paid from the Wayland Tessar Fund.

Tessar was a long time active member of the Kewaskum community who passed away in 2007. County capital funds are covering $10,000 and $10,000 is coming out of Village coffers.

The primary reason for the renovation is to upgrade the storage of electronic media. It is being proposed to replace and upgrade the area occupied with reference material with electronic media. Baker reported that the reference section is not being utilized as it has been in the past due to the availability of Internet reference materials. The most actively used reference material in the library will remain.

The remodeled library will feature additional areas for those using wireless internet and new tables for better wheelchair accessibility to bring them into compliance with the Americans With Disabilities Act. The young adult collection will be expanded to better accommodate the eithth to 12th grade students.

The last part of the project will see Baker reduce his office's size and move to a different location within the library in order to make more space for the children's area, which will include floor mats, a larger story time area and special presentations.

Moore Construction Services of Menomonee Falls is overseeing the project.

Local banks vying to hold village's funds

By Kimberly Adams kimberly@kewaskumstatesman.com

Two local banks, one of which already holds accounts for the village of Kewaskum, are vying for the opportunity to do more business with the municipality by taking the place of the bank that has handled village funds since its incorporation in 1895.

Currently the village has their primary checking account with National City. This fall, National City was bought out by Pittsburgh's based PNC Bank.

was made public, village officials expressed concern over the stability of National City, due to the number of mergers the bank has been a part of in recent years and it's involvement in failed sub-prime lending. It was decided the village would immediately keep the bulk of their cash in the State Investment Pool at a lower interest rate.

The village has maintained a savings account at Westbury Bank (formerly West Bend Savings) and allows tax payments to be made at the bank. Westbury Bank indicated they primary checking account that interested in banks outand provide a better return on side of the community." their cash.

Commerce State Bank of West Bend made a presentation to the Administrative Committee during a November meeting. However, it is the mood of the committee to keep the village's finances within the village. "We are still interested in the Village supporting our two community banks," Village Administrator

Even before that purchase would like to hold the village's Matt Heiser said, "We're not

The administrative committee met this past Monday, February 2 shortly before the regular board meeting to discuss banking options. No final decision was made at that meeting.

There's competition between the two Kewaskum banks regarding the fees and interest they are offering, Heiser reported.

The current recession in the American economy has resulted in banks dropping interest rates. "The interest available to the Village in general has fallen to the floor," Heiser

"We're not going to make a lot of interest, as nobody is going to make a lot of interest in the next year," Heiser explained.

PNC was set to receive $7.7 Billion dollars in capital from the government which was part of the massive bailout plan.

Sunburst celebrates 25 years of snow fun

Sunburst constructed the new storage building shown above after a fire last year destroyed the former structure and some of the equipment inside.

By Patrick Neumuth

patrick@kewaskumstatesman

For a business that is open for only half a year and is weather conscious, Jim Engel said 25 years at Sunburst is a milestone.

"God has pleased us over the course of the years with good weather, good employees, good customers and allowed us to grow to a point where we can maintain ourselves and offer wholesome recreation in to the community," Engel said.

Saturday is the official 25year anniversary celebration. There are plenty of activities throughout the day on the

There is a costume contest for all of the customers and the employees will be in costume as well. Sunburst is holding a race in memory of one of their race coaches, Mike "Monk" Monkowski, who worked for Sunburst for many years. There will also be a scavenger hunt on the hill.

The celebration ends at nine at night with fireworks and an honorary parade.

Engel said Sunburst improves and builds every year. Over their 25 years in business the lodge has had multiple face-lifts. During the off-season, Engel said, much of the repairs to the hill are done.

These past two seasons have been great for Sunburst with all of the natural snow on the hill. Engel said people are going to think of skiing when there is snow on the ground.

It does not have to snow for the hill to be white. Sunburst usually opens the hill within the first two weeks of November. Engel said the goal is to open before Thanksgiving every year. Sunburst has added five new snowcannons to make snow quicker. Engel said there is no difference between snow from the sky and the snow from the snowcan-

"Snowmaking isn't even close to what it was 25 years ago. We have more pods, more snowmaking, more horsepower, more equipment on the hill," Engel said. "Probably 10 times what was available here 25 years ago."

Sunburst has recovered from last year's fire. There are new office, storage and ski patrol buildings. Engel said a lot of the records were kept in the buildings that burned. Sunburst had to replace some tools and spare parts lost in the fire as well.

"We were covered by insurance and we were able to recover most of that stuff, but there some stuff that can't be replaced," Engel said. rebuilt the buildings and changed them around, of course, because you try to improve as much as you can. We're moving forward."

Engel said it took about a year to recoup everything. The fire did not impact the hill

Sunburst employs over 400 people, most being parttime or seasonal. Engel said there are about six that work year round.

Sunburst has something special. It offers wholesome recreation to families. We have lesson programs for kids as early as three years old," Engel said about why to ski at Sunburst. "Our terrain park is probably one of the best in the state for the skiers and snowboards who like that type of freestyle. We've got 35 acres of land to ski on, so we are one of the bigger areas compared to some of the others in Milwau-

The slopes open at nine the morning for the 25year anniversary celebration. There is a makeup date of Feb. 14 for the 25-year anniversary if there is inclement weather. For more details go to skisunburst.com or call (262) 626-

Ladybug leader finds rewards in Hammen - Kusníck working with little folks

By Patrick Neumuth

Helping with the development of a child at a young age can take a lot of responsibility, especially if it is someone else's child. Nicole Pilotte, a teacher at Little Folks Schoolhouse, has handled that responsibility since Little Folks started caring for children during the summer of 1997

Assistant Director of Little Folks Jennifer Melzark, said Pilotte is a model employee. Dependable, patient, a lovely smile and the ability to get down on the kids' level are all traits Pilotte exudes while teaching.

Pilotte has taught children from six weeks old to 12. For the last two and a half years, Pilotte has been the lead teacher for one-year-olds in the Ladybug room at Little Folks.

"It's very rewarding. Everyday there's something new or somebody's learning a new word and they just come pick up on it right out of the blue." Pilotte said about working with one-year-olds. "A lot of times you'll catch them just learning how to walk and you'll see it right in their faces. They are lighting up like they just realized they are able to do something."

Pilotte and another teacher work together with about eight kids at one time. Pilotte said the children learn a lot by just playing. They learn how interact with each other at an early age and Pilotte said she can see the improvement in the children's social skills.

All children act up from time to time, but Pilotte has experience on how to "discipline" effectively.

"A lot of it is redirecting. If they are throwing or doing something that may hurt another child we do tell them, 'No throwing,' and we go to the other child and show them to be nice to our friends," Pilotte said. "If it continues a lot of the times we will correct them and then we will move them to a different situation.

'Maybe if they are throwing blocks, we will do story time with them, or try and do color cards. Little by little, they will understand it is more fun to stack blocks rather than throw them."

Pilotte said it rarely happens and the children usually play well with each other.

Melzark said a lot of the times she walks past Pilotte's classroom, she hears the children enjoying themselves. She said the kids' behavior really reflects on the teacher.

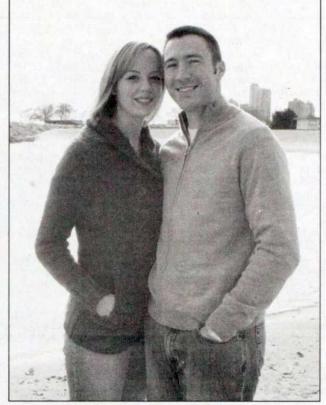

During the winter months, much of the fun stays indoors. Pilotte said the children enjoy going outside when it is warm. Little Folks has four seat strollers to push the kids around town. When the kids venture out they learn new sights, sounds and smells.

'She's seen us grow from a two classroom center to a center now with five classrooms and three after school programs," Melzark said. "She's been here the whole way, not only to see the families grow, but to see the business grow too. She's been a big part of or $3,000 cash. That is the grand prize for the 28th annual Jig with the Green Pig raffle being held to benefit The Threshold Incorporated, the Washington County agency that for the past 45 years has created opportunities for individuals with disabilities to lead fulfilling lives.

What started out as a one tavern fundraiser on behalf of Threshold has become a county event where thirty pubs, retailers and sponsors compete for prizes by selling the most tickets. The winning establishment owner wins a getaway at a fine bed and breakfast as well as the honor of displaying the travelling Green Pig trophy at their business. The bartender who sells the most tickets at each pub receives a great loge ticket for a 2009 Brewer game.

In the past 28 years over $150,000 has been raised to support the agencies' programs. The 2009 goal is $30,000. Tom Bergerud, Executive Director of the Threshold said, "We need to raise cash each year to offer

The Jig Raffle is one of the real fun events that engages the entire community. The prizes are great and the chance to win isn't too bad."

Besides the trip or cash, other prizes include: a trip for four to a Norte Dame Football game; opening day tickets to the Brewers vs. Cubs game; a whole dressed pig; golf outings at Wisconsin's finest golf clubs and many cash prizes. All told there are over 45 quality prizes.

Tickets are available now through St. Patrick's Day at any of the 30 participated pubs and retailers located throughout the county, on the Threshold website and at participating sponsors offices. Tickets are $5 each or 3 for $10 and 7 for $20. For detailed information and a list of all prizes and all participating retailers, visit www.thresholdinc.org.

Doreen Buntrock and Melinda Buckbinder, co-chairs of this year's raffle have been spreading the word, "You can't win it if you ain't in it!"

Landscaping with Native Wildflowers

Evening with Nature Series at the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit is "Landscaping with Native Wildflowers." The program will be held on Thursday, February 12, from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Henry S. Reuss Ice Age Visitor Center. The Ice Age Visitor Center is located off of Hwy 67 half mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accept-

Are you tired of having to water and fertilize your flowers to make them really bloom? Instead of planting all those exotic flowers, shrubs and trees, go native. Our Wisconsin native spe-

The next program in the cies are adapted to the state's climate and soils. Thus, they require less maintenance than other non-native species. Besides, they possess their own unique splendor. Join us we explore a wide variety of native wildflowers from the ones that are adapted to survive in full sun light to those that will thrive in the shadiest areas of your yard. Techniques will be shared to help you to establish and maintain native wildflower gardens.

Our presenter for the evening is Connie Ramthun, the owner of Kettle Moraine Natural Landscaping, which specializes in local ecotype seed mixes for southeastern Wisconsin. Connie has been helping people for the past 25 years establish and maintain native flower gardens and prairie restorations. She has a vast knowledge of Wisconsin's native flora and loves to share her knowledge with others. Escape the winter cold for an evening of dreaming of warmer weather and learning how to bring the beauty of native wildflowers to your yard.

For further information or directions to the Ice Age Visitor Center, please contact a staff member at (920) 533-8322. The Ice Age Visitor Center winter hours are Wednesday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Sunday from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Sweet Surprises

(Family Features) Kidfriendly desserts don't have to be loaded with unhealthy ingredients and guilt. With some creative choices, it's possible to make sweets that are surprisingly good - and guilt-free.

PBS-TV Chef Jim Coleman, the host of the "Healthy Flavors" cooking show, recommends using all-natural Nasoya Wrappers. The fresh pasta wrappers are only 27 calories each, have no MSG or trans fats, are a good source of iron, and contain six to eight grams of protein per serving. They're also a great way to get kids involved in the kitchen.

Chef Jim said, "Kids love to cut out shapes from the wrappers, or stack them in layers. They create 'purses' and 'twists' and fill them with everything from peanut butter to marmalade. Helping kids like to cook helps them develop healthy eating habits."

The versatile wrappers can be used instead of highfat pie shells for mini-quiches or chocolate mousse tarts. They can be made into cups and filled with anything sweet or sayory.

To tickle kids' taste buds, have them help make sweet treats such as Apple Cinnamon Rolls or Cherry Wonton Fritters. They can mix and fill, while an adult handles the cooking.

Chocolate Mousse Pillows are a delicious dessert for kids and adults. They're so mouthwateringly good, no one will ever guess the secret ingredient! They're truly a sweet surprise.

For more information and recipes, visit nasoya.com.

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE PILLOWS

Recipe provided by Maribeth Abrams, author of "Tofu 1-2-3," now available on-line. Makes 24 Pillows

1/2 package Nasoya Silken tofu

3/4 cup semisweet chocolate chips, melted (see note) 1/4 cup liquid sweetener (agave nectar, pure maple syrup or honey) 1 teaspoon vanilla extract 1/2 package Nasoya Won Ton wrappers

Spray vegetable oil

Put tofu in food processor and blend until completely smooth, about 2 minutes. Add melted chocolate chips, sweetener, and vanilla extract, process until well blended, refrigerate for at least 2 hours.

Spray a wonton wrapper with vegetable oil. Place 1 teaspoon filling in center of wrapper. Moisten edges with water, fold into a triangle shape and then press to seal. Repeat. Place on a baking sheet that has been sprayed with oil.

Lightly spray tops of filled wonton wrappers with oil and bake in 375°F oven for 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned er's sugar and drizzle with melted chocolate if desired.

Note: Melt chocolate chips in a double-boiler, stirring constantly to prevent burning, or in the microwave, on the defrost setting for approximately 3 minutes, stopping to stir at least once.

Ghost Radio

by Leopoldo Grout

William Morrow $25.95 353 pages

If you could make a living doing anything you wanted, what would you do?

Maybe you'd let your imagination run wild and do something nobody ever thought could make money. Perhaps you'd go for a beloved hobby; after all, it's been said that he who loves his job never works a day in his life. Or maybe you'd just do whatever it is you do now, content with the way things are.

Whatever your "dream job" is, be careful what you wish for.

In the novel "Ghost Radio" by Leopoldo Gout, a young man finds the job he was meant to do. And then the demons in his background find him.

When sixteen-year-old Joachin was involved in a Houston car accident that killed almost his entire family, he barely grieved. Everything seemed so surreal: the crash, The Dead Kennedys song running through his head, the other boy who lived through the accident and who hummed that song

When Joachin woke up in the hospital, the boy was wait-

Being in wheelchairs and badly injured together, Joachin and Gabriel became best friends. They were hospital troublemakers together, wheelchair racers and dreamers of the music they'd someday make.

When they finally were able to pull together a band, they were overjoyed to find fans for their death-music. They were so popular, in fact, that when Gabriel found an old, abandoned radio station just across the border in Mexico, the boys broke in and started to broadcast illegally, just for the fans.

Joachin could barely think about that chaotic night: vicious guard dogs, donuts and a beautiful girl they both wanted, fans thinking the electrical surge that killed Gabriel was part of a song. When the police arrived, Joachin was near death and the girl was long gone.

But that was all in the past. Now Joachin had a job he was inspired to do back when he was in the hospital. Ghost Radio was a night-time call-in program that featured "true" stories of the strange and paranormal. Ultra-hip Joachin was the host; his girlfriend, Alondra, his producer.

Lately, though, something was wrong. Someone kept calling Joachin on the air and at home, and the caller knew too much. Reality was often altered. People who were dead were alive and people who were alive, didn't exist. Alondra wondered if Joachin was having a vivid dream.

Joachin wondered that, too. It was all too weird.

And then the phone rang...

Author Leopoldo Gout layers creepiness upon spookiness and broadcasts a good amount of unease over his story until you – like his main character, Joachin – aren't sure what's real and what's imagined. That will leave you with a nice unsettled feeling and a long wary look at the clock-radio near your bed.

"Ghost Radio" is Gout's first novel and I can't wait for his next. If you want a book that will scare you good, tune into James C. Aupperle, 22, of rural Kewaskum, died Saturday, January 14, at Froedtert Memorial Lutheran Hospital in Milwaukee of injuries he received January 8, when his snowmobile ran into a tree in the Town of Auburn. Aupperle was one of two snowmobilers riding machines along a marked snowmobile trail that runs between Auburn-Ashford Drive and Youth Camp Road in the town of Auburn, Fond du Lac County. Sheriff's officials said Aupperle apparently failed to negotiate a curve and struck two trees. He was the son of James R. and Carol (Kreif) Aupperle.

The Kewaskum girls gymnasts team won convincingly over Valders here last Thursday night. The Indians' Sandy Nigh set a school record of 7.8 with her performance on the uneven parallel bars. Nigh, Wendy Wilson and Dolly Swenson, the only three seniors on the team, all scored well before a Parents Night crowd. Sandy and Wendy did a find job on the bars.

Byron and Sharon Gessner and Susan and Wayne Gerlach of Kewaskum and Cascade, recently attended a Young Couples Conference focusing on the role of farmers, farm organizations and cooperatives in protecting the family farm, boosting the farm economy and enhancing the rural quality of life.

A daughter, Amanda Sue, was born to Thomas and Sandra Gudex, Campbellsport, on January 9. A daughter, Courtney Lynn, was born to Gale and Ruth Bohlman, Campbellsport, on January 6. A daughter was also born to Ricky and Lorraine Maske, Kewaskum, on January 9.

A call at 2:55 pm last Thursday, took the fire department to the Gérald Stoffel farm home on Highway 28 west of Kewaskum where a mattress in an upstairs bedroom caught fire. The blaze was believed to have been caused by an electric light on the bed.

Ann Koerble, who will soon be three years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Koerble of Kewaskum, suffered second and third degree burns on her back and arms when a vaporizer in the bedroom of her home broke around 1:30 am on January 4 and the boiling water spilled over her. The burns covered about one-third of her body.

Pfc. Eddie Backus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Backus, Kewaskum, who was stationed at La Rochelle, France, and Beirut, Lebanon arrived home last Thursday. Pfc. Backus received his separation from the army after serving two years.

A son, Mark William, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller, of Apple Valley, California, on January 6. The Millers are former residents of Kewaskum. She is the former Pearl Hron. The Millers also have two daughters, Connie and Candy.

A son, James Michael, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Loomis of Milwaukee on December 18. They have two other children. She is the former Jeanette Krueger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krueger, Kewaskum.

A son was also born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Perkins, Kewaskum, on January 9.

Last Saturday morning Marshal G.F. Brandt brought forth the news that all indications point to an early spring, as he not only heard the chirping of a robin, but also saw the bird. His story was corroborated by Emil Ramel, who also heard and saw the bird. This is about the earliest that anyone in this community ever reported having seen a robin.

Schaefer Bros. last week delivered a V-8 Ford Truck to the Kewaskum Creamery. This truck will be used by the company for transporting milk and cream to Chicago.

KYB has another great weekend on the court

Kewaskum fourth grade Girls White team came up short against a tough Oakfield team by a score of 9-8.

The Indians started out slow, but their defense kept them within striking distance of the Oaks. They finally got their offense going in the fourth quarter, but time ran out, giving them only their second loss of the season.

The Kewaskum fourth grade Girls Green team had two games last week. In their first they pulled out an exciting double overtime win over Campbellsport in front of a packed house at Kewaskum Middle School. The final score was 12-10.

Meckenzie Lehn, Anja Smith and Mikayla Dogs led the Indians in scoring, while Nichole Casey played excellent defense.

In their second game they lost to North Fond du Lac, Breanna Trepes and Rachel Holt did a great job on the boards. Adrienne Adornato and Kaitlyn Gaudynski played solid defense. Mikaela Leitheiser played a great allaround game.

The fifth grade boys defeated Campbellsport by a score of 37-15 thanks to excellent defense by Sam Schlosser, Gavin Schreier and Jason

The Indians' defense did a great job of keeping Campbellsport from getting into their offense. The Indians had a balanced scoring attack lead by Michael Prochnow and Josh Baker.

Indians prevail on Senior Night

By Pat Neumuth Statesman Sports Editor

patrick@kewaskumstatesman.com

Synonymous with slow starts, the Indians started Tuesday night's game with a 17-1 run against Kiel, only for the game to come down to the wire, but the Indians held on for a 47-44.

[We] started out strong, finally," Indians head coach Russell Thull said after the game. 'We kind of went into a funk. We came back in the second half and rebounded. That's all I can ask for."

The Indians scored nine points before the Raiders made one of two free throws, three minutes, 43 seconds into the game. Elissa Miller had eight first quarter points for the Indi-

"We kind of talked in the locker room how we were going to just play our game because sometimes we try to hard and think and run through plays. We just wanted to play our game and do it for the seniors," senior Nicole Kison said about the 18-8 first quarter start.

The second quarter was a different story. After Miller put in a bucket, the Raiders went on a 12-0 run to tie the game at 20. Anna Butler broke the tie with a deuce in the lane. Mikayla Preissner tied the game back up on the Raiders' next possession and put them ahead, making one of two on double bonus throws after Haley Rauch fouled her with 39 seconds left.

Thull said the 13 first half fouls attributed to the Kiel second quarter comeback. The Raiders shot 11-for-16 from the free throw line in the first half. They were in the bonus in the first quarter. Thull said the game slowed down because of the fouls and hurt the Indians pressure defense.

The Indians trailed 23-22 at the half.

The Indians did not regain the lead until two minutes left in the third quarter. Butler put in a basket to give the Indians a 30-29 lead.

The quarter ended with Miller and Butler converting defense to offense. Butler got a steal during the full-court She missed the shot, but Miller was able to clean it up with an offensive rebound and put back. Then Miller got a steal and passed it to Butler for hit a three. The Raiders fouled a layup. The lead was 36-33 for the Indians entering the final Rauch started the fourth with a three-pointer from the top of the key that hit every part of the rim before it dropped.

Senior Jennie Wicklund made both free throws on the one-and-one situation to put the Indians up 45-38 with one minute, 28 seconds left in the game. The Raiders came back down the floor and Jess Genke

Butler quickly and she missed the first free throw on the bo-

Becky Schneider got deep under the hoop and made the hoop with the harm. Schneider made the free throw and the Indian lead was 45-44 with 31 seconds left. The Indians pushed the ball up the court quickly to Jenna Buker to extend lead back to three.

The Raiders called a timeout to set up the last play for the attempt to tie it up. The Raiders got it out to their best shooter, Genke, but the pass was wild and Genke threw the ball away underneath the hoop to end the

Thull said he told the team to extend their pressure on the perimeter and not let the Raiders get off an uncontested three pointer

"It felt really good. I was hoping to get a win tonight. I knew we could and it makes it better that it was senior night," Kison said.

The team prepared a speech before the game to acknowledge seniors Kison and Wicklund. Thull said it means a lot about these two girls stuck with the program with all of the coaching changes.

The Indians travel to Sheboygan Falls for their next EWC game. Game starts at 7:30 p.m.

Kewaskum had no answer for Waupun or their leading scorer, Austin Armga, Friday night as the Warriors easily beat the Indians 72-41.

"They are a good team, a very good team. A tough match up for us," Indian head coach Bobby Bannasch said. "They did a good job of improving on where we were with these guys, but obviously as you can see we have things to work on."

Armga led the way for the Warriors putting up 28 points on the Indians. Cory Nickel also had a nice game with 16 points. Nickel made four of the Warriors' seven three pointers on the night.

"He can shoot from the outside, he's quick, he has great athleticism. Our game plan was to stop him, basically from penetration," Bannasch about trying to stop Armga.

The Indians had a 10-point deficit at the two minute, 23 second mark when Derrick Winterhack converted on a three-point play. Armga added insult to injury when he stole the ball near mid court and two-hand slammed it for the dunk about a minute later.

After the first quarter the Indians dug themselves a 23-9 hole.

"We were supposed to be switching the entire game and there were a lot of times where we broke down and people didn't switch. Our defensive rotations were slow at times,"

The Warriors started the second quarter with a 6-0 run. Armga made the score 34-14 just under midway in the second with a jumper. The Indians' Brandon Conroy came back down the court to connect on his only three of the Conroy finished off the first half with a drive to the lane and scoring with 31 seconds to give the Indians a 4121 deficit into the half.

The second half fared the same as the first for the Indians. The Warrior quickness led to fast break points, Indian turnovers and foul troubles.

Waupun had a 63-32 cushion going into the fourth quarter. The Warriors emptied their bench with five minutes left in the game. Both teams scored nine fourth quarter points.

Conroy led the Indians again in points with 14. Bannasch said he needs to see more scoring from the supporting cast. Brian Backhaus scored six for the Indians.

Bannasch said Backhaus has been shooting the ball good from beyond the arc, but it needs to come more consistently. Bannasch also said he would like to see 6-foot-7 Travis Williams get more active and score more in the front

The Indians are at home tonight against Sheboygan Falls (4-3,7-4) for a 7:30 p.m. tip time.

Indians tame Cougars, earn EWC Championship

By Pat Neumuth Statesman Sports Editor

patrick@kewaskumstatesman.com

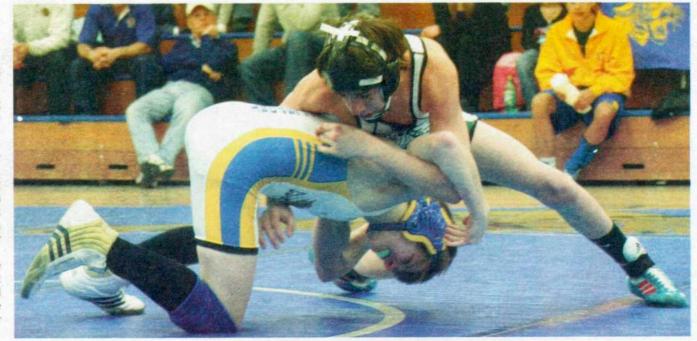

The Indians completed an undefeated EWC dual season with a 44-18 drumming of Campbellsport to earn the honors of conference champions last Thursday night.

"It's always one of our goals every year to win it. These guys especially set that out after winning three years ago and losing it to Falls [last year]," Indians head coach Dennis Aupperle said. "Our goal was to get this back."

There was a lot on the line comingintotheCampbellsport match. Aupperle said he did not have to say much to the team to get them riled up for their biggest rival.

"Falls, it's a different rivalry. Here, the kids know each other, so it's exciting for them," Aupperle said about the Indian-Cougar rivalry.

The night began with a delay. Campbellsport had to make up their match against Plymouth before they could hit the mat against the Indians. Aupperle said he was not sure if the Cougars wrestling in another match were an advantage or disadvantage.

Aupperle said sometimes it takes one match to get into a nice flow, but Aupperle noticed it did not seem like that. The Indians were up in the Cougar practice area while the Cougars and Panthers were

The night started off with the return of Eric Turowski. Turowski was sidelined with a shoulder injury. He looked tired throughout the match. He and opponent Jared Lindsley were tied at five after the first round, but Lindsley edged him out with a 10-8 decision.

The Seibel brothers completely dominated in their matches. Cody (189) and Bo (140) both earned technical falls.

Bo held Bryan Kohlmann scoreless as the official stopped the match at four minutes, 20 seconds when his three-point near fall gave him 15 points.

Cody put up 18 points on Zach Wetzel in their match. Seibel threw Wetzel to the mat on a two-point takedown when the official stopped the match at four minutes, five

Kewaskum got pins from P.J. Krueger (285) and Jared

Koffke (112), but Matt Buker's pin at 215 was noticeably impressive.

"Not good at all," Buker said about the ankle he rolled the previous weekend. guess that since I'm a senior you got to do what you got to Buker was noticeably limping during warm ups and during the match. Buker is the team's 285-pounder, but Aupperle knew Buker could get the pin at 215 and was not sure about getting a pin at 285.

Buker also knew that he could get a pin at 215. Buker said: "I thought I could, [Luke Koffman] is a first year wres-

Buker got a two-point takedown early in the first round and rode Koffman on the ground until he was able to put his shoulders to the mat. Buker got the pin in 42

All of the action was not done on the mat. The two schools' student sections were in verbal chanting wars during the matches between Indian Nathan Seitz and Cougar Payden Salm and Indian Ray Wollner and Cougar Anthony

Seitz and Wollner were victors in those matches winning an 8-0 major decision and an 11-4 decision, respec-

"They're a little tired, I might give them tomorrow off, but come back Monday and shorten the time we practice and pick up the intensity," Aupperle said after the meet.

Next up for the Indians on the mat is the EWC tournament in Kiel on Saturday. The meet starts and 10 in the morning and finals will begin at about 3:45 p.m.
