School tax to climb 55¢ from 2008

By Mitch Maersch

KEWASKUM- Kewaskum School District residents could see a 55-cent increase in their mill rate, if property values stay flat.

District Business Manager Paul Reichert told Monday night's annual meeting crowd of about 25 the mill rate could climb from $8.14 to $8.69 per $1,000 of equalized value.

That translates to the owner of a $175,000 home would pay $1,520.75 in school taxes, up from last year's $1,424.50. The owner of a $125,000 home would pay $1,086.25, up from last year's $1,017.50.

Reichert said projections are for property values to grow by less than 1 percent, so he figured zero. Final numbers will arrive in October from the state Department of Public Instruction. Should property values rise, the rate will decrease.

Stagnant property values are a representation of what's happened in the real estate market the past several months, as between 2004 and 2007 the district's property saw double-digit percentage growth.

Other contributing factors to the projected rate increase are a 3-percent budget increase and a tiny increase in state aid - $60,000, Reichert said.

Kewaskum's budget for the 2009-10 school year is $20,587,285, up $633,148 - or 3.17 percent - from last year's budget of $19,954,137.

2009-'10 budget increases $633,148

None of the increase came from School Board salaries. In fact, board members are taking a 10-percent pay cut they suggested themselves in April. District residents at the annual meeting unanimously approved the new salaries of $3,150, down from $3,500.

Last year's budget ended with a surplus of $377,291, all of which went into fund balance, the district's savings account for emergencies, cash flow and special projects. The fund balance now stands at $2.1 million, or 10.2 percent of the operating budget. The School Board's goal is for fund balance to be 15 percent of the budget and not fall below 10 per-

Staffing costs are up about $100,000 through $248,000 of increases and $149,000 in reductions.

Increases include hiring two elementary school Spanish teachers as Kewaskum will require a foreign language in the early grades. One special education teacher was added, and the new Career Academy, or alternative high school, picked up a half-time position.

Reductions include eliminating the middle school German teaching position as the district will only teach Spanish through eighth grade, a teacher retirement and replacement at a lower salary and reducing support staff hours.

Superintendent Michael Krumm provided a review of the past year and preview of the next. Now in his third year at the district, Krumm told what he thinks is the key to educa-

"It's putting teachers with kids in the best possible situation you can," he said.

Improving schools, he said, basically means improving the faculty. He emphasized creative teaching and professionalism - adhering to principles of education.

To that end, Krumm described Kewaskum University. Through a partnership with Viterbo University, members of the Kewaskum faculty receive advanced graduate credits for classes on site that has a direct impact on students. Seventy percent of the Kewaskum faculty have a master's degree or higher.

"This is a major advantage we have and we're very proud of that," Krumm said.

Other district initiatives and highlights include:

Character education, started last fall. Staff and local clergy developed a list of attributes to teach to children, including respect, responsibility, self-discipline, caring, integrity, leadership, cooperation, citizen-

A preliminary investigation indicates a vehicle driven by Tyler Batzler was traveling south on Highway 45 when it entered the east ditch striking a culvert that caused the vehicle to overturn, partially ejecting the operator of the vehicle.

Batlzer was the lone occupant of the vehicle. He was pronounced deceased at the scene.

The accident remains under investigation by the Fond du Lac County Sheriff's Office. It is unknown what factors played a role in the crash.

"Deputies at the scene stated there was no indication (of alcohol) and felt it was not a factor, however, I would not rule it out until after we get the toxicology reports from the Medical Examiner's office," stated Sheriff Mick Fink ship and reflection. "It's a work in progress," Krumm said of the effort.

-Bullying prevention. Bill Bond, principal at a high school in Kentucky during one of the nation's first school shootings spoke to the Kewaskum community, staff and students, and worked with entities on emergency preparedness. Every student, Krumm said, should come to school knowing they will be physically and psychologically safe.

-Independent reading. Students are encouraged to read for pleasure and to gain information outside of school. "This is a very critical area. Students cannot get good at reading unless they read," Krumm said.

-Standards. The faculty needs to know how to develop great standards, Krumm said.

-The fitness center. Kewaskum's athletic programs benefit, and the center serves as a community resource.

-Career Academy. A "rousing success," Krumm said Kewaskum's new alternative high school the academy opened last year with 32 juniors and seniors. This year, it will expand to sophomores and freshmen, serving up to 45 students. The academy has brought in students from other districts and students from the Kewaskum School District who didn't attend Kewaskum public schools, Krumm said.

-Central Administration. The Career Academy is held in the old administration building, and Kewaskum is renting space from Regal Ware for its administrative offices.

-Emergency preparedness. A realistic-like fire drill was held this year Kewaskum Elementary School complete with smoke, evacuating students to another building. The experience helped build relationships between those responding to the emergency the real key to success in those situations, Krumm said. "We learned a great deal by doing this ... so did the village," he said. A similar event will be held at Farmington Elementary this year.

-Community cooperation. A joint meeting between the School Board and Village Board was held in spring to foster more cooperation across the community.

In summary, Krumm said "I think our best years are ahead for Kewaskum."

Kewaskum Frozen Foods of Kewaskum was a winning bidder at the Wisconsin 4-H Foundation's 18th Annual Governor's Sweepstakes Meat Products Auction. As part of a bidding consortium, they co-purchased the Grand Champion Ham, produced by Haen Meat Packing, Inc. of Kaukauna, for a total price of $5,500. In addition, Kewaskum Frozen Foods contributed their signature Wisconsinshaped sausage, which sold for $1,000 to Daluge Travel of Madison.

The winning entries from the Wisconsin State Fair's Meat Products Show were donated to the Wisconsin 4-H Foundation's 18th Annual Governor's Sweepstakes Meat Products Auction to raise funds in support of 4-H youth throughout Wisconsin. The funds raised from the auction will be used for Wisconsin 4-H youth programs statewide benefiting all of the nearly 100,000 Wisconsin 4-H youth. The Auction was held on Tuesday evening, August 11th, at the Wisconsin State Fair and raised over $36,000 for 4-H, through bids, donations, and sponsorships.

A special moment of the auction was the recognition of a 30-year supporter of 4-H, and one of the founders of the auction, Henry Herdeman. The Wisconsin 4-H Foundation presented its highest honor, the President's Award in recognition of his outstanding service to 4-H. The award was presented to his family in memory of Henry, who passed away in November 2008.

A highlight of the auction was the special donation pledges for building 4-H Youth Leadership activities, raising $4,500 in just a few minutes. Fifteen auction participants pledged $300 each to help support one of Wisconsin 4-H's major goals, the development of leadership skills in our youth.

Chancellor of UW Colleges & UW-Extension David Wilson introduced Wisconsin Governor Jim Doyle. Governor Doyle welcomed the 180 meat processors, bidders and 4-H youth and emphasized the value of 4-H in Wisconsin before turning over the gavel to Auctioneers Gary Finley and Bob Johnson. Tim Talen, State 4-H Arts & Communications Specialist, was the announcer for the auction. Le-Roy Haeuser, Wisconsin 4-H Foundation Board President, received a $3,000 sponsorship check from the Wisconsin Association of Meat Processors (WAMP), presented by the President of WAMP, John Haen of Haen Meat Packing, Inc. in Kaukauna. Wayne holds August meeting

By Mitch Maersch

TOWN of WAYNE- Supervisors approved the sale of their old plow truck and found out the money received from the sale might go back into purchasing a new voting machine.

The 1992 plow truck will be purchased by Beck's Dairy Farms for $6,000.

The township received one other bid on the truck for $2,500.

"I think if we take it to the auction block, we'd be lucky to get $6,000," said Town Chairman Carl Klemme.

"A year ago or so it may have been different," said Supervisor Mike Samann, in reference to the economy.

Beck's Dairy Farms is a larger operation located in the Wayne has two newer plow trucks, 2004 and 2007 models.

The town is investigating the purchase of a new voting machine for next year and hopes to keep costs down by combining with other municipalities.

Replacement parts aren't available anymore for the town's 1995 machine, clerk Julie Kriewaldt told the Town Board last week. The cost of a new machine is $7,095 from Premier Election Solutions. Washington, Dodge and Ozaukee counties hope to ship machines together to keep costs down. Sending a company representative to train and test the machines costs $1,300 per day plus $400. The counties hope to divide that cost as well.

After the first year, licensing for the machine costs $84 per year, and maintenance costs $194.

The board did not take action on buying the machine. It will be part of next year's budget.

A little illegal target practice by a group of youth has forced the town to replace eight road signs.

Chairman Klemme said the Sheriff's Department called him at 4:30 a.m. a couple of weeks ago and said kids were shooting signs.

The replacement list included four stop signs, two road signs, one T intersection sign and one speed limit sign. The cost for the signs came to $382.05, but Klemme said that doesn't include labor.

Klemme said the town turned in the paperwork to its insurance company.

"We're hoping to catch the people and they can pay restitution," he said.

Seefeld family holds reunion

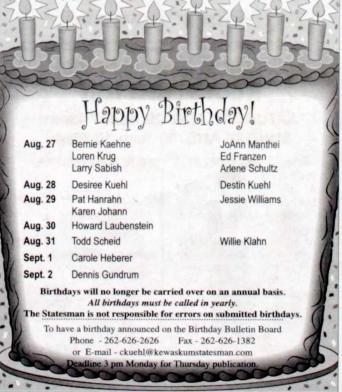

This July marked the 70th year that the descendants of Christian Friedrich Seefeld and Anna Sophia Kob have gathered together to celebrate their family heritage. The annual Seefeld/t Family Reunion was held on July 26th at Kewaskum's Riverhill Park.

"Since we were celebrating 70 years of family get togethers, we decided to make it extra special this year," said family clan vice president, Jim Schmidt. Activities that were popular in the early years of the reunion, like bingo and old fashioned children's games, were included again. "In the mid 1900's, it was a great treat for a family to enjoy an afternoon in the park, complete with a potluck dinner, ice cream, soda and a sing-along. We hope wo renewed that enthusiasm this year." In addition to the traditional activities, there was a brat fry and a balloon launch.

The eight children of Christian and Anna emigrated from Germany in the mid 1800's, all settling in the Kewaskum area. In 1939, two cousins lamented the fact that relatives only got together for funerals. They decided to do something about it and thus began the annual Seefeld/t event. Every year, over 700 newsletters are sent across the country and beyond to their descendants with family news and reunion details.

For more details about future event, contact reunion president Dennis Seefeld at 920-922-4653.

A Big Little Life: A Memoir of a Joyful Dog by Dean Koontz

Have you ever seen The Perfect Dog?

Of course you have. It might be a Lab or a Lhasa; maybe miniature but mighty, or huge and huggable. The Perfect Dog understands conversation, has a wicked sense of humor, never does anything wrong, can flawlessly perform several different tricks on command, and might even have a streak of heroism in its furry body.

The Perfect Dog is highly intelligent. And – no matter what anybody else claims – The Perfect Dog is your dog.

Or, if there's room for debate, Dean Koontz says it was his pooch. In the new book "A Big Little Life: A Memoir of a Joyful Dog", you'll read about her.

When you learn about Dean Koontz's life as a youngster, it's no wonder where his sense of the edgy came from: Koontz was the child of a "skirt-chasing", alcoholic gambler and a gentle woman who tried to hold the family together. There was barely enough money to afford four walls then, let alone a four-footed mouth to feed.

Which is to say that Dean Koontz never had a dog as a child.

Koontz and his wife, Gerda, both loved dogs and worked tirelessly on behalf of Canine Companions for Independence (www.cci.org), but they thought fitting a dog into their lives would be difficult. They always said they'd have a dog someday - when the timing was right and life slowed

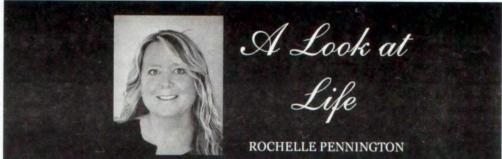

Over dinner one night, they realized that life was never going to slow down. They then asked to adopt a "released" CCI dog. And Trixie, retired due to a fixable injury, came to "Koontzland".

She was 60-some pounds of golden fur and doggy smiles. Her face had a wide range of expressions and she had the ability not only to convey what she was thinking but to know what others were thinking, too. Flawlessly trained to assist someone who was wheelchairbound, she never forgot her training and could be trusted completely in most any situation. She was welcomed into restaurants, offices, stores, and homes... and firmly into the Koontz's hearts.

Koontz was not expecting the "force for positive change" that he got in Trixie. He didn't expect to fall in love so hard. And he didn't expect to lose her so soon.

Readers of author Dean Koontz's books expect to feel a little jumpy when reading his novels, but that won't happen here. Instead, sit awhile with "A Big Little Life" and you'll only jump up for tissues.

In this, his first non-fiction book, Koontz gives fans a peek at his personal life: his hardscrabble childhood, past

What does the word "four" make you think of? The number after three?

I might think this, too, unless it's a beautiful day. Then I'd think of golf. "Fore," that is, yelled behind a bumpy, white ball soaring for a distant green.

Modern-day golf balls, hard and dimpled, no

And speaking of flying... Have you ever watched a butterfly being born? The cocoon seems to convulse endlessly, convincing the onlooker that the butterfly is surely trapped inside and will never break free. Any witness to such a delivery can be tempted to help, tempted to just tear the wall of the cocoon gently, making it easy for the butterfly to come through. But, ironically, to do for the butterfly what the butterfly needs to do for itself, is to deny it its ability to fly. The process of struggle within the cocoon is what builds the strength the butterfly needs to soar. No struggle, no flight.

Butterflies, humans.

Don't expect the usual Dean Koontz fare in this book.

Do expect an unusually great ages, "A Big Little Life" is just story. For dog lovers of all perfect.

A team of horses belonging to Fred Haack of Scott, hitched to a load of lumber, became frightened by a train here last Tuesday morning and broke away from a hitching post in front of Jung and Grittner's butcher shop and ran away. The team became released from the wagon in front of the post office and continued at a break neck speed as far as Fred Backhaus' farm where they were caught.

Fourth of July celebrations will be held here at both parks. At the North Side Park there will be a picnic and a band concert in the afternoon and fireworks and grand ball in the evening. At the South Side Park there will be a celebration on the 4th and 5th, picnic in the afternoon of the 4th and a grand ball on both evenings.

A fine specimen of Wisconsin badger was captured by Louis Schultz on his farm near New Fane, which weighed 24 pounds. William Berg, a cousin who was visiting with his family last Sunday, took it to Milwaukee to present it to the zoo at Washington Park, to add to the rest of the big collection of animals there.

J.P. Schlaefer, the jeweler from Campbellsport, has taken his brother, Math. as a partner in his business. With the assistance of his brother, who is also an expert jeweler and watchmaker, the firm will be able to turn out work on short notice.

Kewaskum Midgets take to the big field

On Friday night August 21, The Kewaskum Athletics Association Midgets green and black hard ball teams played an exhibition game at Miller Park's Helfaer Field. The original date was postponed due to weather. The kids and families enjoyed a pregame cookout and tail gate party in the parking lot. The kids were excited to play on a major league quality field with grass that any homeowner would envy. Kewaskum Black was the home team and struggled with their pitching as their starting pitcher was injured in during gridiron practice and suffered a broken leg. Kewaskum Green's bats hit the ball well and were very disciplined at the plate only swinging at strikes. Team Green ended up dominating with a seven run inning in the fourth and ended up winning 18-5. The Kewaskum Athletic Association is sponsoring flag football this fall, for more information please visit their website, www.kewaskumathletics.com.

2009 Fall wild turkey, ruffled grouse season opens Sept. 12

MADISON - The 2009 fall wild turkey and ruffed grouse seasons are set to open at the start of shooting hours on Sept. 12, and state wildlife officials say hunter prospects are good for both seasons.

Wild turkeys

Wisconsin's wild turkey population remains strong, and wildlife officials have maintained the number of fall turkey permits at 95,700, the same number that was offered during last year's fall turkey season. Wisconsin's grouse population also continued to climb as it is still on the upward side of this popular game bird's 10-year population cycle.

Hunters may once again use dogs to hunt wild turkey for the fall 2009 season. Use is restricted to a nine county area including: Crawford, Jackson, Juneau, La Crosse, Monroe, Richland, Sauk, Vernon, and Wood.

A proposal to add an extended fall season running Nov. 30 through Dec. 31 is currently under legislative review. If approved, the extended season would take place ONLY in turkey management zones 1-5.

Leftover turkey permits on sale Aug. 29

There were 57,950 permits awarded through the fall drawing, leaving 37,750 permits available. All of the remaining permits are for Turkey Management Zones 1, 3 or 4. Leftover fall turkey permits will go on sale beginning at noon on Saturday, August 29 over the Internet through the Online Licensing Center; by calling toll-free 1-877-WI LICENSE (1-877-945-4236); and at all license sales locations. Postcard notifications from the fall preference drawing are being mailed to those who were awarded a permit in the drawing. Hunters can also check their permit status on the Online Licensing Center.

Hunters are reminded of the requirement of blaze orange on ground blinds on DNR lands during any Gun Deer Season. Ground blinds on DNR lands left unattended must also have the owners name and address or DNR Customer Identification Number attached near door opening. Ground blinds still may not be left out over night. Please note that these ground blind rules do not apply to ground blinds being used for hunting waterfowl or to blinds built only out of natural vegetation found on the DNR proper-

Grouse and turkey hunters should also note that during any gun or muzzleloader deer season, including the Oct. 10-11 Youth Deer Hunt, anterless hunts and CWD hunts (see 2009 Wisconsin Deer Hunting Regulations), blaze orange clothing is required. A hat, if worn, must be at least 50 percent blaze orange.

Turkey, grouse hunting have special safety concerns

Hunters need to keep safety in mind when hunting these challenging game birds.

"There's something very special about turkey and grouse hunting," says Tim Lawhern, hunter education administrator for the state Department of Natural Resources. "And with the enthusiasm that goes with this type of hunting, we should all be mindful of making sure we return home safe and sound at the end of each hunt."

Here are some things Lawhern says hunters need to keep in mind when going afield after ruffed grouse and fall turkey:

In grouse hunting, two is company and three is definitely a crowd. Any hunt with more than two will become difficult to manage from a safety aspect. Communicate. Grouse cover is thick and sometimes it will be difficult to see a hunting partner who might only be a few yards away.

Plan your hunt and hunt your plan. Keep it simple. Know in advance how far and in what direction you will be going and when turns will be made.

Advise someone else of where you will be hunting and when they should expect you back. Then, if something goes wrong, at least someone will know where to start looking.

Know your safe zone of fire. If you are on the left, your safe zone is to the left and slightly forward. The opposite is the case if you are on the right. Always advance forward in unison and don't get ahead or behind your partner.

In heavy cover, shoot only at birds that are at least eight feet above the ground. Don't shoot at low birds that could have a hunter or a dog behind them!

Wear blaze orange clothing and stay in visual contact with your partner at all times. If you lose sight of your partner stop hunting, call and listen until you locate each other. Turkey hunters need to be sure of their target - shooting into heavy brush without positive identification can lead to tragedy

Follow the four basic rules of firearms safety: TAB+K.

Treat every firearm as loaded;

Always point the muzzle in a safe direction; Be certain of your target and what's beyond it;

Keep your finger outside the trigger guard until you are ready to shoot. Lawhern suggests hunters also consider wearing some also consider wearing some type of eye protection. A good pair of clear or light colored safety glasses can go a long way toward avoiding injury to eyes and sight.

Grouse and turkey hunters

Grouse and turkey hunters also need to be aware that there might be other hunters afield at the same time after other types of game. Bow hunters may be perched in tree stands and other turkey hunters may be under a tree. Most of them will be wearing full camouflage and very hard to see.

"Famed conservationist

Aldo Leopold once wrote, 'There are two kinds of hunting: ordinary hunting, and ruffed grouse hunting," Lawhern says. "Don't let careless hunting practices spoil this special tradition."

Winkler paces Indians to third place in WLT test

Kate Winkler practices her tee shot at Hon-E-Kor recently

By Judy Harlow Statesman Correspondent

BEAVER DAM- Good consistency up and down the lineup and a solid 48 by Kate Winkler paced the Kewaskum girls golf team to third place in the first Wisconsin Little Ten Conference meet held Monday at the Old Hickory Golf Club.

No question Hartford was the best team in this meet, sporting a 193 by its low four players — in the WLT the four best scores are counted out of six — then came Watertown at 210, the Indians with the 214, and Oconomowoc with a 215, which is a little misleading because one of the Cooney players who fired a 46 was disqualified for signing her card with an inaccurate score.

Host Beaver Dam came in a 229, and the combined West Bend East/West team only had two players.

"I was real happy with this being our first meet," coach Amy Piwoni said. Concerning Winkler's 12-over-par 48, she said, "I thought Katie played very well. This is what I have been looking from her, even last year. She's got a ton of potential ... she was hitting the ball real well."

Low for the day were Krista Diapa and Alexa Snyder of Oconomowoc. Both carded 43s.

Junior Heather Zuehlke first a 54 for the Indians, and Danielle Donnelly, the lone senior on the squad came in with a 56. Both Megan Gavin and Sienna Warnecke shot 56.

"Everyone had one or two bade holes," Piwoni said, explaining the Indians really struggled with the par-3, 7th hole. Zuehlke had an 8 there or she could have come closer to breaking 50.

"Sienna (Warnecke, the sixth player) took a par on that hole," Piwoni said.

"Hopefully when everyone gets on the same pace, we can sneak past Watertown," Piwoni said.

KHS was scheduled to host the second WLT meet on Aug. 27.

Kewaskum A's action

Strobel, Ziegler Push A's Past Rubicon in Rock Playoffs

The Kewaskum A's avoided getting knocked out of the Rock River playoffs on Sunday as they defeated the Rubicon Red Sox 6-1. It was the first win at Rubicon in easily over a decade, but it couldn't have come at a better time for the A's.

Jason Strobel led the way at the plate for the A's belting a two-run home run to go along with a two RBI triple, while Jim Ziegler shut down Rubicon on the mound giving up one run in the complete game effort.

Rubicon got on the board first in this one when Shane O'Hagan dumped a RBI double in front of a diving Jon Olla in leftfield with two outs in the third inning.

Kewaskum finally got on the board in the fifth and took the lead on a Jason Strobel two-run home run that was crushed to left. Strobel struck again in the seventh inning. A Nick Whitty walk and an Adam Sarauer single back up the middle put runners on first and second with one out. Strobel worked the count to 3-1 before ripping a triple to left, nearly missing his second home run of the day.

The A's would tack on two additional runs in winning this one 6-1. The A's will now take on back-to-back Grand Champion Clyman on Saturday, September 5 in Clyman at 1:30pm. The A's then will travel to Neosho on Sunday for a night league semifinal game at 1pm.

A's Continue to Struggle Against Brownsville, Lose 4-2

The Kewaskum A's recent woes against the Brownsville 49ers continued on Saturday as they dropped a 4-2 Rock River Playoff game at home. Brownsville jumped ahead 1-0 on a James Goodfellow first inning homer to dead center off Kewaskum starter Mitch Huffman.

The A's were able to tie the game in the second inning on an Adam Sarauer RBI single back up the middle. Brownsville came right back in the top half of third and took a 2-1 lead on a Goodfellow RBI single. The A's quickly tied the game back up in the bottom of the 3rd on an Austin Sarauer RBI single.

With the game still tied at 2-2 in the sixth, Nick Whitty and Adam Sarauer ripped backto-back singles to put two on for the A's with only one out. Brownsville starting pitcher Tyler Witkowski was able to strike out the next two Kewaskum batters as the A's wasted one of their best opportunities of the game to score. Brownsville rode that momentum into the seventh as JJ Raflik belted a two run home run putting the 49ers up 4-2. The A's put a runner on base in each of the next three innings but were unable to get much else going and dropped their fourth game of the season to Brownsville.

With the loss the A's face a must win on Sunday in the Rock River playoffs.

Nick Whitty and Adam Sarauer led the A's at the plate each going 3x4.

Lady Indians net first win of the season

By Mitch Maersch For the Statesman

SLINGER- Kewaskum began its volleyball season Tuesday night much like the storm that passed through early evening.

The Indians blew through Slinger in three games 25-16, 25-22 and 25-15, and were out of the gym in less than an hour in the non-conference match.

"I was very excited. I had a lot of fun," said Kewaskum Coach Joe Moser after his first match as head coach.

The biggest drama of the night came in Game 2. After Kewaskum built a 13-6 lead, a back-and-forth game ensued with the Owls chipping away and Kewaskum punching back. The Indians had leads of 14-11, 16-12, 17-14 and 19-16 before the Owls tied it at 19-19 on a bullet ace from Clarissa lanz.

Kewaskum built a 22-19 lead on a net serve, with an Erika Heberer kill to the back line and a cross court smash from Courtney Krueger that traveled from the left front corner to the back right corner.

The Owls battled back to 22-21 on a serve that went out and a kill from Courtney Campbell. Two mistakes by Slinger made it 24-21 before another Campbell kill cut it to 24-22

Ashley Faber made sure the Owls' momentum stopped right there. The setter who is back this year from a knee injury put her hands up to set up a teammate, then directed the ball diagonally backward across the net to take the Owls by surprise. The ball hit the floor untouched and the game

Kewaskum never trailed in Game 1, holding leads of 4-0, 14-6, 18-10 and 22-12. Heberer and Faber each had two consecutive aces, Heberer's to start the game. Heberer sent her third of three kills in the game over Slinger's drawn in defense looking for the block for game point.

Game 3 saw ties of 4-4, 8-8 and 11-11 before the Indians went on a 9-2 run to make it 20-13. Elissa Miller had a kill and ace in the run, Heberer and Haley Rauch each had an ace, and Monica Dehler, George Abfall and Kayla Bastian each had kills, Bastian's the hardest smack of the three.

Rachel Bode had a crosscourt kill to make it 21-15 and another to make it 23-15. Miller had a block-kill in the middle of the court for the 24th point, and Abfall cranked a kill right down the center to end the night and let the Indians leave the humid gym with a sweep.

"I got half a sheet of things to work on. We had some awesome kills and we had a lot of fun," Moser said. "Miller had a couple of great hits."

The Indians (1-0) are at Kiel for a quadrangular meet today (Thursday), and host Mayville on Tuesday in another nonconference match. Eastern Conference play kicks off next Thursday when Kewaskum hosts adjacent-village rival Campbellsport.
