Kiwanis Park Tragedy Kewaskum man dies after drowning

Two Kewaskum Kiwanis Park Pool lifeguards share their sorrow after a 20-year-old Kewaskum man is removed from the water after being missing under the water for 40 minutes on Sunday, June 20.

KEWASKUM- A 20-year-old rural Kewaskum man is dead after drowning in Kewaskum's Kiwanis Park Pool on Sunday, June 20. This is only the second drowning in the pool's three decades of use.

Alexander J. Becker, 20, of Kewaskum was pronounced dead at Froedtert Hospital on Monday, June 21, less than 24-hours after members of the Washington County Dive Team rescued him from the pool.

Kewaskum Police and Fire Departments responded to Kiwanis Park along with the Kewaskum Rescue Squad at approximately 2:50 p.m. after lifeguards at the pool reported a man had not resurfaced after diving into the water and surfacing once. Kewaskum Police Chief Richard Knoebel explained that according to officers responding, lifeguards saw Becker dive approximately nine feet into 12 feet of water performing a back flip from a diving board from the swimming platform, landing on his stomach.

"He came up at first and then slipped beneath the water," Knoebel further explained.

A number of firefighters, two being members of the dive team, responded from their homes to the park and assisted the lifeguards in securing the perimeter and prepared the dive team equipment. They later entered the water and performed a search. Members of the Washington County Dive Team arrived after about 30 minutes and also entered the water. They shortly located Becker, after he was under water approximately 40 minutes.

"At this point in time the cause of death is under investigation, an autopsy will be performed to determine a exact cause of death. It is not known whether Alexander suffered from a medical event prior to his recovery. Alcohol use is not suspected," Knoebel concluded.

Village Administrator Matt Heiser indicated the pool closed following the incident on Sunday and remained closed until Tuesday morning. He indicated pool procedures are being reevaluated by staff to ensure maximum safety for users of the pool.

A history of the pool can be found on page 5 of this edition.

Principals play musical chairs

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

Kewaskum Middle School Principal Ken Soerens' recent decision to retire has triggered a bit of administrative musical chairs across the school district.

High school principal Christine Horbas will take over for Soerens as middle school principal and Kewaskum Elementary School Principal Tom Fischer will replace Horbas at the high school.

Fischer's position has been posted as the district looks to replace him.

"What we're trying to do is simply put people in the best positions ... for what our needs are right now," said Michael Krumm, Kewaskum's superintendent.

Soerens' recent announcement was a surprise, Krumm said. He figured Soerens may stay another year.

Soerens, who has been in education in Kewaskum for 36 years and planned on retiring in a year or two anyway, said the schedule change at the middle school to be implemented next year was the biggest factor in his decision.

"I just think it's time for a younger person to take over," he said.

The middle school is getting rid of its house system and having teachers teach multiple grades such as sixth and seventh, and the schedule is going from an eight-period day to seven. Teachers will teach six of the seven periods rather than five of eight.

"It's a big change for the staff," Soerens said.

Soerens has been the middle school principal the past 14 years. Before that, he taught social studies at the high school for 22. He said the middle school teaching staff has taught multiple grade levels in the past, but that was before he became principal.

"We're happy for him and he served the district very, very

Village Board passes ordinances, other changes

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

The village reminds residents of a new rule this year that allows tarps to be put down at River Hill Park beginning at 6 a.m. on July 1 to reserve spots for the annual fireworks display.

The village in the past has had problems with people putting down tarps up to a week early which gets in the way of mowing lawn.

Any tarps placed before 6 a.m. on July 1 will be picked up by the village and can be reclaimed by their rightful owners.

The Village Board voted 3-1 last year to implement the tarp restriction after a lively debate on how to regulate the celebration of a great nation founded to rid itself of regulation.

Meeting Change

The village will hold only one meeting in July. It will be held July 12.

Tobacco ordinance approved

The Village Board on Monday unanimously adopted the state's new tobacco law as a village ordinance.

The new law only allows tobacco use in an outside area that is a "reasonable distance" from the entrance of the bar, restaurant or business.

While smoking can be done outside, Police Chief Richard Knoebel said patrons may not take their drinks outside.

Business owners with customers violating the new law and people themselves may each be fined $177 for a violation. But business owners may only be fined once per day. People may be fined multiple times, said Knoebel.

Violations may not be used in determining whether or not to allow a business a liquor license, Knoebel said.

Beyond that, Village Administrator Mathew Heiser said municipalities may not regulate "reasonable distance." The businesses themselves do that.

Dairy Queen owner and former trustee Kevin Scheunemann argued against putting the law in the municipal code. He said the issue is not about smoking but about property rights.

Fireworks ordinance approved

Beyond already not being allowed to set off fireworks that shoot into the air within the village, the Village Board on Monday adopted prohibiting the sale of them as part of its municipal code.

At June 8's board meeting when the ordinance was introduced, Police Chief Richard Knoebel mentioned an incident last year in which fireworks were set off at Kissy's that nearly started a fire.

"It would have been a very good possibility it could have burned that whole row of buildings down," he said.

The state law is complicated and long, said Village Administrator Mathew Heiser. It allows the sale of fireworks that Knoebel is not comfortable with.

"We just don't want people coming in here selling the exploding stuff or stuff they don't know where it's going," Knoebel said.

Former trustee Kevin Scheunemann argued against the ban on June 8, saying if the village uses the logic of banning things that can hurt people it must also ban other things like alcohol. He suggested making a permit cost $500 and taking a heavier regulatory sales approach instead.

The police and fire chiefs didn't buy it.

"Somebody's going to get hurt," said Fire Chief Mark Groeschel.

"I don't like to regulate a lot of stuff but this is a problem," Knoebel said. He said West Bend even bans the use of snakes, which Kewaskum would not.

Scheunemann said banning the sale of the fireworks in the village won't stop people from using them in the village.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Wisconsin voters have a clear choice in the upcoming election-the Jim Doyle and Tom Barrett record of tax hikes and big government or Scott Walkers plan to cut taxes for everybody, Shrink government and bring jobs to Wisconsin. Last year the Barrett-Doyle agenda cost 163,000 good paying Wisconsin Jobs.

Jim Doyle and Tom Barrett have supported Global Warming ?????????? legislation that would mandate billions of dollars of new spending to produce the exact same energy that we use today. This would cost Wisconsin 43,000 jobs.

$810 million boondoggle train- Barrett and Doyle have been in lock step with the Obama administration in supporting the some what high-speed rail line from Milwaukee to Madison. Walker noted that according to the federal government's own estimate, the project would only create 55 permanent jobs- that's 14.5 million per job, not including any hidden costs. Study after study show that the rail fares are likely to cover only 20%. You guessed it the other 80% will be paid by you through higher taxes and fees.

Earlier this year, Scott Walker outlined his program to bring 250,000 jobs to Wisconsin that lowers taxes and eases regulations so people, not government, can create jobs.

Scott Walker has good plan for Wisconsin's future and he has proven from his past experience that he can make it work.

well," Krumm said of Soerens.

School Board President John Kenworthy commends Soerens for his service and said the retirement allows the district "to move some people around and put them in places they would thrive."

"I think it's going to be for the best for everybody and it sets us up for the future," he said.

Horbas taught middle school for six years in the Fond du Lac school system and said the move makes things "kind of come full circle."

"It was a shock to me that they wanted me to go to the middle school but we don't always know why things are chosen for us in life. My career has always been about servicing children, not moving up the career ladder," she said.

Horbas said she could apply for a superintendent's license for the past eight months but chose not to do so in order to work more directly with children.

After teaching middle school, Horbas taught at Goodrich High School in Fond du Lac for two years and then became associate principal at Brookfield East for four years. In 2003, she came to Kewaskum as high school principal.

Horbas didn't become a teacher until she was 32. She had worked as an assembly lead at Leeson Electric in Grafton and ran a lathe at Tecumseh Power Products in Grafton and worked at Level Valley Dairy in various positions - from wrapping butter to driving semi to a lab tech - before going into education.

Fischer has been Kewaskum Elementary School Principal for three years. He was associate principal of the high school for two years before that, so he is going back into a familiar situation.

He said the district asked him to become high school principal.

"It seems like a good fit. I know the staff. I know the direction. It was a nice opportunity," he said. "It should be a good experience, a good challenge. A good staff over there."

Fischer is proud that the elementary school has improved its reading program and moved recess to before lunch instead of after. Students come in more hungry and thirsty, eat more of their lunch and get a chance to calm down before class, he said. He also worked on improving recess behavior, namely bullying.

The school already is issuing the new type of report cards that show a breakdown of students' skills. Instead of just one grade for reading, the card will show which specific skills at which students have learned and which need improvement. The middle school and high school is going to a similar system, Fischer said.

Fischer has also instituted a new science curriculum including a science fair and a science lab in the school.

From Kenosha, Fischer started his career by teaching high school English and then served as dean of students.

Kiwanis Club to use July 3rd funds for new JAWS

July 3rd is the Kewaskum Fireworks and a great time to share and visit with friends.

This year, the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club has designated their sale of soda, popcorn, Dairy Queen treats, and glow novelties as a fund raiser for the Jaws of Life Unit that is in desperate need of replacement. As this unit was originally donated to the Fire Department by the Kiwanis Club 19 years ago, The Kiwanis Club would certainly be instrumental in its replacement.

As Kiwanis is a service organization, focused on the youth of the Community, what better focus to have right now than to raise funds for a new Jaws of Life unit. This will not only be of a help to the youth, but to all people in our community.

Please watch for/look for signs designating that this is a Kiwanis booth and generously purchase soda, popcorn, Dairy Queen Treats, and glow items from these people.

Remember, you will be helping your Community by doing so.

History of Kiwanis Park Pool

(Reprinted from Kewaskum Statesman September 3, 1976)

Board Discovers Completion of a Village Park is No Simple Matter

Completion of a village park is no simple matter, as the Kewaskum Village Board and Plan Commission are finding out.

The idea began to take form several years ago when some of the community's leaders had begun to realize that the time had come to modernize the village's swimming facility. As many people in the village did not want a pool, they turned their attentions to the construction of a pond.

In 1972, the DNR, at the request of village officials, began a study of the village with reference to a park site. When finished a year later, it concluded that a new facility is necessary, and that it should be constructed on the west or southwest part of the village, since the present village park and high school are in the eastern half.

They recommended three different sites as worthy of consideration, the lands on which the firehouse is being built, those owned by Viola Spoerl, which were eventually purchased and property owned by Mrs. Ada Meilahn.

Otto Backus' land, north of town, was ruled out because it is located too far outside the village limits to be practical, does not have enough access roads, and is not in an area recommended by the DNR study.

The next step was to get appraisals of all of the sites, to determine which of them, if any, would be suitable for purchase.

At the same time, (then) Trustee Dan Schmidt, was given the task of doing a survey of the communities of Kewaskum's size, to find out what types of swimming facilities they had, and how their swimming attendance has changed. A total of 23 villages were sent questionnaires of which 10 responded and were subsequently included in the report.

Each was asked six different questions in order to determine each facility's size, other nearby facilities, such as a bathhouse, attendance, length of use, cost per year and change in cost. Recommendations of the officials of each village were also requested.

Of those who did respond, seven had pools made of concrete. Some of their advice included keeping such a pool small to reduce the cost, build as a joint effort between the school system and the village, and above all, if a pool is built, it should be built indoors and heated so that it can be used year round.

Those who had a pond did not seem to regret their decision, but noted that a proper location for it must be found, so that it does not interfere with other recreational areas, and can receive maximum use. Good lifeguards would also be a great asset, and it may be necessary to change the sand along the edges from time to time. Sand does not be the major cause of turbid in the water, which would be the major drawback as compared to a concrete pool.

A natural pond does seem to have two significant advantages over a pool, however. First of all, it would only cost about 1/10 as much to build, and secondly there seems to be a general drop in usage in a concrete pool as time passes. In a seven-year period, attendance at one pool dropped over 34% to 23,000 uses per year and showed little sign of picking up again. No such trend was noted in ponds.

Once the decision had been reached to begin the actual process of purchasing the land for the park site, an option was taken on 34 acres owned by Viola Spoerl. Prior to that time, an appraisal had been done on it, as well as other sites, and negotiations began to determine a sale price.

In September, 1973, the village board passed a resolution authorizing the Village of Kewaskum to participate in the Outdoor Resources Action Plan (ORAP-200 Local Park Aids) and accepted the findings of the Outdoor Recreation Plan, which had recently been completed by the DNR. This was a necessary step in order for the village to become eligible for state funding.

Negotiations continued throughout the winter and into the spring of 1974 between the village and Mrs. Spoerl on a purchase price for the site and a mutually beneficial method of payment. The option expired on June 2, so a new one had to be taken out at that time, since both parties were still interested in completing the transaction.

Simultaneously, the Kiwanis Club of Kewaskum was contacted to see if they would be interested in donating any funds to the village for the purpose of aiding in the completion of the park. They agreed to do this without any stipulations as to how the money would be spent, and in appreciation, it was agreed that the village would name the new facility the "Kewaskum Kiwanis Park." In December 1974, a check was received by the village for $77,000 and was added to the park fund.

By that time, some of the problems had been ironed out between the village and Spoerl and a purchase price of $76,007.80 was agreed upon. When it looked like this would be the site that would eventually be purchased, the process of selecting an architect began, and many replies from various firms were received. In the end, Arthur and Associates of Fond du Lac was felt to be the best firm for the job and was hired in the spring of 1975.

On December 18, 1974, the Kewaskum Village Board, by a 7-0 vote, exercised the option held on the 34 acres owned by Spoerl at a cost of $76,007.80. An application for funding the land acquisition had been previously filed with the State of Wisconsin under the ORAP program, so the cancelled check was cop-

Campbellsport man dies after electrocution

On Saturday, June 19, 2010 at 6:34 am the Fond du Lac County 911 Center received a report of an electrocution at N5435 Pine Rd in the Town of Empire. Fond du Lac Sheriff's Deputies, Mt Calvary EMS, Eden First Responders and FDL Fire Dept Paramedics responded to the scene.

Investigation shows a group of men were pouring a concrete floor in a garage when Nicholas A. Klotz, 29, from rural Campbellsport, was bow floating the concrete, raised the pole from the bow float and came in contact with a 7200 volt power-line.

Klotz was taken to St Agnes Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

A 47 yr old man and his 26 yr old son were also taken to St Agnes where they were treated and released.

The Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by Alliant Energy and the Fond du Lac County Medical Examiner's Office.

ied and the copy was mailed to them as proof that the land had actually been purchased, so that funding could be received. No funds are allotted under this plan, until the item in question is completely paid for; only then does the program reimburse the local government for between 10 and 65 % of their cost.

At this point, the task became to find out what facilities would be best suited for Kewaskum's special recreational needs. The engineer began working closely with the village board and the Kewaskum Plan Commission in trying to find out which facilities should be included, rejected, or thought about for the park, and if included, discussed where it should be located within the site.

Special attention was given to plans for the pond, since "it had the number one priority," so plans for it were completed before all the others. Once the location and shape were decided upon, test borings had to be taken to determine whether or not the soil in the area could support the pond. They were done in August, 1975 by J. Roger Miller and Company of Sheboygan, and again in August, 1975 by the Soil Conservation Service. This same month, the funding check was received from Madison in the amount of $28,502.92, which was exactly half of the appraised value of the land, instead of its purchase price.

The detailed plans for the pond and bathhouse were ready by July, 1976 and were approved by the village board with minor corrections at that time.

Washcovik Construction Company of Green Lake was awarded the excavation bid on the pond for $39,924.40.

Derge Scholarships awarded

ABOVE: Patti Alice and Scott Derge present a check to Eric Shaske. BELOW: The Derges present a check to Mitch Keller.

Mitch Keller and Eric Shaske each received funds from the Ben Derge Gridiron Scholarship.

Keller is a 2008 Kettle Moraine Lutheran High School graduate. He is a student at UW-Milwaukee.

Shaske is a 2009 graduate of Kewaskum High School.

The Ben Derge Gridiron Scholarship Foundation was established by Scott and Patti Derge in memory of their son Ben. Ben passed away suddenly on November 22, 2006 from a Cerebral Arterial Venous Malformation at the tender age of 13.

Because of Ben's passion for football and his wonderful experience playing Kewaskum gridiron football, Scott and Patti took that direction with the scholarship. Any graduating student who played Kewaskum Gridiron football for at least one year may apply at Kettle Moraine Lutheran, Living Word Lutheran or Kewaskum High School for this scholarship.

The scholarship is independently funded by Scott and Patti Alice Derge.

Kiwanis, C of C holding golf outings to benefit community projects

Golfers and non-golfers alike, your community needs you! Two local organizations want to help the community but they need your help and want you to have fun in the process.

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce and Kewaskum Kiwanis Club will use funds from two separate outings to fund a building for the Kewaskum Community Pantry and to help pay for a new JAWS unit for our fire department.

The Kiwanis will hold their 47th annual Pow-Wow golf scramble at Hon-E-Kor Golf and Country Club on Thursday, July 15. The Chamber of Commerce will follow with their outing on Saturday, July 17.

The Kiwanis outing is open to the first 144 golfers who enter the event open to the public. The entry fee of $75 gets you 18-holes of golf, a cart and a family style dinner. Hon-e-Kor members pay just $55. Dinner is open to all for $20.

The deadline to sign up is July 8th. For more information, contact Clark Pearson at (262) 626-4594.

Organizers of the Kewaskum Community Golf Outing hosted by the Kewaskum Chamber of Commerce are looking for the community, not just chamber members to support their event.

Entry forms are available at westbury bank, Geidel's Piggly Wiggly and Hon-E-Kor. Entry forms are available on page 7 of this edition as well.

The outing includes 18 holes of golf, cart, hole events, lunch at the turn, prizes and a delicious grilled steak dinner.

The steak dinner is available for those who do not wish to golf.

"It's going to be a scramble format again," Organizer Aaron Laatsch said, stressing, "The golfing is more for fun ... It's not like a tournament." Participants pick their own foursomes, couples may sign up together, and singles are welcome. They will be assigned a group, if they wish.

The cost is $75 for non-HEK members, $45 for those who are HEK members, and $18 for those who just want to come for the steak dinner. The event will have a shotgun start at 11:30 a.m.

The steak dinner will begin around 4:30 pm, and afterward there will be awards for the scramble winners and raffle prizes given out.

Let's get ready to scramble

Much like many other competitions, the first annual Hon-E-Kor Golf Family Scholarship Scramble hopes to award a Hon-E-Kor Golf Scholarship as their event closes on June 26th to member(s) of the Kewaskum High School Boys and Girls Golf Teams. But, they need community participation.

Participants will enjoy a new twist in an often over utilized tournament format. The new format allows participants to compete within.

The scramble will include a select drive and modified Stableford scoring system to equalize the difference in genders. Each member of each foursome will either have to select one specific hole per nine to utilize their respective drive prior to the start of the round or be required to use any two drives on each nine for each player. Therefore, each member of the foursome has to make some significant contributions to the foursomes final total.

In respect to scoring, points will be awarded for each foursome's score on each hole. In the modified Stableford system, a par is equivalent to one point, birdies are two points, eagles are four, double eagles equal eight and an ace gets 10 points for males. For the ladies, bogeys are one point, pars are two points, birdies are four points, eagles are eight points, double eagles are 16 points and aces are 20 points.

Depending upon the number of entries, winners will be recognized in several different divisions, i.e. men's, mixed, women's. The awards ceremony will include hole event prizes, raffles, blind bogey draw, skins contest, pro-shop certificates and the Korth family presenting the scholarship(s).

Area residents can attend the dinner and awards program by purchasing dinner tickets for $20 at Hon-E-Kor. Attendees can participate in the raffles, silent auctions and other interesting contests.

'Reilly' to perform Thursday

The Kewaskum Area Arts Council and the Village of Kewaskum are pleased to announce the second Music in the Park concert of the summer.

Reilly, which was formed in 2000, laid out their plans for the unique sound for which they are known for. Reilly released their Debut CD in December of 2002, "Beyond the Pale". tion and history of Ireland with the energy and instrumentation of the rock music the group is influenced by. Reilly strives to entertain crowds with original tunes, and music by contemporary Irish artists, as well as traditional Celtic tunes performed in as much of an energetic, handclapping and foot stomping manner as possible, and to have a good time doing it.

July 8 - River City Blaskapelle

July 15 - Sun Rays

Bertelsen looks back on 3 decades at KHS

Mr. Dave Bertelsen plays the piano at his last commencement ceremony at KHS.

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

Dave Bertelsen a few years ago approached high school principal Christine Horbas about going to watch other successful choir programs.

"He said to me I want to see how I can be a better choir teacher," she said. "When many are ready to hang up the hat at 30 years of service, he is out there trying to get better and do the best for kids."

That's one of several characteristics that set Bertelsen apart the last 33 years, after the last of which the choir director of the high school and middle school decided to retire.

It was a long career for a guy who didn't plan on becoming a teacher.

Bertelsen isn't one of those teachers who played school as a child and knew what he wanted to do since birth. He's an accounting major transplant.

The Hudson native seemed destined to enter the music field given his mother was an elementary school music teacher and his dad a member of a barbershop quartet. His father, 83, still plays bass guitar while his mother, 79, plays guitar as the duo performs at church and senior centers.

Bertelsen, the oldest of three children, was determined not to go into music. He went to the University of Wisconsin-Madison to be an accountant. A "D" in calculus ended that plan and his mother told him to take some music classes.

He found a symphony course to be easy and he auditioned and was accepted into the music school at the end of his sophomore year. Performance was out since Bertelsen said he was a little shy and sensitive to criticism. Some of his friends majored in education and convinced Bertelsen to try it. He would later go back to UW-Madison for his master's in music in the mid-1980s.

Clark Pearson, the high school's principal in 1977, offered Bertelsen a job. He took it and never left, though he planned to skip town at some point.

"I thought maybe I wouldn't hang around," he said as he was eyeing a bigger school. "But the people here were great, great people. Made a lot of good friends here."

His other career field of professional baseball was dashed years earlier.

"I couldn't hit the curve ball after eighth grade," Bertelsen said.

He could hit any note, however, and, more importantly, get students to do the same.

"It was nice to watch him with kids," said band director Josh Michlig, who shared an office with Bertelsen the past three years. "He had a great relationship with kids. They all liked him."

Bertelsen's career for the first seven years entailed teaching elementary music two days per week and teaching junior high and high school. Beechwood and Wayne elementary schools were eventually thrown in before the middle school concept was introduced. Bertelsen's workload was limited to middle and high school, though most of his friends at area schools only teach high school.

"I really like working with the kids and seeing them grow," he said.

Bertelsen got to develop and see more growth than most, as his early classes he had from first grade through senior year. Half of the senior classes he had as students. "Really gratifying," he said.

In 1983, Bertelsen nervously took over as play director. He was involved in plays since 1977, but six years in he became the head guy for high school musicals.

"There's a lot that goes into just picking a musical," he said.

He adores the school's new facility, regardless of the show.

"It's really nice to have out new auditorium and theater with dressing rooms and lights and sound," he said.

But he misses some of the creativity and custom-designed sets that transformed the old Rose Hall, a high school gym, into a place for theater. He remembers dragging lights to the gym and hanging them on the rafters, creating an S-shaped stage and using a trap door for shows like "Hello, Dolly!" and "The Wizard of Oz." Tech guys like Justin Mueller did great work, he said.

"It was fun to be a little more creative then," he said.

Bertelsen uses a different creativity to inspire students. He usually has one to three students per year who plan on making music a career, though they didn't always think that way. Horbas said that's one of Bertelsen's strengths.

"That's part of the gratification," he said. "When you can pull the kids out of their shell and do something they didn't think they could do. That's why we do what we do."

Bertelsen always tried to reach 100 students in choir. Longtime band director Larry Ammel always had more than 100, and Bertelsen topped out at 190 a decade ago. The choirs have usually hit 100 since.

He has taken the choir on various trips to Florida, South Carolina and Texas for competitions and clinics.

"You learn a lot of things when you're on a bus cooped up with the same people for five days," he said.

Bertelsen started to incorporate world music into the curriculum - he added congas and steel drums - and used spiritual music, from which he heard no complaints from the conservative Kewaskum community. The school still has "Christmas concerts."

"It was usually a positive message and great a cappella and a good beat," he said.

Even songs in another language can be moving, he said; at least more so than his original major.

"It's the expressive qualities that you don't get in math. It's the human qualities," he said. "You can see it in art. In music it goes by very fast. You can still get the emotions inside the student and transfer them to the audience."

Bertelsen said he will miss the people he works with as he pointed backward to Michlig, "and not just Josh," he said. Teachers to the maintenance crew and cooks, he said. Administration has been supportive of choir and, of course, he will miss his students.

"It's been really nice to have that day-to-day banter with the kids," he said.

Beyond the musical, two high school choirs and three middle school choirs, Bertelsen directed the high school's swing choir and jazz choir, and has run the talent show for 20 years. That show started with a version of the gong show at Wayne, "but the kids knew they were going to get gonged," he said.

When he's not at school, he directs the church choir at Fifth Avenue United Methodist in West Bend.

Those commitments cover three nights a week, four during the musical. Bertelsen said he was getting tired.

This summer, he won't be thinking "long and hard" about selecting music for the annual fall musical. He doesn't have to listen to countless CDs and try to fit students into the right parts.

Retirement plans include visiting his parents in Florida and friends in South Carolina and Georgia. Bertelsen will also spend more time downhill skiing, golfing and hiking, and spending time with his two step-children and his wife, who works as a nurse in Milwaukee. He will continue to play piano and sing for cocktail hours and dinner music like he does at Cedar Ridge.

When school starts this fall, Bertelsen won't be in the same time zone. He and his wife will be in Yellowstone.

"Then I won't think about school and what I am missing," he said.

Dave Bertelsen's Musical Tastes

- Has a jazz and blues background, likes listening to 89.7 FM but not during his commute from West Bend to Kewaskum. Then it's sports talk radio. Too much, his wife says.
- Likes bluegrass and acoustic country. Favorite classical composers are Mozart and Haydn.
- Likes Blood, Sweat and Tears, Huey Lewis and the News, Frank Sinatra, Louis Armstrong and Willie and the Wheel (Willie Nelson and Asleep at the Wheel).
- Learned to appreciate Taylor Swift. Carrie Underwood and Martina McBride are OK, but not Lady Gaga. "I think her shows are interesting although not her music."

Financial responsibility 101

Glacier Hills Loan Department Manager Kris Baumann talks to Tim Rohlinger's personal finance class recently about the do's and don'ts of establishing good credit.

By Mitch Maersch
For the Statesman

Kris Baumann three years ago decided to take advantage of discount offers during Christmas shopping and opened credit cards at four different stores.

The following February, her car died. She soon learned her credit score dropped 60 points.

"I must be using those cards to survive," is how credit agencies judged her situation.

Within six months, she recovered those 60 points because she had a good base, but the Glacier Hills Credit Union Loan Department Manager sent the message to Tim Rohlinger's personal finance students this week:

"Don't open new credit just to open new credit."

Students who didn't know much about credit scores know plenty more after Baumann's presentation. Rohlinger brought her in to talk to seniors about how to build good credit and avoid bad credit as they are about to start developing credit history.

It's easy to build credit history and easier to build a bad history than to play from behind, Baumann said.

"You're at zero but one mistake and it's hard to dig out of that hole," she told students. It can be as simple as not paying a cell phone bill.

"It shows up on your credit report. That follows you a lot longer than your cell phone bill," she said.

Cell phone bills are one of the biggest things loan officers look at today.

"We figure if you let your cell phone go, you'll let anything go," she said.

Credit, she said, can determine whether or not you get loan to buy a house or car, or how much those will ultimately cost with interest payments, or even if you get a job. Most employers check job candidates' credit, she said.

Credit cards can be a good thing, if used responsibly. If just the monthly minimum balance is paid off, a one-time, $150 Friday night dinner could take 18 years to pay off. "Don't use credit to live beyond your means," she said.

What exactly makes up a credit score? Thirty-five percent is payment history, 30 percent is amounts owed, 15 percent is length of credit history, 10 percent is the mix of credit (mortgage, car, and Baumann suggests having three credit cards) and 10 percent is new credit (amount of credit opened in a short time like she did three years ago).

Someone with A credit, a score of typically 700 or more (40 percent of America has this), could buy a $15,000 car with no down payment at 4.99 percent interest for 60 months with monthly payments of $283.

Someone with D credit, 575 and less, could only get a $9,000 car with a $6,000 down payment at 11.5 percent interest for 60 months and pay $200 per month. While the monthly payment is less, the down payment is high and the price of the car available is less.

People can see their credit report for free once per year, or three times per year if only viewing the report from one of the three major reporting agencies each time. Baumann pleaded with students to check their credit reports and gave an example as to why.

Baumann years ago worked at a car dealership and pulled the credit report of a customer looking for a car loan. It said he lived in Michigan; he never did. It said he opened up a Michigan utility account; he didn't.

The man's neighbor's son just moved to Michigan, however. He was arrested that day for identity theft.

"That's why you need to watch your credit reports all the time," she said.

The Web site <http://www.annualcreditreport.com> allows people to see their credit reports for free.

Baumann encouraged students to create a credit profile of themselves and make their payments. Get a small credit card and pay it off, she said.

"Someone can hand you a $5,000 credit card but only you can go out and spend $5,000 you can't afford," she said.

Rohlinger himself shared a story of how his rooming situation in college impacted his credit. A $60 cable bill that was transferred to an old roommate went unpaid and showed up in his report.

Senior Brittany Barlow took that to heart.

"I learned that when I'm going to college I need to be very careful when I room with someone," she said.

Dan Treptow said he learned "not to get taken advantage of by credit card companies." He said he has a debit card and plans to get a small credit card in the future.

Barlow has begun establishing credit as she just bought a new car and has to pay it off. She doesn't have a debit card and doesn't plan on getting credit card anytime soon. Rohlinger's class, unlike many customers Baumann sees, knows what an "upside down" loan is - when the value of an item is worth less than what is owed.

"Class is hard but it's something you need to learn

Modern Woodmen Speech Contest winner

Students from Kewaskum, Wayne, Farmington and Jackson Elementary Schools participated in the District Modern Woodmen Speaking Contest this past April. The competition was hosted by KES. The topic for this year's speech was, "If I were president." The students researched facts, organized the material, and presented their speeches in front of three judges. Students from the Kewaskum district were: Gina Taylor, Brittany Williams, Kyle Beth, Hailey Herriges, Alex Vogt, Seth Bartelt, Andrew Ries, Dinara Beth, and Haley Plachinski. Gina Taylor, shown above, from KES placed first in the competition. She received a trophy and Mr. Jerry Beine, the area Modern Woodmen representative, presented her with $50.00. She also moved on to the next level of the competition.

JULIA M.
"JULIE" MCKEE

Julia M. "Julie" McKee, 87, of the town of Farmington, passed away on Monday, June 21, 2010, at Kettle Moraine Gardens in Kewaskum.

She was born on February 7, 1923, in Port Washington, the daughter of the late Frank and Anna (Heinz) Federmeier, and on October 7, 1944, she was united in marriage to Merlin McKee at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Port Washington. The couple made their home and farmed in the town of Farmington for many years. Merlin preceded Julie in death on July 26, 2001.

Julie was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church in St. Michaels, the Christian Mother's Altar Society and St. John of God Catholic Chapel in the town of Farmington.

She was a devoted wife and mother who appreciated life on the farm. Her family meant the world to her. Julie was very proud of her children and grandchildren, and loved visits with her great-grandchildren.

Julie had a remarkable green thumb. Plants under her tender care flourished with life. She will fondly be remembered for her warm and welcoming personality. While a resident at Kettle Moraine Gardens, she was one of the first people to welcome a new resident and invite them to participate in activities. IN MEMORY

In memory of MAE KOCH, who passed away one year ago on June 23, 2009.

Months have grown day by day,
It is now a year since she went away,
Gone are the days we used to share,
But in our hearts she is always there.

The gates of memory will never close,
We miss her more than anyone knows,
With tender love and deep regret,
We who loved her will never forget.

*Missed and loved by,
Terry, Jessica, Noah, Nicole,
Savannah, Brian &
Mom (Grandma Rusty)*

IN MEMORY

In memory of RALPH STRUEBING, who passed away 10 years ago on June 30, 2000.

I'm Free

Don't grieve for me, for now
I'm free...
I'm following the path God laid for me.
I took his hand when I heard him call;
I turned my back and left it all.

I could not stay another day
To laugh, to love, to work or play...
Tasks left undone must stay that way;
I've found that peace at the close of day.

Be not burdened with times of sorrow,
I wish you sunshine of tomorrow.
My life's been full, I've savored much...
Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch.

Perhaps my time seemed all too brief,
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your heart and share with me...
God wanted me now; He set me free.

If my parting has left a void,
Then fill it with remembered joy.
A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss...
Ah, yes, these things I, too, will miss.

Sadly missed by wife Carrie, daughter Wendy Jo, Jim, Orion, James Carroll and son Steve

A fire of undetermined cause destroyed the year-round home of Robert and Diane Grohall of Kettle Moraine Lake last Sunday afternoon. The home was a total loss despite the efforts of the Campbellsport and Eden Fire Departments to save the house. The Grohalls, who were visiting at a nearby cottage, were told by a neighbor that the home was on fire. The couple stood by helplessly as the home burned to the ground.

Dairy Days, sponsored by the Kewaskum Chamber of Commerce, will be held Saturday, June 15. To kick off this event, the AMPI-Kettle Moraine Women-7C will be hosting a "Farm Dairy Breakfast" from 7 to 10:30 am at Alvin Panzer's "Panzer Farms," 1/2 mile northwest of Kewaskum on Highway V. Vehicles will be parked at the Amerahn and transportation to the farm will be with horse drawn wagons. Teams will be furnished by Alvin Panzer, Bud Schmidt and Frank Stoffel. Proceeds will be used for scholarships.

Thanks to the efforts of his cousins, a thirteen-year-old rural Campbellsport boy was saved from drowning in the dangerous Milwaukee River in the Town of Ashford. William Kirsch, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kirsch, Campbellsport, had gone fishing Sunday afternoon below the Rustic Drive bridge with his cousins, Donald and Betsy Backhaus of Random Lake. According to the Fond du Lac Sheriff's Department, the three had been fishing and had decided to go wading in the river's shallows. The two boys then decided to go swimming and entered the deeper water, where William was caught up in the strong undercurrent. Kirsch panicked and went under several times. Backhaus, 17, tried but could not get close enough to grab the youngster. While Betsy went for help, Backhaus managed to regain his own footing on the shore and run along the bank trying to head off the apparently unconscious Kirsch as the current carried him down stream. He waded back into the river and grabbed Kirsch as he came toward him, hauling the boy onto the river bank. In response to Betsy's calls for help, Kirsch's 19-year-old brother Robert rushed to the boy and began administering mouth to mouth resuscitation until the Campbellsport Ambulance arrived and transported him to St. Joseph's Hospital in West Bend.

The fire department answered a call last Friday to Holy Trinity School. The burning oil caused the building to fill up with smoke, but there was no fire damage. The school children were filed out of the building.

His office will be located in the Walter Mathis building, across from the L. Rosenheimer department store in the rooms at the rear of Dr. H.L. Rumsey's office. Attorney McKenna, a native of Random Lake, up to this time has been a field claims representative for the State Farms Mutual Automobile Insurance Company of Illinois. The young attorney is married and he and his wife will move here from Port Washington. McKenna stated that he and his wife both like our little city real much and the people here have been very fine to them. This, along with the fact that Kewaskum at present, has no steady attorney, prompted them to locate here.

A freak chicken, hatched about 20 days ago at the White Belle Poultry Farm in Lomira is creating considerable excitement in the chicken world. The freak chicken is a White Leghorn Pullet and has three legs, two tails and an extra toe on the third leg. The third leg on the chick is grown directly out of the end of the spine and while not developing as fast as the other legs, is normal in every other way. It is hoped that the chicken will reach maturity as the hen may be capable of laying two eggs at a time. (Also... what a concept for chicken lovers that only eat the legs!)

Mrs. Edward Glander, living east of here, met with an accident last Sunday, which might have proven fatal. She was coming home from visiting her parents east of New Fane and while driving down the Ebelsville hill and making a short turn in the road, the rig tipped over, throwing Mrs. Glander and her children forcibly to the ground, but luckily no one was seriously hurt. She managed to hold the horse so no damages were done to the rig except a pair of broken talls.

Peter Fellenz, living east of New Fane in the Town of Scott, had the misfortune of having the first finger on his left hand cut off by a circle saw. Mr. Fellenz was sawing some wood on his farm when the accident happened.

Louis Petri's house in Wayne was nearly destroyed by fire Monday morning while he was at the cheese factory. William Hess, who discovered the fire, with the aid of Mrs. Petri and the hired man, extinguished it before much damage was done.

Reinhold Gritzmacher of Barton is now employed by Bachkaus and Marx as miller. Mr. Gritzmacher is an experienced miller, having worked in the Pillsbury Mills at Minneapolis for many years before coming to Barton about four months ago.

Many of the citizens from the village were up at a wee hour every morning the past week to view Halley's Comet, which is now visible to the naked eye.

Lady Indians earn eight spots on All Conference team

Kewaskum's fast-pitch softball team sold nearly 250 T-shirts to help fight breast cancer and raise money for equipment. The team recently presented a check for $1,000 to Jackie Mortenson, the American Cancer Society's coordinator for Making Strides Against Breast Cancer. "The girls have been great about it," said Coach Jeff Gosse. "It's something close to their heart." Proceeds from the sales were split 50-50 between the team and the cancer society.

Kewaskum's fast-pitch softball team set a school record for victories this season and advanced farther in the playoffs than any team in the program's history.

The Indians finished 16-8, shattering the previous wins record of 12, and advanced to the regional finals of the Division 2 playoffs.

An 11-3 Eastern Wisconsin Conference record, good for second place behind undefeated Waupun, helped land eight players on the all-conference teams and a No. 1 seed in the playoffs, another feat that may not have ever been accomplished in Kewaskum.

Senior shortstop Monica Dehler and junior catcher Abby Amerling made the first team. Senior outfielder Ashley Faber, senior pitcher Erika Heberer, junior infielder Courtney Krueger and junior utility player Michele Marquardt made second team. Junior outfielder Liz Schaller and freshman utility player Jenny Reicher earned honorable mention.

The team is built like a cliché good baseball team - strong up the middle. Heberer and Reicher may have been the best 1-2 pitching punch in the conference. Heberer and Amerling were given free rein to call their own pitches about halfway through the season and dominated down the stretch. Faber controlled centerfield and led the team in batting average. Dehler was regularly solid at shortstop and was the team's offensive sparkplug.

Hence the team's three MVPs were its three seniors: Heberer, Dehler and Faber. They have played together since seventh grade.

"Each of them have just been so valuable to this team. It was just like the perfect setting," said Coach Jeff Gosse.

Gosse said Heberer (8-2 conference, 11-5 overall) struggled early as the pitching mound was moved back three feet this season.

"Once she adjusted to it she really got into a groove," Gosse said. "It's just one less worry. You go into the game and you know you're going to get consistency."

In the regular season, Heberer was 11-4 with an earned run average of 2.48. In 102 2/3 innings, she allowed 94 hits, 52 walks and struck out 76.

Faber was given the team's Silver Slugger Award. She hit .439 with 18 RBIs, both team highs, and had four doubles, one triple and one home run. She gutted out a 2-for-3 performance despite injury in the 6-2 loss to Grafton in the regional final.

Gosse said Faber worked with Kewaskum baseball coach Doug Gonring in the offseason and raised her batting average by 200 points this season.

Dehler received the team's Infielder Gold Glove Award. She made first team all-conference as a sophomore and was second team last year before again making first team this season.

"Very solid short all three years," Gosse said. "Coaches recognized her as being a defensive force. Unbelievable glove, nothing too flashy but steady."

At the plate, Dehler batted .337 with seven RBIs, including a last-at-bat, game-winning smash over the left fielder's head against Kiel.

Amerling received the Most Improved Player Award. Gosse said he could see last year she would be a good player at multiple positions. This year, she hit .346, was tied for second in RBIs with 12, led the team in slugging percentage (.615) and "took charge of the team as a catcher should."

Before the Grafton playoff loss, Amerling had a stretch of three straight games with a triple. She also had the Indians' other last-at-bat, game-winning hit, an infield single against Campbellsport.

Speedy Liz Schaller received the Outfield Gold Glove Award. She led the team in steals with 11.

"She's like a walking highlight reel waiting to happen. You saw that in that last catch she made in that last game," Gosse said.

He is referring to Schaller running to her right and laying out to catch a line drive against Grafton, what Gosse called a "Sportscenter" catch.

Reicher was named the team's Rookie of the Year. She went 5-3 with a 2.68 ERA. In 48 1/3 innings, she allowed 30 hits, walked 25 and struck out 52. Besides pitcher, Reicher played a solid third base with a rocket arm and hit .310 with 10 RBIs.

"Great freshman has a great future ahead of her. I think she's going to be doing very well and may be one of the first girls getting a full ride playing softball," Gosse said.

Marquardt was named Most Coachable. She hit .356 and tied for second on the team with 12 RBIs.

"She's like Jenny - got the tools, great glove, great IQ on the game," Gosse said. "Whatever position I would put her at she would go out and do her best, wouldn't complain."

While this year's team set the bar high, next year's Indians could be in position to better it. Of the Indians' eight all-conference players, five return, including first baseman Krueger.

"A very pleasant surprise this year," Gosse said. "The JV coach predicted she would be all conference and yeah, she was. Great kid again. Nice job at first base. By far my best hit-and-run batter."

Gosse enters next season with a couple of luxuries most other coaches don't: strong pitching and catching staffs.

"A lot of teams right now are scrambling for pitchers and catchers; we're set," he said.

Position players aren't set yet but Gosse has plenty of talent from which to choose.

"We know we're set at every position. It's just who's going to play those positions. We have the athleticism and we have the girls who have played softball who can move around. Summer league will determine that," he said.

A better season next year is possible, he said.

"It would be nice. I believe next year's group could do it, too," he said. "It seems there's a lot of momentum that's being built. The bar's been set and hopefully these girls work hard and reach those expectations and reach their own expectations, too."

Of the Indians' eight losses, four came in weekend tournaments and one on a weekend was nearly a win when Amerling was called out on a close play trying to score the winning run at home against Waupun on a sacrifice fly. It would have been Waupun's first loss of the season at the time.

Kewaskum Gray takes third in Long Lake Tournament

After a wet, rainy and cold weekend of baseball Kewaskum Gray walked away with third place honors in the 2010 Long Lake Jack Mott Midget League Tournament held June 4-6. The team lost their first game to Random Lake Saturday morning and proceeded to win two games later that day, with their final game of the day against Kewaskum Gold. Kewaskum Gray went on to win two more games Sunday to earn third place honors. Farmington took first place. Shown above is the team, front row left to right, coach Mark Schlosser, Nathaniel Droese, Kaeden Cappelzo, Cody Marks, Ben Menzel, Hunter Kuehl, Nathan Heberer and coach Tim Rohlinger. Row two: coach Dave Prochnow, head coach Rick Heberer, Colten Miller, Kyle Pamperin, John May, Isaac Rohlinger, Cole Poole, Jacob Schlosser, Ryan Prochnow and coach Jeff May. The Kewaskum Athletic Association will be holding a tournament in Kiwanis Park July 10-11 and invite all to come out and watch a game or two.

Indians keep perfect record with win over Cougars

CAMPBELLSPORT - Kewaskum's young baseball team has much to learn but so far it's going to school and still winning.

The Indians built a five-run lead and hung on Tuesday at their Eastern Wisconsin Conference rival Campbellsport, 5-2, for their seventh straight victory. The Indians are so far running away with the EWC at 8-0 (14-3 overall). Campbellsport and Plymouth are tied for second at 4-3 each.

Mike Schladweiler came within one out of his first shutout and second complete game of the season, going 6 2/3 and allowing two runs on five hits and one walk. He struck out three.

Schladweiler had nine pitches through the first two innings and 65 for the game as the Cougars often jumped on the first pitch.

"Just getting in the batter's mind, gotta play with them," he said of first-pitch swings. "Not just fastball. I gotta throw something else."

Coach Doug Gonring was impressed but frustrated with his team giving the Cougars six outs in the final inning before Lucas Kopeschka got a groundout to short to end the game. A foul ball wasn't caught in left field after a long run, a looping line drive to center was played on a hop instead of an attempt at a diving catch and a force out was dropped at second base.

"Unfortunately, he loses a shutout," Gonring said.

Kewaskum did have a couple of defensive highlights. In the seventh inning, catcher Bo Seibel made a sliding catch on a foul ball in front of Campbellsport's bench for the first out.

In the fourth inning with two outs and runners on first and second, shortstop Sam Olla went deep in the hole to backhand a grounder and throw across his body for the third out, getting Schladweiler out of the jam.

"Oh boy that was a big league play," Gonring said.

At the plate, the Indians chipped away with a run here or there but nothing in bunches. Three Indians had two hits: Schladweiler, Cody Nuernberg and Tony Gonring. Nuernberg scored on a Brad Boegel groundout in the second inning and Brandon Zolp hit a two-run single to left field in the third. Bo Seibel hit an RBI single to left field in the fourth and Cody Seibel hit an RBI single in the seventh.

"That's the way we've been all year. We get that one big home run and it looks like we're really explosive. We're not a great hitting team. We make a lot of easy outs," Gonring said. "We haven't gone deep in the count with certain hitters and then we have two or three good innings. When we could put teams away ... we've got a guy swinging at an 0-0 pitch above his hands and we get a popup instead of a bunt to move people over."

Gonring wasn't happy with three missed signs, either.

"To be really good you can't miss signs. One was a hit and run another guy thought it was a steal, didn't know for sure," he said. "These kids haven't played that kind of baseball where they have to look at me every time. That's what they don't see in the game anymore watching the big league game."

Once during the game he had to remind a runner to get on the base and look at him.

"I swear to God they're looking for four-leaf clovers. They drive me crazy with that," he said.

Gonring has a plan to get back to quality at-bats.

"With a lead I gave them a little leash and it's just showing me I probably have to dominate their at-bat a little more. Making them do what I want to do," he said.

With four seniors and two juniors on the team, Gonring chalks up the mistakes to inexperience and lack of baseball savvy.

"There's all kinds of these different productive outs. I don't think these kids understand how great the bunt or the sacrifice is to winning a ball game or moving a runner one base," he said.

At Homestead last Saturday, the Indians pulled out an 8-7 win in 11 innings. Boegel hit his 10th home run of the season.

Against Plymouth last Friday, the Indians survived the after-school blues in building a 7-2 lead and hanging on, 7-6. Schladweiler got the win, going four innings and striking out five and walking one. Bo Seibel was 3-for-3 with a double.

The Indians stranded nine runners and didn't capitalize on Plymouth's errors.

"They gave us plenty of chances to capitalize on mistakes and we ourselves made mistake after mistake," Gonring said.

The Panthers scored two runs in the fourth, sixth and seventh and left a runner on third as Nuernberg struck out the final two batters and left a runner at third.

Gonring saw a flat performance coming years ago when he coached at West Bend East.

"That's part of the first week out of school - always unbelievably slow performance," he said. "It happened at East." Players don't know when to go to bed or get up; they haven't adjusted to their work schedules if they have jobs, he said. "Was it pretty? No, but it was a win," Gonring said. "Ugly wins are pretty."

Last Thursday at Kiel, the Indians won, 14-4. Cody Seibel had a home run and four RBIs and Boegel a homer and three RBIs.

On Thursday, Kewaskum travels to EWC rival New Holstein (4-4, 6-6), which it shared the conference title with last season. On Friday, Sheboygan Falls comes to town. On Monday the Indians host Two Rivers and on Tuesday they host Kiel for their fifth straight conference game. Game times are all 5:30 p.m.
