Indians send 6 to Madison

In Saturday's sectional finals at 215 pounds, Kewaskum's Cody Seibel puts Ross Groeschl in what looks to be a painful position in the third period before ending the match with a pin in 4:22. The victory was Seibel's third of the day and 30th of his senior season. His only loss of the year was a forfeit in the finals of the Marty Loy Tournament when Seibel was dealing with a shoulder problem he sustained during the football season.

By Judy Harlow

MILWAUKEE- In an amazing display of grit and determination, six Kewaskum High School wrestlers survived some tough competition at last Saturday's Division 2 Sectional at Milwaukee Lutheran and have earned the right to compete in this week's WIAA State Tournament.

Winning sectional titles were the brothers Seibel, Bo (33-4) and Cody (30-1) at 160 and 215, finishing second were Jared Koffke (30-10), 119; Caleb Olla (27-10), 135, and Rob Maertz (32-10), 140, while freshman Brett Scoles (30-11) moved on at 103 via his third place.

Bo Seibel will be making his third trip to state, while his older brother and Koffke are on the big stage for the second time.

"It was a very nice day," KHS coach Dennis Aupperle said after watching his team challenge for the sectional title, taking second place with 80 points, 16 of first that was won by Pewaukee (96).

Finishing third with 68 points was Valders, and rounding out the top five were Campbellsport (66.5) and New Holstein (54). With Campbellsport and New Holstein advancing five and four, respectively, the Eastern Wisconsin Conference (EWC) did extremely well, with 20 of its athletes qualifying.

Bo Seibel, who finished sixth at state a year ago, pinned Caynen Klessig of Valders in 2:56 in the finals after pinning Louis Nault of Catholic Memorial in 3:44 in the semis.

His toughest match came in the first round when he was pitted against John Schroeder of Ripon and fell behind 4-1 after the first period.

Seibel rode Schroeder the entire second period but couldn't turn him, so he had just two minutes left to score four points he needed for the win. He escaped for the first point, then took his opponent down, closing the gap to 4-3, and finally with :11 left he used his famous leg ride and power half to turn Schroeder for the winning nearfall.

"Yeah, I like to ride the legs," Seibel said about his winning move.

By his own admission, Seibel did not wrestle well early in that match and he said some of it might have had to do with the fact he was ill for several days last week.

"I came out stronger in my next match," Bo said, adding he is definitely optimistic about his chances at State. "Hopefully from the sixth last year, I can move up from there."

The elder Seibel posted pins in his first and third matches (over Ross Groeschl of Chilton in the finals in 4:22), The semifinal match vs. Pewaukee's Kent Girmscheid was a whole different story. Seibel pushed Girmscheid all over the mat for six minutes but only managed one point against the Pirate escape artist, who did leave Seibel with one souvenir, a puffy eye.

Cody Seibel needed no extra motivation to do well Saturday. The pain of finishing fourth in the 2009 sectional (after injuring his shoulder) still lingered with him this year.

"Yes, I did (think about it) a lot," Cody Seibel said. "The whole year I've been working toward this."

And how does it feel to be going to state with Bo? "To have me and my brother both win, it feels great!" Cody Seibel said.

Koffke lost in the finals 6-2 to Mitch Teeters of Pewaukee but came back nicely to outscore Joey Nelson of New Holstein 4-2 in overtime for second place.

Olla started off with a tech fall in the first round, then ran into his old nemesis, Tristan Rowley of New Holstein, in the second, losing 2-0. Coming through the wrestleback, Olla notched an 18-2 tech fall, and then beat Pewaukee's Chris Czech for second place 5-3 and "Caleb's Crusad-

ATV's tabled in Town of Kewaskum

Barton says their town code allows ATV use

By Kyle Zwieg

kyle@kewaskumstatesman.com

TOWN OF KEWASKUM- The Town Board wants a little more time, and perhaps a better-attended public hearing, before it considers opening up its portion of the Eisenbahn Trail for seasonal ATV riders.

The board voted Feb. 18 to table a change to its traffic code that would clear up its stance on recreational all-terrain vehicle use in the township.

"I would be interested in a trial basis, and I think that's what the county would want and end up doing anyway," said Supervisor Daniel Schmidt. "On the flipside, this is good for the economy. Instead of people traveling 150 miles to go on trails, they could do it here."

Action in the town of Kewaskum would eliminate another hurdle for the Kettle Moraine ATV Association, which is asking for permission to run ATVs on the trail

According to Anthony Cypcar, a member of the ATV association, the group wants to follow the same rules as those in Fond du Lac County, where ATV use is allowed on the trail from Dec. 8 through March 15 when the temperature dips below 28 degrees Fahrenheit.

The vehicles would be required to travel at speeds below 25 miles per hour to ensure the safety of other trail users and to avoid costly deterioration to the trail's gravel surface. ATVs were first allowed on Fond du Lac's portion of the Eisenbahn in the winter of 2007-2008. They are currently not allowed on the trail anywhere in Washington County, according to the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources website. Snowmobiles are permitted in the 7-mile stretch where ATV use is sought.

Hotel party is key topic of discussion at KCK workshop

Parents warned: Shay incident could happen to you

By Kyle Zwiig

kyle@kewaskumstatesman.com

KEWASKUM - The well-publicized actions of a local mother provided a key framing device at the first community workshop sponsored by Kewaskum Cares About Kids (KCK), a new partnership to educate parents on healthy youth development.

Gail Trapp, community liaison officer for the West Bend Police Department, offered a stern rebuke at the Feb. 16 meeting to parents who create a complicit environment for kids to experiment with cigarettes and alcohol.

Trapp singled out the case of Sarah Shay, the Kewaskum mother who received nearly $7,000 in fines for providing champagne and malt beverages to a group of middle school students at an overnight birthday party at a West Bend hotel last December. The boys and girls ranged in age from 11 to 14.

"You have to know about the other parents that your kids could hang out with," Trapp said. "Because you know what? They'll give your kids cigarettes, too. They'll give your kids alcohol if they do that with their own children. They think that's okay."

About 40 people attended the meeting, titled "Are you a COOL parent or are you a criminal," in a conference room at Kewaskum Elementary School. KcK is a new program of the Council on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse of Washington County, in partnership with parent volunteers, public officials and school administrators in the Kewaskum community.

Trapp discussed the state's drinking culture and parents' role in it, Wisconsin laws governing underage drinking, alcohol violation figures in West Bend, crimes related to alcohol use, and civil liabilities for adults who supply liquor to or allow others' children to drink.

Trapp said in a recent survey, 26 percent of Wisconsin adults 18 and older had admitted to driving under the influence of alcohol during the previous year. She also said Wisconsin has three times the number of taverns per capita than the national average.

"It's kind of expected," Trapp said of teen drinking. "We live in Wisconsin, which to some is considered the Beer Capital of the World. Of course you're going to drink beer. If it's accepted and OK, then we're expected to have that kind of behavior in Wisconsin. Is that necessarily a positive thing?"

In Shay's case, Trapp said that despite the presence of unused condoms in the partiers' hotel room, the department could not forward charges to the Washington County District Attorney because there were no injuries or sexual assaults reported.

"As a police department we looked at this complaint," Trapp said. "We couldn't charge her anything criminally through the DA's office because there wasn't anything that happened with any of the children that comprised neglect. There weren't any injuries. There wasn't anything sustained permanently with any of the children. No sexual assaults happened, luckily. That was the good part about the whole thing."

Most disturbing, Trapp said, is that the Shay case highlights how quickly parental control can be stripped away from even those parents with the best intentions.

Parents can legally give alcohol to their own children if they are present, but it is against the law even to give other parent's permission to provide it to their children. Even relatives can not give liquor to children who are not their own, she said.

"You sit there and you think as a parent, what kind of influence do you have? Now she has made that decision, and taken away those parenting decisions from 10 or 12 other parents without their knowledge," Trapp said. "She had all those kids staying in one room, with alcohol and condoms. That's not a good recipe."

The department did not fine the kids because they had been "shoved into a party situation and they were expected to drink." Many came forward and told their parents afterward.

"How do you expect a kid to say no to that? That was the problem right then and there," Trapp said.

KcK member Linda Dymond, senior program coordinator of Council on AODA, said she oversees education programs for parents and their kids charged with underage drinking or marijuana possession. Many parents allow underage drinking because "they're trying to teach their children a skill," she said.

"Lots of problems with that logic, but I hear it again and again and again. We don't need to teach a child how to drink," Dymond said. KcK meets the second Monday of each month from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at Little Folks School House, 1040 Milan Drive.

Additional meetings and workshops are also scheduled for special projects. A website that will link to the Kewaskum School District's main page is also in the works.

The next free parent workshop, "The Dark Side of the Internet," will be held on March 30 from 6-8 p.m. at the Kewaskum High School Theater. For more information or to register, contact Linda Dymond at 335-6898 or ldymond@councilonaoda.org.

By Amber Donath
For the Statesman

More than 150 people were in attendance for the Old Settlers Club Banquet celebrating Farmington on Sunday, February 21 at Fillmore Turner Hall. The event was hosted by the Washington County Historical Society and is the 22nd year in a row for this re-creation of a once-popular meeting of original county settlers. Visitors were greeted by students from Farmington Elementary School who are also members of Kettle Country Kids 4-H Club. Once inside Turner Hall, guests were treated to dozens of historical displays depicting building replicas and paraphernalia from Farmington and the surrounding area as well as a chance to visit with Miss Stephanie Broughton wearing an authentic re-creation of a Civil War dress sewn by her mother, Dotty Broughton of BackHome Arts. Following the meal, a multi-media presentation "Farmington: Our Town, Our Story" was featured that included pictures and video footage collected by the historical society of the history and evolution of Farmington and those who have lived there.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

Kewaskum...you rock!
The Kewaskum Community Pantry opened a few short months ago and is now open on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 7 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 - 11 a.m. It has been very gratifying and rewarding to serve these families, who through no fault of their own, are in need of food to feed themselves and their children. We do our very best to make them feel welcome, comfortable and not alone. Many of us are just one job away from being there ourselves. Until this economy turns around there will continue to be a growing need for our community pantry.

I am absolutely overwhelmed by the support we have already received from the Kewaskum School system, all of our area churches and their schools and the village itself for providing the space in the Annex building. The kick-off food collection, sponsored by the high school students during the annual Christmas parade was awesome. Your generous response assured us that we could count on your support from that day forward.

I also want to thank all of our volunteers and the individuals and families who generously contributed money, food, blankets and bags along with lots of food items. We are now serving over 20 families on a weekly basis and have new people coming in every day. This verifies the need for this type of assistance in our community.

So, when you and your families are sitting down together for a meal you can be grateful that you have provided the same essential needs for other people.

As Hiliary Clinton said, "It takes a village," And Kewaskum...you are one GREAT village! Keep up all of your good work.

ATV's on the Eisenbahn

Cypcar said his ATV organization was formed to promote "safe, responsible and enjoyable ATV riding in a family setting." It has about 30 member families and seeks "equal opportunity recreation" for ATV users on the trail during the winter months, he said.

Cypcar said it is necessary that each body has the same policies in regards to the ATV use. The ATV association has not and will not ask for year-round riding, he added.

"We have no intention of year-round riding," Cypcar said.

The group is working independent of Fond du Lac County ATV groups, but is asking for the same use standards to eliminate confusion and ensure safety. Cypcar told the board the ATV association had received parking permission from Lighthouse Lanes in the town of Barton and at the BP gas station in Kewaskum, both of which are located directly on the trail.

The Town Board voted last month to have its attorney review its traffic code and see if it needed to be changed in order to allow ATV use on its portion of the trail.

The change could potentially re-word regulations regarding off-highway recreational vehicles, which the ordinance defines as dirt bikes, power-driven cycles, minibikes and ATVs. The code excludes tractors, mopeds and motorcycles, which are allowed on highways when used by licensed operators.

Cypcar suggested a "permitted" section added to the code, which only lists vehicles that are prohibited from use. Schmidt and Town Chairman Ellis Kahn said there is some concern that allowing the ATV riders on the trail could lead to riders driving on road shoulders and other prohibited areas.

Kahn also asked the ATV association officials who would monitor the trail for safety on days when the conditions allowed them to be driven.

"We have trail ambassadors that go on," Cypcar said. "Washington County would also have to (pause) ... it's just law enforcement. We hear the same question. But in the same sense, who's monitoring the snowmobile trails? The snowmobile trails are only monitored by the Sheriff's Department when they see something going on. They don't have a trail patrol system intact, where the ATV groups do. We go out and ride up and down the trail and if we something happen we have the ability to notify the Sheriff's Department."

Schmidt said he wanted to closely compare the ordinances in Barton and the village to make sure they're the same, before taking action.

"We have to make sure our ordinance is the same as the village and the township of Barton," he said. "We certainly don't want to have differences when they come into our town, the village of Kewaskum and the township of Barton. We'd have to make sure that everybody's on the same page, especially when it comes to miles per hour, the time of day its open."

Schmidt was the lone supervisor opposed to the vote last month to review the code. The Eisenbahn Trail, a former rail line, is still owned by the railroad and is overseen by the state DNR. The Washington County Conservation, Planning and Parks Committee oversees is maintenance and management under the direction of the Washington County Board.

Schmidt said he'd like to hold a public hearing to find out what residents think about the proposed change.

"I am interested that there are not more people here tonight, since it was posted," Schmidt said. "I would like to receive more input from the public because it does impact people who live along it." The town of Barton discussed the issue at its own board meeting on Feb. 17 and took no action, according to Clerk Aggie Pruner.

The Barton Town Board stated it did not have anything in its ordinance that needed to be changed in order to allow the ATV use, and had no maintenance or enforcing authority over the trail, she said.

Memorial event honors Thull, helps FFA

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

The man they call Freon Leon who happily helped so many people in his life continues his work after passing.

Saturday's Leon Thull Memorial Scholarship Benefit at the Boltonville Fire House will raise money for Kewaskum and Campbellsport FFA members.

Thull and his brother, Alan, started Dairymen's Corner in Campbellsport 20 years ago fixing farmers' milking equipment day and night, weekends and holidays. Leon took over after Alan died. Between his business and serving as a Boltonville firefighter, an active member of St. Michael's Church and in many sportsman's clubs, Thull was well known in the area.

The town of Farmington resident died of a heart attack Dec. 8. He was 56.

Thull's family, including nine brothers and sisters, and friends organized Saturday's event.

"We just kind of wanted to honor him and keep something going. We're hoping that this will be successful enough that we can do it every year," said Shana Thull, who is married to Andrew, one of Leon's nephews.

Kevin Thull, Leon's brother, roomed with him for 42 years before marrying a couple of years ago. He saw his commitment to his customers firsthand.

"Always helping. If you needed something done, he found a way to get it done," he said. "He had service calls from 5 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night some days."

"Very, very giving, there for anybody. He was on call for these farmers 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Just a very selfless person," Shana said. He worked in a 60-mile radius, she said.

Payments came in a plethora of forms.

"If farmers couldn't pay him, they would barter. He didn't care. It didn't matter to him. It mattered to him that the farmer's business was up and running," Shana said.

Kevin said on holidays Leon would try to first talk customers through problems on the phone.

"He would rather do that than charge people a service call," he said.

The Freon Leon nickname came from going to school for refrigeration. Helping farmers save their milk from spoiling made Leon happy. The family is learning just how dedicated and cooperative Leon was while it hears from former customers across the area.

"A lot of people respected him. Everybody he's done business with - they always had nothing but good things to say and a good working relationship," Kevin said. "We kinda thought that but we didn't know until you deal with something." "We had over 1,000 people attend his funeral," Shana said.

Kevin said a constant stream of people continued for five and a half hours over the two-night visitation - "maybe 4-5 minutes when we sat down." Leon would barely sit down himself. When he wasn't working on work, it was something else.

Leon was a member of the Boltonville Fire Department since 1979, serving as president, director and most recently as lieutenant. He was in charge of entertainment for the department's annual picnic and street dance. His casket was placed in a fire truck and the funeral procession made a trip to the fire house before returning to Kewaskum.

The St. Michael's native was a lifelong member of St. Michael's Church, often helping with setup and takedown for the annual church festival, and was an active member of the Boltonville and New Fane sportsman's clubs - he'd cook smelt for the wild game feed for the New Fane club - the New Fane Kettle Riders, the Moose Lodge West Bend 1398 and a lifetime member of the National Rifle Association.

Beyond his dedication to his customers and community groups, Leon made time for family. He never married but was godfather to three and would sometimes visit his sister in Minnesota. First communions, baptisms, weddings - "very seldom missed any type of function," Kevin said.

Behind his dedication was always a smile and a good tale or two.

"Always comical, always seeing the funny side of things. A lot of people are going to miss a lot of laughing," Kevin said. "Always had stories for everything. Entertaining I guess would be the word."

Denis Thull, Leon's cousin, is putting a band together for Saturday's event. Denis and the Rim Shots will make its one and only performance, its polkas and waltzes trading songs with Vic Ferrari's "unplugged" rock music - something for the old and the young in honor of Leon, Denis said.

"Leon got along with the old people and the young people," he said. "He was an all-around great guy."

Fifteen to 20 people are organizing Saturday's event that features ice bowling, music, food and drink. It's something Leon himself wouldn't miss.

"He would like it. He'd be very proud because he liked to always see people happy," Shana said.

For more information, contact Denis Thull at 262-483-2080 or leonbenefit@yahoo.com.

AGNES GERTRUDE JOHANN

Agnes Gertrude Johann (nee Uelmen) was welcomed home into the Spirit of Love, God the Father and Jesus, on Wednesday, February 17, 2010 at the age of 94 years.

Song of Solomon 8:6-7
"Set me as a seal upon your heart, as a seal upon your arm: for love is strong as death.."

Agnes was a woman of faith who put her beliefs into action. Over the years she was part of group called Catholic Action and also a member of St. Michael's Altar Sodality.

Agnes was born in a little brown home in the town of St. Michael on June 29, 1915 to Joseph and Anna (nee Herriges) Uelmen, who owned a small farm and eventually ran the St. Michael's Store and Tavern. Agnes was one of nine, all who have preceded her in death, Alphonse, Sylvester, Joseph (Esther) Uelmen, Sally (Squinty) Greuel, Irene (Edward) Dreher, Alfred (Verona) Uelmen, Marie (Lawrence) Laatsch and Anthony Uelmen.

Agnes met her soul mate, Marvin, who she affectionately called Jim, on a blind date. They were married in Holy Trinity Church on June 23, 1933. They were married for 54 years until Jim's death on April 9, 1989. Together they lived through joys and struggles and lots of love. Together they built the Johann Plumbing and Heating business that existed in St. Michael's for 25 years.

Ecclesiastes 4:9-11 is the benefit of a bond between two people.

"Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labour. For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow.."

Agnes and Jim brought into life eleven children: Roger, who, while stationed in Iceland, was killed on a flight mission in the Air Force in 1955 and Robert, who died from TB in 1943, Ronald (Karen) of Kewaskum, Richard (Jan) of Campbellsport, Claude (Kerri) of Eagle River, Diane (Gerry) Schmidt of West Bend, Barbara (Terry) Hill of Aurora, CO, Jane of Palmyra, William (Harriet) of Meridian, KS, Mary (Dave) Neckuty of Green Bay and Jennifer (Jeff) Funk of Slinger.

Agnes was a generous woman with a strong sense of honesty and a great sense of humor. Agnes was a woman of opinion and firmly believed if you don't stand for something, you stand for nothing. She loved to read and could also tell lively and interesting stories! She created 24 scrapbooks over the years, filled with cards, letters and important Democratic items from the news. Her scrapbooks were a testament of life for her. She also would hand-cut valentines on St. Valentine's Day each year and made sure each of her children and grandchildren would get one.

Agnes made her home a place of welcome and happiness for all who came to visit. She always made room in her life for those who needed a place to stay or a warm meal. She remembered her grandchildren's birthdays with cards and little gifts for many years.

There were and are 25 grandchildren, Debbie (Chuck) Strassburg, Thomas (Heidi) Johann, Pamela (Mark) Johnson and son of Richie and Jean (deceased) Johann; Sherri (Jeff) Bannenberg, Leann (Gus) Karoses, and Candi (Sean) Riley, daughters of Claude and stepdaughters of Kerri Johann and daughters of Rita Johann; Michael (Donna) Johann, Lynn Johann, Steven (Katie) Johann, sons and daughter of Ron and Karen Johann; Dave, Andrea (David) Berndt and Nicholas (Jessie) Schmidt, daughter and sons of Gerry and Diane Schmidt; Eric and Jimmy, both deceased, sons of Terry and Barbara Hill; Tanya (Jon) Gunderson, Alanna; Nicole (Nicholas Bradshaw), Katrina (Jerry) Neckuty-Fodness, Val (Kevin) Odle, Dave (Kari) and Christopher (Jennine Reisenberg), daughters and sons of Dave and Mary Neckuty; Sara, Annie (Jeremy) Krenn, Lara, daughters of Jane Johann and Bill Reichart and Andrew, son of Jennifer and Jeff Funk.

The legacy of Agnes continues with 16 great-grandchildren and another one on the way! Tonya and Jon have a son, Jacob; Alanna has two daughters, Maria and Katelyn; Michael and Donna have a daughter, Lauren and a son, Dominic; Debbie and Chuck have a son, Brent; Sherry and Jeff have two daughters, Ramanda, Erin and a son, Jeff; Tom and Heidi have three sons Nathan, Austin and Craig; Annie and Jeremy have a son Ayden and a daughter Nadia; Steven and Katy have a son Christian and a daughter Kaydence; Pam and Mark have a daughter, Marissa; two sisters-in-law Dorothy (Willy) Weiss of Hartford and Florence (Joseph) Meunier of Kiel, nieces, nephews, other relatives and many friends.

Over the years, Agnes and Jim were fortunate to be blessed with so many good friends and happy times. God blessed their lives greatly and helped them to be strong in the difficult times. We thank God for the blessing of Agnes, our mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother, and friend in our lives!

Proverbs 31:10-12,30
"...the valiant woman loves her husband and merits his trust: she is a good housewife, is prudent and industrious, manages cleverly...she possesses wisdom, is charitable in her actions and in her words, and loves God: there is also bestowed upon her the praise of her children and of her husband."

A Mass of Christian Burial was held at 6:00 pm on Tuesday, February 23, 2010 at Holy Angel's Catholic Church with Father Gerald Brittain officiating. Interment took place in Phelps, WI. Visitation will be at the CHURCH ONLY on Tuesday, February 23 from 3:00 pm until time of mass (6:00 pm).

Last Tuesday night at around 9 pm, fire of unknown origin gutted the interior of the Stella Cheese Company warehouse located just north of the Northwestern railway station at Campbellsport, and for a time it looked as though the nearby residential buildings would also go, as there was a heavy wind of about 35 miles an hour blowing at the time. Although the fire was confined to the interior of the building, the loss will be about $10,000. It is also claimed that about $50,000 worth of cheese stored in the warehouse is badly damaged. The fire was noticed by Engineer Bashford in a southbound Northwestern passenger train when they pulled through the village shortly before 11 pm. The engineer sounded the locomotive whistle repeatedly until he succeeded in arousing the

IN MEMORY

God bless us for having known - Shirley and Ed Zastrow, Ruben (Bear) Oppermann, Sr. (Feb. 25, 1996):

You can shed tears that they are gone or
You can smile because they have lived
You can close your eyes and pray that they'll come back
Or you can open your eyes and see all they left
Your heart can be empty because you can't see them
Or you can be happy for tomorrow because of yesterday
You can remember them and only that they are one
Or you can cherish their money and let it live on
You can cry and close your mind, be empty and turn your back
Or you can do what they'd want:
Smile, open your eyes, love and go on.

KHS Trap Shoot Team continues growth in third season

By Kyle Zwiag
Statesman Correspondent

KEWASKUM- The Kewaskum High School Trap Shoot Team is heading into its third season, and its coaches are pleased to see the rapid growth of last year continuing into 2010.

The team was formed three years ago and had 21 students its first year, 42 students in 2009 and has thus far attracted 51 students for the season set to launch in March.

Students can join at any time, and the only eligibility requirements are passage of a hunter's safety course and meeting general eligibility in Kewaskum High School's athletic code. An informational meeting was held Feb. 23.

The club meets every Tuesday night at the New Fane Sportsman Club, and will participate in tournaments this year at Random Lake, Campbellsport and Hartford.

"It's something anyone can do, whether they're male, female, handicapped, not handicapped," said Jim Schaub, one of the team's six coaches. "Anybody can do it and anybody can compete. They can letter in it and then it's a lifelong sport."

Schaub is joined by Chris Weishan, Brian Taylor, Jeff Geidel, Dennis Gundrum and Al Ratzel on the coaching staff.

The team is not WIAA-sanctioned, but participating students can earn a club letter through Kewaskum High School. The team competes with other club teams from Campbellsport, Plymouth, Hartford and Random Lake high schools.

Weekly practices start the first week of March and the season ends the first week of June. Home meets are held Tuesdays and there will be a total of six competitions by season's end. Tournaments are set up to be fun and instructive to both novices and experienced shooters; a team's top five scores are tallied to decide the winning school.

Students are taught and compete in standard 16-yard trap shooting regulations, though they are also introduced to doubles, handicap and skeet.

"Besides learning the basics of trap shooting, they also learn other shotgun sports like doubles, handicap and skeet," Geidel said. "We don't really teach them a lot, we introduce them to it. Sixteen yards is what we teach and the others we introduce to them. If they want to pursue them they are able to. It's something a little different."

The Mayville Gun Club will host a statewide tournament in mid-May featuring more than 100 high school teams and about 500 students. Kewaskum High School's top team placed fifth in its division last year and then-sophomore Tanner Schaub won the prize for long run, which is for the most birds in a row from the first bird.

Every participant at this point has received some level of NRA Achievement Awards, the coaches said. Four of the coaches are certified by the National Rifle Association and Amateur Trapshooting Association.

The coaches are trying to attract more female members to the team.

"We'd like to see more female shooters," said Schaub. "I think we're probably going to have five this year. If we have enough we'd actually have a female team of shooters.

"The big goal is just to get more kids interested in trap shooting," he continued. "It really is a safe sport. If done right there really isn't a safer sport out there actually. Anybody can really do it. It's something you can do all over the country. Being up here this is really a trap shooter's dream. You can probably hit 20 clubs within 30 minutes of Kewaskum."

Sturgeon Record Falls - 212 Pound Monster Part Of Opening Morning

Driving east with the new day along Lake Winnebago toward Pipe, as far as the eye can see from horizon to horizon, shanties dot the ice of Wisconsin's biggest lake; 10,194 shanties in fact on this opening day of the 2010 sturgeon spear season. Inside, in the dark, men and women caught up in a tradition of spearing have thrown back the trap doors and plywood that have covered the window to Winnebago cut in the floor, lowered decoys of every size and imaginable design, and hung heavy iron spears above the hole in preparation for the prehistoric giant they are sure will appear this year. But really, just what are the odds?

More than 10,000 ice shacks seem to indicate that collectively anyway...those odds are good. Much sturgeon will without doubt die on this February morning. Water clarity is excellent, especially on the northern half of the lake and like a veteran Wisconsin deer hunter, many of these seasoned spear throwers will not likely miss if given the opportunity. Like the deer hunter too, patience is not a problem. Some of these veterans of Winnebago would take all of their vacations even over the three week seasons of yesterday, to stare down a hole into greenish-stained water and hope for a visitor.

But ponder the size of Winnebago, and even those collective odds will fall again and 10,000 shanties seem but a sprinkle of sand on the hardwater. The Lake stretches from Appleton to Fond du Lac, Wisconsin largest inland lake at 10 miles by 30 miles formed from Glacial Lake Oshkosh 12,000 years ago when ice blocked water from entering Lake Michigan at Green Bay. With no outlet the glacial lake "ponded", leaving 88 miles of shoreline and an average depth of 15.5 feet and very little structural change.

For the spearers, this is a tremendous hunting ground to hold a big game quarry; the lake sturgeon that is the envy of the world. Some will be grateful if even if the minimum sturgeon of 36 inches swims in. The odds, certainly, are that there are many more relatively "small" fish.

But what of a real monster. What of a sturgeon weighing 178 pounds, like the fish Dave Piechowski speared here for a new world record in 2006? Or a sturgeon over 200 pounds? State fisheries biologists have handled fish in spring spawning surveys for several years, but none has felt the end of a hunter's spear.

The ride continues on. Pipe is located roughly halfway "up" the big lake on the east side, one of many registration stations necessary to server thousands of spearers on the vast body of water and the upriver lakes of Poygan, Winneconne, and Butte des Morts. At Pipe, I walk into the registration station and meet the DNR professionals who will weigh, measure and age the sturgeon, check for age, and sex the sturgeon and with spearer's permission check stomach contents. Fisheries Program Specialist Al Blizel and Fisheries Technicians Bob Hoodie, Doug Rinzel and Tim Kroeff will be assisted by UW-Stevens Point Fisheries Students Colt Christopherson and Rebecca Pawlak in chores that will often leave them spattered in blood and up to the elbows in guts. What they do helps maintain the health of the population. It is a population that the experts believe is "at the top of its bio-mass" and nearing the carrying capacity of the system. It's a nice problem to have, since not long ago biologists worried about the health of the population and were forced to shorten the season depending on harvest numbers and enforce a cap system.

The team will also check for PIT tags on the fish, or Passive Integrated Transponders, which are imbedded under the skin of many of the sturgeon with a hypodermic needle during spawning and take the place of the previously used metal tags that too often became unattached over the years. PIT tags help track growth rates from the time the fish was tagged until harvest and the sturgeon's journey since tagging and is important in determining population estimates.

After almost two hours, Jim Dehn of Fond du Lac brings in the first sturgeon, a 47 pound, 59 inch fish that he brought to surrender at the hole with the help of Jim Berres of Kewaskum. Berres saw the fish first over 14 feet of clean water after a few shad scooted from the area, and gave the warning. Dehn stood up with spear, and made the lethal shot.

"I shot a very big buck several years ago and this was every bit as exciting as that," he said. "I'm still shaking."

Gary Schwantes of New Holstein was hunkered alone over his window to Winnebago just 15 minutes when he speared an 84 pound sturgeon that dared to cross his path. Perhaps...this spearing is easy, a new observer to Winnebago might ponder. Until Schwantes tells shares that he's been spearing for 30 years, and this fish is his first sturgeon.

"I said...is it big enough? Is it big enough? I'm going to take him..." Schwantes said, before letting the fish pass through high and releasing a perfectly thrown spear in 15 feet of water. "It sure made my heart go."

"It's probably spawned a few times already," says a Fish Tech listening to the story. "They come into maturity at about 35 years. This one has been in the lake longer than you've been trying to spear her."

In the end, it all comes down to numbers and odds, chances and luck. I have rubbed elbows with a very knowledgeable team of fisheries experts, the leader of this magnificent program; Ron Bruch, and two students from the UW-Stevens Point Fisheries program just beginning their professional journeys. I head south at the conclusion of day one and look west again to the sea of shanties now bathed in full light.

I reach home before the reports come over the line from Bruch's office. After one day of spearing, 68 juvenile females, 256 adult females and 191 males have been harvested on Lake Winnebago for a total of 515 fish, and 28 juvenile females, 38 adult females and 75 males have been speared on the upriver lakes for a total of 141.

And...the Wisconsin record has fallen. Ron Grishaber of Appleton has taken a 212 pound mammoth on opening morning of 2010, measuring in at 84.2 inches. Grishaber, just another dot on the ice, was in the perfect place at the time when the largest lake sturgeon in state history swam under his personal window to a very different world.

Long odds? Now that is more like a lottery win.

A CONVERSATION WITH RON BRUCH

Upper Fox-Wolf Fisheries Work Unit Supervisor Ron Bruch makes an appearance in Pipe, and rolls up his sleeves to help register fish. Bruch has steered this system fishery through good and bad to make the sturgeon population the envy of the world. But he places credit everywhere but on himself. Tomorrow, Sunday, for the first time ever Bruch will be in a shanty on the upriver lakes, trying to spear one of the fish he knows as well as anyone alive.

"It all starts with these guys," Bruch says, referencing his fisheries team. "They do everything necessary to make the fishery successful. This is a very unique situation. We have a huge lake with many different users focused on the same resource. We try to capitalize on the common denominator and manage the resource so that everyone can be satisfied. In many ways it's easier than trying to manage somewhere like Vilas County with hundreds of lakes. We have ers" celebrated his excellent performance.

"He did a nice job," Aupperle said about Olla, who just can't seem to get past Rowley, but "is right there with him."

Maertz also lost in the semis, falling to the eventual champion, powerful Jacob Zess of East Troy, 7-1, but he battled back, first surviving an overtime thriller against Jeremia Kramasz of Sheboygan Falls. The two were deadlocked at 6-6 after three periods, then in the OT, Maertz executed a beautiful "heel drag," took Kramasz down and to his back for a pin.

In his battle for second place, Brandon Schisel was whistled for a body slam and that was the only point in the match, thus Maertz won 1-0.

"Rob has put a lot of time into wrestling, and it paid off," Aupperle said.

Scoles drew the eventual champion in the first round, losing 7-1 to Winneconne's John Roycroft but he won his next match, pinning Chase Sturgeon for Tomorrow, Walleyes for Tomorrow, The Ottawa Fishing Club, Shadows on the Wolf, the Poygan Fishing Club; all these different groups full of people who are very good partners raising money and providing grass roots support."

When asked if the system is nearing its carrying capacity with sturgeon numbers, he is non-committal. "The carrying-capacity is the kind of thing that is not static," he says. "It varies from year to year, or decade to decade and century to century."

10,860 licenses have been sold and another 500 licenses drawn through a lottery system on the upriver lakes from 4,228 applicants. Reflecting the coveted nature of the lucky eligible 500 upriver spearers, a whopping 496 have actually purchased their license.

The upriver lakes guarantee a much higher success rate than spearers on Winnebago. The Upriver water, he said, offers a blend of migrating adults moving from the big lake and staging to spawn in the river, while also serving as a nursery ground for younger fish. The result is more fish in shallow water.

"There's a mix there of big fish and sub adult sturgeon beyond the legal size limit," Bruch said. "That's why the success rate on the upriver lakes is 67 percent while the success rate on Winnebago is 13 percent."

Schultz of Sheboygan Falls in a brief 1:22 and his next over Union Grove's Matt Pejovic.

That meant another rematch with Campbellsport's Ryan Costello for second, and once again it was a battle royal between the two.

After two minutes, the score was 4-4 and Scoles rode Costello for the entire second period. In the third, Costello chose down and Scoles again rode well and was working hard for an opening to turn his opponent. Costello was the one finding the opening, however, standing an escaping with :30 remaining for a 5-4 win.

"That's the most kids we've had down there," Aupperle said. "They're all good kids. I think they've all got a good shot at placing."

Kewaskum's other three wrestlers did not advance. Derik Muckerheide (16-18) was eliminated after losing in the first round, while Austin Goeden (15-11) lost to the eventual winner and runnerup, and Joey Wollner (11-19) had the same fate.

Indians hold on to second place in conference

TWO RIVERS - Kewaskum's conference title hopes remain alive but on life support after playing three lousy quarters in beating a bad team and executing well start to finish in losing to a good one.

Kewaskum is now 9-3 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference, behind 11-0 Sheboygan Falls. The Indians have to win their last two and Sheboygan Falls has to lose its last three to force a tie. The two meet in Kewaskum in the conference finale March 5.

The latest and better effort, a 58-54 loss last Friday at Two Rivers, Kewaskum's northernmost EWC rival, turned in a 17-second stretch in the third quarter.

The Indians took control of a close game in building a 30-22 lead with 3:14 left in the third on two free throws from Anna Butler, two shots while fouled from Candace Beine and Haley Rauch - they missed their free throws - and a sneaky inbounds bucket by Beine on a slick Butler pass.

Two Rivers' Amy Mohr answered with a hoop and harm of her own at the 2:42 mark. Mohr missed the free throw but First-Team All-Conference player Becca Diedrich grabbed the rebound, hit a shot and got fouled. She missed her free throw but the rebound went off of an Indian out of bounds. Raider Calli Wachowski then drained a three and it was 30-29 with 2:24 to go.

Two Rivers scored seven points in 17 seconds, took the momentum back and soon the lead, one it wouldn't let go of thanks to free throw shooting. The Raiders made 20 of 24 shots from the line in the fourth quarter to the Indians' 11 of 18.

"Up 30-22 and we didn't box out. That's where the turning point was. We never got the ball across half court. That's where we kind of lost it," said Coach Mike Kleinhans. "We didn't box out. Maybe it's my fault that I didn't call a timeout. We didn't think there was a need."

"That's where we really just kind of got crazy and just let everything go," said Rauch. "I even said in the huddle, 'We've got the lead, keep it that way. Play like we have the lead.'"

Diedrich, a 6-foot-1 monster inside with good moves and shooting touch to match her size, went 8-for-8 from the line in the last quarter. She picked up two fouls early, didn't play the second quarter and fouled out with 2:07 to go but the Indians couldn't take advantage. It was 47-42 when Diedrich left and the Raiders stretched the lead to eight with seconds to play.

Diedrich and Rauch tied for a game-high 22 points each. Rauch was 8-for-13 from the field (61 percent). Eight points came in the first when she hit four of her first five shots.

"I've been working hard in practice. I know it's the end of the year and you've really got to push and show everything you've got," she said, chalking up some of her points to communication with her point guard. "Me and Butler clicked today."

"Haley Rauch was friggin' insane," said Kleinhans.

He was happy with many of his players.

"Candace played a good game tonight, too. Christine Bohn came in, did her little thing. Haylie Hansen played some really good defense. Again, Erica Rammer - she just doesn't show up (in the box score) but she does all the little things," he said. "Anna looked for her shot, didn't force anything. She's playing the mentality of a point guard, the leader on the team."

Kewaskum ran a crisp offense as it committed a season-low seven turnovers.

"Coach is really on us about turnovers. He keeps giving us a goal and makes us go lower and lower," Rauch said.

The Indians fought until the very end, when Butler banked in a three as time expired. The Indians kept fouling to get the ball back, and the Raiders kept hitting their free throws.

"The one thing is I'm not going to give up on 'em. I don't think we gave up in the last two minutes. We went until five seconds and I called a timeout," Kleinhans said. "Why do you give up, right? I tell the kids I'm never going to give up and they tell me they're never going to give up."

The Raiders used another burst at the end of the first half to take the lead. With Diedrich out, Kewaskum built a 19-15 advantage. A long jumper by Jessica Hrdina cut it to 19-17 with 33.5 seconds to go. With a few seconds left, Mohr was fouled, made her first free throw and missed her second. Jenna Buker grabbed the rebound but had it knocked away and Kristin Plasky put in a layup as time expired.

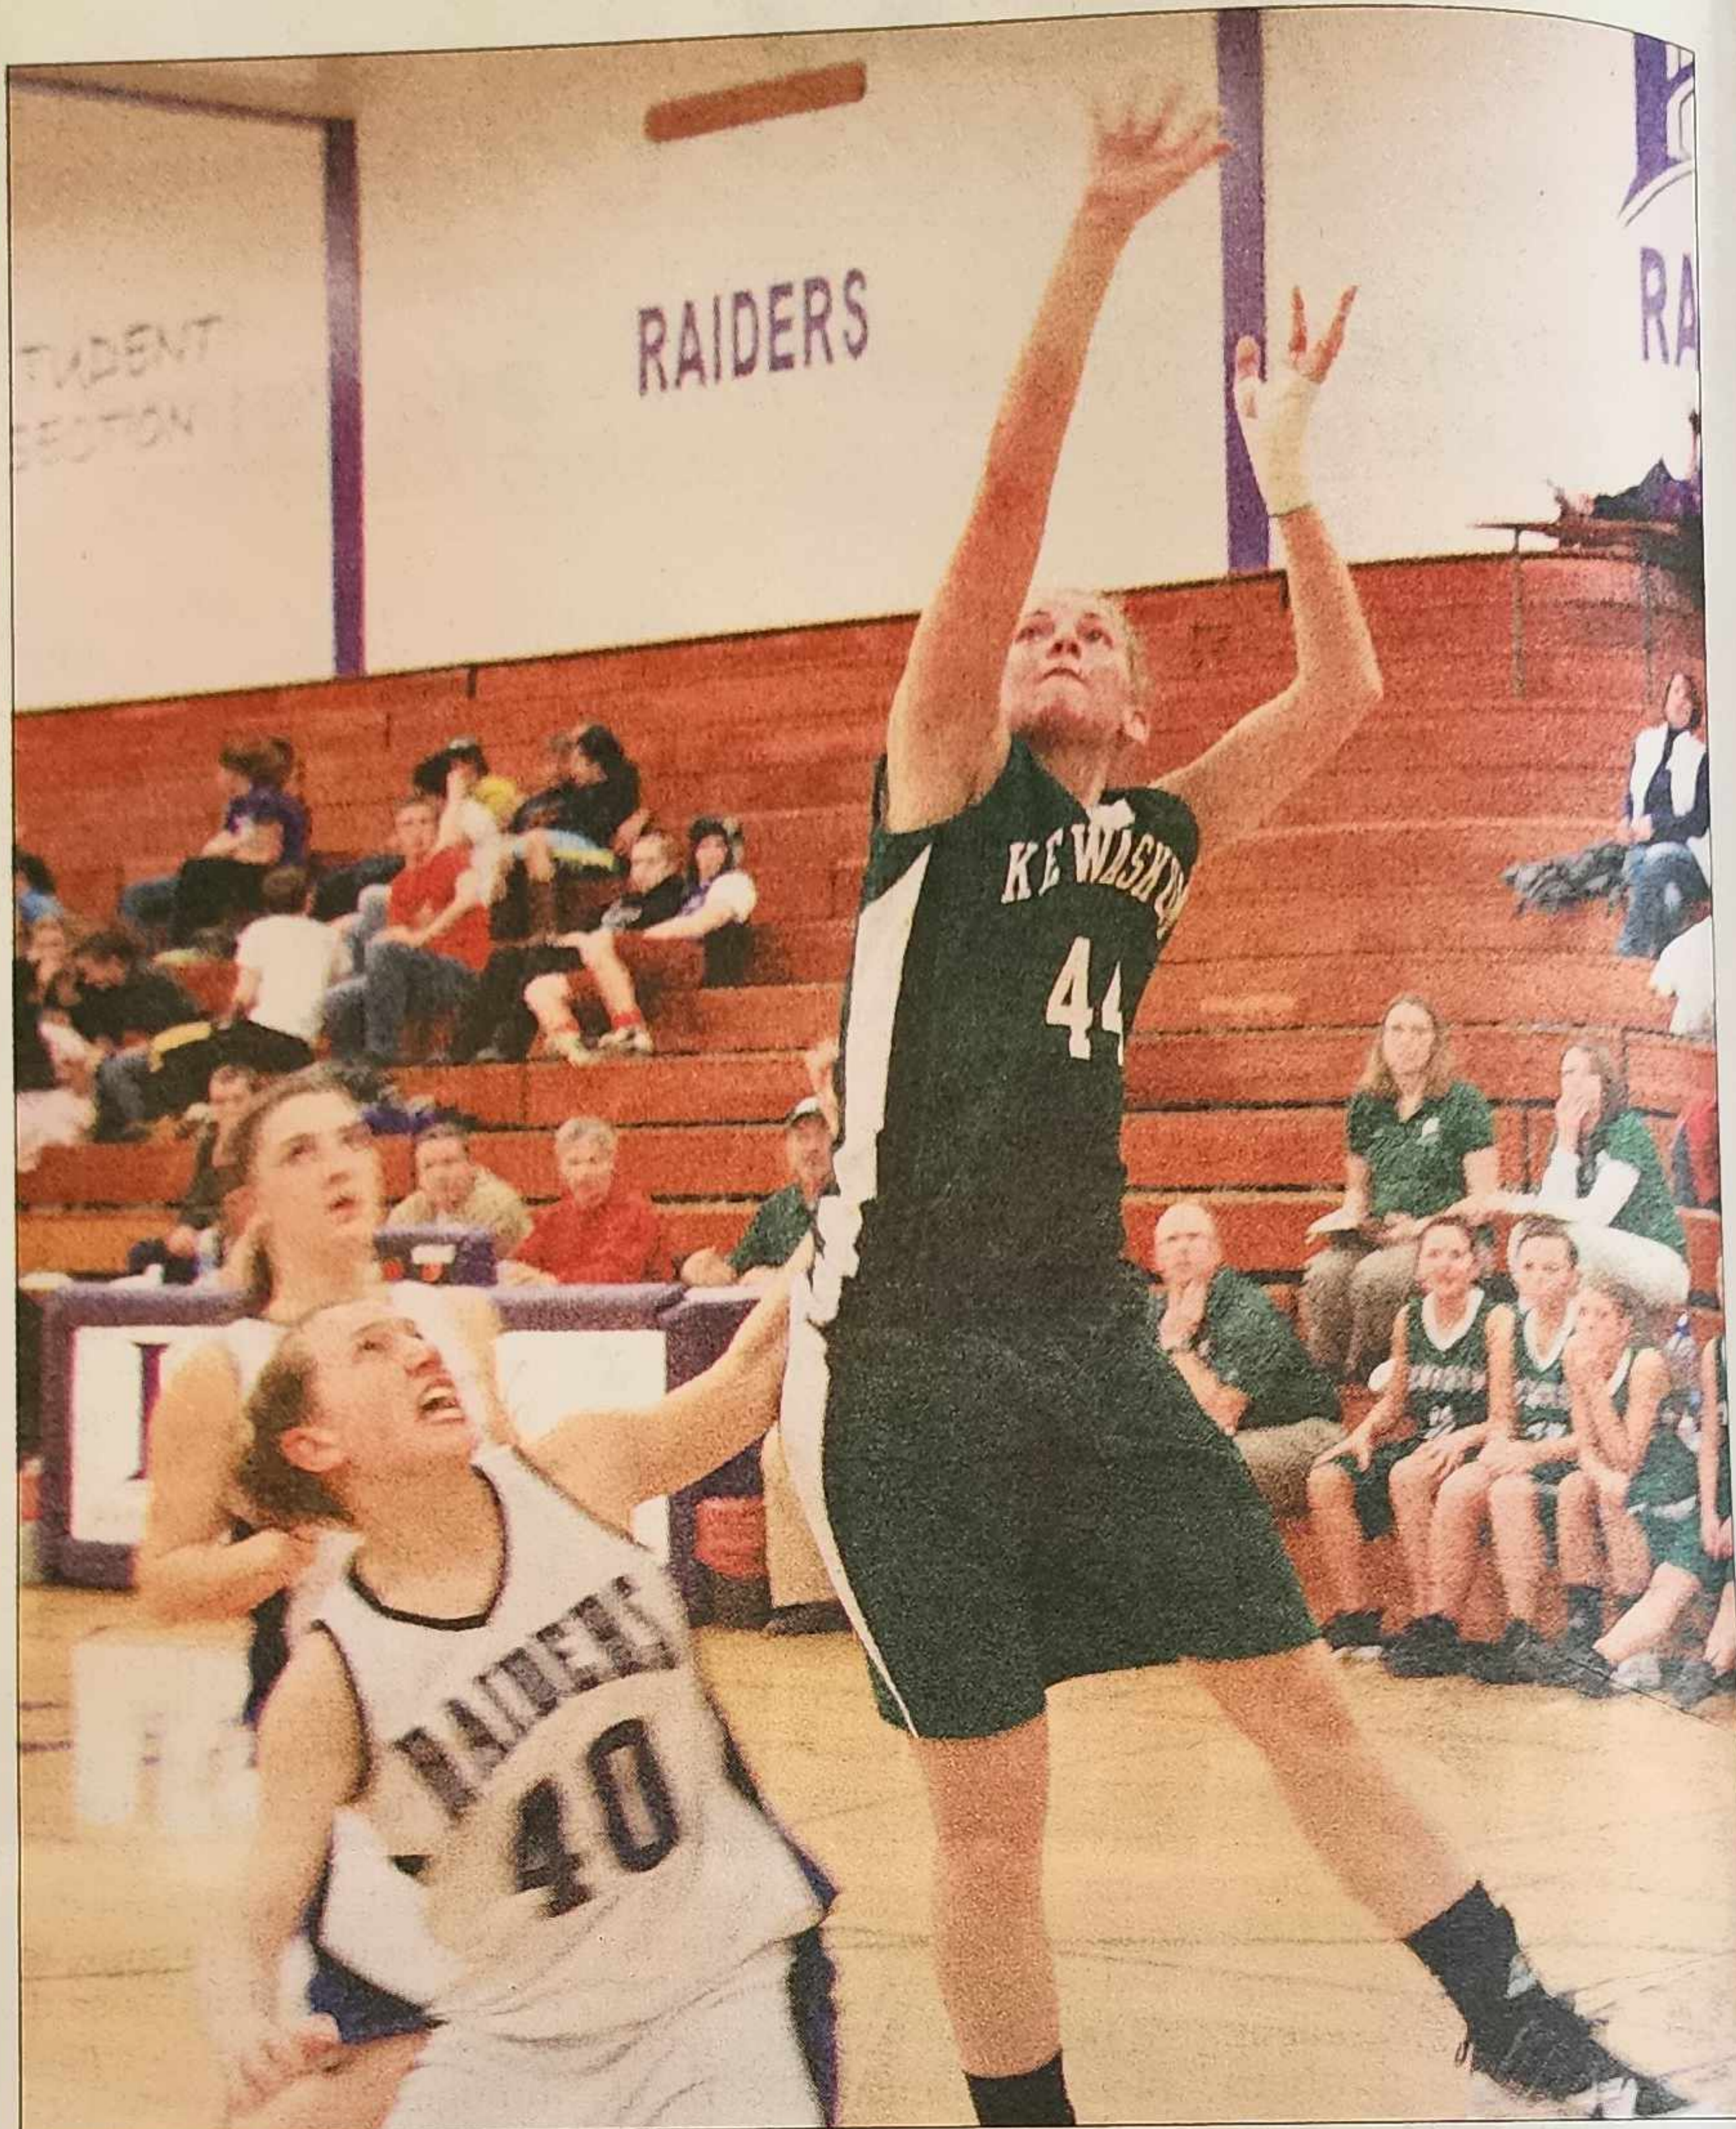

Two Rivers scored five points for a 20-19 lead at the half.

The Raiders were 24-31 at the line for the game to the Indians' 14-for-26, a reversal of the Jan. 15 game in Kewaskum. Then, Two Rivers was 5-for-9 and the Indians 25-for-34 in a 42-36 Kewaskum victory.

Kewaskum, 12-6 overall, maintains a one-game lead on second place in the EWC. Two Rivers is 8-4 and Plymouth 7-5.

The Indians now turn into Two Rivers fans. Sheboygan Falls hosts the Raiders on Thursday and 0-11 New Holstein on Saturday.

After playing Ozaukee on Tuesday, the Indians host last-place New Holstein on Thursday and highly ranked Lomira on Monday.

KIEL - Kewaskum jumped out to an 11-1 first quarter as Rauch carried the Indians on an off night to a 45-29 win Feb. 16. Rauch scored 16 points on 7-for-9 from the field, the only Indian in double figures. At one point midway through the third quarter, Rauch had 13 points, matching Kiel's entire team.

"We kind of just swung it around. I was hot in warm-ups and when I got it open I went for it," Rauch said. "I just kind of kept feeding Anna and she kept feeding me back."

Kleinhans would have liked more intensity from his team, especially against a team that played all sophomores besides one senior. He pointed to the second quarter, often Kewaskum's Achilles heel this season. The Indians outscored the Purple Raiders 10-7.

"We let 'em right back in the game," he said. "We've got to play better than what we played tonight. Bottom line is we've got to play better. It's a win but for me it's not a very good win."

Elissa Miller added nine points, including a three-pointer in the third quarter after the Kiel coach read Kewaskum's play. Ryan Zellner yelled to his team that the Indians would throw it inside to No. 31 (Buker). Miller got the ball beyond the arc, was left open and let it fly.

Rauch grabbed seven rebounds and Miller five. Butler scored a season-low two points.

"Haley Rauch played a good game. Elissa Miller came through again, made her free throws, hit a three," Kleinhans said. "Haylie Hansen came off the bench and gave me some good minutes. She had three rebounds, assist and a steal."

While the Indians lacked oomph, Kiel lacked aim. The Purple Raiders had no problem finding the basket but couldn't put the ball through it, going 2-for-22 in the first half and falling behind 21-8. They shot enough bricks to dig themselves out of just about any hole, but basketball doesn't work that way.

Kleinhans was able to clear off his bench late in the game, a goal he repeats to his starters. "If we come out strong right away then we get everyone in and everyone gets happy and gets to play," Rauch said.

The game was a near repeat of the Jan. 7 match in Kewaskum. The Indians pitched a first-quarter shutout, 7-0, before losing the second quarter 19-10 for a two-point halftime deficit. Kewaskum came back to win 48-37.

Notes: Hit the fire alarm when Rauch starts shooting. She is 15-for-22 (68 percent) from the field the last two games.
