ATVs get trial run on Eisenbahn Trail this winter

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

All-terrain vehicles are being allowed to run on the Eisenbahn Trail north of West Bend to the Washington County line as a trial basis this winter.

The Washington County Planning Conservation and Parks Committee (PCPC) Tuesday morning unanimously approved allowing ATVs on the trail as the Kettle Moraine ATV Association and the Washington County Snowmobile Association agreed to a set of rules called a memorandum of understanding.

The approval came after the PCPC held a public hearing on allowing ATVs on the trail on Dec. 8. The PCPC would have acted on the issue then, but the agenda only listed the item for "consideration" and not action. On advice from County Attorney Kim Nass, the PCPC scheduled Tuesday's special meeting to take action on the issue.

ATVs are allowed on the trail from Dec. 15 to March 15. The trail surface has to be frozen, the temperature has to be 28 degrees or below and the trail has to be posted as open.

The Washington County Association of Snowmobile Clubs would determine if the trail is open or not. Calling the hotline at 334-6061 or checking the associations' Web site (<http://www.wcasc.org/>) will say if the trail is open or not.

Snowmobiles are already allowed on the trail. Standards for the trail opening for snowmobiles and ATVs are different so there could be times when the trail would be open for one and closed for the other.

Portions of the trail go through the towns of Kewaskum and Barton, and the Village of Kewaskum. Approval from those three municipalities and the PCPC is required for ATVs to be allowed on the trail.

The two towns don't have ordinances prohibiting ATVs on the trail. The Town of Kewaskum's ordinance addressing the issue doesn't regulate public land, so ATVs would be allowed since the Eisenbahn Trail is owned by the Department of Natural Resources. The Town of Barton allows ATVs as well as it doesn't have an ordinance prohibiting them.

The Village of Kewaskum's ordinance was recently updated to only allow ATVs on the trail if the PCPC approves.

At the public hearing, the majority

County Library Information

The libraries of Washington County would like to invite all residents of the non-library townships and villages to explore the resources and programs offered within your county. The five libraries in Germantown, Hartford, Kewaskum, Slinger and West Bend have combined holdings of almost 600,000 items covering a wide variety of interests and reading levels. In addition, these libraries are all members of a 44 library consortium called "SHARE," which allows direct online access to, and daily van delivery of, materials from such libraries as Racine, Watertown, Whitewater, and Beaver Dam.

Each of the libraries of Washington County offer adult, juvenile, and young-adult materials in a variety of formats: print, audio, video/DVD, and downloadable. Each library offers a series of programming geared to children, with special sessions for adults. Public internet access on high speed computers is also available. These services are all offered without charge simply by having a library card from one of the county's libraries. All that is required is some form of picture identification providing your name and current address. Children may obtain cards with parental consent.

Contact the library of your choice for more information on that facility's hours, services and materials.

Library service for the rural townships and villages in Washington County is provided through a special library tax assessed to rural property. The libraries have had a contract with Washington County since 1987 to provide the same open access to materials and services that the City/Village residents have. Your tax dollars help provide the services and materials offered in these five libraries.

We are aware that due to job situations, school district boundaries and convenience, some residents of the rural areas are choosing to use the libraries in neighboring Ozaukee and Waukesha counties. Please be aware that this usage is reimbursable under Wisconsin Act 420, and will cost Washington County and its local libraries $108,471 in 2011 for cross-county payments. While we are not asking you to quit using these neighboring libraries, we are asking you to be aware that every item borrowed at these libraries cost Washington County between $2.25 and $4.50. Here are some examples of the 2011 payments that are being made: Cedarburg Library - $6,725; Sussex Library - $36,101; Town Hall Library of North Lake - $20,065 and Menomonee Falls - $24,110. Take some time to explore the resources and collections available to you locally. Help us keep Washington County library money in the Washington County libraries.

Winter storm causes headaches for DPW

Kewaskum was hit with the first winter storm of the season on Saturday that lasted over 12 hours. The above tree became uprooted at a home on the corner of Forest Avenue and Hillside Drive in the village. During the span of a the storm, a blizzard warning included Fond du Lac, Sheboygan and Washington Counties. Kewaskum's Department of Public Works Director Jerry Gilles stated, "The snow plowing was difficult. At times the snow weight dictated we could not push everything with the plow and wing down. The trucks just didn't have enough traction." A truck used for snow hauling broke down early Tuesday morning. Gilles also reported during the storm, a communication line came down over the Milwaukee River causing a communication fail at the Number 2 water pumping station and a low hanging Charter cable was reported on Habeck Street, where plow trucks were unable to get under it. "Actually it was pretty quiet. We did not have any accidents and the calls were light due to people listening to the warnings and staying home," stated Police Chief Dick Knoebel.

West Bend - Cedar Community received The Mature Market Resource Center's Gold Award for website design and content for their main corporate site, www.cedarcommunity.org. The New Product and Technology Awards, organized by the Mature Market Resource Center, annually recognizes the world's best technologies, products and services for older adults and their families. For 19 years, Mature Market has managed the National Mature Media Awards, the largest of its kind recognizing the nation's best educational and marketing materials for older adults. Web site design winners were chosen based on the following criteria: Is the site appropriate for an older adult audience? Is the site user-friendly for older adults? (Consider font sizes, navigation, overall design and ease-of-use.) Is the site beneficial to the user and/or their family? Will the site attract and hold users'

Dear Editor,

It's time for our Wisconsin legislators to call a special session if they are serious about banning Indian sports logos. In our area, there are two high school teams — the Kewaskum Indians and the Waupun Warriors — which have the Indian logos that they say should be abolished.

In the case of Waupun's logo, I wasn't aware that Warriors was only Indian related. At least, back when I went to school, it wasn't. But it could be our legislators next move to change the dictionary and our education system.

Will they ban the Cleveland Indians from playing in Milwaukee?

Worse yet, suppose the NFL schedules the Washington Redskins to play at Green Bay.

If our representatives are serious, they will demand they cannot wear those uniforms when they play in Wisconsin. But I suspect our Madison reps are running out of things to regulate and they are now turning to fun and games.

Sincerely,
Royal J. Carey

Dear Editor,

I echo the comments of Mr. Harris on the decision to paint over Chief Kewaskum without public input. Mr.

Krumm, despite Governor-Elect Walker having some pretty tough matters to clean up, it appears this issue is on his radar and might be reversed thus your actions unnecessary.

I've noticed the Kewaskum wrestlers now sport the always inspiring and spirited but importantly non-offensive letter "K" on their singlettes (Ironically, I was offended by the absence of the Chief). Good riddance to the Chief so proudly displayed last year.

Hopefully order will be restored, the law reversed and the Chief can be honorably painted back where he belongs. It was so nice to see Mr. Krumm get ahead of the curve on political correctness and maybe he can take his passion to the professionals and suggest changes to the Washington Redskins, Cleveland Indians and Atlanta Braves. However, I suspect the pros will be protected from the insanity!

Sincerely,
Bobby Bentz

United Way short of goal

"Although progress has been steady," stated Ric Leitheiser, M&I Community Bank President and 2010 United Way Campaign Chair. "We still have quite a ways to go to reach our 2010 campaign goal. There are several employee campaigns in-progress and some individual donors that we have not yet heard from. If all those donors give at the same level as last year, we feel our $1,075,000 goal is achievable. Without that, there will be less funds available to meet critically needed services within Washington County." Donations raised by this year's campaign will be used to fund over 30 programs offered by 21 United Way partner agencies. Programs supported by United Way include those that help feed hungry children and adults, make sure first time parents and new born babies get off to a good start, help Spanish speaking people learn English and how to access community resources, and provide senior citizens with transportation to medical appointments.

"The importance of meeting, or better yet exceeding, our goal is critical to the success of the programs that impact the lives of so many in our County, including our family, neighbors and friends," explained Laura Giesenschlag, United Way Executive Director. "We ask everyone to help make the New Year a better one for so many in need by supporting of the County we all love living in. They can do that by donating to the United.

"The people of Washington County are caring and generous, willing to help their less fortunate neighbors," continued Leitheiser. "Just think what an impact it would make if those who are financially able donated an additional $50 or, better yet, $500 to United Way. It would make a Merry Christmas for all of us."

Donations can be sent directly to United Way at P.O. Box 304, West Bend, 53095. Or, if you prefer, you can donate online at the United Way website, unitedway.org or fwashingtoncounty.org or sign up for payroll deduction with your employer.

The Campbellsport Building Supply team donated a truck load of food totaling 477 items plus a $20 cash donation to the St. Matthew Parish Food Pantry. The CBS Holiday Food Drive was a great success with over 18 team members donating items to the drive. Todd Flitter, Stephanie Gatzke, and Jake Junk delivered the items to the food pantry Friday December 10th just in time for the holiday events. The pantry assists over 20 local families, and within the next week the food pantry goes from being stocked to basically empty due to the holidays. The CBS Team had a great time collecting items and showing holiday spirit throughout the food drive event!

Cedar Community goes 'green' with grants for renewable energy

Cedar Community, the nation's 89th largest not-for-profit, 501 (c) 3, church-affiliated continuum of care provider for seniors, recently received approval for two grants allowing for a major energy-saving solar panel installation at its Cedar Ridge campus. Of the two grants, one is from We Energies Company and the other from Focus on Energy, Corp. The grants will enable installation of a 36.66 kW on-site solar electric generating system. The photovoltaic solar energy collection system will produce approximately 44,130 kW of energy per year. The system consists of 156 solar panels encompassing 2,800 square feet on a south-facing roof at the Cedar Ridge Apartment complex off of Scenic Drive in the city of West Bend.

The estimated annual carbon dioxide offset is 75,021 pounds, estimated lifetime offset is 1,875,500 pounds which is equivalent to not driving a typical car 2,044,000 miles. The project is forecasted to save the Cedar Ridge campus approximately five percent of its total electric costs annually. This system will be one of the largest installed in Wisconsin by the Waukesha-based Renewable Energy Solutions.

Cedar Community is also hoping to secure funding from We Energies to install an informational kiosk in the Cedar Ridge Apartments lobby. This kiosk will allow residents and the general public to learn about the system being installed and track the system's production.

"Cedar Community will continue to explore alternative energy sources to help reduce emissions, lower costs, educate the community and provide environmental stewardship," said Steve Jaberg, Cedar Community, Chief Executive Officer. Construction on this system is anticipated to begin in January 2011 with a completion sometime in March.

Cedar Ridge Apartments are located on a 50-acre campus just south of Highway 33 off Scenic Drive in West Bend. With one, two-bedroom and deluxe apartments, Cedar Ridge is home base for active and independent adults age 62 and better. Cedar Ridge offers an onsite restaurant, indoor pool, whirlpool, 3,000 square-foot woodshop, recreation areas, train room, fitness center, nurse's clinic, massage therapy, beauty shop, market and café.

Cedar Community is a not-for-profit, church-affiliated leader in creating relationships, services and environments to enhance the well-being of seniors and their families. Its facilities are located on five campuses in Washington and Sheboygan counties. Cedar Community is proud to provide a continuum of care including independent and assisted living, skilled nursing care, rehabilitation, hospice, memory loss services, subacute and home care. ATVs of several speakers supported allowing ATVs on the trail. Of nine letters submitted, eight supported the idea.

Safety was one concern as snowmobiles would share the trail with ATVs. Snowmobiles have a 55 mph speed limit at night and no speed limit during the day, though the Town of Kewaskum requires both snowmobiles and ATVs to go 10 mph. ATVs have a speed limit of 25 mph.

"That to me is a problem," said PCPC member Ray Heidtke. PCPC member Marv Ebert expressed the same concern Tuesday.

Former Department of Natural Resources warden Bill Mitchell said there have been no recorded accidents on combined trails.

Allen Tackes, Kettle Moraine ATV Club President, said he is confident the two associations "can keep this trail going and keep it safe."

"One thing we have to realize is everybody needs to ride responsibly," he said.

Fond du Lac County has allowed ATVs on its portion of the trail for four years, though many local riders head much farther north to get their ATV fix. One advantage to Washington County allowing ATVs is the increase in business at area restaurants and gas stations.

"There are a lot of enthusiasts out there who would really like to use the trail," Tackes said, "and keep business home instead of elsewhere." Kewaskum Town Chairman

Ellis Kahn addressed the PCPC as a citizen and as chairman, neither supporting the idea of allowing ATVs on the trail. He said the intersection at Highway 45 and Highway H near Dairyland Seed is "a bad situation waiting to happen." He said snowmobiles go faster than 55 and both snowmobiles and ATVs have "very little lights" in back. Kahn also questioned policing the trail.

"The Sheriff's Department is overtaxed. Is this a need?" he said.

Kahn also said he is worried that the noise from the ATVs could spook his town residents' cattle, which could cause them to run through barbed wire fencing and get cut up.

Allen Broecker submitted a letter raising safety and noise concerns. He lives within 90 feet of the trail and said he has clocked snowmobiles going at 60 to 90 mph.

"This is an accident waiting to happen," he wrote.

Dennis Giese, an ATV rider whose property on Fond du Lac Avenue is adjacent to the trail, said he has no concerns and thinks the two clubs can police the trail themselves on a "reasonable level."

"It's supposed to be a multi-use trail," he said.

The three-month trial period is subject to PCPC review and the committee may or may not allow ATVs on the trail again next season.

KHS Drama Club presents 'A Broken Carol'

Rudolph (Sarah Boettcher), Santa's line organizer stands over Holly (Alyssa Flanders) scolding her for using her wireless phone in line while waiting for Santa during the Santa Mall scene. The KHS drama club will be performing A Broken Carol Sunday and Monday.

By Mitch Maersch

mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

Kewaskum High School's holiday play is sad, hilarious, moving, festive and goofy all the same time.

In perfecting "A Broken Carol," student actors face some of the biggest challenges they ever have in their young careers, much because of that roller coaster of emotions.

That's exactly how director, middle school teacher and Drama Club advisor Nicholas Brettingen wants it. After all, he wrote it, along with his mother, two friends and two students.

"In the beginning I gave the students ideas for characters but I really wanted them to flesh them out themselves," he said. "Everybody knows that character development is the key ingredient in developing any show. If the audience can't connect with the characters, you might as well have not wasted your time."

"A Broken Carol" will be performed Sunday and Monday in the Kewaskum Theatre. All proceeds are going to 12 different charities, one for each of the 12 days of Christmas.

Brettingen said the Drama Club has always wanted to do something for the community, and this year's holiday play was born.

Some of the charities are near and dear to the students' hearts, like the Badger Association for the Blind and Visually Impaired. Dani Neuiszer, lead actress and co-writer, said her visually impaired mother learned to use a cane through the association.

"So this really means a lot to me," Neuiszer said.

Neuiszer plays Carol, who struggles with her grandmother's untimely death on Christmas. A year later, she has a harder time moving on than her other relatives.

"This is the first time I've ever done something serious," Neuiszer said. "I like having a challenge."

Neuiszer said she never "really" lost anyone that close to her. She tries to put herself there and think about things that make her depressed.

That task becomes greater - especially staying in character - as hilarity brightens the dramatic storyline. Take freshman Kayla Oelhafen, for instance, who plays Rustly the talking Christmas tree. Her role is to pretty much be the most consistently annoying plant in the Western Hemisphere, something that needs to be seen live to be fully understood.

"I don't know how I can really describe my character. Kinda dopey and not serious," she said. "I like being the funny one. It's a lot more fun than being the serious person."

Playing Rustly is a slight stretch; while Oelhafen said she is often not serious in real life, she is not "that annoying." Brettingen and the adult writers chime in with ideas, but Oelhafen is forced to be her own Rustly.

"It is hard to be that annoying," she said.

A little more typecasting was involved when often-smiling freshman Tyler Smith landed the role of the happy elf.

"It's fun. I can finally be something that I'm related to," he said. "I think I'm really good for this part."

But the happy teen has a hard time in taking his joy too far, which the story requires. Smith seeks advice from his co-actors.

"It's easy at first but when you have to be annoyingly happy it gets difficult," he said. "They say I'm annoying but I don't know when I am."

Staying in character becomes difficult during Neuiszer's parts, like grandmother's eulogy. Smith said he even gets emotional.

While he loves Drama Club because "you can be yourself" it's much harder than he thought it would be.

"It's actually a lot of work," he said.

Then there's Dakotah Sломinski, who plays a moody Santa who doesn't take to mall children at all well. Her reindeer's characters are driven by their names but struggle as a whole with their identity as they act like more popular Wisconsin livestock. And at least one isn't fully house-trained.

Sophomore Isaiah Andaloro plays Vixen, who is a suck-up. He pulls from his experience once playing a dog and uses TV holiday specials as training manuals.

"It kind of shows you how to act like a reindeer - what they do," he said. "They trot around and play a lot."

The mix of humor and drama makes the play appeal to all, Brettingen said.

"We wanted to make this a show for everyone of all ages. It is very family friendly, yet adults will enjoy the humor also," he said. "It is a well-rounded show that makes you feel good and gets you in the Christmas spirit."

A bake sale will be held before and after both shows. Robin Dorst's family and consumer education class is making the baked goods for one of the shows. Photo opportunities will be available with the cast, including Santa, after each show.

Brettingen's real joy comes in that the play is helping 12 good causes driven by his students.

"I am proud of my drama club and hope that everyone else knows how much we care," he said.

Written by: Nick Brettingen, Christine Brettingen, Tony and Vickie Janik and sophomores Dani Neuiszer and Alyssa Flanders.

Register now for February ACT test

Registration is now open for the February 12, 2011 ACT achievement test. Students who wish to take the college admission and placement exam must register before January 7, 2011. The ACT is a curriculum-based achievement exam. It tests what students have actually learned in school, not their aptitude for learning. The ACT also measures what students need to know to be ready for first year credit-bearing college courses based on ACT College Readiness Standards™. Every student's results can be tied directly to these consistent standards.

The ACT has four sections—English, mathematics, reading and science—and takes about three hours to complete. Students who take the ACT Plus Writing complete an optional writing test that requires an additional 30 minutes. Unlike other exams, students are not penalized for guessing or answering all the questions on each test section. In fact, it is beneficial for test takers to answer all questions within the time allowed.

During registration, students may select up to four universities to receive their score reports. ACT scores are accepted by all four-year colleges and universities across the United States. ACT reports scores only when requested to do so by the student. Additional score reports are available for a small fee.

All students complete a detailed inventory of questions during ACT registration. Each test taker receives an ACT score report that includes a wide variety of information to assist with high school course selection, college readiness, career planning, and college admissions.

The cost for the ACT test without writing is $33. When combined with the optional ACT Writing Test, the total cost is $48. Students who qualify may apply for a fee waiver through their high school counselor.

The ACT website, www.actstudent.org, has helpful information, free sample items, and options to order inexpensive test prep materials to assist test takers get ready for the exam. However, the best preparation is to take rigorous core courses in school, study hard, and learn the academic skills needed in college.

Most students register online at www.actstudent.org. Students may also pick up registration forms from their high school counseling offices. Late registration is available from January 8, 2011 until January 21, 2011 for an extra $21 fee.

Moraine Park receives hobby-model hydrogen cars

Hydrogen is the simplest element on the planet but when it's combined with metal, a surge of power can result. Always looking for ways to get the community excited about sustainability, Moraine Park Technical College recently purchased two hobby grade Remote Control (RC) cars — fueled by the power of hydrogen.

Underneath the shell of these small hobby cars lies the latest technology in hydrogen fuel. They are two of the world's only hydrogen fuel cell hybrid power-train for high performance hobby grade model RC vehicles. Matt Hurtienne, Moraine Park's dean of informational technology, explained what this means for sustainability and for Moraine Park.

According to Hurtienne, the hydrogen cars are powered through the combination of water and metal. The reaction causes electricity and the electricity creates power for the small cars to operate.

Purchased through a Workforce Innovation in Regional Economic Development (WIRED) energy grant, the cars are perfect for demonstrating to middle and high school students the use and importance of hydrogen power for our environment. "Water surrounds us," said Hurtienne. "It's clean and accessible but technology makes it expensive to use water to power vehicles because of the equipment needed. Because water is a renewable source, science needs to look this way and we hope getting area students excited about this concept will be a start."

Starting in spring, Moraine Park plans to pair their existing renewable energy trailer (also purchased with funds from the WIRED grant) with the two hydrogen cars — taking the vehicles to area high schools and middle schools to build interest in hydrogen fuel and get students considering future careers in the sciences and sustainability.

"As a technical college, Moraine Park prides itself on being innovative and educated about the latest technology. We are hoping a hands-on demonstration like these cars will really intrigue middle and high school students," said Hurtienne. "These may just be hobby cars but it gives the community a glimpse of the larger hydrogen vehicles that will be present in the very near future." For more information on Moraine Park's sustainability efforts, visit morainepark.edu/sustainability.

Greetings At The Holidays

When a blanket of white covers the ground,
And twinkling lights are all around
When sounds of sleigh bells fill the air,
And peace and goodwill are everywhere
That's when we know we are truly blessed
With friends that are the very best-
So now we are ready to take the cue
And send our best wishes to all of you!

Shopping for Christmas gifts? Don't forget about our non-profit organizations

Kewaskum High School students work on the new Community Pantry Building. The organization is currently seeking funds to complete their building project. The pantry is expected to open in January.

By Mitch Maersch
For the Statesman

During the upcoming holidays it's important to count our blessings and give back to those who need it. We are lucky to live in a county that has a vast array of organizations to help their fellow man.

The needs of these groups increased this year as almost all of those organizations felt the hurdling effects of the economy. It is hoped by making these needs public the needs will be met.

Each organization interviewed has a list of their current needs and who to contact to help.

Cure winter break boredom

Enchantment in the Park at the Washington County Fairgrounds is open through December 31st from 5-9 p.m. Admission is a bag of non-perishable food or $10.

By Andrew Kuehl
andrew@kewaskumstatesman.com

KEWASKUM - It's inevitable, with the kids being cooped up inside or being out of school for Christmas break sooner or later parents will hear, "I'm bored!" There are plenty of activities this Christmas season within a 30-mile radius to cure that boredom.

If you're already gotten your Christmas tree take a drive to Christmas on Indian Lore in Farmington. Dean and Jackie Fechter's family is working on building Christmas traditions one tree at a time.

Over 10 years ago the Fechter's began opening up their tree farm to hundreds of families who now make the trek from all over southeastern Wisconsin to pick out their fresh Christmas tree. And, that's just the beginning.

With the purchase of a tree, families can enjoy a 20-minute hayride complete with lights, music and peanuts, through the Fechter's hilly, wooded property. Jackie reminds guests to bring a blanket to keep warm.

After the hayride, guests can warm up inside the gift shop where Jackie and her daughter have homemade treats for sale.

Hot cocoa and hot apple cider are some of the hot beverages to sip while warming up inside.

A fire in the fire pit is roaring throughout the day and night where guests can also warm up or prepare s'mores.

"You can go to a lot and buy a tree, but the atmosphere is totally different here," Dean said. "You come out here and there's the country side. We've got the rolling hills and we try to setup the place to make it look old fashioned."

Guests have a choice of cutting down their own tree or buying a fresh pre-cut tree. Jackie said there are more pre-cut trees because they are cut weekly.

Handsaws are provided, but there is a limited amount. The Fechter's said people who own handsaws are encouraged to bring their own. Chain saws are not allowed.

Jackie said sizes range from miniature trees for apartments or some that are 24-feet tall.

The perfect Christmas tree will take a little TLC. Jackie said the best way to keep your tree healthy is to water it when you wake up and before you go to bed. The tree may actually grow in your house if properly watered.

Dean explains the typical seven-foot balsam fir tree would cost $30 if you cut it yourself. All other prices can be seen at their website www.indianlore-furniture.com under the Christmas tree farm tab.

The Fechtters typically have 2,800 to 3,000 trees on their 60-acre property during a given year. Christmas on Indian Lore Tree Farm is open Mondays - Fridays 5:00 - 7:00 p.m., Saturdays 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Sundays 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

The Fechter's also have a large variety of wreaths they offer as well.

Creating the elusive perfect Christmas

By Lana Harbeck Kuehl
Statesman Publisher Emeritus

I guess my dreams of Christmas Past are probably the same as many other working women... too much to do with too little time to do it.

Many times I thought, bah humbug, and wondered to myself why every year I continued to torture myself in search of "the perfect Christmas" for my family. I am not sure I even know what the "perfect Christmas" even is or if it even exists, yet every year I strive.

I began to understand what tries the patience of parents and why my parents seemed to get a little "testy" as the holidays neared. My father never seemed to be able to get in the holiday spirit until Christmas Day, as he did not warm up to the idea of all the extra work (my mom was doing) and all the extra money that had to be spent.

I found out for myself in later years the trials and tribulations of working to make the weekly newspaper deadline and until that deadline is met, NOTHING but nothing was able to distract you. So Christmas or any other holiday for that matter, had to be taken care of and addressed in between deadlines, as even to this minute, I am ignoring the decoration of my tree and needed shopping, in hopes of meeting yet another deadline.

Secretly, I think my dad loved all the extra fuss, except getting the tree straight in the tree stand which always seemed to cause a great deal of stress in our house. Of course, now I "get it" as my husband became increasingly vocal when I would say, "I think it needs to go a little more to the left dear." In time, I too learned, 'tis better to have a crooked tree rather than to listen to the crooked words after two feet had been sawed off the bottom of trees.

In spite of the fact that I believe most women decorate the tree, (in my lifetime, in our family, I never encountered a man who had the patience), I am quite sure that a man eventually came up with the idea of the fake Christmas tree. Much to my husband's chagrin, I have always preferred a live tree, until age has drawn my mind more conveniently around the idea of a fake tree. There is something about a live tree that cannot be compared. The fresh smell of pine... the whole bizarre idea of having a huge live tree in your house, (whoever thought up this tradition, anyway?), not to mention the delight of finding creative ways to fill up the natural holes in the live trees and trying to get that crazy angel up on top of that single branch that NEVER holds the crazy angel. And of course, challenging yourself every year to just get on one more string of lights and figuring out how to get ten sets of lights hooked up to two different extension cords. These are truly the times that try women's souls!

Ah yes! The wonder of the live tree! I had almost forgotten the constant watering and the permanent watermark in the carpet when someone accidentally bumped the tree or I watered just a tad too heavily. Or the gentle dropping of the needles when I totally forgot to water the tree at all, which I always seemed to have a tendency of doing. Hence the watermark from overwatering. And what woman has missed the joy of the constant hum of the old vacuum cleaner as we try desperately to get the needles up before they became permanently embedded in the carpet.

Then there are the decorations, which is another fact men just don't understand. My sisters and I are just a tad obsessive/compulsive so most of are decorations are treasured and do have a specific place in our hearts and homes. It is important to incorporate the tiny decorated spider my youngest son Ross made in tot time onto the tree. The photo ornaments of my three sons as toddlers must go on the tree or it just would not be the perfect for me.

You see holidays are made of memories and these things all contribute to my memories and therefore are extremely important to me and hopefully, after I am gone, to the family members I leave behind. I remember the things my father enjoyed about Christmas and try to take a few of these things out to his grave, weather permitting. As I age, these things are becoming harder and harder to do, however, but I still remember.

For more years than I care to think about, I have tried to find the clues to pull off the perfect Christmas, and every year I become frustrated as there is not enough time to bake that extra batch of cookies or the mashed potatoes were lumpy or I did not get up all the decorations I wanted to. (I must admit I am truly a light freak... the more the better) and I am still striving to experience that gasp of awe when you turn on the tree for the first time.

This has always been my goal and every year I am disappointed because I am never quite able to achieve those goals that are tucked away in my mindset. As I age though that perfection is becoming less and less important as I come to realize that the only important perfection is being surrounded with those you love and sharing the love, peace and beauty of the holiday, that is the birth of Jesus. In my mind, I guess I will never achieve that "perfect" Christmas, but that is all right because Jesus really doesn't care and I realize I am placing way too much importance on it.

I guess in my mind, my mom always gave 100% to make sure all of us had a beautiful memorable Christmas. And I must admit she sure is a tough act to follow. I am hoping in some small way, I have passed along some of her undeniable faith, love, brilliance and genuine caring on to my children. Because these things are that make the holiday bright.

Besides all the above, holidays are supposed to be fun, and as a family, we definitely had our share. We did not spare the pranks even at Christmas.

As I do look back on some of our more memorable holiday gatherings when all members of our family were still here, after church, we always managed to get together at my mom and dad's house on Christmas Day. My mom is an awesome cook so I guess it was inevitable we gathered there. We savored her holiday dinner and launched into the gift exchange. Mind you, in those days, it was traditional to dress "to the nines" for the holiday.

I distinctly remember my sister Sheri had on a long white dress with burgundy velvet trim and her husband, Don, was as usual, all spiffy. Their daughter, Staci, around the age of three, had on a fancy, little girl party dress with ruffles and was as cute as a button. My other sister Carole was dressed in a long skirt and blouse and her husband in a sport jacket and dress pants. Their boys, Tom, Todd, and Trev, were in dress shirts and pants, and ties. Their daughter, Tami, was all sugar and spice.

Unbeknownst to most of them, Todd, then about the age of 10, had brought along the newly marketed "Silly String," which he had received from Santa. Of course, being the overgrown "child" of the family and my father's daughter, I immediately responded with an idea for a great holiday prank. And Todd, having a little of his father's Irish in him, thought it was an awesome idea. I am not positive but we may have hatched this plan the night before during Christmas Eve at Carole's home when Don and Sheri were not present.

So the plan: let's get everyone lined up on the couch for a traditional holiday photo and see what happens. It worked like clockwork and my naive family members thought a family portrait was such a nice idea. We sat them down... the two families... I can't quite remember how Todd managed to get out of the picture for that brief minute, but then WHAMMO! He turned around and shot the entire couch and its occupants with Silly String while I took four or five fantastic holiday photos.

Todd's immediate family, Carole, Hank, Tom, Tami and Trev, did not get too excited because, I swear, by that time the Silly String had run its course with them. Santa must have brought a whole case. But Don, Sheri and Staci would have garnered the grand prize on America's Funniest Videos, because to this day, their reaction still makes me giggle.

Don (rest his soul) was about to fly off the couch and take Todd across his knee and give him a hearty thrashing until he realized it was all in fun. Sheri, I think, was in shock, but had to react in a hurry because poor little Staci could not comprehend what was coming out of the can and covering her with a huge spider web. I do feel pretty bad about her crying and all but yet when I picture the whole scene, I cannot contain my smile. For their sake, when I retell the story, I do try very hard.

I feel bad for Todd because he had to swallow the brunt of the blame for the prank. You don't think I was going to stand up and take credit for it at that point. I, however, did pat him on the back and tell him he aced the job. You have to realize at that time, in spite of the fact I believe I was in my early twenties, I was slowly evolving from my teenage years and I have never been real quick on becoming a grownup. I still do not want to be a grownup so please do not make this fact widely known to my children. I must admit though, like the sweatshirt reads, we do put the FUN in dysfunction!

It may not be pretty but it sure does stand out in my memory. Was it the silly string or was it the fact that we were all together and loved each other very much and did not realize how fleeting life would become. Maybe a little of both, but nevertheless, a wonderful family memory to cherish forever.

Giftable Holiday Goodies

It's true – the kitchen is the heart of the home. Ever notice how people always gather there? Whether baking treats, making dinner or spending time with family and friends, the kitchen is my favorite place to be. Since my day job is Consumer Test Kitchen Project Manager for the Nestlé Test Kitchens, you can bet I love to stir things up. This column lets me pass along to you some of my best recipes, tips and baking secrets.

(Family Features) Nothing spreads holiday cheer quite like sharing some homemade goodies with friends and neighbors.

I love giving creamy, chocolatey fudge to folks – it's always a hit and it's so easy to make. I have a new cookie recipe to share this year, too, and I'm very excited about it. These lemon cookies have just the right amount of bright, lemony flavor that balances beautifully with the white morsels in every bite. And dipping them in the melted morsels not only adds more of that great taste, it makes them very pretty, too.

I hope you have as much fun as I do baking and sharing your favorite recipes this holiday season. You can find even more giftable goodie recipes at www.VeryBestBaking.com.

VERY BEST FUDGE

This recipe makes 4 pounds or 48, 2-piece servings

- 3 cups granulated sugar
- 1 can (12 fluid ounces) Nestlé Carnation Evaporated Milk

- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups miniature marshmallows
- 4 cups (24 ounces) or two 12-ounce packages Nestlé Toll House Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- 1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts (optional)
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract

LINE 13 x 9-inch baking pan or two 8-inch-square baking pans with foil.

COMBINE sugar, evaporated milk, butter and salt in 4- to 5-quart heavy-duty saucepan. Bring to a full rolling boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil, stirring constantly, for 4 to 5 minutes. Remove from heat.

STIR in marshmallows, morsels, nuts and vanilla extract. Stir vigorously for 1 minute or until marshmallows are melted. Pour into prepared pan(s). Refrigerate for 2 hours or until firm. Lift from pan; remove foil. Cut into pieces. Store tightly covered in refrigerator.

PREMIER WHITE LEMON COOKIES

Makes about 5 dozen cookies

- 2 cups all-purpose flour

- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter, softened
- 2/3 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 cup grated lemon peel

- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups (12-ounce package) Nestlé Toll House Premier White Morsels, divided
- 1 teaspoon vegetable shortening

COMBINE flour and salt in small bowl. Beat butter, sugar, lemon peel and vanilla extract in large mixer bowl until fluffy. Add flour mixture just until blended. Stir in 1 cup morsels.

DIVIDE dough into 4 even pieces. Gently shape each piece into an 8 x 1-inch diameter log. Wrap logs tightly in wax paper. Refrigerate for at least 1 hour or until firm.

PREHEAT oven to 350° F.

UNWRAP logs; cut each log with serrated knife into 16 slices, about 1/2-inch thick. If necessary, reshape edges of cookies. Place 2 inches apart onto ungreased baking sheets.

BAKE for 13 to 14 minutes or until edges are set. Cool for 2 minutes; remove to wire racks to cool completely.

LINE baking sheets with wax paper.

MICROWAVE remaining 1 cup morsels and vegetable shortening in small, uncovered, microwave-safe bowl on MEDIUM-HIGH (70%) power for 1 minute; STIR. Morsels may retain some of their original shape. If necessary, microwave at additional 10- to 15-second intervals, stirring just until morsels are melted.

DIP top half of cookies into melted morsels. Scrape off excess against side of bowl. Place on prepared baking sheets. Refrigerate for 20 minutes or until set.

KEA adopts families through Gingerbread House

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

Twenty-nine people will have presents to open on Christmas thanks to a Kewaskum Education Association initiative this year.

KEA adopted eight families from the Gingerbread House in West Bend, a program that has people buy presents for the less fortunate. This year the program is serving 600 families throughout Washington County as the need is higher than normal.

Each school involved its staff in helping to donate, buy or wrap presents, said Kim Longdin, Kewaskum Middle School teacher and KEA secretary.

The Gingerbread House provides Christmas wish lists from families, providing first names and children's ages only. The items are often more necessities than wants. Longdin said she has seen items like diapers and winter pajamas.

"Some of them just break your heart because it's so sad to me that these are on their wish lists," she said.

One of the children Longdin saw on a list is the same age as her oldest child.

"It's so simplified. I just think, wow, if I was in that position I would want someone to look out for my kids," she said.

Each school completed the purchases for its lists, Longdin said. The high school finished right away.

"They blew me away. They were phenomenal," she said.

On Tuesday, Longdin bought one more present and dropped off the load. The middle school missed two relatively expensive toys because it ran out of donations but granted everything else on the lists.

"I've said it all along. I love my staff. It's not just the middle school. As a whole, I think our teachers go above and beyond when it comes to trying to implement and live what's on those posters - caring, leadership, integrity and all those things," Longdin said.

While this drive was a specific KEA project, Wayne Elementary School had already adopted a few families that staff and students helped buy for through a service learning project. Some high school students adopted families through their advisement sessions and others helped out through their church, Longdin said.

Longdin said she feels blessed and honored to be able to give back to the community.

"It's nice to truly be on the

'it's better to give than receive' aspect," she said. "We've helped in essence, 29 people, eight families, have a Christmas that otherwise wouldn't have."

She said she expects KEA's effort to become an annual drive, likely replacing its secret Santa gift exchange among staff.

"If you think about it, I would much rather send that to a family that needs it. I think that's how the staff looks at it.

We could do so much better with that amount of money," she said.

Longdin said this is the first of KEA's goal "to reach out this year and give back to the community." It's planning a food drive around Easter and will participate in the Kewaskum's event of the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life in summer.

The Legend of the Christmas Spider

Long ago, in Germany, a gentle mother was cleaning her house for Christmas Eve - the day on which the Christ Child was to come and bring gifts. Not a speck of dust was left. Even the spiders had fled to the attic.

Christmas Eve came at last. The tree was decorated, and the children were excited; but the spiders were frantic for they could not see the tree.

The oldest and wisest spider suggested that they sneak through a crack and await the Christ Child. The tree was so high the spiders could only see one ornament at a time. They scurried from branch to branch, inspecting each ornament and leaving a trail of dusty gray webs.

When the Christ Child saw this, He smiled as He thought of the happy spiders viewing His tree. But He also thought of how brokenhearted the mother would be over the dusty tree, so He reached out and blessed the webs turning them into shimmering, sparkling decorations. The tree was even more beautiful.

And so it became a custom in the Christmas season to have a spider among the other decorations on the tree.

All the best!

lights, new walking and riding routes and upgraded displays.

The show is the combined effort of Washington County's four Rotary Clubs, West Bend Sunrise and Noon, Slinger/Alton and the Hartford club.

Admission is a non-perishable food item or $10. Food goes to six food pantries in Washington County, including Kewaskum's Community Pantry; cash gets split among the Rotary clubs, which contribute to various projects locally and across the world.

This year features nearly 500,000 lights, up from last year's 340,000, and new walking and driving routes that don't intersect and allow patrons easier and better ways to enjoy the show. More displays are visible from both sides of vehicles.

New this year are five-, eight- and 10-foot presents peppered with lights and a soundtrack from the comfort of your car. Instructions at the entrance detail which radio station will play music to match the visual extravaganza.

For the walkers, Santa has moved to another barn. Inside the workshop this year are musical and other performances and holiday crafts and concessions.

Santa will greet children behind the majestic ice castle. Photo opportunities with snowmen and other characters will keep children entertained while in line.

Horse-and-carriage rides for a separate cost will be held Dec. 19 and 31.

Gary Britton will again show his hot-air balloon on various nights, weather permitting.

An estimated 10,000 cars came through and about 40,000 people. Last year, nearly 50,000 food items were split between the county's four food pantries.

Automobile thieves entered the garage of Dr. R.G. Edwards on South Fond du Lac Avenue here last week Thursday night and succeeded in making away with the doctor's brand new Dodge coach. Dr. Edwards had only purchased the car about a month ago. The local police and insurance company were notified of the theft early Friday morning and investigation was begun at once, but no clue was found until this week Wednesday when local police were notified by the Washington County Sheriff's Office, that the car had been located at Ellsworth, Wisconsin, near St. Paul, Minnesota.

The second series of free ticket pictures sponsored by the businessmen of Kewaskum was given last Saturday evening to one of the largest crowds ever assembled here for this class of entertainment. The picture last Saturday evening was "Big Town" and was very well received. This week Saturday evening a western picture will be shown, entitled, "Texas Buddies," featuring Bob Steele. If you have not been out to see these pictures, you want to do so this week.

During the severe electrical storm last Saturday afternoon, the home of Matt Pesch, located on the Fond du Lac county line, about two and one-half miles north of Kewaskum on Highway 55, was struck by a bolt of lightning, which ignited the roof of the house, causing damage estimated at about $100. As the local fire department arrived, smoke was pouring high into the air and flames were observed darting out at various spots on the roof. The department went to work at once with the chemical truck and in a short time had the fire pretty well under control.

A new industry has been opened up in Kewaskum, namely the Kewaskum Plating Works. The new business will be conducted by August Schaefer and Son and will be located at the intersection of Highways 55 and 28. The state highway department commenced the blacktopping of the St. Michael's road on Highway 28, east of this village last Wednesday morning. The upper rooms of the hotel annex of the Republican Hotel are being remodeled by landlord Schultz this week. A stairway leading to the rooms has been built on the outside of the building making the rooms accessible from Main Street. The room on the southeast corner of the building is being changed into a kitchen. The bathroom is located just off the bedroom on the southwest corner, while the room on the northeast corner will be transferred into a sitting room. This leaves three rooms for bedrooms. When these changes are completed, the upper part of the building will be transferred into a modern and cozy apartment.

Last Saturday evening another large crowd of people came to Kewaskum to witness the free talking pictures, shown on the vacant property near the Bank of Kewaskum. The crowd last Saturday evening was so large that traffic at the intersection of Main Street and Fond du Lac Avenue was nearly at a standstill. The feature picture last week was "Hotel Continental," and was very well received. A "Mickey Mouse" comedy was also shown. Next Saturday evening a thrilling western picture will be shown, namely Harry Carey in "Border Devils," and a two reel comedy, "As You Make It."

The hot weather record for July was broken during the month of July, 1935. Not only was the temperature the warmest, but it also was the driest July since 1916, according to the records of E.A. Seeley, government weather observer. Average temperature for the month just ended was 78.45 degrees above zero, or 6.9 degrees above the normal for the month of 71.6 degrees. In July 1916, the average temperature was 78.8 degrees. Only .77 of an inch of rain fell during July, 1935, while only .43 of an inch fell in July 1916. It was the second time in the weather bureau records history that less than one inch of rain had fallen in the month. In 1934, for instance, 2.72 inches fell during the month, while way back in 1902, there was a total of 8.74 inches of precipitation during July. Normal rainfall for the month is 3.18 inches.

Henry Moldenhauer, 61, of the Town of Auburn, is confined to the hospital since last Tuesday evening with three broken ribs and his left hip fractured from the kick of a nervous horse. The accident happened at K.A. Honeck's barns, east of the village, where Mr. Moldenhauer had gone to look at a horse which his brother, Paul, was about to purchase. The horse in which they were interested was an excellent animal and seemed perfectly satisfactory in every particular, but their attention was drawn to another animal which had become nervous by the noise of a well drilling outfit operated nearby. Mr. Moldenhauer stood at the back and to one side of the horse when an attendant prepared to slip a bridle over its head, when the animal kicked Mr. Moldenhauer in the chest, throwing him against a wall. The vicious kick broke Mr. Moldenhauer's ribs and the impact against the wall fractured his hip bone.

VILLAGE BOARD MEETING NOVEMBER 15, 2010 7:00 P.M.

The Kewaskum Village Board, Washington County, Wisconsin, met in regular session in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

President Andy Pesch presided and called the meeting to order at 7:04 p.m. Board members present were Craig Garbisch, Mike Berger, Andy Pesch, Norman Kufahl, Tom Piwoni and Jim Hovland. Harry Roecker was excused and absent. Staff members present were Matt Heiser, Mark Groeschel, Richard Knoebel, Jerry Gilles, Chad Cook, Janet Knops and Stephanie Justmann. Members of the community were also present.

Notice of the meeting had been posted at the PNC Bank, Kewaskum Post Office, and at the Municipal Building on November 11, 2010. Notice was also forwarded to the Village Board, Village Attorney, Village Engineer, and the News Media.

The meeting was opened with a Moment of Silence and Pledge of Allegiance.

Motion by Craig Garbisch to approve the minutes from the November 1, 2010 meeting, second by Jim Hovland. Voice vote, motion carried.

President Andy Pesch opened the public hearing on the 2011 proposed budget for the Village of Kewaskum. Administrator Matt Heiser presented an overview of the budget. Public comments: A budget decrease of 1.38% doesn't provide an opportunity to reserve any money for future projects; the department heads did a good job of not increasing their budgets. A letter was read from Derek and Cheryl Peterson which stated reducing taxes in the short-term does not plan for future investments and may result in unplanned future increases.

Motion by Norman Kufahl to close the Public Hearing, second by Mike Berger and carried by roll call vote. Garbisch-aye, Roecker-absent, Berger-aye, Pesch-aye, Kufahl-aye, Piwoni-aye, Hovland-aye. (6-0-1)

Director of Public Works Jerry Gilles requested permission to update Pump #2 to comply with code revisions regarding stand-by and emergency chlorination. Consensus of the Board was to allow the Water Department to update Pump #2 to comply with chlorine standards and to use retained earnings from the Water Utility to fund the project.

Administrator Matt Heiser:

1. Discussed the possibility of going out for RFP's to provide snow removal/grass cutting for properties that do not comply with Municipal Code. Administrator Heiser reminded Board members that Trustee Garbisch is involved with the contractor currently providing that service. Consensus of the Board was to continue with the current contractor to provide the service.

2. Reported he is currently researching the possibility of a new policy to require a certificate of insurance when using the park facilities. For example softball tournaments.

Clerk Stephanie Justmann reported on the General Election held on November 2, 2010. The election workers were Mary Holt, Elizabeth Hallen, Patricia Herriges, Shirley Koth, Ruth Lorbiecki, Jim Hovland, representative for the Plan Commission reported the meeting scheduled for November 23, 2010 has been cancelled but a meeting will need to be scheduled for December.

Norman Kufahl, representative for the Library Board, reported on the November 9, 2010 meeting. The circulation for October 2010 was 6,133 items compared to 6,744 items in October 2009.

Motion by Jim Hovland, second by Tom Piwoni to adopt Ordinance #10-13 Relating to Traffic Stopping, Standing and Parking. Voice vote, motion carried. The ordinance will require school buses to use their stop arm and warning lights within the Village limits. (Vol. 2, pg. 838)

Kewaskum upsets Plymouth in last seconds of game

Tied with Plymouth with one minute to play, Kewaskum's boys' basketball team found itself in unfamiliar territory.

The Indians aren't used to being in games that late against conference contenders.

But there they were last Friday, locked at 43-43 with one of their most heated rivals, with a chance at a bellwether moment to turn around a longtime struggling program.

The Panthers had possession and passed the ball around until calling timeout with 17.1 seconds left. The Indians' tight defense forced a second timeout as Plymouth couldn't find an open man for an inbounds pass.

The Panthers then found point guard Mitch Unger, who drove the right side and lofted up a shot as the Indians' help defense converged. Senior forward Lucas Kopeschka stuck out one of his Plastic Man-like arms and blocked the shot into the air. Panther Parker Kastelic came down with the ball and got off an open shot. As the home fans held their breath, the ball hit the back iron and bounced straight up.

A mad scramble ensued, and Kewaskum's Brett Nuernberg came out with the ball and a foul call. He was to go to the line with 4.1 seconds left for a one and one.

The junior calmly hit the first shot, giving the Indians a 44-43 lead. He missed the second and the Panthers grabbed the rebound but traveled. Kewaskum called timeout before inbounding the ball.

The inbounds pass got tipped and Plymouth was able to get up a half-court shot as time expired, but it hit the backboard and rim, a bounce not unlike the end of last year's NCAA Tournament title game when Butler missed a shot to beat Duke.

Kewaskum, often one of the doormats of the Eastern Wisconsin Conference, knocked off Plymouth, one of the regular EWC powerhouses. The Indians are 4-1 headed into a road game at defending conference champion Waupun on Thursday.

"We're at home here. This is our court. I've never wanted something more in my entire life," Nuernberg said. "To beat Plymouth? Man, that's great."

He described the key rebound and free throw.

"That was a mosh pit down there. Everybody's getting pushed around. I never played a team so rough," he said. "When they called my name, I was ready. Every practice I hit almost all my free throws and we run before we shoot them. Every practice we shoot a ton of free throws so I'm definitely ready for any situation out there."

He was the only Indian to score in the fourth quarter besides Eric Perkins, who put the point in point guard. The quick junior scored 14 of his game-high 22 in the final eight minutes, shooting 4-for-6 from the field including two three-pointers and going 4-for-5 from the free throw line.

"Just had to dig deep and had to come out with the win against Plymouth and show everybody Kewaskum's finally here for basketball, too," Perkins said.

"Kid's unbelievable. You could see the face he had tonight that he wanted the ball in the fourth quarter and he was going to score every time he got it, and he pretty much did that," said Coach Quinn Heintz.

It wasn't only his offense that was special.

"He played the whole game, never came out. Played just as hard in the fourth quarter on defense, and if not better than he did at the beginning of the game," Heintz said. "It just says how much of a competitor he is and how bad he wants to win."

The Indians made the last defensive stand with two of their big forwards, Brad Boegel and Hunter Flanders, on the bench with four fouls. Junior guards Tony Gonring and Kyle Tessar stepped up. "Tony and Kyle are great defenders off the bench," Heintz said.

Kopeschka credited the entire squad for being up to the task the entire game, including the pivotal last several seconds that included his key swat.

"Everybody crashed down to help," he said. "We really helped good all night long, making sure he didn't get to the lane and score points, so it was all a good team effort."

Heintz said his team is executing well what it works on every day.

"We've been preaching defense every day at practice. That's kind of been the thing we're going to hang our hat on this year is our defense. And so far in every game we've played it hasn't let us down. Offense will come and go, but defense will always be there," he said. "We worked all week on making sure our help was there and it was tonight. To give up 43 points to this team is impressive. They're one of the best teams in the conference."

The teams played close all night long, with Kewaskum up 11-8 after the first quarter and the Panthers using a late-half flurry to take a 22-17 lead into halftime. The Indians were down 33-29 entering the final eight minutes before Perkins went off.

Free throws, one of the Indians' early strengths this season, were again imperative. Kewaskum went 5-for-7 in the fourth quarter and 12-for-18 in the game. Heintz said making free throws has always been a priority in his coaching career.

"If you're a good team you're going to play in close games all year, and if you're going to shoot your free throws you're going to have a better chance to win those games," he said. "That's why they call them free throws. They're free points."

Nuernberg ended with nine points and Boegel seven. Flanders grabbed 11 rebounds.

The Indians said a victory like this could do plenty more than just add another notch in the "W" column.

"It boosts our confidence way up. It just makes us want it more," Nuernberg said.

"It gives us a lot of confidence knowing we can play in this conference now," Perkins said.

How they won is just as important, Heintz said.

"I think the big thing is it gives the guys confidence and experience playing in these situations. Nobody in this program has that experience. Nobody's ever played in games like that in the fourth quarter when it's that intense and it's loud. Plymouth's been there," he said. "And to come out and we played better defense in the fourth quarter and we worked hard and rebounded. The kids earned the win."

KEWASKUM- The smallest guy on the team provided the biggest highlight in Kewaskum's wrestling match against Sheboygan Falls last Thursday.

Tipping the scale at 112 pounds, Steven Bohn took the mat against Arrison Smith with the score tied at 20-20 and momentum tipping in the Falcon's favor.

Bohn's second period in pin gave a lift to the Indians, who went on to win four of the final five matches toward a 44-24 Eastern Wisconsin Conference win.

Bohn received his first point because Smith illegally had his shoelaces exposed, then the score proceeded to go back and forth like a tennis ball at Wimbledon.

After two minutes, the score was 8-6 with Bohn getting a reversal at the buzzer.

The crowd was really getting into the match and the home fans started screaming even louder when Bohn reversed his opponent and used a half nelson to put him on his back at the 3:15 mark.

Two weight classes later, Brett Scoles worked hard for a 3-0 victory over Mitchell Lambrecht, then Jared Koffke notched a very quick pin, and the Indians were holding an 11-point margin with two matches to go.

Sheboygan Falls needed pins at 135 and 140 pounds to win, but sophomore Austin Goeden took control early against Brandon Broetzmann at 135 and just kept piling up points until he pinned Broetzmann in 5:20.

Joey Seitz finished off the evening in grand style for the Indians, soundly beating Jeff Becker 8-4.

"Good for Stevie Bohn. That was an exciting match for him," KHS coach Dennis Aupperle said. "It was back and forth, and he came out on top. That was his first win!"

Bohn wasn't sure what he was thinking during the match, but he said he could hear the coaches yelling for him to keep his head up and keep working hard.

And is Bohn enjoying the sport? "Yeah, I like it. It's pretty fun," he said.

After a loss at 119, Aupperle was pleased with the efforts of Scoles, Koffke and Goeden. "That pin was huge. Austin wrestled a good match. He was in good position the whole time," the coach said of Goeden.

Brad Bentz and Bo Seibel stayed unbeaten. Both barely worked up a sweat in notching pins for their seventh straight wins of the season. Bentz needed just 1:58 to pin Eric Klemme, while Seibel put away Nick Owens in a brisk 1:29.

Suns shine bright during Indians match-up

Kewaskum's Ashlee Stahl hits a turnaround jumper to give the Indians a 25-24 lead over West Bend East Tuesday night with 2:40 left in the third quarter. The Indians couldn't hold on and lost, 45-32.

Kewaskum's young girls' basketball team hung with senior-laden West Bend East Tuesday night and actually took a one-point lead in the third quarter.

Then the Indians crumbled under a trapping defense and lost the non-conference game, 45-32. But Coach Mike Kleinhans saw some good things.

"I thought we played well. That's the best game we played all year," he said. "In the second half we took the lead at 25-24, got outscored 21-7. Kind of rushed things, had some turnovers. We boxed out well in the first half, didn't box out well in the second half."

Kewaskum slipped to 2-4 on the season. East moved to 3-0.

Sophomore Ashlee Stahl's turnaround jumper with 2:40 to play in the third quarter gave the Indians a 25-24 lead. East senior guard Lauren Gruber answered with seven straight points to close the quarter and give the Suns a 31-26 lead. She hit a fast break layup, a jumper and made a steal leading to another open layup.

Senior Christine Bohn had held Gruber to three points in the first half. She scored 17 in the second for a game-high total of 20.

"I thought Christine Bohn played her best game of the year," Kleinhans said. "We knew that they run the swing and when (Gruber) gets down low that she's going to fight, fight, fight, and Christine just kept fight, fight, fighting. I thought she played great defense against her."

Bohn led the Indians with 13 points, including a wide open three-pointer from the left corner with less than 10 seconds to go in the first half, cutting East's lead to 22-19.

Sophomore Mallorie Kreis started at point guard for the first time this season and scored seven points, all in the first half.

"I thought Mal tonight didn't look like a sophomore," Kleinhans said.

In the fourth quarter, when the Suns' trapping defense wasn't leading to layups and easy scores it was still doing enough to take the Indians out of any kind of offensive rhythm.

Kleinhans said his team's spacing was too wide to attack, making it easier for the defense to trap the ball.

"We panicked against the 1-3-1. We don't play the two-guard front tight. We've been working on it all week," he said. "We'll get better at it. We're not a bad team."

Rebounds continue to be a challenge. The Suns had more than 10 offensive boards.

"That's why we're losing, is because we don't box out," Kleinhans said. "We haven't gotten tough yet."

Tuesday was nothing new from what coaches see every day.

"The way we play is the way we practice," he said. "It's a work in progress."

Junior Kayla Bastian grabbed 10 rebounds and scored five points.

"Kayla Bastian had a good game," Kleinhans said. The Indians could use an offensive spark.

"We've just got to get some more scoring. We've got to get Ashlee Stahl going," Kleinhans said.

At Eastern Wisconsin Conference opponent Plymouth last Thursday, the Indians were manhandled, 63-25.

On Friday, EWC foe Waupun (2-0 EWC, 3-1 overall) comes to town. The Indians then have a break until January.
