Man charged with reckless homicide in drug overdose of Kewaskum woman

By Kyle Zweg
kyle@kewaskumstatesman.com

WEST BEND- A preliminary hearing has been set for the West Bend man accused of injecting the heroin that triggered the fatal overdose of his girlfriend, a 25-year-old Kewaskum woman.

Paul J. Lehmann Jr., 30, faces a Felony C charge of first-degree reckless homicide for injecting the drugs that killed Jamie L. McKeever on Nov. 5.

Also facing charges is Jason R. Bennett of Waterford, who allegedly agreed to trade the heroin to the couple in exchange for McKeever's car. Each faces up to 40 years in prison and a maximum $100,000 fine.

Lehmann appeared in the courtroom of Washington County Circuit Court Judge Andrew Gonring on Jan. 27 with his attorney, public defender Erin Joy Larsen. The state is being represented by Assistant District Attorney Mark D. Bensen.

A two-hour preliminary hearing was set for March 23 at 8:30 a.m., according to court records. Lehmann made his initial appearance on Dec. 28 and his cash bond was set at $50,000.

According to a criminal complaint detailing the incident, Lehmann arrived at St. Joseph's Hospital in the town of Polk at 3:39 p.m. and told the front desk greeter, while sobbing, that he needed help because his girlfriend died that morning and was out in the car at the front of the hospital.

A doctor at the hospital observed McKeever in the car with no respiratory function, no pulse and the onset of rigor mortis, indicating she had been dead for some time. Police were called to the scene.

According to the complaint, Lehmann said he and McKeever had been talking about committing suicide by overdosing on heroin, and decided several days before the incident that they would trade her white Pontiac Firebird "for as much heroin as they could get."

On Nov. 4, Lehmann cashed an unemployment check, bought some spark plugs and tuned up McKeever's Firebird. Lehmann drove the vehicle to Jason R. Bennett's home in Waterford, and McKeever drove her Mazda.

According to the complaint, they had made an arrangement several weeks prior with Bennett to trade the Firebird for the heroin. Lehmann called and said they would be down in a little while.

Upon arrival, McKeever and Lehmann entered the home. McKeever was crying because she was going to lose her car, and Lehmann handed Bennett the keys and was given the heroin.

Lehmann also gave Bennett $40 so he could get more heroin for himself. Lehmann proceeded to repackage the heroin he received in foil.

Lehmann and McKeever then drove back to Washington County, where they visited several taverns and drank. Sometime after midnight, the complaint says, they left the last bar and drove to the Kettle Moraine Forest, west of Kettle Moraine Drive and south of Shagbark Road in the town of Kewaskum.

They drove onto a snowmobile trail and took some lorazepam, an anxiety medication. After a little while they told each other they loved each other, each took 10 muscle relaxants and prayed together, the complaint says.

McKeever then took out the heroin, cooked it and injected it. They

Football redistricting plan nixed by W.I.A.A

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

Kewaskum football coach and Athletic Director Jason Piittmann is relieved the WIAA rejected its district football plan this month, but some changes may be on the horizon for 2011.

The WIAA Board of Control voted 8-2 not to implement the plan in 2010 in what Piittmann thought was being pushed through as a done deal.

"I'm glad it isn't going through," Piittmann said. "There were too many unanswered questions. The proposal disrupted what has been working in many parts of the state."

The proposal would have done away with football conferences and gone to a district system with the goal of saving football at some small schools. Districts would have been based on enrollment so small schools wouldn't face off with much larger ones, and redistricting would have occurred every two years to react to enrollment changes.

The proposal would eliminate the need for conference realignment in other sports since that drive comes from enrollment due to football. Several schools - like Phillips, Northland Pines and Rhinelander - dropped out of conferences despite not making the playoffs for four years.

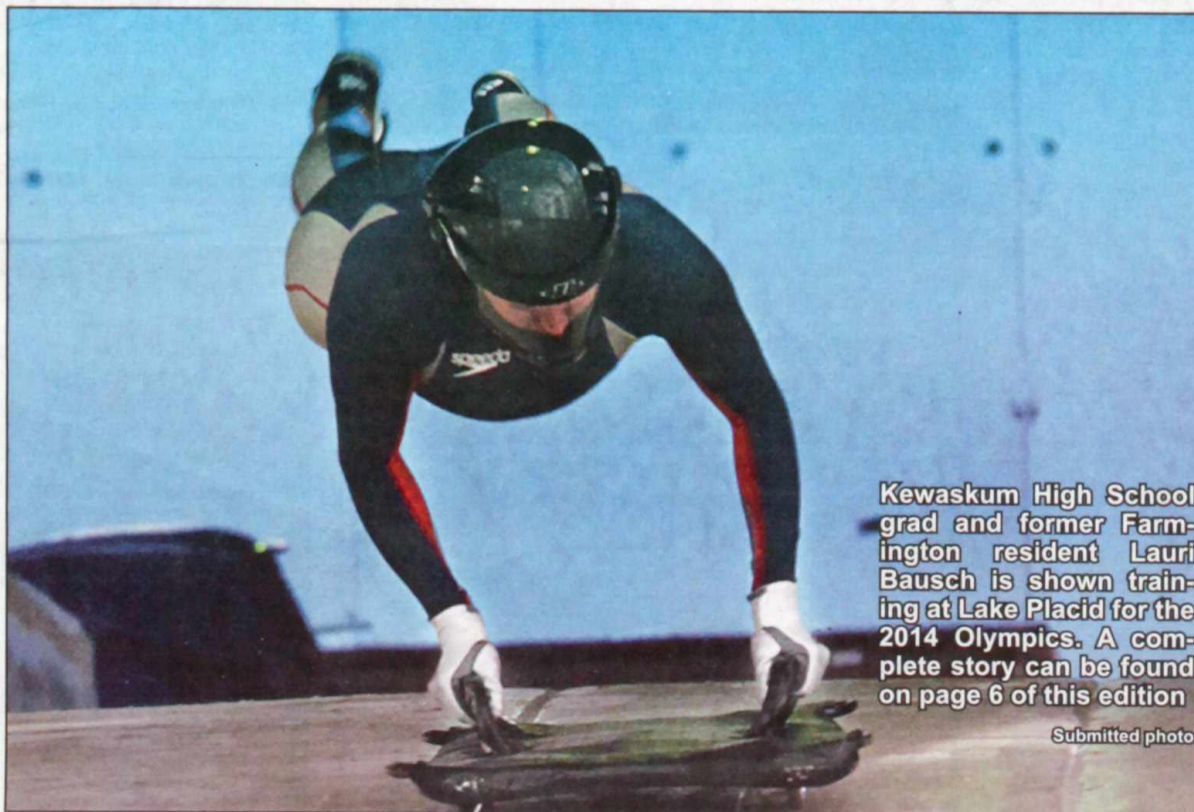

Kewaskum's district, however, would have had a round trip of 690 miles, 211 more than the total for its Eastern Wisconsin Conference games.

Many coaches criticized the plan, and Piittmann said he was "pretty vocal" with the WIAA officers himself.

After Piittmann presented the proposal to the Kewaskum School Board, it voted to take up the is-

POLICE REPORTS

Suspended Registration

A Kewaskum man, 39, was arrested on Jan. 16 for driving with a suspended vehicle registration and violating his parole. The vehicle was pulled over on Main Street just east of Railroad Street. The man had been observed by an officer pulling out of Players Sports Bar. He said he had been drinking and that he was not supposed to be doing that while on parole. He did a breathalyzer and registered a 0.09 BAC. He was arrested on a probation hold and transported to Washington County Jail.

Revoked License

A Mayville man, 24, was cited Jan. 14 for operating with a revoked license after being stopped at an apartment parking lot on Knights Avenue. His license had been revoked on a first offense OWI. The officer told the man he would be contacted regarding a court appearance.

Stolen Pills

Officers were dispatched on the evening of Jan. 13 after a woman reported her 39-year-old roommate had taken sleeping pills and was unable to get up from the couch. When Kewaskum Rescue arrived, the woman said she had taken between eight and 24 sleeping pills. She was ultimately taken to Community Memorial Hospital in Menomonee Falls and was treated.

sue with the Wisconsin Association of School Boards. Nobody on the board liked the proposal either.

While the status quo remains for now, Executive Staff presented the Board of Control with alternatives to address some of the issues the proposal was designed to fix. Included for possible implementation in 2011 are conference realignment for football to ease game scheduling for conferences with few members and to even the playing field for schools without a conference because of enrollment discrepancies and changing the schedule to avoid playing three games in 10 days at the end of the season.

threw the heroin rigs out the car window and Lehman later exited the vehicle to attempt to cover up the items with leaves.

Both fell asleep and Lehman woke up sometime later Nov. 5. He told authorities this is when he found McKeever lifeless.

Two witnesses told police that in past instances when they'd witnessed McKeever doing heroin, it was always Lehmann that injected her.

The second defendant in the case, Bennett, is currently incarcerated at the Dodge Correctional facility in Waupun. He appeared in Gonring's court Tuesday via videoconferencing, where he was provided the complaint, and advised of charges, penalties and his rights.

A preliminary hearing for Bennett will be held at a different time than Lehmann's, according to online court records.

It will be scheduled by conference call. Bennett is represented by attorney Gary Schmaus.

Fire Department awarded $88,825 assistance grant

The AFG program is an important component of the larger, coordinated effort to strengthen the nation's overall level of preparedness and ability to respond to fire and fire-related hazards. Farmington will host County Historical Society Settler's Banquet

For the 22nd year in a row, the Washington County Historical Society sponsors a re-creation of a once-popular meeting of original County settlers on Sunday, February 21. The list of participants from an 1881 manifest includes over 120 names from MAT Farmer, to Dhein to Franckenberg, Frisby, Maxon, Schwinn, Wescott and Wright. Many descendants yet reside in the county.

The banquet rotates among the towns of Washington County and is always held on the third weekend of February to honor President's Day. This year, Farmington hosts the banquet which will be held in the historic Fillmore Turner Hall.

Beginning at 11:00 a.m., guests will be greeted by hostess, Miss Stephanie Broughton, wearing an authentic re-creation of a Civil War dress sewn by her mother, Dotty Broughton. The costume is made from pattern of the era and includes five layers of undergarments.

Members of The Kettle Country Kids 4-H will welcome guests and offer elk meatball appetizers. Enjoy a cash bar and browse among the historic farm, family genealogies, and local business displays. A meal of chicken, tenderloin tips and spaetzel begins at noon.

Following dinner, a multi-media presentation titled Farmington: Our Town, Our Story by Jane Lazarevic will weave the story of Farmington into a presentation of sounds, pictures, narration from pre-history through our earliest culture to today. Lazarevic, Technologies Liaison in the Kewaskum School District and Society member, used historic video footage of past events, photos, and clips of oral histories for the presentation.

Members of the Farmington Historical Society are particularly pleased to showcase brand new hand-built models of three buildings on the National Register of Historic Sites. These replicas of the Saxonia House, St. John of God Church, and St. Peter's Church are re-created with extensive detail in the construction of the building, windows, and steeples by Evarist Henke. Henke lives in the Town of Erin and has built replicas of many historic buildings in the Richfield and Erin area. BackHome Arts will also feature a log cabin quilt made exclusively from 1860-1880 reproduction fabric.

In a class project learning about Native American pottery, Farmington Elementary art teacher, Susan Seibel, had students of Mrs. Wenzlaff and Ms. Peltonen's fifth grade classes make coil style pottery to be used as centerpieces for the Old Settler's banquet. Students designed, glazed and decorated each piece, and signed their names on the bottom.

Tickets are $17.00, reservations can be made until February 12 by calling the Washington County Historical Society at (262) 335-4678 or online at www.historyisfun.com.

Fillmore Turner Hall is located on County Road H in Fillmore, approximately 5 miles east of Highway 45 and approximately 10 miles west from Highway 57.

- Opinion -

Farmington, I'm Sorry

I've been sorry for actively supporting the election of two men several years ago as they ran to "Keep Farms in Farmington" and maintain our rural atmosphere. Along with others, I was fooled!

There were earlier reasons for skepticism. For example, in a discussion with supervisor Art Seyfert on town involvement in programs to save farms, his quick conclusion was "no" because they require tax money which drives women out of the home! Or when chairman Gary Schreiber angrily exclaimed at a planning meeting that after years of work on the Smart Growth Plan, he didn't understand a page of it!

But now, the action of the Farmington Town Board dominated by these two men is almost beyond bizarre. Seyfert has become an apparent lieutenant in what might be described as a fringe anti-planning movement spearheaded by Jay Verhulst of Vilas County. Under the guise of a concocted "Coordination" technique to establish local control, Verhulst has traveled the state offering techniques to weaken Wisconsin's Smart Growth planning requirement. Less than 1% of Wisconsin's 1,266 towns have swallowed the Coordination ploy, but you guessed it.....after ignoring the advice of its own plan commission, The Wisconsin Towns Association, and numerous legal opinions; and refusing to consult with its own attorney, Farmington found a way to be one of them!

Marching to Verhulst's tune, the board passed a Coordination resolution separate from the Smart Growth plan, and then bastardized the plan with multiple insertions of the word "coordination" along with other questionable last-minute changes. Farmington has ended with a corrupted plan, and there's a big reason to say: I'm sorry

Area Catholics meet their new Archbishop

By Kyle Zwieg
Statesman Correspondent

WEST BEND- Marking his first official visit since his highly-touted installation, Milwaukee's new archbishop urged Catholics to get up, get out and become beacons of their faith in the parish and community.

Jerome E. Listecki became the Milwaukee Archdiocese's 11th archbishop on Jan. 4 and presided over a Thursday night mass at St. Frances Cabrini Parish on Thursday, Jan. 28.

During a 12-minute homily, Listecki drew heavily upon his past as a teacher of canon law and theology, discussing the strong links between the church's namesake, St. Frances Xavier Cabrini, and St. Thomas Aquinas.

"Mother Cabrini is the patron of this parish, and let me tell you, Mother Cabrini was one tough lady," Listecki said. "She had very little in terms of resources, and she built hospitals and schools - because she had a tremendous confidence in God. We listen to the reading, in terms of the gospel, we hear immediately, 'Let your light shine before God.'"

The first American canonized by the Catholic church, Cabrini helped found the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and spent her 67 years helping the poor and underprivileged - particularly Italian immigrants - through missionary work and the foundation of orphanages, schools and hospitals.

"Is a light given to you and your faith given to you to be hidden under a bushel basket? No," Listecki said. "It's out there to be seen. It's not me. It's about Christ. It's His light. It's the power of His presence. That's what we are called to do."

The mass was titled "The Memorial of Saint Thomas Aquinas: Priest and Doctor of the Church." Listecki, who earned his licentiate and doctorate degree at the Pontifical University of St. Thomas Aquinas in Rome, called Aquinas "one of two intellectual pillars that the church is built upon."

"Thomas Aquinas died at the age of 49," Listecki explained. "Still much yet to complete and do, and yet in that time he wrote volumes upon volumes helping us to understand the teaching of the church. He wrote volumes upon volumes helping us to understand how the church is the body of Christ, calls us together ... understanding that Holy Spirit, the spirit of truth was given to us - and celebrating that truth."

Listecki said it is important that Christians draw upon the lessons of Aquinas and Cabrini as they spread their faith.

"The key to all of it is that they understood about placing their life at the disposal of God," he said. "Not looking at what they wanted out of life, but how God wanted to use them to draw others closer to him. This parish has got to have an attitude that it will do everything it can to bring more to the Lord."

Founded in 1843, the Milwaukee Archdiocese contains about 643,000 members at 210 parishes in Dodge, Fond du Lac, Kenosha, Milwaukee, Ozaukee, Racine, Sheboygan, Walworth, Washington and Waukesha counties. Listecki was chosen as Milwaukee's archdiocese by Pope Benedict XVI on Nov. 14, 2009.

He takes over for Timothy Dolan, who was installed as Archbishop of New York last April.

Listecki, 50, had been serving as the ninth bishop of the Diocese of LaCrosse since 2005, where he oversaw a $50 million capital campaign and the incorporation and computerization of the system's 165 parishes. He also helped raise funds for Gulf Coast relief, local flood relief and developed a diocesan-wide pastoral plan, according to the archdiocese.

Listecki was also scheduled to perform mass at congregations in Wauwatosa, Waukesha, Fond du Lac, Greendale and Racine, according to the archdiocese.

Bausch eyes 2014 olympics

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

Lauri Bausch follows the Winter Olympics hype with more interest than the casual observer.

She hopes to be what the hype is all about in four years.

Bausch, Kewaskum 2003 co-valedictorian, is in Lake Placid, N.Y., site of two Winter Olympics, rigorously training to become a member of the U.S. skeleton team.

Skeleton is run on a bobsled track. It's a one-person sport in which the athlete runs to push a sleds 50 meters before jumping onto their stomachs and travel headfirst down the track. Speeds can reach nearly 75 mph on 1,500-meter tracks.

Bausch fell in love with the sport in fall 2008 when she tried it for the first time at Lake Placid despite nearly having a panic attack just at the thought of trying it. She later returned to the course and turned in a good enough time to dive into it competitively.

She's now within two seconds of Olympians' times. Ideal weather and track conditions would produce times in the range of the high 55 seconds to the low 56s.

"My down time (from start to finish on the bobsled track) personal record is now 57.5 seconds - and on the Lake Placid track the women's track record is a low 55," she said.

Bausch is focusing her training on getting down to where she needs to be, and she knows exactly where to start: right at the beginning.

"I'm really trying to improve my start time, which will determine how much velocity I have going into the track - which I push about a 5.88 with much room for improvement. The top in the world for women push about a 5.4 (less than half a second faster than me), but the start is crucial to getting a lead and reaching top speeds," she said.

"I have a race coming up in just a couple weeks ... I anticipate breaking my current start and down time personal records easily," she said. Training is like a job.

"I slide six days a week, taking two to four (or more) trips down the track per day. I also lift three-four days a week, and sprint three days a week," she said.

She spends a considerable amount of time tuning up old parts that don't work as well as they used to.

"From years of rugby and other sports, I am trying to rehabilitate old injuries that could contribute to tenths/hundredths of a second at the start, so I do ankle and shoulder rehab daily as well," she said.

Bausch uses compression pants or enters the cold tub for recovery.

"And depending on my eating habits, I add short bouts of cardio/calisthenics to maintain/lose weight. We head to the bobsled track early daily to prep our sleds and do a dynamic warm up/plyometrics to prepare physically and mentally for on ice training. I also have to do sled work (sand runners, etc.) regularly," she said.

"As you can see my entire day is devoted to training."

She has been able to catch some TV.

"Watching commercials for the Olympics is exciting. I've also seen specials that show the Olympic Training Center and training facilities which is kind of weird when you're at that location," she said. "When there are World Cup events here in Lake Placid we go out and watch - and then watch it again broadcasted on TV - often with the athletes who were performing."

She likes seeing dreams come true firsthand. She served as an intern in the weight room last fall and knows many of the athletes.

"It's been exciting to be sitting in the cafeteria with an athlete who just finds out they've officially been nominated to the Olympic team this year, knowing that you've watched them train and perform, and will get to watch them on TV at the games very soon," she said. "When you know what some athletes' backgrounds are and how far they made it, it really inspires you to train hard even though success is not guaranteed."

Bausch won't make a prediction on this year's U.S. skeleton team.

"The competition is tight, and races are won/lost by hundredths of a second. This year's bobsled/skeleton track is hard and FAST, and the athletes received very limited to training time on the olympic track," she said.

"The two women representing the US in skeleton have been ranked high in the world for years, but have also been overcoming their fair share of injuries, etc. to remain high ranked. Two of the three men chosen to represent the U.S. have been competing on World Cup for awhile, whereas the third guy is one of the fastest at the start but is on his first year on the World Cup tour," she said.

The U.S. medal hopes looks promising in bobsled, she said.

"The bobsled team, men's and women's, have a very strong field as we were granted the opportunity to have three sleds compete based on world rankings. USA 1 (Team 'Night Train') four-man bobsled has been No. 1 in the world the entire season," she said.

Bausch's work could begin to pay off starting this month.

"Being just a 'training year' for me, I've had the chance to experiment with training to see what personally helps make me perform better. I hope to successfully apply this as I enter my races this season," she said. "I have Eastern Club races the Feb. 26-28, Eastern Regionals March 5-6, and hope to be on the roster for the America's Cup race in skeleton AND/OR bobsled (as a brakeman) the first week in April. I'm still trying to figure out what to do for the offseason (mid-April through September) that works best in terms of training and finances." Bausch is still looking for sponsors to fund her Olympic dream, which would be in Sochi, Russia, in 2014.

"With the exception of a few small donations from family friends, I have not received financial funding. I have worked to network as I try to show my potential in this sport," she said. About Lauri Bausch Bausch played tennis and soccer at Kewaskum High School. In December 2008, she graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire with a degree in kinesiology with a focus on human performance/sport performance.

During college she spent one semester at Southern Cross University in Lismore, Australia, and managed a branch of her sisters' powersports business in upper Michigan. Between semesters she coached youth rugby in Port Elizabeth, South Africa.

Bausch is a certified strength and conditioning specialist through the National Strength and Conditioning Association and writes her own strength/power training programs.

Parish mission will concentrate on spiritual renewal through the sacraments

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

The week of Feb. 21-25, Holy Trinity and St. Michael Catholic parishes will be welcoming Fathers Tony Judge and Jose Arturo Uribe into their Catholic community.

The two Redemptorists are coming to lead a parish mission, a mission designed to concentrate on the sacraments and in turn to strengthen the faith of the parishioners who participate.

"It's a preaching event," Fr. Judge said recently in a telephone interview, explaining the format of the five-night mission, which will include talks on the various sacraments, a prayer service and a ritual action, which the people participate in.

"I've been doing these for a couple years now," Fr. Judge, a native of St. Louis, MO. who has been a Redemptorist for 38 years, said. "Fr. Jose has been doing them for six years."

The mission is for young and old alike. It is hoped many young people in the parishes will come, especially those who are involved in the Confirmation program. The original schedule was even altered to accommodate the teens who normally come for their CYE (Catholic Youth Education) classes on Wednesday evening. Confirmation will now be the topic addressed on Wednesday, Feb. 24.

"We have different formats for these parish missions," Fr. Judge said, explaining there are five teams of Redemptorists who are based out of Chicago and travel all over the United States presenting them.

Fr. Judge previously spent 10 years working in Brazil and other parts of South America, then later he was an associate pastor and for 10 years a pastor in a parish in Colorado.

While he enjoyed both experiences, he is finding the mission work very rewarding. "It's very fulfilling for me," Fr. Judge said. "It's a privilege to go on this journey with the people."

A lot of traveling is associated with mission work. The week before the mission in Kewaskum, the two priests will in Uba City, California and when they leave, their next assignment will be in Pella, Iowa.

This doesn't give Fr. Judge or Fr. Uribe much opportunity to get to know people very well, but Fr. Judge understands this. "This is the life of a missionary. You come and you go, but there's a great blessing for missionaries."

The mission will begin each night at 7 p.m. The schedule for the event is as follows: Sunday night, Baptism, at Holy Trinity; Monday night, Matrimony and Holy Orders at St. Michael; Tuesday, Reconciliation, at Holy Trinity; Wednesday, Confirmation, at Holy Trinity; and Thursday, Holy Eucharist, at St. Michael.

The Redemptorists will preach at the weekend Masses on Feb. 20-21. Masses for the mission will be held at 7:45 on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Holy Trinity, and the closing Mass will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday at St. Michaels.

In addition to these events, the two Redemptorists will be available to make some home visits. "A mission is for the whole parish," Fr. Judge said, adding, "During the day, we'll visit the homebound and make ourselves available to the people... those who just want to talk with somebody, pastoral counseling, they call it."

Fr. Judge is asking that the people from Holy Trinity and St. Michael remember to prepare spiritually for the event. "I encourage the people to pray in the weeks leading up to the mission... that they be open to the Spirit, and that they pray to open not only their hearts but everyone's."

His goal is simple. "What I hope for the community is a renewal of faith," he said, along with "perhaps a springboard for other activities, and a challenge for people to live their faith daily."

Fr. Ed Kornath, the pastor of the two parishes, is very excited about the upcoming mission. "I remember how positively it was received three years ago," Fr. Ed said. "It just awakens our faith through the power of Jesus and the Holy Spirit."

Learn to Ice Fish

You love to fish, but in winter the lakes are frozen. What's an angler to do? Well, drill a hole and fish right through the ice. On Saturday, February 13, head out to the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit to learn the ins and outs of how to go ice fishing. Meet at the the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area picnic shelter (located off of Hwy GGG south of Hwy SS near New Prospect) at 9:30 a.m. They will start inside the shelter to cover safety tips, and the appropriate gear and tackle. Then it's off to Mauthe Lake to try your best to lure some of those fish out of the water. They will wrap up the fishing adventure at 11:30 a.m.

Equipment, tackle and bait will be provided. Come dressed for the winter weather. This program is best for people over the age of six years old. Children must be accompanied by adults.

To register, call the Ice Age Visitor Center at 920/533-8322 by February 10. They need participants to register because there will be special surprises for all who attend the workshop.

Rebuilding their life after a stroke through rehab

Mick and Karen Perkins are excited and optimistic about the new year ahead of them. It certainly has had a much brighter start than last year. Their story actually begins on the day after Christmas a year ago. Mick had the day off, but his wife Karen had to work. Originally, the plans were for Mick to drive Karen to work. But after waking with the flu, he decided to spend the day in bed as Karen headed off to work. Midday, Mick got up out of bed but collapsed to the floor. "I was unable to get up," explains Mick. "So, I pulled myself to the window hoping I could attract the attention of a neighbor." It was no surprise that no one was out on the cold Wisconsin winter day, so Mick just laid there until Karen returned home nearly seven hours later.

Mick and Karen Perkins with their dog.

"I walked in the room and found him on the ground," describes Karen. "I immediately called 9-1-1. The paramedics took him to Aurora Medical Center in Hartford and from there he was transferred to Aurora St. Luke's Medical Center in Milwaukee." Mick had suffered a stroke.

Due to the long time he went without medical care, Mick's left side motor skills and his ability to form words were greatly impacted. During an ischemic stroke, a clot cuts off oxygen to part of the brain - making early intervention important in limiting long-term effects. Treatment for a stroke is most effective if administered in the first three hours following initial symptoms.

Knowing the warning signs of a stroke is important in accessing timely medical treatment. Symptoms to watch for include:

- Numbness or weakness of one side of the face, arm or leg
- Sudden confusion, trouble speaking or understanding
- Trouble seeing in one or both eyes
- Dizziness, trouble walking, loss of balance or coordination
- Sudden, severe headache with no known cause

"Mick spent the whole first month of 2009 in inpatient rehab at Aurora St. Luke's. I spent many nights by his side on a cot. The staff were just angels. And, at long last, he was released home on February 4," explains Karen. "I couldn't believe how amazing everyone involved in his care was. The first day in rehab they asked Mick to stand up. I was thinking, 'He just had a stroke.' But they knew what they were doing. Not only was he able to stand, but their incredible dedication has helped Mick regain control of most of his left side."

When Mick came home last February in a wheelchair, he continued his rehabilitation at the Aurora Rehabilitation Center in Hartford. Throughout the year he graduated to a walker, then a cane and then to independence. He is shoveling and using the snow blower to plow out from the storms this winter. And, as a buckskin encampment enthusiast, Mick even was out setting up his 18' by 26' teepee at this summer's rendezvous, with a little help from his friends.

"One day my therapists were showing me a video and I realized that the extent of my recovery is really up to me," describes Mick. "From that moment on, I gave it everything I had. Nobody said I had to stay in that wheelchair. The harder I worked, the more progress I saw. I want all stroke victims to know they are limited only by their own lack of effort. Sure, there were days the progress wasn't fast enough for my own liking, but if you stick with it, it is amazing what you can accomplish."

Mick continues his rehabilitation at the Aurora Rehabilitation Center in Hartford several times a week. "It is great to have this amazing resource so close to home," concludes Karen. "Throughout the entire ordeal, Mick's care transferred smoothly from one Aurora facility to another. To have everything coordinated for you is a true gift. All I had to worry about was Mick."

KMS students team with Wisconsin Pharmacal Co. to help Haiti

KEWASKUM - A Jackson manufacturer has teamed with local middle school students to enhance the community's response to the devastation in Haiti.

In a fundraiser organized in the quake's wake, Kewaskum Middle School students hastily collected nearly $2,000 that will be used to deliver bottles of Potable Aqua, which decontaminates unsafe drinking water, to earthquake survivors.

Wisconsin Pharmacal Co. has agreed to sell the tablets to the school at manufacturing cost, $1.66 per bottle. Each bottle contains 20 tablets and each tablet purifies about one quart of water.

The school-wide drive netted a total of $1,897.45, said eighth-grade teacher Nikki Airaudi. The Kewaskum Middle School's student council has agreed to donate the remaining amount to round out the school's donation at exactly $2,000.

Wisconsin Pharmacal agreed to match 20 percent of the amount the school raised. The company's vice president of sales, Andy Wundrock, will visit students on Friday, Airaudi said.

Developed by Harvard University and the U.S. Army in the 1940s, Potable Aqua is an iodine disinfectant used to create bacterially safe drinking water in emergency situations.

Wisconsin Pharmacal manufactures the tablets at its Jackson headquarters for use by the U.S. military and other organizations, according to its website. The product is also marketed to campers, backpackers and outdoors enthusiasts.

The product will be used to spread the amount of clean drinking water available to survivors of the Jan. 13 earthquake, which has killed as many as 200,000 Haitians and left millions more homeless.

A Wisconsin Pharmacal official was originally scheduled to meet with students last Thursday, but had to cancel at the last minute. Students responded with vigor nonetheless, exceeding their fundraising goal over the next three days, Airaudi said.

"The problem with what happened in Haiti - and what happens when you have an earthquake, hurricane, tornado or any kind of destructive event - is one of the big problems is water contamination," Airaudi said. "We here in the United States tend to take water for granted. We have plenty of it. We can walk across the hall and get a drink if we're thirsty. It's free. It's everywhere.

"In a place like Haiti, water is like gold, and they need every little bit of it," she continued. "Unfortunately when something like this happens, their water supply is wiped out."

Students were asked to make a pledge for one bottle, and find three others to match or beat their pledge. The goal was for every student in the school to raise enough to buy four bottles.

That alone would be enough to purify 7,000 gallons of water, Airaudi told students. "We had an opportunity here to make a big difference for some people who are really, really needing help right now," she said. "The company has the means and connections to get these tablets to Haiti, so they're going to take care of that."

In loving memory of DEL KEMPE, who passed away four years ago, February 8, 2006:

The days go by so quickly;

November 6, 1959

Joseph Ruplinger, Sr., 65, lifelong resident of the Town of Wayne, was accidentally killed at about 4 pm on November 3, near his home when a tractor he was driving fell on him. Mr. Ruplinger was plowing near the edge of a field when he was thrown from the tractor into a ditch. The tractor tipped over and landed on top of him, fatally injuring the man. The mishap occurred as Ruplinger came to the end of a row in the field and turned the tractor. The machine apparently went over the edge of the field and onto a steep bank along a road, causing it to tip.

At the present time, 13 new homes are going up or have been completed in the village, the building permits issued by the village commission in the past few months reveal. All of the homes are being built in the new Roseland Heights residential area on the west side of town except one, which is on Fond du Lac Avenue.

Professional staff members of the Kewaskum Public Schools recently received their charter as an affiliated local chapter of the Wisconsin Education Association. Officers of the group are: Ernest Mitchell, president; Eugene LaMarche, vice president; LaVerne Hron, treasurer, and Mary Lou Porinsky, secretary.

Leroy Bier who was employed by Koehn for the past two years, has purchased the building and stock from Koehn and will take over the operation of the business. Bier is a watchmaker and will carry the many famous brands stocked by Koehn. He will be assisted in the jewelry store by Mrs. Bier.

Forest Lake Resort, located about seven miles northeast of Kewaskum, the past week was sold by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Raubunas, to Art and Mary Narlow, Milwaukee. Sale of the resort included the property, bar, dining room, dance hall and 11 cottages. The new owners will take immediate possession of the resort, which has been operated by Mr. and Mrs. Raubunas, and the former's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Victor Raubunas, for the past 11 years. During this time, they made extensive improvements to the resort building, added a bathing beach and erected many new cottages. Lenny and Bunny have purchased a place of business in Tarpon Springs, Florida, which will be operated by Mrs. Raubunas brother. With their daughter, they will leave for Tarpon Springs to assist in the operation of the business during the winter months. During their stay at Forest Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Raubunas made many friends and built the business into a very popular resort where many weddings and dinner parties were held.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Laubenstein, Kewaskum, on November 7, and to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bettendorf, Kewaskum, also on November 7. Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. John Stellpflug, Kewaskum, on November 7 and to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Klabunde, Milwaukee, on November 10. Ralph Michaels, a student at the Kewaskum High School, fractured his skull while playing football on the high school grounds last Thursday. He was tackling another player when he fell and in some way received a bump on his head which was hard enough to fracture the boy's skull. A doctor was called and he, after examining Ralph, rushed him to St. Agnes Hospital at Fond du Lac for treatment. He was operated on Monday due to the skull being depressed so that the bone had to be cut. The young man's home is near Forest Lake, located several miles northeast of Kewaskum.

In a raid on a large new farm distillery in Dodge County last week, federal agents seized 400 gallons of alcohol and 25,000 gallons of mash, arrested one man and wrecked a plant built to turn out more than 1,000 gallons illicit, "alky" daily. The plant was in operation when raided. Three huge vats with total capacity of 35,000 were nearly full of mash.

Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Schmitz of St. Michaels, is confined to his home with an attack of scarlet fever.

All children in Washington County who have not had treatment against diphtheria will be given an opportunity to have it. Washington County bears half the expense with the individual paying only 50c for the treatment. Diphtheria is a preventable disease. Complete eradication of it is desired. Only 18 people died of it last year in comparison to 358 in 1923. Ten years of immunizing has proven its value.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fellenz of the Town of Scott on October 19. He will receive the name Edgar Jr.

November 9, 1934

On Halloween the intermediate room literary society of the Kewaskum Public School had its first program of the year as follows: 1. Halloween song by all; 2. "The Singing Lesson," a play with Bobby Brauchle, Erhardt Schultz, Harriet Backhaus, Erna Lubitz and Patti Brauchle; 3. Accordion solo by Lloyd Etta; 4. "Halloween Wishes," a recitation by Evelyn Weddig; Mandolin solo by Roger Stahl. The fifth grade furnished the lunch for the Halloween party.

Charles, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halfmann of Campbellsport, narrowly escaped serious injury and possibly death, when he was knocked down and run over by a car prior to the Halloween parade given for the children and sponsored by the Campbellsport Lions Club last Wednesday evening. Master Charles momentarily dropped out of the line of the parade, directly in front of an approaching automobile, which struck him and threw him to the pavement. He was taken to a doctor where it was found that his injuries were limited to several bruises on his forehead.

Bernard Ullrich of Campbellsport observed his 50th anniversary as a cigar manufacturer at his home in that village on October 24. Mr. Ullrich began his business on East Main Street in 1884 and for the past 49 years, has been located on South Fond du Lac Avenue in Campbellsport. Although he has reached the age of 75 years, Mr. Ullrich still spends every day at his work.

William Hopkins, a graduate of the Kewaskum High School, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hopkins, caretaker and manager of the Moon Lake Wild Life Refuge, located 6-1/2 miles northeast of Kewaskum, has left for Rolla, Missouri where he has been given a position. William recently graduated from the School of Forestry and Conservation of Michigan University, and at Rolla, he will have charge of fish and game work in a national forest. He is employed by the United States Forest Service.

Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Pesch of East Valley, are the proud parents of a baby girl born on October 29 and baptized on Sunday. The young miss received the name Arline Ann.

Mr. McCollough drew No 3288, which entitles him to a claim of 160 acres. In order to become in possession and acquire the title of this land, he must reside on it at least 14 months. Mr. McCollough intends to settle on the claim next spring.

Cougars overpower Indians on the road

By Mitch Maersch

mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

CAMPBELLSPORT— Last Thursday's basketball game between heated conference rivals resembled the much anticipated and hyped wrestling match a few miles away.

Not so much in the quality of play or conference lead on the line and almost the wrestling meet's point total; more in the we-don't-like-each-other category.

The Cougars earned their first Eastern Wisconsin Conference win of the season against the Kewaskum boys in a 44-27 game that got so chippy at one point officials stopped it to chat with a few players and calm them down.

Kewaskum slipped to 1-7 in conference and 3-13 on the season. Campbellsport moved to 1-7 in the EWC and 4-10 overall.

Three minutes into the game, Indian guard Eric Perkins hesitated in the lane and hit a leaner to give his team a 2-0 lead. It was the last it would see that night.

"We didn't play very good. We had too much worrying about things we can't control. Too much worrying about the refs, and the refs weren't this and that. It takes away from how you play the game. We obviously weren't prepared for them tonight and it showed on the scoreboard," said Coach Quinn Heintz.

Lucas Kopeschka led the Indians with seven points. Perkins scored six. Cougar guard Jeff Bong scored 10, and Reid Hundertmark and Nate Baumhardt each had seven.

The Cougars ran a slow-down offense that nearly shifted into stop for both teams in the first quarter, taking a 4-2 lead.

In the second quarter, Perkins hit two of three free throws after getting fouled on a three-point shot to cut the deficit to 12-9. Bong drained a three at the halftime buzzer to make it 19-9.

The lead never got below 11 in the second half as the Cougars' deliberate offense found the basket while the Indians' offense flatlined, much due to Campbellsport's defense.

It was 28-12 going into the fourth quarter in a game in which a 16-point deficit looks like a season's worth of points. Early in the fourth, an official stopped the game before an inbounds play and had a short talk with Indian Ryan Gibson and Cougar Nick Schuster, who starting to play roughly. The official talked briefly with Cougar Jordan Rowe when he re-entered the game shortly after.

Both offenses opened up in the fourth quarter but the Indians couldn't come back from so far down and were outscored 16-15 the final eight minutes.

"They're much better than the first time we played them this year. They played a good game and they hit their shots when they were open and hit their shots when they needed to," Heintz said.

The coach chalks this one up as a teaching tool.

"I hope we learn something from this. I hope we learn, no matter who you're playing or where you're playing, you have to be ready to play," Heintz said.

Kewaskum and Campbellsport each account for the other's conference win this season. The Indians beat Campbellsport 42-41 on Dec. 3. Kewaskum was scheduled to play at Sheboygan Falls Tuesday night and host Plymouth (6-2 EWC, 10-4) on Friday.

Conference wins adding up for Lady Indians

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

CEDAR GROVE- Coach Mike Kleinhans hopes the Indians' tough non-conference schedule will pay off.

Monday night the Indians got a taste of a solid team on the road and couldn't quite pull out a victory. Cedar Grove-Belgium led nearly the entire way in a 57-49 win.

Kewaskum fell to 9-5 overall and remains 6-2 and in second place in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference. Cedar Grove-Belgium moved to 9-5 overall. The Rockets are 6-5 in the Central Lakeshore Conference.

Every time the Indians got close, the Rockets got a little better and maintained a multiple-possession lead down the stretch.

Point guard Anna Butler sank a three-pointer that cut the lead to 53-47 with 1:20 to play. The Indians forced a turnover on the ensuing possession but instantly threw the ball back to the Rockets. A score could have made it a one-possession game.

The Rockets hung on with free throws from there out as the game never got closer than six. They shot 13-for-22 from the line in the fourth quarter, 24-for-36 for the game (67 percent).

Kleinmans said early season bad habits returned in the form of turnovers - "that killed us."

The Indians, after a hot free-throw shooting stretch, slipped the last two games. On Monday they made 15 of 23 (65 percent) and last Friday 17-for-33 (52 percent).

"We didn't shoot very well," Kleinmans said.

But the coach is encouraged by the effort, especially from his bench.

"If we can do this against a good opponent like this, I think we should do very well in our conference. We've got a big stretch coming up," he said.

"We found out some girls tonight stepped up. I truly believed Haylie Hansen stepped up to start playing the way I thought she could. I thought Erica Rammer came off the bench, did some good things. Christine (Bohn) came off the bench, did some nice things," he said.

Butler scored 10 of her game-high 20 points in the fourth quarter, corralled six of her seven rebounds in the second half and made four steals. Bohn scored eight points and Haley Rauch seven. Elissa Miller scored four, grabbed nine rebounds and made three steals.

"(Butler) played a great game, ran the floor very well," Kleinmans said.

A season-high four different Indians hit three-pointers to close the gap, but Kleinmans isn't convinced it should become a staple of the offense.

"I'm not a big fan of that three-point shot. You saw it tonight. What were they?" he said. "You play against good teams you can't give up a possession to shoot a three and consistently miss. If you've got a kid that can shoot the threes, that's great. I'm not going to chuck 'em up there. Everybody we play against chucks threes and I haven't seen one good shooter yet. I really haven't seen a good shooter yet."

The teams added to the thrill of the three Monday. Aside from Butler's timely shot, Bohn's bomb came at the third-quarter buzzer that cut the lead to 38-33. The Rockets hit three bombs, one as the first-quarter buzzer sounded. Senior 6-foot-0 forward Kristen Slotman led the Rockets' balanced attack with 16 points. Abi von Heimburg scored 10. Three others scored eight and another seven.

"It was the most physical game we've played all year. I was proud of the way we came out and played with some intensity," said Rockets coach Josh Ketterhagen. "We took care of the ball when we had to and did a good job at the free throw line."

The Indians still play Lomira, ranked in the top five in the state, and have Waupun and Sheboygan Falls at home after losing to them on the road. Falls is the last game of the season and it's Senior Night.

"If all goes the way we want it to that's going to be the key game of the year. But you know what, we've got to go game by game. We've said this all year. Every night we try to go 1-0. We talk about it, about being 9-5, better than what we were in years. We've just got to play better basketball to win," Kleinmans said. "We're going to fight until the end. We play hard, do the right things we'll get wins here. We've just got to play a little better."

Against nearby rival Campbellsport last Friday, Kewaskum jumped out to an early lead and survived a late charge in a 55-47 victory.

The Indians completed the season sweep of their geographically closest conference opponent and remained undefeated at home (4-0).

Forward Jenna Buker exploded for a season-high 15 points and pulled down eight rebounds, six offensive, and had four steals.

"She came out of her shell. She really did. She rebounded well," Kleinmans said.

"We just worked a lot in practice yesterday. We had a slow practice yesterday so it just kind of made me kick it up today," Buker said.

For the senior, basketball has again become fun now that the win column is bigger than the loss' one.

"I think it's been cool. We haven't been a winning team since eighth grade. Now that we're actually starting to build our program back up I think it's actually enjoyable to come out and play," she said.

The Indians took a 15-6 first-quarter lead and had the Cougars playing from behind the entire night. Butler drained a shot just inside of half court a split second after the halftime buzzer that didn't count.

The Indians held a 30-18 lead at the break and came out of the locker room hot again, outscoring the Cougars 17-9 in the third quarter. Campbellsport came back with a 20-8 final quarter in which Kleinmans had to bring his starters back in twice when the game got close.

Kewaskum's hot starts and third-quarter bursts are common, "when we play at home," Kleinmans said.

"We get pumped up in the locker room and I think it just carries out. I think it's all mentally - we just psych ourselves up," Buker said.

"I think it's just getting us pumped up before the game. The game's we haven't won we've started out slow. The games we have won we came out fast, and we knew we had to come out fast, especially since it was Campbellsport, our rival," said Butler.

"Let's keep playing at home. If we could play at home every game that'd be awesome," Kleinmans said.

Butler scored 15 and had seven assists, three rebounds and four steals. Miller scored six and grabbed nine rebounds. Michelle Bohn went 3-for-5 from the field and her sister ran the offense well.

"I thought Elissa Miller played well. She only had six points but she did a lot of things good on defense, she was sprinting up and down the court," Kleinmans said. "Christine didn't score much but she came in and she ran the floor. Michelle got out of her little slump of shooting. She got six tonight. She had three nice shots. So that was key, too. It helps that she can score off the bench."

Indians win a thriller over their arch rival

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Kewaskum sophomore Joey Wollner summed up the situation pretty simply.

"Oh, it's a great feeling," Wollner said last Thursday night after he and his Indians teammates defeated visiting Campbellsport 41-27 to claim a share of the Eastern Wisconsin Conference wrestling crown.

With the win, Kewaskum wound up at 6-1, along with the Cougars, and Sheboygan Falls, which finished off the season with wins over Waupun (65-12) and Kiel (55-18) on Thursday and Friday.

Wollner, who had been struggling most of the season, picked an excellent time to pull off a big victory. Scoring a pair of takedowns and nearfalls in the final two minutes, Wollner defeated Cole Sippel 19-12 at 145 pounds.

This gave the Indians a 31-21 lead, which Brad Bentz stretched to 35-21 with a convincing 14-1 major decision over junior Payden Salm in a battle of state-rated athletes.

The win iced the victory for Kewaskum, which had claimed both the dual meet and tournament titles a year ago and won the EWC dual meet title in 2004-05 and 2005-06.

Bentz moved up a weight class in a move that KHS coach Dennis Aupperle had looked at during the week leading up to this showdown.

"They did a great job. They were really fired up," Aupperle said, praising his seniors and captains for the leadership they provide in the big matches.

And there were several other emerging "stars" who came out Thursday, including freshmen Brett Scoles and Logan Dreher at 103 and 112 where CHS coach Mark Peterson was figuring he might get two wins.

Scoles, currently ranked ninth among Division 2 103s, took on No. 4-rate Ryan Costello and beat him 11-5. Costello has one big move called a "cow-catcher," and Scoles got caught in it early but fought off his back to get a reversal so the score was 4-2 in Costello's favor after the first period.

Costello chose the neutral position to start the second period, and this time it was Scoles doing the attacking for a takedown and a nearfall for a 7-4 lead.

Scoles added another nearfall in the third period and Costello was whistled for an illegal move near the end as the KHS freshman helped the Indians draw to a 9-9 deadlock in the meet.

The match at 112 was also pivotal, and Dreher left no doubt he was the better wrestler on this night, shutting out Beau Oestreich, 8-0 on a pair of takedowns, a reversal and a nearfall in the closing seconds.

"I always practiced against him when I was at Campbellsport (Wrestling Club)," Dreher said. "I knew he was going to be a tough match. I just went out like I could beat him."

From then on, the meet took on all the characteristics of a chess match, with six Cougars moving up a weight in an effort to get some more victories.

Aupperle had hoped Jared Koffke would face Parker Peterson at 119, but coach Peterson moved his son up a weight class and forfeited to Koffke.

"That would have been a good match," Aupperle said, but the move worked for CHS which won by pin at 125 and 130.

Caleb Olla halted the run by beating Rashaun Sparks at 135 by a score of 7-2, then came Robbie Maertz's pin at 140, and the wins by Wollner and Bentz to wrap up the match. We really got a lot of momentum there," Aupperle said.

14 bouts. Both Seibels, Bo, who moved down to 160, and Cody, who moved up to 215, were dominant, pinning their opponents in under one minute.

It was a big night for Cody Seibel, who finished the EWC season at 7-0 and earlier in the evening was awarded the first Mike Farchione Memorial Wrestling Scholarship. Farchione was a state champion his senior year at Kewaskum. He was killed in an auto accident several years later.

Two years ago, Farchione's family started an annual golf outing in his memory, and the proceeds go to a KHS wrestler each year.

Seibel's 51 second pin over Eric Gonwa was the 118th win in his career, and even though he missed several matches because of an injury, he still has an outside chance at breaking KIEL- Even with several regulars sitting out the meet, the Indians' wrestlers had very little difficulty in beating Kiel last Tuesday evening in an Eastern Wisconsin Conference meet.

The Indians received 24 points from pins, another five from a technical fall and 24 more on forfeits on their way to a 56-21 victory, boosting their EWC mark to 5-1.

No question which was the best bout of the evening. It came at 135 pound where KHS senior Caleb Olla was pitted against Kiel's talented freshman Jay Wallace.

"One thirty-five was a good match," KHS coach Dennis Aupperle said. "I have heard about that kid (Wallace.)"

Wallace tried a throw on Olla in the early going, but it backfired and Olla scored a takedown off of it for a 2-0 lead, a lead he stretched to 7-0 in the second period when Olla successfully executed a double arm bar for a nearfall.

Olla then used two late reversals to come away with a 9-4 victory in the match.

"Caleb counters well, and he follows well," Aupperle said, indicating Olla has been very sharp in matches the last couple of weeks and is "looking like Noah (his older brother) looked his senior year, which is nice."

Aupperle also talked about another nice run, starting with pins by Derek Muckerheide and Austin Goeden at 125 and 130, then Olla's win, pins by Rob Maertz (140) and Brad Bentz (145) and a tech fall by Joey Wollner (152). Both Maertz and Bentz took care of business early, with pins in the first period.

Sitting out the match were Bo Seibel and Jared Koffke. Both were expected to be ready for Campbellsport on Thursday, according to Aupperle, who said Cole Roberts (189) hasn't been feeling well, so he decided to forfeit at that weight. "Thursday means something, and at that point we had it (match) wrapped up."

"We're happier than heck to have a part of the title," Peterson said, calling the season "a juggling act" since his 215 pounder didn't come out this

About losing Thursday, Peterson said, "We just weren't able to take out any of Dennis' studs."
